INTRODUCTION.

THE help afforded to an attentive reader of Holy Scripture by the simple plan of arranging its unbroken text in paragraphs accommodated to the sense, is by this time too well appreciated to require, for adopting that method, either apology or enlarged explanation. By discarding the over-numerous and sometimes arbitrary breaks at the end of each verse in our ordinary Bibles; by banishing the numerals which indicate the chapters and verses into the margin, where they may be used for the purpose of reference; by broadly distinguishing the poetical books or portions of books from those written in prose; by marking clearly to the eye the passages of the Old Testament which are quoted in the New; as much aid will probably have been rendered towards the right understanding of the Inspired Volume as can be hoped for from the employment of devices merely typographical.

But it is not mainly as a Paragraph Bible that the interest of theological students is sought in behalf of the present work, to the preparation of which upwards of seven laborious years have been willingly devoted. The Syndics of the Cambridge University Press have considered that its special and exceptional form presents a favourable opportunity for supplying to scholars and divines their much-felt want of a critical edition of the Authorized Version of the Holy Bible, such as would have been executed long ago, had this Version been nothing more than the greatest and best known of English Classics. And this design has been rendered all the more necessary by the fact that a formal revision of the Translation itself is now in progress, having been undertaken about three years ago under the auspices of the Convocation of the Province of Canterbury. If a judgment may be formed from previous experience in like cases, the revised and unrevised Versions, when the former shall be at length completed, are destined to run together a race of generous and friendly rivalry for the space of at least one generation, before the elder of the two shall be superseded in the affections of not a few devout persons, who, in so grave a matter as the daily use of Holy Scripture, shall prove slow to adopt changes which yet they will not doubt to be made, on the whole, for the better. With such a struggle before it, it is only right that the Authorized or King James's Bible should be represented, so far as may be, in the precise shape that it would have assumed, if its venerable Translators had shewn themselves more exempt than they were from the failings incident to human infirmity; or if the same severe accuracy, which is now demanded in carrying so important a volume through the press, had been deemed requisite or was at all usual in their age. The purpose of this INTRODUCTION is to discuss, within as moderate a compass as the subject will permit, the principles which have been adopted in editing the following pages, the reasons whereon they are grounded, and the difficulties which have been encountered in the prosecution of an arduous but by no means a wearisome task. For the reader's convenience it will be divided into seven Sections, the chief contents of which are here subjoined.

Section I. On the history of the text of the Authorized Version, from A.D. 1611 down to the present time.

Section II. On its marginal notes; and on the original texts, both Greek and Hebrew, employed by the Translators.

Section III. On the use of the Italic type by the Translators, and on the extension of their principles by subsequent editors.

Section IV. On the system of punctuation adopted in 1611, and modified in more recent Bibles.

Section V. On the orthography, grammatical peculiarities, and capital letters of the original, as compared with modern editions.

Section VI. On the references to parallel texts of Scripture which are set in the margin.

Section VII. Miscellaneous observations relating to the present edition, and general Conclusion.

To the INTRODUCTION is annexed, besides several other Appendices, a full Catalogue of the places in which the text of modern Bibles differs from that of the standard of 1611, with the dates at which the variations were severally adopted, so far as by diligent care they have been ascertained.

SECTION I.

On the history of the text of the Authorized Version of the English Bible, from A.D. 1611 down to the present time.

Most readers will be aware that numberless and not inconsiderable departures from the original or standard edition of the Authorized Translation as published in 1611, are to be found in the modern Bibles which issue from the press by thousands every year. Some of these differences must be imputed to oversight and negligence, from which no work of man can be entirely free; but much the greater part of them are deliberate changes, introduced silently and without authority by men whose very names are often unknown. Now, if such alterations had been made invariably for the worse, it would have been easy in future editions to recall the primitive readings, and utterly to reject the later corruptions. This, however, is far from being the case. Not a few of these variations, especially those first met with in Cambridge folio Bibles dated 1629 and 1638, which must have been superintended with much critical care, amend manifest faults of the original Translators or editors, so that it would be most injudicious to remove them from the place they have deservedly held in all our copies for the last 240 years[1]. A full and, it may be hoped, a fairly complete list of these changes is given in Appendix A at the end of this Introduction, to which the student is referred once for all: the attempt therein made to assign the period at which they were severally admitted into the text, although great pains have been bestowed upon the investigation, must be regarded as sometimes only approximately successful. Other copies, of an earlier date than that cited, may occasionally have anticipated it in making the given correction; but these inaccuracies will hardly affect the general results, or impair the conclusions to which they lead. One class of variations has been advisedly excluded from the Catalogue, as seeming rather curious than instructive or important; namely, that arising from errors which, having crept into editions later than that of 1611, after holding a place in a few or in many subsequent issues, have long since disappeared from the Bibles now in use. Of this kind is that notorious misprint in the Cambridge folio of 1638, once falsely imputed to ecclesiastical bias, "whom ye may appoint over this business" ("ye" for "we") Acts vi. 3; a blemish which obstinately maintained its ground in some copies, at least as late as 1682[2]. The several editions of the Authorized Version which have been used in the formation of our Catalogues and in our re-

[1] On a question of so great importance as that of retaining changes for the better already made by previous editors of the Authorized Version, it is safe to be fortified by the judgment of so cautious and well-informed a writer as Dr Cardwell: "There is only one case, perhaps, in which it would become the duty of the privileged editor to enter into questions of criticism, without some express authority to support him. If a given mistake of the Translators had already been corrected before his time, if the public opinion had concurred, either avowedly or tacitly, in the change, he might reasonably hope that the general acknowledgment of the truth would relieve him from the obligation of returning into error. I say nothing of the boldness which first made the alteration; I only commend the sound judgment which, after it was generally adopted, did not hesitate to retain it" (Oxford Bibles, 1833, p. 2, by Edward Cardwell, D.D., Principal of S. Alban's Hall, Oxford).

[2] Hartwell Horne, to whose Introduction all English students of the Bible owe more than they can ever duly acknowledge, adds another instance of less importance (though he does not quite know its true history), which shall serve as a sufficient specimen of the whole class. In 1 Tim. iv. 16 for "the doctrine" of the books from 1611 to 1630, we read "thy doctrine" in 1629 (Camb.) to 1762. Blayney (1769) restored "the," but Horne has seen "thy" in Bibles of the commencement of the present century. Introduction, Vol. II. Pt. II. p. 79 note (1834).

(1) The standard or primary one published in 1611, "Imprinted at London by Robert Barker, Printer to the Kings most Excellent Majestie." Here, however, we are met on the threshold of our researches by the perplexing fact that at least two separate issues bear the date of that year, yet differ from each other in so many minute particulars, that we cannot help raising the question which is the earlier or more authoritative, and consequently the more suitable to be taken as the model to which subsequent reprints ought to be accommodated. On this subject, so interesting to students of the English Bible, much light has recently been thrown by Mr Fry of Bristol, whose materials will be thankfully used by many that feel unable to adopt his conclusions, and might desire a little more scholarlike precision in the method of his investigations[1]. The two chief issues of 1611 may be respectively represented by a folio now in the British Museum (3050. g. 2), and another in the same Library (3050. g. 1) of which Mr Fry says in a manuscript note "it is every leaf correct, and may be taken as a standard copy of this issue." There is yet a third class of books, bearing date the same year, containing (some more, some less) sheets of six leaves or twelve pages each, or occasionally only two or four leaves of a sheet, which appear to be reprints of portions of one or the other of the aforenamed issues, the preliminary matter being made up from the folio of 1617 or elsewhere, a circumstance which complicates the question not a little, so that in what we have to say it will be advisable to exclude all considerations respecting these reprinted portions[2]. This may be done the better, inasmuch as Mr Fry's researches have discovered only six such leaves in the Pentateuch, five in the Apocrypha, none in the New Testament. These reprints are bound up with and form a complete book with portions of each issue in two other Bibles in the Museum (1276. l. 4 and 3050. g. 3) respectively. The textual differences between the two original issues have been diligently collected in Appendix B, pp. lxxxvi. —xc., from which only very manifest misprints of both books have been excluded; by a careful examination of which collation, in those portions where there are no known reprints, the student can form an independent judgment respecting the internal character of each of them. In preparing the present volume, a Bible belonging to the Syndics of the Cambridge University Press (A. 3. 14, wanting sheet A of Title-page, Dedication and part of the Translators' Preface) has been substituted for the Museum book 3050. g. 2, and for 3050. g. 1 the Oxford reprint of 1833, as being a well-known publication which exactly resembles it in all places consulted, and was itself taken verbatim, with unusual care for insuring accuracy, from a Bible in the Library of the Delegates of the Oxford University Press at that time in actual use. Copies of both issues or recensions of 1611 survive in great numbers in private as well as in public hands, since when the Translation was completed every Church had to be furnished with at least one without delay. Fifteen copies of that which it followed, twelve of the other, are enumerated in the Advertisement which preceded the publication of the Oxford reprint (dated Jan. 14, 1834), and Mr Fry has seen at least seventy, although he seldom gives us information as to where they are severally located[3].

The question which of the two recensions is

M. 3050. g. 2 with 44 other copies, in respect to initial letters and minute typographical variations (Fry, Table 2).

[3] Besides those named above the Editor has examined (not to mention some in private hands) resembling Camb. Synd. A. 3. 14, S. John's Coll. Cambridge (T. 2. 24); King's College (53); Jesus Coll. Cambridge (A. 7. 7 with the false date of 1613 on the title-page of the O. T.); resembling the Oxford reprint, Brit. Mus. (466. i. 6); Cambridge University Library, I. 15; 16; Emmanuel College (B. 1. 23), and the very fine copy in the Bodleian.

the earlier must be decided partly by external, partly by internal considerations. The latter will speak for themselves, and it may be taken for granted that no one will doubt the great superiority on the whole of the text of the Oxford reprint to the other, or hesitate to mark in it many designed improvements and corrections which betray a later hand (Appendix B II. pp. lxxxviii.—xc.), while the instances in which the Syndics' book is superior or not inferior to the other (App. B I. pp. lxxxvi., lxxxvii.) are scanty, slight, and incapable of suggesting the converse inference[1]. Both contain innumerable errors of the press, some peculiar to a single issue[2], not a few (including nearly all the false textual references in the margin, see Sect. VI. p. lvi.) common to both. It is useful to remember one characteristic erratum of each, which will enable us to determine at a glance to which recension a particular volume in our hands belongs. The Syndics' copy and its fellows have "Judas" instead of "Jesus" in Matt. xxvi. 36; the Oxford reprint and its associates read twice over the following words in Ex. xiv. 10 "the children of Israel lift up their eyes, and behold, the Egyptians marched after them, and they were sore afraid: and" the printer's eye wandering back from the second "the children of Israel" in the verse, to the first[3]. Yet in spite of this portentous blunder, the recension which contains it is decidedly the more correct of the two, and irresistibly forces on the mind of any one that has minutely studied both, that whether we regard emendations of the sense or comparative exemption from typographical oversights, it had undergone revision, fitful and superficial perhaps, but not the less real on that account. Hence it is not quite reasonable, in answer to the enquiry "Which of the two issues was first printed?" to say with Mr Fry, "I do not think that any evidence on this point can be adduced, from the existence of an error in one, and the absence of it in another copy" (A Description, &c. p. 23). Not certainly from noting a single error or from noting twenty, for such an argument is cumulative in its weight, and can only be appreciated by patient enquirers: but if, out of two books substantially the same, one shall prove on examination more free than the other from mechanical imperfections and printers' errata, and at the same time full of small yet unequivocal corrections whether of the style or the matter of the performance, we cannot doubt that, in the absence of any considerable proof to the contrary, the common consent of mankind would pronounce that the better executed volume must needs be the later of the two.

And what considerable proof to the contrary has Mr Fry been able to allege? Direct evidence on the subject there is none, for never was a great enterprise like the production of our Authorized Version carried out, with less knowledge handed down to posterity of the labourers, their method and order of working. There still remains the bibliographical branch of this investigation, and this will demand some attention. The first point we take up makes little in favour of Mr Fry's view of the priority of that issue which the Oxford reprint follows with such faithful exactness. All copies of the other issue which have a title-page at all, exhibit a respectable and elaborate woodcut (repeated before the New Testament with the necessary change in the printed words) that had often done duty before, notably in the Bishops' Bible of 1602. It represents the four Evangelists with their proper emblems at the top and bottom of the cut, the tents and armorial bearings of the twelve tribes on the left of the letter-press, the twelve Apostles on the right of it, the Paschal Lamb slain on the altar beneath it, the Lamb Triumphant under the Incommunicable Name surmounting all. But in many copies of the recension to which the Oxford reprint belongs the title-page is of a totally different character. It is a very elegant copper-plate en-

[1] A few instances are as good as a thousand, if only they be unequivocal. We would press Ezek. xliv. 29, where what we call the first issue treats the final mem as if it were double; Amos vi. 7, where the second issue corrects the wrong number of the first; but 1 Macc. x. 47 seems conclusive, where our second issue, deeming "true peace" too strong a rendering of λόγων εἰρηνικῶν, banished "‖ True" into the margin. There are no reprints in these leaves. It is fair to add two instances (App. B, p. lxxxvii.) we have found tending to an opposite conclusion, in the false arrangement of the margins of Wisd. iii. 14; Mark vii. 4, in the Oxford reprint. But the general drift of the internal evidence sets strongly the other way.

[2] In compiling a list of errata in the Syndics' copy (A. 3. 14) much aid was given by the corrections made in that book by Gilbert Buchanan, LL.D., of Woodmansterne, Surrey, in the winter of 1813—4, when engaged in revising for the King's Printer his quarto edition of 1806.

[3] It deserves notice that this could easily be done if the type were set up from the Syndics' copy, where "the children of Israel" begins a line in both parts of the verse.

graving, of whose refined beauty Mr Fry's reproduction on stone (Plate 34) gives but a poor idea. Here Moses stands cornutus on the left of the letter-press title, Aaron on the right, the Apostles and Evangelists above and below in attitude and form quite different from the conventional manner of artists; above, the Incommunicable Name, the Dove, the Lamb Triumphant; below, the Pelican and her young; at the foot of this masterpiece the subscription C. Boel fecit in Richmont, Cornelius Boel of Antwerp then working at Richmond in Surrey. Now the point to be noted is this. It is admitted by Mr Fry and by every one else that in no copy of what he calls the second issue is there an engraved title, whereas some copies of his first issue have the engraved plate, others the woodcut, a few possibly, though not certainly, both, prefixed to the Old Testament. The inference seems a natural one that Boel's plate not being ready when the earliest copies of our Authorized Version were published, the old woodcut was made to serve in its place for a while, and that those copies of Mr Fry's first and our second issue which contain Boel's copper-plate, are in all probability the latest of any. If there be any more simple solution of the matter, it would be well to state it.

But that which is most dwelt upon by such as would invert what internal evidence points out as the true order of the two issues insist on facts relative to the reprinted leaves which Mr Fry has demonstrated with great pains and ingenuity. Out of 25 copies of his first issue which he examined, 23 were leaf for leaf alike, agreeing entirely with each other: in one copy two leaves, in another six, were of the rival issue. Forty-five copies of this latter issue were then collated, of which the large number of 41 were found to vary from each other in some of the reprinted leaves supplied (see p. xi. note 2), and only two pairs were entirely identical. "I have now shewn" he proceeds to sum up "from the actual comparison of a very large number of the Bibles of 1611, as many as seventy, that one issue is unmixed (with the exception of eight leaves in two copies out of 25 examined), and that the other issue is made up in a very remarkable manner, not only with reprints, but that it is often mixed with the other issue, with the preliminary leaves of 1613, 1617, and 1634. Is not this conclusive evidence that the Bibles No. 1 and No. 2 before alluded to[1] are respectively of the 1st issue and of the 2nd issue[2]" (Description, &c. p. 25)? Certainly not, if we understand what is meant by conclusive evidence. The facts established by Mr Fry (and we can confirm many of them from our own experience) are sufficient to raise a strong presumption that not very many copies of the earliest printed issue were bound up at once and sent out to Parish Churches, for which reservation their shameful inaccuracy will abundantly account: after the great and immediate demand was satisfied by that better edition which the Oxford reprint exhibits, and after the Translators were dispersed and had ceased to have any control over their work, the printer seems to have gradually put forth the unused sheets that had been first printed and deliberately laid aside, supplemented by reprinted leaves and other portions of later books.

"Why these 244 leaves were required to be printed a second time we can only conjecture" (ibid. p. 24). In truth the difficulty presses equally upon every possible hypothesis that can be maintained. The only real information available which bears even remotely on the matter is Dr Anthony Walker's Life of John Bois[3] [1560—1643], who was a member first of the fourth, afterwards of the second Company. Of him we are told

[1] As usual, Mr Fry does not indicate what and where are the copies he used. He only says just before, "I placed my two best copies side by side, the one with the error of three lines in Ex. xiv. 10, the No. 1 copy..., and the other with the verse correctly printed, No. 2 copy... (p. 22)," which is vague enough. He tries also to make something of "the obvious difference in the condition of the rules with which the black lines [inclosing the letter-press] are printed. In No. 1 they are straight and generally true at the corners; in the 2nd Issue they are not so true, and are more open, shewing the effect of use" (p. 25). The difference will not appear so great to every one who inspects these early Bibles; from the original leaves supplied at the end of the Syndics' copy of his own book, and from comparing various parts of Brit. Mus. 3050. g. 1 and g. 2, quite an opposite conclusion might be drawn: but if ever so great, it would only prove that the lines were repaired for a new issue. It is even doubtful, on close inspection, whether the same lines were used for both.

[2] "Because those Bibles which were printed and bound up before the 2nd Issue was printed (and no doubt there were such) could have leaves of no other Issue or edition inserted" (p. 22). This consideration he calls "almost absolute proof" of his opinion. It shews, of course, that his theory is self-consistent, but nothing more.

"Four years he spent in this service[1], at the end thereof (the whole work being finished, and three copies of the whole Bible being sent to London, one from Cambridge, a second from Oxford, and a third from Westminster), a new choice was to be made of six in all, two out of each company, to review the whole work, and extract one out of all the three, to be committed to the press. For the despatch of this business Mr Downes[2] and he, out of the Cambridge company[3], were sent for up to London, where meeting their four fellow-labourers, they went daily to Stationers' Hall, and in three quarters of a year fulfilled their task. Whilst they were employed in this last business, he, and he only, took notes of their proceedings, which he diligently kept to his dying day."

Could these notes be recovered[4], they would solve, not only the problem discussed by Mr Fry, but many other questions of great interest. If Dr Walker can be trusted, it would seem that every part of each Company's task had in some fashion been revised by each of the rest, a statement which neither the time employed, nor the results obtained, render very likely (see Sect. VII. p. lxiii.). At all events it is clear, unless we reject his evidence altogether, that the printing, so far as the Translators superintended it at all, must have begun and ended within the short period of nine months, which seems wholly inadequate for the accomplishing of all they had in hand.

Although we have not been able to resist the pressure of the internal evidence which assures us that the issue represented by Synd. A. 3. 14 is the earlier of the two, yet the influence of our error (if any shall still judge it to be an error) upon the text of the present volume is infinitesimally small. It is strictly confined within the limits indicated in Appendix B, § 1, the great majority of which variations are either purely indifferent, or would have been received on their own merits, without reference to the prior claims of the copy that contains them.

Respecting Appendix C, wherein are registered the joint readings of the two issues of 1611 which in later times have been displaced but are now restored, not a few of them are quite insignificant in themselves, but are re-established as a matter of right, and as a kind of protest against the unnecessary, the almost wanton changes, in which certain editors of the Bible have been pleased to indulge. Examples of this kind will be seen in Judg. xix. 29; 1 Sam. xx. 5; 2 Sam. vii. 7 marg.; 1 Kin. xv. 27; xvi. 19; 2 Kin. viii. 19; Isai. vi. 8; Hos. xiii. 3; 1 Esdr. viii. 75; 2 Esdr. xv. 22; 2 Macc. viii. 33; Luke xix. 13 marg.[5]

We now proceed to describe the principal editions of the Authorized Bible which have appeared since 1611, especially those which seem to have been prepared with some degree of care, or have largely influenced the text of succeeding impressions.

(2) The Holy Bible of 1612, copies of which are in the British Museum (1276. b. 6) and at derived his materials from one of the Baker papers, which John Lewis also cites in 1739. The two manuscript authorities are independent, each preserving passages not found in the other. Both contain incidental statements, hitherto unnoticed, which might lead to the supposition that the different Translators took to themselves separate books (Harl. pp. 104, 105), as was really the case with the Bishops' Bible.

[1] So that we need not take literally the "twice seven times seventy-two days and more;" about two years and nine months, as Westcott notes (General View of History of English Bible, p. 154), which The Translators to the Reader speak of (infra, p. cxvi.). Elsewhere Anthony Walker says of Bois's labours, "Five years were spent in the Translation, which makes no noise, because it carries no name" (Peck, ubi supra, p. 53).

[2] "Though Mr Downes would not go, till he was either fetcht or threatened with a Pursuivant." Walker in Peck. The Harleian copy does not mention this story, so characteristic of the times.

[3] So that "two out of each company," mentioned just before, must mean two out of each place; and the final Committee consisted of six persons, not of twelve, as was stated at the Synod of Dort (1618). Compare, however, Anderson, Annals of the English Bible (1845), Vol. II. pp. 381, 2.

[4] Harl. 7053 contains John Bois's will (1643), wherein he bequeaths his books and papers, on which he set great store, to his daughter, Anne Bois, "to her best use and commodity," and requests his curate, John Killingworth, to be "aiding and helpful in the disposing" of the same. They were no doubt sold, and may yet be found in some private collection.

[5] Students should be aware that the representation given of the New Testament of 1611 in Bagster's Hexapla, 1841 cannot be implicitly relied upon. There are two issues of the book, with two several Introductions, and the stereotyped plates bear marks of alterations in what seems the later (Matt. xiii. 45). Thus, for example, in John viii. 4 "said" suits neither form of the Bible of 1611: sometimes the text follows our first issue, as in Matt. xiii. 4, 31, 45; xviii. 30; xxii. 24; Mark xv. 46; Acts iv. 27; xvi. 7, 19; xxi. 2; xxv. 1; Rom. vi. 21; x. 21; xi. 22; Eph. vi. 21; 1 Thess. i. 9; James v. 4; 2 Pet. ii. 6: sometimes that which Mr Fry counts the earliest, Luke ii. 24; x. 36; John xiv. 23; Acts vi. 12; xv. 11; 1 Pet. i. 22.

Trinity College, Cambridge (A. 8. 51), is beautifully printed in a small clear Roman type in octavo, the woodcut of the first issue of 1611 (above, p. xii.) being reproduced in a reduced size. On examining the collation we have made of this the earliest reprint of the Authorized Version (Appendices A, B, C below), it may be considered to depart but seldom from the issue represented by the Oxford reprint, except to correct some grave mistake (e.g. Mark vii. 4 marg.). In such a case it is usually followed by the edition of 1616, also printed in Roman type, but rarely influences the black-letter Bibles of 1613 or 1617. In 1 Kin. iii. 4; 1 Esdr. viii. 39; Rev. xx. 13 marg. this edition stands alone. The following are examples of improvements brought into it, which immediate successors have overlooked: Ps. xcix. 2; 2 Esdr. ii. 7 marg.; Judith xvi. 24; 1 Macc. v. 9; Matt. v. 22; Acts xiii. 19; 1 Cor. vii. 32; 2 Cor. v. 20. We have rejected the grammatical corrections in Dan. v. 31; John xi. 18 marg.

(3) The Holy Bible of 1613 is more generally known from a collation of the smaller black-letter folio copy of it in the University Press at Oxford with the Oxford reprint of the book of 1611, annexed to that very useful publication[1]. This book is readily distinguished from both issues of 1611, inasmuch as it contains 72 lines of smaller type in a column, to their 59[2]. It is plain that no formal revision of the text, italics, or margin, was attempted thus early. Out of the 412 variations which the collation records, just 70 arise from the following of the Syndics' copy (A. 3.14) in preference to the other issue, but this includes corrections of some 20 evident misprints of the Oxford reprint issue. In about four places (Ezra iii. 5; Ezek. xxiv. 7; 1 Macc. iv. 29; 2 Thess. ii. 15) we find manifest improvements on the standard editions: in Dan. ix. 12 the reading of the Hebrew margin or keri is adopted ("word") against the other books: nearly all the other variations arise from the glaring misprints of this handsome but inaccurate volume. Such are the omissions of whole clauses by reason of their having the same beginning or ending as those immediately preceding (1 Kin. iii. 15; Matt. xiii. 8; xvi. 11; John xx. 25), and two whole verses, Ecclus. xvi. 13, 14, putting "delighted" for "defiled" Ezek. xxiii. 7, the leaving out of "not" in 2 Tim. iv. 16, and other errors almost as gross. That this book was set up from our first issue appears likely, as well from many other resemblances to be seen in Appendix B, as from the printer's mistaking "y^{t}" in that book for "the" in Acts xxi. 38. The other issue has "that Egyptian" in full[3].

The next two books were used at Tregothnan (R. 4 and R. 7), by the kind permission of their owner, Viscount Falmouth.

(4) The Holy Bible in small folio Roman type 1616; with the Prayer Book and Genealogies, Map, &c. prefixed, the metrical Psalms with musical notes (dated 1612) and Private Prayers at the end, with their first leaf lost. This seems a somewhat rare book, not particularly intended for Church reading, is beautifully printed, and in a very perfect state. It appears to be the first edition of the Authorized Version which was submitted to any considerable revision. Its value will be seen from the study of Appendices A and B, and it should be remarked all along, that improvements brought in from time to time in Bibles of the Roman type seem to have had very slight influence with the printers of the black-letter books of 1617, 1634, 1640, who continued to set the press from one or the other of the issues of 1611, almost regardless of subsequent changes for the better. Some of the corrections of 1616 were received into the great folio of 1617, but the following, among others, were overlooked: Gen. xxii. 7; 2 Sam. xxiii. 20; 1 Kin. xx. 3; 1 Chr. i. 5, 47; vii. 13; xxvi. 5; xxvii. 33;

[1] We have used for our own purpose a copy in the Syndics' Library, Cambridge (A. 3. 13). To the variations recorded in the Oxford reprint we have been able to add in passing Ruth iii. 15 "she went" Synd. (A. 3. 14), 1613, "he went" Oxon.; Ps. lxxviii. 60 marg. "1 Sam." Synd. (a reprint), 1613, "1 King." Oxon.; Jer. xl. 1 "chains" 1613, "‖captaine" Oxon.; Ezek. xvi. 16 "Of thy garments" 1613, "And of thy garments" Oxon.; Wisd. ix. 15 "earthly" 1613, "earthy" Oxon.; 2 Cor. iii. 3 "fleshly" 1613, "fleshy" Oxon. In Josh. xii. 11; 2 Sam. xvii. 25; Neh. xi. 14 marg.; 1 Esdr. v. 20 marg.; Judith iii. 5—vii. 16 (Oloferne), Proper names are differently spelt, but the Oxford collation does not profess to include these.

[2] A few copies of what we regard as the first issue of 1611 are said to bear on the Old Testament title-page, but not on the New, a genuine date of 1613: that being no doubt the year they were bound up. There was at that time no inducement to antedate falsely, but rather the contrary.

[3] Other copies, by no means rare, are from S. Luke's Chapel, in the Precinct, Norwich (bought 1618), now in the Chapter Library there, and Brit. Mus. 469. g. 10, with Boel's frontispiece. and an inserted title-page of 1611.

2 Chr. xi. 20; xxx. 6; xxxii. 20; Neh. viii. 10; Eccles. vii. 26; Cant. v. 12; Jer. xxxv. 13; Tobit iv. 12; Ecclus. li. 12; 1 Macc. viii. 8; ix. 35; xi. 34, 56; xv. 23; Matt. xvi. 19; Mark xiv. 32; Luke xxiii. 19; Acts iv. 17; xxvii. 18; Rom. vi. 12; vii. 13; xvi. 10. Dr Corrie, Master of Jesus College, Cambridge, has a rare 8vo. in Roman type, dated 1619.

(5) The Holy Bible, large folio, black letter, 1617, a much more pretentious but less valuable edition[1]. As its leaves have got much mixed with those of the other folios, especially of our first issue of 1611, it is proper to apply Mr Fry's tests before using any copy (A Description, &c. plates 46, 47), so far as for critical purposes it is worth using at all. The large paper copies may be expected to be pure for obvious reasons. The Tregothnan book does not answer Fry's tests in three leaves up to Ps. xxii.[2] Among its few original corrections are Mal. iv. 2; 2 Tim. ii. 19. The Bible of 1617, like that of 1613, usually abides by the issue of 1611, represented by our Synd. A. 3. 14, while that of 1616 follows the Oxford reprint standard, even in such obvious errors as in Hos. vi. 5.

The public demand must have been satisfied with these several editions, especially of the large size, which were published so near each other. Some years elapsed before the appearance of other chief Bibles, whereof three several pairs can most conveniently be discussed according to their relation to each other, rather than in the chronological order,—the two of 1629, those of 1630, 1634, 1638, 1640.

(6) The Holy Bible, small quarto, 1629 "Imprinted at London by Bonham Norton and John Bill Printers to the King's most Excellent Majestie."

(7) The Holy Bible, also small quarto, 1630 "Imprinted at London by Robert Barker, Printer to the King's most Excellent Majestie: and by the Assignes of John Bill."

These two books are of the same size, have the same title-page, though different tail-pieces at the end of the Prophets, correspond with each other page for page, line for line, with the closest exactness, even to the peculiar shape of the letters used in the same places (compare, however, Num. xxii. 31; Ezek. xx. 37 marg.; Dan. viii. 18 marg.), so that the type from which the two were printed off was clearly set up but once. The volume of 1629 however is printed on much worse paper, and does not contain the Apocrypha[3], although APO- still remains, as in its fellow, below the tail-piece at the end of Malachi. At the end are the metrical Psalms with musical notes, and the date of 1630. It would never be suspected, prior to actual trial, that the text in these two books is not absolutely identical. Yet an inspection of Appendices A, B, C will shew that this is the case: e.g. Gen. xlvi. 12; xlvii. 18; Lev. xviii. 30; xxv. 5 marg.; Num. v. 20; 1 Kin. xviii. 28; xx. 3; 1 Chr. i. 38; vii. 27; xxiv. 11; 2 Chr. xxvi. 18; Esther viii. 5 marg. (devised 1630, for the device); Ps. xxiv. 10; Jer. xl. 1; Ezek. i. 2; xvi. 59; xxxvi. 2; Dan. v. 4 (dranke 1629, drunke 1630 after 1611); Rom. x. 21; xvi. 10; 2 Cor. vii. 3 (yee are 1629, you are 1630 after 1611); ix. 4 (haply 1629, happily 1630 after 1611); Gal. i. 6 (removen 1629); Eph. vi. 21, 24; 1 Thess. i. 9; 1 Pet. v. 12. Instances such as these help to justify Mr Fry's assertion, which to an inexperienced reader might seem somewhat unlikely: "The absence of a particular error in one copy, is no proof that it is of a different edition from the one with the error; for I have observed many errors in one copy corrected in another of the same edition, in other Bibles than those here described" (A Description, &c. p. 23), meaning those of 1611 and their near contemporaries. The Bible of 1630 has some readings that appear peculiar to itself, e.g. 1 Macc. x. 20 "require of thee"; xii. 53 fin. "them" for "men."

Thus far the reprinting of the Authorized Version had been entirely in the hands of the King's Printers. They had made changes in the text, slight indeed and far from numerous, yet enough

[1] Other copies are numerous: e.g. Brit. Mus. (1272. h. 4) and (3052. b); a copy given by "Thomas Hobson, Carrier of Cambridge, to Benet Parish;" Trin. Coll. Cambridge (A. 12. 34), large paper, very fine; S. John's Coll. Camb. (T. 6. 26); Caius Coll. (H. 0. 26).

[2] They are Xx 3 (Neh. vii. 11—viii. 9), which is taken from our first issue; Zz (Job i. 17—iv. 16) and Ccc 2 (Ps. xix. 2—xxii. 31), whence derived his list fails to shew.

[3] Thus early began the practice of leaving out the Apocrypha. It was hardening into fixed habit when Selden said, "The Apocrypha is bound with the Bibles of all churches that have been hitherto. Why should we leave it out?" (Table Talk, p. 10.) The copies used are also in the Syndics' Library, A. 5. 22 and 25.

to shew that they doubted not their competency to make more if they had taken the trouble. The italic type and textual references in the margin they left untouched, with all the obvious faults of both uncorrected, only that occasionally a false quotation was set right. The next stage of the history of our Translation is more interesting, and the Cambridge University printers, Thomas and John Buck in 1629, Thomas Buck and Roger Daniel in 1638, published two important folios which have largely (and on the whole beneficially) influenced our Bibles to this day.

(8) and (9)[1]. The first Cambridge editions of the Holy Bible shall be considered together, inasmuch as that of 1629, which is the smaller of the two, and has the Prayer Book prefixed to it, and the metrical Psalms with musical notes bound up at the end, inaugurated that course of systematic revision of the text, of the italics, and of the margin, which nine years afterwards was more fully and consistently carried out. It is not a little remarkable, that the subject of the internal character of our English Bible, as distinct from its external history, had excited so little attention for the space of two centuries, that the high merit of these books has been understood only within the last forty years. "For this beautiful edition," Lea Wilson writes most truly of the elder of the two, "the text appears to have undergone a complete revision, although I can find no record of such having been done by authority" (List of Bibles, &c. 4to. 1845). "So far as I can judge" says Bp. Turton of its compeer of 1638 "the edition was carefully superintended" (Text of the English Bible considered, 2nd edition, 1833, p. 35). As he becomes better acquainted with it, his language grows more decided, as well it might: "a revision of the text of 1611:..it is now certain, was carried into effect, from the beginning of the Volume to the end, at Cambridge, in 1638" (p. 126). "The revision indeed was a work of great labour" (p. 91), but he always speaks of it as commenced and carried out in the same volume. What Turton did not know, but only regarded as possible, that it might "hereafter appear that an earlier revision had taken place" (ibid.), is a fact that no one will doubt as regards the text who shall examine the contents of the subjoined Appendices (pp. lxviii.—lxxxiii.; xci.—xcvii.). The task seems to have been executed between the two sets of editors in no unequal shares. What the one left undone, by reason of haste or human oversight, the others in a good measure supplied, by inserting words or clauses, especially in the Old Testament, overlooked by the editors of 1611, by amending manifest oversights, by rendering the italic notation at once more self-consistent, and more agreeable to the design of the original Translators (see Sect. III. p. xxxiii.). What persons were concerned in the edition of 1629, as Lea Wilson notices, we are wholly ignorant, but if similarity of plan and spirit afford us any ground for conjecture, one at least of them must have had a share with others in preparing the subsequent book of 1638, and these latter, as we learn from a manuscript note in the Jesus College copy, in the handwriting of Richard Sterne, Master of the College, and Vice-Chancellor that selfsame year, were Dr Goad of Hadley, Dr Ward, Mr Boyse, and Mr Mead: men whose obscure diligence in a grave and delicate work was doubtless rewarded with honour more excellent than fame can give or take away[2].

With this pair of editions began the habit of adding to the parallel textual references in the margin: the Bible of 1638 admits also one or two fresh marginal notes (1 Macc. iv. 15; ix. 36). We have seldom to hesitate about receiving their emendations of the text (see Appendix C 2 Sam. xvi. 8; Ps. cxix. 42 marg.), as in the case of some of their successors: their corrections command our assent by their simple truth. One of the changes introduced in 1638 it would have been better to have finally adopted, "and the truth" with the Greek in John xiv. 6. The "and" held its place beyond Blayney's revision of 1769, but has disappeared in Bibles from D'Oyly and Mant (1817) downwards. The following errata have been noticed in these two admirable books: most of which blemishes have been perpetuated to modern times.

[1] These editions are not at all rare. We have used for the one of 1629, Camb. University Library, I. 14. 12, for that of 1638, Syndics' Library, A. 3. 8. The date of the latter is on the title-page of the New Testament.

[2] Kilburne calls the book of 1638 "the Authentic corrected Cambridge Bible, revised Mandato Regio," whatever that may mean (Dangerous Errors in several late Printed Bibles to the great scandal and corruption of sound and true religion. Discovered by Wm. Kilburne, Gent., 8vo. Finsbury, 1659, p. 6). His little pamphlet of 15 pages produced a great effect, and is full of weighty matter. A copy is in the British Museum (1214. a. 9).

1629. 2 Chr. ix. 11 marg.; Jer. xxxiv. 16; Ezek. xxxi. 14; Ecclus. xvii. 24; 2 Macc. ix. 18 (see Appendix C for all these); Judith i. 6 ("Hydaspe:" so also 1638 [not 1744], 1762, 1769, all moderns down to our model [below, p. xxiii.], which restores "Hydaspes" of 1611); Baruch vi. 8 ("gold," all the editions just named, with 1744 added: here again our model restores "silver" of 1611); 2 Cor. viii. 7 ("in utterance," repeated in 1638, 1699, "in utterance" 1762: but 1743, 1769 and the moderns restored "and utterance" of 1611); 1 Tim. iv. 16 (see p. x. note 2). Note also that this edition has misled every subsequent one by placing the reference to Ps. xxii. 6 in Job xxv. 6 over against the first "worm" instead of the second.

1638. Neh. xii. 3 marg. (Appendix A); Ezek. xviii. 1; Hos. xiii. 3 (see for these Appendix C); Acts vi. 3 (see p. x.); Rev. ii. 20 ("Jezabel," the Greek form, followed by 1699, 1743: but "Jezebel" was restored in 1762).

In the matter of the italic type, to which much attention is paid in these two Bibles, one or other of them has led later copies wrong in the following places:

2 Sam. xxiv. 12 do it (1629), corrected in the American (1867) only; Isai. v. 9 marg. This is (1638); 25 were torn (1638); xxxviii. 12 marg. from the thrumme (1638); Jer. xxv. 18 and the princes (1638); Ezek. xl. 4 art thou brought (1629); Zech. vi. 3 and bay (1638); 1 Esdr. viii. 58 is a vow (1629); Matt. xv. 9 for doctrines 1638, for doctrines 1762, &c.; Eph. v. 26 cleanse it (1629). All these are merely uncorrected errata[1].

The next pair comprises the black-letter folios of the King's Printer, dated (10) 1634 [B. M. 1276. l. 5. 1—2] and (11) 1640 [B. M. 1276. l. 7]. The former is much mixed with later issues of the books of 1611 and 1617, and may be discriminated by the use of Mr Fry's tests (A Description, &c. Plates 46, 47). The latter is at once detected by its use of Roman letters instead of italics in the marginal notes, nor does the type run quite line for line with the earlier folios. Speaking generally, these books contain none of the improvements found in the two Cambridge editions, although a few changes for the better may be met with here and there. Thus the edition of 1634 anticipates the emendations of 1638 in 1 Chr. i. 20; John vii. 16 (Appendix A): in Hagg. i. 12 it reads "Joshuah," in Rev. xxi. 20 "sardonyx." In Ecclus. xxxv. 18; xlix. 4; Acts iv. 17; vii. 10 (Appendix A) that of 1640, but not the other, adopts the readings of 1629. A fuller examination would no doubt bring to light some more instances, equally insignificant.

The volume of 1640 proved to be the last of the Bibles of its class, the Great Rebellion leaving men neither inclination nor means for costly undertakings of this nature. "You may well remember," writes William Kilburne in 1659, to the honourable and elect Christians whom he addresses, "the zeal and care of the late Bishops (especially of reverend and learned Doctor Usher) was such, that for the omission in one impression of the Negative word [not] in the seventh Commandment, the Printer was fined £2000 or £3000 in the late King's time, as I have heard[2], which happened long before the late wars began: in which time, through the absence of the King's Printers, and cessation of Bible-printing at London, many erroneous English Bibles were printed in and imported from Holland; which being diligently compared by the late Assembly of Divines were reported to the Parliament in 1643 to be corrupt and dangerous to Religion" (Dangerous Errors, &c. p. 5). This importation indeed was expressly prohibited by statute, without much good effect: "Moreover, during the time of the late Parliament great numbers of Bibles in a large 12° volume were imported from Holland in 1656 with this false title (Imprinted at London by Robert Barker, Anno 1638)...being contrary to the several Acts of Parliament of 20° Sept. 1649 and 7 Janu. 1652 for regulating of Printing" (ibid. p. 12). Kilburne furnishes a really painful list of the inaccuracies of these foreign Bibles ("thirty grand faults in part of Genesis, a hundred in Isai. i.—xxvii."), but shews plainly that the privileged printers, Henry Hills and John Field, were scarcely a whit more careful. They had, in truth, to pay for their privilege a bribe of £500 per annum to certain men in power, "whose names, out of respect to them, I forbear to mention" (ibid. p. 14), and reimbursed themselves for that shameful outlay by taking no measures for the due correction of the press. In their Bibles of 1653, 1655 (two editions), 1656 (two editions), and 1657 (thought to be the worst of all), Kilburne computes that he discovered twenty thousand faults, some (which he particularises) being intolerably gross. On the other hand, he praises several editions in 8vo. and 12mo. issued "by Authority of Parliament" in 1646, 1648, 1651, &c., by Wm. Bentley of Finsbury, based upon the Cambridge folio of 1638.

[1] Professor Grote (MS. p. 36) speaks of a small 4to., Cambridge, 1637, in Trinity College Library, "which has none of the additions of Buck, 1638." From the specimen Professor Lightfoot gives of its reading in 1 Cor. xii. 28 (On a Fresh Revision, &c. p. 129, note), it does appear to contain the changes or improvements of Cambridge, 1629. Such is the case also in Gen. xxxix. 1; Deut. xxvi. 1; Job iv. 6. The valuable manuscript notes of the late Professor Grote, from which we shall hereafter make several extracts, though scarcely in a state suitable for publication in full, were obligingly placed at our disposal by his representatives, and throw much light on the internal history of the printing of the Authorized Bible.

Of the Bibles published during the latter part of the seventeenth century, that of Hills and Field, small 8vo. London, 1660, is remarkable for certain additions to the original marginal notes of 1611, subsequently improved upon in a Cambridge quarto of 1682—3 (see Sect. II. p. xxxi., and note 1), bearing the name of John Hayes, the University Printer, who had previously put forth a well-known edition in 1677. The later of Hayes's two contains a great number of fresh textual references, the reputed work of Dr Anthony Scattergood, and mostly taken from his Bible, also published at Cambridge in 1678. But the most celebrated edition of the period was that undertaken on the motion of Archbishop Tenison, and at the alleged request of Convocation in 1699, by the eminently learned William Lloyd [1627—1717], successively Bishop of S. Asaph and of Worcester, under whose superintendence appeared

This splendid but somewhat cumbersome book is the first that contains the marginal dates (see Sect. VII. p. lxii.), and sundry marginal annotations of doubtful merit, discussing chronological difficulties and imparting other information (Sect. II. p. xxvi.). Annexed are Bp. Cumberland's Tables of Scripture measures, weights, and coins (first published in 1685), Tables of Kindred, Time, and Offices and Conditions of men. The textual references also are increased, but not very materially, and in respect to punctuation many parentheses were restored, which had been gradually removed from the text (see Sect. IV. p. xli.). On the whole, this hasty labour added little to the fame of the veteran Lloyd, and in 1703 the Lower House of Convocation made a formal Representation to the Upper respecting the many errors it contains[1]. Except in regard to the dates, no principal edition has so little influenced succeeding Bibles as this, notwithstanding the high auspices under which it came forth.

It was doubtless through the care of Archbishop Wake (who, though himself but a feeble writer, had a genuine love of sacred letters) that persons from whom so little could be expected as George I. and his great minister, were induced to issue four salutary Rules, dated April 24, 1724, to the King's Printers[2], with a view to the more effectual removal of misprints from their copies of the Authorized Version. One of these rules strikes at what was beyond question the root of the mischief in the evil days of Hills and Field, and prescribes that those employed on so grave a work should receive competent salaries for their pains and skill. In the middle of the eighteenth century the Bibles of the Basketts, at once the King's and Oxford University Printers, earned a fair name both for the beauty of their typography and their comparative freedom from misprints. Their quarto of 1756 is particularly commended, and will supply the student with a knowledge of the exact state of our Bibles just before the commencement of the kindred labours of Paris and Blayney, which yet remain to be described. In preparing the present volume we have used another of their editions, in substance almost identical with that of 1756.

We now come to the last two considerable efforts to improve and correct our ordinary editions of Holy Scripture, made in 1762 by Dr Paris, Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, and still commemorated in the list of the Benefactors of the College, and by Dr Blayney, whose labours were published in 1769, both anonymously. The latter, however, has left a very interesting account of his work and the principles upon which it was executed in a brief Report to the Vice-Chancellor and Delegates of the Clarendon Press, reprinted below as Appendix D (pp. xcviii., xcix.), and well deserving of attentive perusal. Dr Paris's name is not mentioned therein in such terms as might have been expected from the liberal use made of his materials by his successor: in fact his book is almost unknown even to Biblical students, although it has contributed more than that which appeared but seven years later towards bringing the text, the marginal annotations, the italics, and the textual references of modern Bibles into their actual condition. The truth is that Paris's edition had no real circulation, partly because it was so soon superseded by Blayney's, chiefly by reason of a large portion of the impression having been destroyed by fire in Dod's the publisher's warehouse[1].

It will be seen when we come to discuss the italic type (Sect. III.) that the use of it was considerably extended in these two Bibles, notably in the later one, by a more full carrying out of the system of the Translators than they would have probably sanctioned themselves. The marginal annotations also, which had been growing in some Bibles since 1660 but were excluded from others (see Sect. II. pp. xxx., xxxi.), were finally received into the place they have occupied ever since, sundry new notes being added, the great majority in 1762. Bp. Lloyd's dates and chronological notices were also received and added to at the same time, and the two editions contributed largely, in about equal proportions, to swell the catalogue of textual references to parallel passages of Scripture. An inspection of our Appendices A and C will shew how far each of them contributed to amend or corrupt the Translators' text, and it cannot be doubted that these two editors are the great modernizers of the diction of the version, from what it was left in the seventeenth century, to the state wherein it appears in modern Bibles. Much of the labour described in Sect. V. (pp. xlviii., xlix., &c.) has been rendered necessary for the undoing of their tasteless and inconsistent meddling with archaic words and grammatical forms. On the whole, Dr Paris, who has been kept so utterly out of sight, performed his task with more diligence, exactness, and moderation than his Oxford successor. Yet, much as they left undone or did amiss, their editions of the Bible are monuments of genuine industry and pious zeal all the more conspicuous in an age when shallow superciliousness was too often made a substitute for generous criticism and scholar-like precision: they might either of them have cheered the heart of worthy Archbishop Secker, on whose suggestion Blayney's labours are believed to have been undertaken. In point of typographical correctness, as is already well known, the quarto (and to a slightly less extent the scarce folio) of 1769 are conspicuously deficient: on one page of the Apocrypha there are no less than three typographical errors (Esth. xi. 2 "Nison;" 8 "upon earth" ("the" omitted); xii. 6 "the eunuchs" ("two" omitted), so that the commonly estimated number of 116 such errata would seem below the truth. In Rev. xviii. 22 occurs an omission of a whole clause, for the same cause as was spoken of in regard to the Bible of 1613: "And no craftsman, of whatsoever craft he be, shall be found any more in thee." Some of Blayney's needless changes are in Ps. cxv. 3; cxli. 9; 2 Pet. i. 9 (see Appendix C): certain of a better character occur in Prov. vi. 19

[1] "Only six copies were preserved from a fire at the printers," MS. note in the British Museum copy. But more than six undoubtedly survive, as may appear from the Catalogues of various booksellers. We have used Camb. Synd. A. 4. 3[b], 3[c] for 1762; A. 4. 16 for 1769.

(App. A); Ecclus. xxix. 17 "[in danger]" for "in [danger]" of 1611, &c.; 2 Cor. iii. 3 "fleshy" of 1611 restored, for "fleshly," which had held its ground since 1613. On the other hand, in Ezek. xxiii. 4 (his own margin) His tent should have been Her tent. In regard to italics, whereof at times he is somewhat lavish, he rightly prints in Ps. xiii. 3 "the sleep of death," instead of "the sleep of death," as from 1611 downwards; in 1 John iii. 16 "of God" is italicised for the first time: his oversights in this matter will be noticed hereafter (p. xxii.). In the Bible of 1762 also the following errors should be noted: 2 Kin. x. 31 "for" instead of "for" of 1611—1744; xxv. 4 "of war fled" for "of war fled" of 1611—1744; Ps. lxix. 12 "I was" for "I was" 1611—1744. The second and grossest is amended in the American Bible 1867, otherwise they remain untouched to this day.

The following list of errors which we have incidentally detected in Dr Paris's edition of 1762 deserves the more notice, because they are nearly all repeated by Blayney, as we have indicated by adding the date 1769 within marks of parenthesis. They occur oftenest in the marginal annotations added in this pair of Bibles, and some of them can be best accounted for by supposing that Blayney's sheets were set up by Paris's, used as copy.

Blayney also refuses "be ye warmed and be ye filled," James ii. 16 ("be you warmed and filled," 1611—1743), though he wrongly italicises the first "ye," which he retains. In Gal. ii. 6 1762 recalls from the Bible of 1683 the reading "those who," which had been afterwards neglected for the inferior reading of 1611, "these who" (Grote MS. p. 133). It was followed by Blayney and others up to a very recent period (Bagster 1846, American 1867). Our model (Camb. 1858) falls back upon "these who," which we do not disturb.

Some other emendations of Dr Paris are a little too bold (e.g. Ps. cvii. 19, App. C), and one at least of his marginal notes very questionable (Acts vii. 45). His punctuation is often good: he was the first to substitute a full stop and a moderate space for the colon of 1611, &c., at the great break in Zech. xi. 7 "And I took unto me two staves." For a specimen of his successor's merits in this respect see Sect. IV. p. xlv. (2 Cor. v. 2).

It is now necessary to subjoin an incomplete yet over-long list of the errors other than bare misprints which have met us in habitually consulting Blayney's quarto of 1769. We must not suppress the notice of faults, some of which have led his successors grievously wrong, through the vain fear of detracting from the honour of a learned and diligent student of Holy Writ. All accuracy is only comparative, as every true scholar knows well; and if we be at a loss to account for the unusual number of his oversights, we may fairly impute much to the comparatively short time—between three and four years—spent by him in accomplishing, or at least in attempting, the burdensome task which his Report describes (Appendix D). The reader will refer to Appendices A and C for further details.

"still" (thus many later Bibles, but not our model, Camb. 1858); 1 Cor. iv. 13 "the earth" for "the world;" 2 Cor. vii. 16 "con-|dence" for "confidence;" xii. 2 "about" for "above," repeated in later Bibles up to Bagster, 1846: but the American and our model restore "above." This change seems intentional. 1 Tim. iv. 10 "the saviour;" Rev. vii. 6, see Appendix A, p. lxxxiii., note 2; Rev. xviii. 22 (see p. xx.).

In regard to the use of italic type Blayney's edition is very careless, although he had evidently taken some pains about the subject. Some of his errors are:

Deut. viii. 17 "mine hand;" xv. 20 "eat it;" 1 Kin. xvii. 24 "and that" for "and that;" 1 Chr. xviii. 16 "was" 1611—1762, but "was" 1769; 2 Chr. xx. 34 "is mentioned;" xxiv. 26 "these are they" for "these are they" (1762); Ps. viii. 4 "What is man" for "What is man" of 1611—1762; xvii. 6 "hear my speech;" xlix. 7 "his brother" for "his brother" of 1611—1762; lxxv. 1 "is near" for "is near" of 1611—1762; ver. 5 "with a stiff neck;" Prov. ix. 8 "wise man" and Isai. xxix. 8 "thirsty man," against his own practice ,although 1638—1762 italicise "man;" Eccles. viii. 11 "sentence against," but "sentence against" 1611—1762; Isai. xxxvi. 3 "which was" for "which was" 1611—1762, as even 1769 in ver. 22; Jer. xxxiii. 12 "which is desolate" (after Camb. 1629), "which is desolate" 1611—1630, "which is desolate" 1638—1762; xxxvi. 19 "ye be" for "ye be" 1611—1762; Ezek. x. 1 "that was above" for "that was above" 1611—1762; Dan. viii. 3 (bis), 6, 20 "two horns," though the noun is dual; Hab. i. 10 "shall be a scorn" for "shall be a scorn" 1611—1762; Hagg. ii. 19 "Is the seed" for "Is the seed" 1611—1762; Judith xiii. 14 "(I say)" 1611—1762, which is the method in the Apocrypha of indicating what is omitted in the Greek, he regards as parenthetical, and accordingly the marks ( ) are removed in 1769; Matt. xxii. 10 "highways" for "*high*ways" (ὁδοὺς) of 1638—1762; Luke xiv. 4 "let him go" for "let him go" of 1638—1762; Rom. iii. 14 "is full" (γέμει); 1 Cor. iii. 23 "ye are Christ's" for "ye are Christ's" of 1638—1762; Gal. v. 10 "his judgment" for "his judgment" of 1611—1762.

Out of this whole list of blunders in regard to the italic type, some of them being very palpable, the American Bible of 1867 corrects those in Ps. xvii. 6; lxxv. 5, Professor Scholefield (whose care on this point will be noticed again, Sect. III. p. xl., note 1) the last two. Blayney is followed in the rest by the whole flock of moderns, without enquiry and without suspicion.

For many years which followed the publication of the edition of 1769, even after its glaring imperfections had become in some measure known, the King's Printer and the two English Universities continued to reproduce what was in substance Dr Blayney's work, when the public attention was claimed in 1831 by Mr Curtis of Islington, who complained that all modern reprints of Holy Scripture departed widely from the original edition of 1611, to the great deterioration of our Vernacular Translation[2]. It is needless to revive the controversy that ensued, in which the case of the privileged presses was successfully maintained by Dr Cardwell in behalf of Oxford, by Dr Turton for Cambridge, in the pamphlets which have been already cited in this Section. The consequent publication of the standard text in the Oxford reprint of 1833, which we have used so much, virtually settled the whole debate, by shewing to the general reader the obvious impossibility of returning to the Bible of 1611, with all the defects which those who superintended the press had been engaged, for more than two centuries, in reducing to a more consistent and presentable shape. One result of the communication at that time entered upon between the Delegates of the Oxford and the Syndics of the Cambridge Presses was a letter written from Dr Cardwell to Dr Turton in 1839 respecting a more exact accordance of the Authorized Version as published by the two Universities. These learned men were instructed to confer together on the subject, although it is not easy to point out any actual result of their consultation. The only papers at Cambridge at all bearing on the subject have been placed at the Editor's disposal, but they amount to very little, though it is to them he is indebted, when in the Appendices or elsewhere he speaks of an alteration as having been made by the direction of Bp. Turton[3].

[3] It would be ungrateful not to notice the minute and unpretending diligence of those who prepared Bagster's editions of the Holy Bible. We have consulted the miniature quarto of 1846, wherein we found anticipated many a small discovery we had supposed to be original. Appendix A, pp. lxix., &c.

The revision of the Canonical Scriptures projected (1847—1851) by the American Bible Society was a more ambitious enterprise, which until lately has hardly been heard of in England[1]. A Committee of seven, on which we recognize the honoured name of Edward Robinson, engaging as their collator James W. McLane, a Presbyterian minister in the State of New York, superintended his comparison of a standard American Bible with recent copies published in London, Oxford, Cambridge and Edinburgh, as also with the book of 1611. Where the four modern British volumes proved uniform, the new revision was conformed to them, or, in matters of punctuation, to any three united. Other rules drawn up for McLane's guidance shew laudable care on the part of the Committee, who felt and confessed that some restraint (even though a light one) was peculiarly needed by their citizens, since "the exposure to variations is naturally greater, wherever the printing of the Bible is at the option of every one who chooses to undertake it, without restriction and without supervision; as in this country since the Revolution" (Report, p. 8). To this task the good men devoted themselves for three years and a half, and finally presented their Report and revision to the Board of Managers which had appointed them. Ibi omnis effusus labor: adopted at first, the work was rejected the very next year (1852) by a majority of the same body, "on the ground of alleged want of constitutional authority, and popular dissatisfaction with a number of the changes made[2]." Some small fruits, however, of their faithful toil remain in the editions of the Bible published by the American Bible Society since 1860, to which reference is frequently made in the course of this Introduction and its Appendices[3]. It is not easy to persuade ourselves that very much has been lost by the failure of the praiseworthy effort just described. The plan of operation was not sufficiently thorough to produce any considerable results. Between the five recent Bibles that were collated the differences would be slight and superficial, but when the standard of 1611 came to be taken into account, it is very credible that the recorded variations, solely in the text and punctuation, amounted to 24,000 (Report, p. 31). No attempt seems to have been made to bridge over the wide gulph between the first issues of the Authorized Version and those of modern times by the use of such intermediate editions as have been examined in the present Section; nor does the general tone of their Report encourage the belief that the previous studies of the revisers had lain in that direction. Hence followed of necessity, or at any rate in practice, so complete a postponement of Bibles of the seventeenth century to those of the nineteenth, that wheresoever the latter agreed together, their very worst faults, whether relating to the text or to the italic type (and more especially to the italics), were almost sure to escape detection, and never did come to the knowledge of the Committee, save by some happy accident.

It remains to state that the model or standard copy by which the present work has been set up at the press is the Cambridge 8vo. edition, small pica (with marginal references) 1858. This Paragraph Bible, therefore, agrees with the Cambridge method of spelling certain words enumerated in Section v. (p. xlviii.), rather than with the London or Oxford fashion. Our standard may be pronounced to be accurately printed, inasmuch as close and repeated examination has enabled us to note only the following errata in the text or margin.

1 Chr. iv. 24 (margin of 1762) Zoar for Zohar; 2 Chr. i. 4 Kiriath; Ezra i. 7 his god (presumably by accident, yet it looks true: compare in Hebrew 2 Kin. xix. 37; Dan. i. 2); Esther i. 7 gave them; Job xv. 35 mischief; xxi. 26 worm; Ps. xxxi. 7 adversity; xlv. 11 thy lord; Hos. ii. 1 Ru-hamah; Jonah i. 4 was 'like (see Appendix C); Luke iv. 7 marg. fall down (so Camb. nonpareil, 1857).

Since this Bible of 1858 does not contain the Apocrypha, a Cambridge 4to. 1863 has been adopted for the model of that portion of our work. Besides correcting the mistakes of Blayney and his successors in the passages indicated in pp. xxi., will explain what we mean. The revision seems due in the main to Wm. Greenfield, F.A.S., of the British and Foreign Bible Society, although he died in 1831.

This book contains also the following errata:

1 Esdr. v. 72 and Judith iv. 7 "straight" for "strait;" 1 Esdr. vi. 22 "our Lord" for "our lord;" viii. 32 marg. "Shechanaiah" for "Shechaniah;" ix. 4 "bear" for "bare;" 26 *marg. The Epistle of "The Translators to the Reader," which follows the Dedication in all principal editions of the Authorized Version, has been illustrated in this volume by such notes as seemed necessary. The reputed author of this noble Preface (for, in spite of the quaintness of its style and the old fashion of its learning, it deserves no meaner epithet) is Dr Miles Smith of the first Oxford Company, who would naturally be one of the six final revisers (p. xiv.), and became Bishop of Gloucester in 1612. The Calendar and Tables of Lessons usually annexed to this Preface are no more a part of the Version than the Book of Common Prayer and the metrical Psalms which are sometimes placed at the beginning and end of the Bible. The Genealogical charts, accompanied with a Map of Canaan and its Index, the work of John Speed, were printed separately in various sizes, that they might be bound up with the Bibles, without any option of the purchaser. Mr Fry prints (A Description, &c. p. 40) a Patent granting to him this privilege dated in the eighth year of James I., to hold good "only during the term of ten years next ensuing," at an additional charge of not more than two shillings for the large folio size.

SECTION II.

On the marginal notes and the original texts of the Authorized Version of the English Bible.

Besides those references to parallel texts of Scripture which will be spoken of elsewhere (Section VI), the margin of most of our English Bibles, including the Authorized Version, contains certain brief annotations, the extent and character of which will now be described. The practice was begun by Tyndale, in whose earliest New Testament of 1525, the slight fragments of whose single known copy enrich the Grenville Library in the British Museum, notes rather expository than relating to interpretation are extant in the margin. In some places, and yet more in his version of the Pentateuch (1530 and subsequent years), these notes become strongly polemical, and breathe a spirit which the warmest admirers of that truly great man find it easier to excuse than to commend. In Coverdale's Bible (1535), which was issued in hot haste to seize a fleeting opportunity, only five out of the eighteen notes found in the New Testament are explanatory, the rest having reference to the proper rendering: in the earlier pages of his Bible they occur much more frequently. Annotations of this kind are quite a distinctive feature as well of the Geneva New Testament of 1557, as of the Geneva Bible of 1560; and, mingled with others which are purely interpretative, are strewn somewhat unequally over the pages of the Bishops' Bible (1568, 1572). One of the most judicious of the Instructions to the Translators laid down for their guidance by King James I., and acted upon by them with strict fidelity, prescribed that "No marginal notes at all be affixed, but only for the explanation of the Hebrew or Greek words, which cannot, without some circumlocution, so briefly and fitly be expressed in the text." It had by that time grown intolerable, that on the self-same page with the text of Holy Scripture, should stand some bitter pithy comment, conceived in a temper the very reverse of that which befits men who profess to love God in Christ.

In the Old Testament the marginal notes in our standard Bibles of 1611 amount to 6637, whereof 4111 express the more literal meaning of the original Hebrew or Chaldee (there are 77 referring to the latter language): 2156 give alternative renderings (indicated by the word "Or" prefixed to them) which in the opinion of the Translators are not very less probable than those in the text: in 63 the meaning of Proper names is stated for the benefit of the unlearned (e.g. Gen. xi. 9; xvi. 11): in 240 (whereof 108 occur in the first book of Chronicles) necessary information is given by way of harmonizing the text with other passages of Scripture, especially in regard to the orthography of Hebrew names (e.g. Gen. xi. 16, 20, 24): while the remaining 67 refer to various readings of the original text, in 31 of which the marginal variation (technically called Keri) of the Masoretic revisers of the Hebrew is set in competition with the reading in the text (Chetiv). Of this last kind of marginal notes a list is subjoined, as many of them are not readily distinguishable from the alternative renderings, being mostly, like them, preceded by "Or". They are

Ezek. vii. 11; xxiii. 42 (Keri in marg.); xxv. 7 (Keri in text); xxx. 18 (שׁ֫ text, שׁ֫ marg.); xxxvi. 14 (כּוֹשֵׁל Chetiv in marg., שׁכל in text, but Keri is quite different, viz. יִשְׁלַךְ); ver. 23 (marg. with the Masora, Septuagint, and some Hebrew manuscripts, against the commonly printed text); xl. 40; xlii. 9 (Keri in marg. "he that brought"). Dan. ix. 24 (Keri in text, "to make an end"). Amos iii. 12 (Hebrew manuscripts varying between דַּמֶּשֶׂק of the printed text, which is represented by marg., and the name of the city דַּמֶּשֶׂק). Zech. xi. 2 (Keri in text). Mal. ii. 15 (marg. שְׁאֵת "excellency," being the rendering of Coverdale, "an excellent spirit").

Where the variation in the reading was brought prominently into view by the Masoretic notes, it was only natural that the Translators should refer to it in their margin. Respecting the Hebrew text which they followed, it would be hard to identify any particular edition, inasmuch as the differences between early printed Bibles are but few. The Complutensian Polyglott, however, which afforded them such important help in the Apocrypha, was of course at hand, and we seem to trace its influence in some places, e.g. in 2 Chr. i. 5 שָׁם "there," of the Complutensian text, the Septuagint and Vulgate, being accorded a place in the margin; as also in Job xxii. 6 אָחִיךָ "thy brother," where later editors give the plural, as do the Targum, Syriac, Septuagint, and Vulgate. Yet the Complutensian throws no light on the reading in many other passages, where some other text must have been before them: e.g. 1 Chr. vi. 57 ("of Judah" added); Ps. lxiv. 6, where the marginal rendering ought to be taken in preference.

It has been sometimes alleged that the alternative renderings (introduced by "Or") which are set in the margin of the Authorized English Version, are superior, on the whole, to those in the text[2]. It would be indeed a conspicuous instance of bad judgment on the part of the Translators, if it could be justly maintained that where two or more senses of a passage were brought fairly before them, they mostly, or even frequently, put the worst into the body of their work. But no competent scholar who has carefully examined the matter will think that they have gone so far wrong. On the other hand, he will perhaps feel disposed to complain that so many of these marginal notes assign a sense to the sacred record which cannot possibly be accepted as true. Some of these, no doubt, are taken either from the text or margin of the Bishops' Bible, which had been read in Churches for about forty years when the Authorized Version was made, and which King James had expressly directed "to be followed, and as little altered as the truth of the original will permit." But far the greater part must be traced to another source, to which adequate attention has not yet been directed. Of the several Latin translations of the Old Testament which were executed in the sixteenth century, that which was the joint work of Immanuel Tremellius [1510—80], a converted Jew (the proselyte first of Cardinal Pole, then of Peter Martyr), who became Professor of Divinity at Heidelberg, and of his son-in-law Francis Junius [1545—1602], was at once the latest and the most excellent. Originally published in 1575—9, and revised in 1590 after the death of Tremellius by Junius, who added a version of the Apocrypha of which he was the sole author, a large edition printed in London in 1593 soon caused it to become very highly esteemed in this country for its perspicuity and general faithfulness. One great fault it has, a marked tendency, in passages either obscure in themselves, or suggesting some degree of difficulty, to wander into new paths of interpretation, wherein it ought to have found few to follow or commend it. This version must have lain open before the Translators throughout the whole course of their labours: it has led them into some of the most conspicuous errors that occur in their text (2 Chr. xx. 1; Job xxxiv. 33), while as regards the margin, whensoever a rendering is met with violently harsh, inverted, or otherwise unlikely, its origin may be sought, almost with a moral certainty of finding it, in the pages of Tremellius and Junius. These statements are made with reference to every part of the Old Testament (e.g. Gen. xl. 13, 16, 19, 20. Ex. xvii. 16; xxix. 43. Judg. ix. 31. 2 Sam. i. 9; xxi. 8), but, for the sake of brevity, the proof of them shall be drawn from one distinct portion, the books of the Minor Prophets. To these authorities solely, so far as the writer has observed, are due the supplying of "for nought" in Mal. i. 10, and the textual rendering of Mal. ii. 16: as are also the following marginal notes, scattered among others of a widely different type: Hos. i. 6; 10 ("instead of that"); vi. 4 ("kindness"); x. 10; xii. 8 ("all my labours," &c.); xiv. 2. Joel iii. 21. Amos iv. 3; v. 22; vii. 2. Obad. 7 ("of it"). Mic. vii. 13. Nah. i. 12; iii. 19. Hab. i. 7; ii. 11 (second). Zeph. iii. 1. Zech. v. 3; ix. 15 (twice); 17 ("speak"); x. 2; xi. 16 (second); xii. 5; xiv. 5; 14 (first). Mal. i. 13; ii. 9 (but ἐδυσωπεῖσθε πρόσωπα Sym.), 11.

[1] Strangely enough, this is the earliest marginal note relating to various readings, noticed by Bp. Turton in his Text of the English Bible Considered. He gives Ezra x. 40. Ps. cii. 3. Cant. v. 4 for the Old Testament, and eight references to the New, adding, "I will not positively affirm that no other Various Readings than the following are to be found in the Margin, but the impression of my mind is that no others do exist there" (p. 128, second edition). But, in truth, his whole treatise is a notable example of what wary tact and dialectic skill may accomplish, when wielded by one who does not know too much about the matter at issue, and is fortunate enough to encounter opponents who know considerably less.

Hitherto no marginal notes have been taken into consideration except those given in the primary issues of 1611; but 368 others have been subsequently inserted by various hands, which are distinguished from those of earlier date in the present volume by being printed within brackets. Of these the Cambridge folio of 1629 contributes that on Jer. iii. 19; the folio of 1638 that on Ezek. xlviii. 1: thirty-one others were inserted in the course of the century that followed, viz. 1 Kin. xxii. 41, 51. 2 Kin. i. 17; viii. 16; ix. 29; xiii. 9, 10; xiv. 23, 29; xv. 1, 8, 10; 30 (bis), 37; xvii. 1; xxiii. 23. 2 Chr. xx. 36; xxi. 1, 3, 5, 12, 18. Job i. 1. Ps. xi. 6. Dan. i. 21; xi. 7, 10, 25. Hos. vii. 7; xiii. 16: as many as 269 are due to Dr Paris (1762), and 66 to Dr Blayney (1769), who is usually credited with them all. Many of them are not destitute of a certain value (especially such explanations relating to Proper names as we see in Gen. ii. 23)[1], although a persistent resolution to set right the regnal years of the Jewish kings, commenced in 1701, and fully carried out in 1762, leads on their authors to expedients which are at times rather daring than satisfactory: e.g. 2 Kin. xv. 1; 30. The American revisers of 1851 (see p. xxiii.) not unreasonably condemned notes like these, and those on Judg. iii. 31; xi. 29; xii. 8, 11, 13; xiii. 1; xv. 20 (all from the Bible of 1762), as "containing merely conjectural and unwarranted commentary," and expunged them accordingly from the margin of their book; but they all came back again with the other restorations which public opinion forced upon the New York Bible Society. In one instance (Dan. ix. 27) Dr Paris has ventured to substitute a marginal rendering of his own in the place of that of 1611 ("Or, with the abominable armies"), and has been followed by all modern

[1] The first of these later marginal notes that occurs (Gen. i. 20, †Heb. let fowl fly) is taken from the Geneva Bible (1560), and seems as good as most of its date—1762.

Bibles. In the present edition the two stand side by side.

The marginal notes appended to the Apocrypha, which have next to be examined, differ not inconsiderably in tone and character from those annexed to the text of the Canonical Scriptures. They are much more concerned with various readings, as was indeed inevitable by reason of the corrupt state of the Greek text of these books, which still await and sadly need a thorough critical revision, by the aid of materials that have recently come to light. Authorities also are sometimes cited by name in the margin, a practice not adopted in the Old Testament[1]. Such are Athanasius, 1 Esdr. iv. 36: Herodotus, Judith ii. 7: Pliny's History, Benedicite or the Song, ver. 23: Josephus, 1 Esdr. iv. 29. Esther xiii. 1; xvi. 1. 1 Macc. v. 54; vi. 49; vii. 1; ix. 4, 35, 49, 50; x. 1, 81; xi. 34; xii. 7, 8, 19, 28, 31. 2 Macc. vi. 2: in the Maccabees after the example of Coverdale. Even Junius, the Latin translator, is appealed to eight times by name: 2 Esdr. xiii. 2, 13. Tobit vii. 8; ix. 6; xi. 18; xiv. 10. Judith iii. 9; vii. 3.

The texts from which the Apocryphal books were translated can be determined with more precision than in the case of the Old Testament, and were not the same for them all. The second book of Esdras, though the style is redolent of a Hebrew or Aramaic origin, exists only in the common Latin version and Junius' paraphrase, which is cited for the reading in ch. xiii. 2, 13. In this book some excellent Latin manuscripts to which they had access (ch. iv. 51 marg.), as also the Bishops' Bible, must have had great weight with its revisers. The Prayer of Manasses had to be drawn from the same source, for the Greek was first published in Walton's Polyglott (1657), as it appears in the Codex Alexandrinus, the earliest that contains it, which did not reach England before 1628. The first book of Esdras (Ὁ ἱερεὺς as the Greeks call it) is not in the Complutensian Polyglott (1517), so that Aldus's Greek Bible (1518) was primarily resorted to, as is evident from the margin of ch. ii. 12, the typographical error there described being that of Aldus (παρεδόθησαν ἀβασσάοω for παρεδόθη Σαναβασσάρῳ), which had misled the Bishops' Bible. Besides this edition, our Translators had before them the Roman Septuagint of 1586[2], to which they refer, without yet naming it, in ch. v. 25; viii. 2. For the remainder of the Apocrypha they had access also to the Complutensian, which in the books of Tobit, Judith, Wisdom and Ecclesiasticus seems a close copy of Cod. Vatican. 346 (Cod. 248 of Parsons)[3], to the Aldine, and Roman editions[4]; the latter "copy" they cite by name Tobit xiv. 5, 10; 1 Macc. ix. 9; xii. 37, as they also do "the Latin interpreters" in 2 Macc. vi. 1. By means of these Greek authorities they were enabled to clear the text of Tobit of the accretions brought into the Old Latin version, which had been over-hastily revised by Jerome. As a small instalment of what remains to be done for the criticism of that noble work, two passages in Ecclesiasticus (i. 7; xvii. 5) are inclosed within brackets in the books of 1611. The former is found in no Greek Text our Translators knew of, but only in the Latin and Bishops' Bible: the latter occurs complete only in some late manuscripts, though the Complutensian and Cod.

[1] The apparent exceptions of Josephus, quoted Gen. xxii. 1; 2 Kin. xiv. 8, are respectively due to the editors of 1701 and 1762: that in Esther xi. 1 and the notes set within brackets before Esther xi. 2—xvi. 1 belong to the present edition. The reference to Usher in 2 Kin. xv. 30 forms part of a note added in 1701.

[2] An excellent account of this edition is contained in the Prolegomena to Tischendorf's Septuagint, pp. xix.—xxviii. (1869). Although the work itself is not quite what it professes to be, "exemplar ipsum" (the great Codex Vaticanus) "de verbo ad verbum representatum;" yet both the Epistle of Cardinal Carafa, who superintended it, and the Preface of his assistant, Peter Morinus, display an insight into the true principles of textual criticism, quite beyond their age.

[3] This manuscript contained also 1 Esdras, if it be the same as that for which Cardinal Ximenes gave a bond in 1513 to the Librarian of the Vatican (Vercellone, Pref. to Mai's Cod. Vat. Vol. I.). So that he must have designedly kept back a book which the Council of Trent afterwards refused to declare Canonical.

[4] Our Translation often adopts the Aldine text in preference to those of the Complutensian and Roman editions jointly: e.g. Judith iii. 9; viii. 1. Eccles. xvii. 31; xxxi. 2; xxxvi. 15; xxxix. 17; xlii. 13; xliii. 26; xlvii. 1. Bel and Dragon, ver. 38. 2 Macc. i. 31; viii. 23; xii. 36; xiv. 36. On the other hand the Roman is followed rather than the Complutensian and Aldine text united in 1 Macc. iii. 14, 15, 18, 28; iv. 24; v. 23, 48; vi. 24, 43, 57; vii. 31, 37, 41 (bis), 45; viii. 10; ix. 9 (avowedly); x. 41, 42, 78; xi. 3, 15, 22, 34, 35, &c.; xii. 43; xiii. 22, 25; xiv. 4, 16, 23, 46; xv. 30; xvi. 8. 2 Macc. viii. 30; xv. 22. Aldus is followed in preference to the Bishops' Bible in 1 Esdr. v. 14: cf. 1 Esdr. viii. 39.

248 have the last two lines of the triplet[1]. These preliminary statements will enable the reader to understand the marginal notes in the Apocrypha which treat of various readings. They are no less than 154 in number, besides 13 of later date.

1 ESDRAS i. 11 (τὸ πρωϊνόν Greek, בֹּקֶר for בָּקָר); 12 (cum benevolentiâ Vulg., i.e. μετ' εὐνοίας); 24 (ἐν αἰσθήσει: om. Junius, Coverdale, Bishops': but quis erit Fritzsche's STD, so that our Translators might well appeal to a "Manuscript" here); vi. 49 (Enoch Vulg. Junius, Bishops'; be in carefulness Coverdale: mirabuntur Fritzsche's STD); 17—19 (quoniam tempus erat...mores eorum. The whole passage is hopelessly corrupt, and no English version affords even a tolerable sense. In ver. 19 Coverdale reads creator with Vulg., mense with Fritzsche's TD: creatorum (κτισθέντων) seems a conjecture, adopted by the Bishops' version and our own: our margin reads messe, and so probably the text and Bishops' seed: the Syriac must have read mensâ); xii. 42 (populis Vulg. Junius, Coverdale, Bishops': prophetis Fritzsche's SD); xiii. 2, 13 (Junius stands alone: above, p. xxvii.); 3 (millibus Vulg. Junius, Bishops': nubibus Fritzsche's SD, Coverdale); 20 (in hunc Vulg., in hunc diem Junius: but in hæc Fritzsche's D, Syriac and Æthiopic, in hac ST, in these Coverdale, into these Bishops', in their substitute for italic type); 45 (the margin is only a bold guess of Junius[3]); xiv. 44 (904 Fritzsche's STD: he himself reads 94 from the versions); 47 (flumen all authorities. Perhaps lumen is conjectural); xv. 36 (text as suffraginem S, suffragmen D, fragmen T: avertam Junius: but substramen Vulg., litter Coverdale, Bishops'); 43 (text exterrent Coverdale, Bishops': but margin exterent Vulg. Junius); 46 (concors in spem Vulg. Junius [Coverdale, Bishops']: consors specie or in specie Fritzsche's SD); xvi. 68 (very perplexing: fede the ydle with Idols Coverdale: cibabunt idolis occisos Vulg., shall slay you for meat to the idols Bishops'. Fritzsche notes no variation of his manuscripts). Three like marginal notes (the first two of importance), due to the Bible of 1762, may be conveniently added in this place. 2 Esdr. xii. 32 (ventus Vulg. Coverdale, Bishops'; Spiritus Junius: Unctus Fritzsche's STD); xiv. 9 (consilio Vulg. Junius, Coverdale, Bishops': filio Fritzsche's STD); xvi. 46 (in captivitatem Junius, but the margin hardly rests on his sole authority).

The book of 1762 adds, ch. i. 2, Shalmaneser, from the Old Latin, Vulg. Syriac.

Syriac); 34 (ἀνθύπατοι, if that word be meant in the margin, has no authority: these men were not consuls at all, but legati to overlook affairs in Syria); xii. 12 (if the margin represents a various reading, no trace of it remains); 39 (τρόπον [Ald.] Rom.: χρόνον Cod. Alexandrinus, Compl. Junius: but Vulg. Coverdale, Bishops' omit both words); xiii. 14 (Κτίστῃ Compl. Rom. Vulg.: Κυρίῳ Ald. with three manuscripts only).

The Bible of 1762 notes one various reading: ch. xii. 36 (Γοργίαν Ald., five manuscripts, Coverdale, Bishops' text: Ἔσδριν all other Greek, Vulg. Syriac, Junius, Bishops' margin).

To these 154 various readings indicated by the Translators of 1611 in the Apocrypha we must add 138 marginal notes, which express the exact meaning of the Greek, and three of the Latin of 2 Esdras. In 505 places varied renderings are alleged (the word "‖Or" being prefixed to them), many taken from Junius (besides those where he is expressly named, p. xxvii.), from the Bishops' Bible, and other Old English versions. In 174 places (167 of them in 1 Esdras) alternative forms of Proper names are given for the reader's guidance, to which must be added 42 notes containing useful information. Hence the sum total of the notes due to the original Translators in the Apocrypha appears to be 1016. Besides these two were annexed in the Cambridge Bible of 1638 (see above, last column), 18 in that of 1762, one (Tobit iv. 20) in 1769, in all 21. In the present edition are added, set within brackets, one marginal direction note at Esther xv. 1, and at Ecclus. xviii. 30; xx. 27; xxiii. 7, summaries of contents, extracted from the best Manuscripts, resting on authority quite as good as and nearly identical with any in favour of those inserted by the Authorized Version in Ecclus. xxiv. 1; xxx. 1, 14; xxxiii. 24; xxxiv. 1; xliv. 1; li. 1.

We come at length to the New Testament, the marginal annotations in which in the first edition amount to 765, so that together with the 6637 in the Old Testament, and the 1016 in the Apocrypha, the number in the whole Bible is no less than 8418[1]. Of the 765 in the New Testament 35 relate to various readings, and will be detailed presently (p. xxxi.); 112 present us with a more literal rendering of the Greek than was judged suitable for the text; no less than 582 are alternative translations, 35 are explanatory notes or brief expositions. Of later notes, the Bible of 1762 added 96, that of 1769 no more than nine. Taking in therefore the 368 noted in the Old Testament (p. xxvi.), and the 21 in the Apocrypha, these additional marginal annotations amount in all to 494, few of them of any great value, some even marvellously trifling, but all of them in the present volume readily distinguished from the work of the original Translators by being placed within brackets. Those who shall look almost at random into the multitude of Bibles published between 1638 and 1762 (a branch of enquiry which the plan of our edition did not lead to the necessity of examining very minutely), will probably find the germ of some of these later notes in Bibles of that period, put forth as it were tentatively, and withdrawn in later copies. Thus the later margins of Matt. xxviii. 19 (slightly altered in 1683, 1701) and of Acts xiv. 21 first appeared in Field's Bible of 1660, then in the Cambridge edition of 1683. To the same Bibles may be traced the notes on Matt. x. 25; xiv. 6; xxi. 19; xxii. 26. Mark xi. 17. Luke xxii. 42. Acts vii. 44; viii. 13. 1 Cor. vii. 32. 2 Cor. viii. 2; x. 10. James iii. 6. 2 John 3. The Cambridge Bible of 1683 first gave those on Matt. i. 20. Mark iii. 3; vii. 22. Luke vii. 8; xi. 36; xviii. 2; xxi. 8. Acts ix. 2; xv. 5; xvii. 3; xviii. 5. 1 Cor. vii. 16. Eph. ii. 5; vi. 12. 1 Tim. iii. 16. 2 Tim. postscript. Heb. x. 34; xii. 10. James iv. 2. 2 Peter i. 1, 8: many of which were obviously the work of the same mind. Two more appear in Lloyd's Bible of 1701, 1 Cor. xii. 5. Heb. i. 6[1]. These 38 notes at least must accordingly be deducted from the 96 imputed to Dr Paris, and they are among the best of this class. After having been swept away from the ordinary Bibles whereof ours of 1743—4 is a type, he brought them back again into their former places.

As Tremellius had special influence with the revisers of the Old Testament, and Junius with those of the Apocrypha, so Beza had considerable weight with the Translators of the New Testament. Some of their worst marginal renderings come from his Latin version, such as Mark i. 34. Luke iv. 41. Acts i. 8. Rom. xi. 17. 1 Cor. iv. 9, though this last belongs to 1762. The earlier versions also often gave rise to the margin. Thus 2 Cor. v. 17 is alleged to this effect by Bp. Turton[2], where the Genevan Bible of 1560 led our Translators to insert a note in opposition to their own judgment, fortified as it was by Beza, and all the English versions save that one. Particular attention was naturally paid to the Bishops' Bible, which was the basis of the Authorized. Sometimes its renderings both in text and margin are retained unchanged: e.g. 2 Cor. viii. 22: or the margin alone is kept, after the text is changed, e.g. Heb. xii. 2: or the Bishops' rendering, although removed from the text where it once stood, is used for a margin, e.g. Gal. iii. 4. Eph. iv. 1. 2 Thess. iii. 14. 2 Tim. iv. 5, 15. In that primary passage Heb. ii. 16 the text and margin are both virtually the Bishops', with their places reversed. It is needless to pursue this subject further, however curious the questions it suggests, since after all, every rendering must be judged upon its own merits, independently of the source from which it was drawn.

The following marginal notes relating to various readings occur in the New Testament in the two issues of 1611. They are nearly all derived from Beza's text or notes.

S. MATT. i. 11; vii. 14; ix. 26 (perhaps αὐτοῦ of Codex Bezæ [D] is represented in the text: "the fame of this" Bishops'[3]; xxiv. 31; xxvi. 26. S. MARK ix. 16 (αὐτοὺς Beza 1565, afterwards changed by him to αὐτούς). S. LUKE ii. 38; x. 22 (the words in the margin are from the Complutensian edition and Stephens 1550); xvii. 36. S. JOHN xviii. 13 (the words of this margin, except the reference to ver. 24, are copied from the text of the Bishops' Bible, where they are printed in the old substitute for italic type[3]). ACTS xiii. 18; xxv. 6. ROM. v. 17; vii. 6; viii. 11. 1 COR. xv. 31[4]. 2 COR. xiii. 4[5]. GAL. iv. 17 (ὑμᾶς Compl. Erasm. Steph. Beza 1565, ἡμᾶς Beza 1589, 1598). EPH. vi. 9 (ὑμῶν καὶ αὐτῶν Compl.). HEB. iv. 2 (συγκεκραμένους margin, with Compl. Vulg.); ix. 2 (ἅγια text, with Compl. Erasm. Beza: ἁγία marg. with Steph.); xi. 4 (λαλεῖ text, with Erasm. Aldus, Vulg. English versions: λαλεῖται margin, Compl. Stephens, Beza[6]). JAMES ii. 18 (χωρὶς text, Colinæus 1534, Beza's last three editions, Vulg.: ἐκ margin, Compl. Erasm. Stephens, Beza 1565, all previous English versions). 1 PET. i. 4 (ἡμᾶς Steph.); ii. 21 (ὑμῶν Beza 1565, not in his later editions: this marginal note is also in the Bishops' Bible). 2 PET. ii. 2 (ἀσελγείαις marg. Compl.); 11 (marg. as Vulg. Great Bible); 18 (ὀλίγον Compl. Vulg.). 2 JOHN 8 (εἰργάσασθε...ἀπολάβητε marg. Vulg.). REV. iii. 14 (margin as Compl., all previous English versions); vi. 8 (αὐτῷ margin, with Compl. Vulg. Bishops' Bible); xiii. 1 (ὀνόματα margin, with Compl. Vulg. Coverdale); 5 (margin adds or prefixes πόλεμον to ποιῆσαι of the text, with Compl. Colinæus 1534, but not Erasm., Beza, Vulg. or English versions); xiv. 13 (marg. ἀπάρτι λέγει ναὶ

[1] All these particulars (a little revised) are derived from p. 10 of Professor Grote's Manuscript, for which see above, p. xviii., note 1. He includes in his list Acts xvii. 19, but this is as old as 1611. The note on Eph. ii. 5 "of whose grace," taken from a various reading of the Clementine Vulgate "cujus gratiâ," seems due to Scattergood (see p. xix.), and is suggested in that portion of Poli Synopsis of which he is the reputed author (Grote MS. p. 41).

[3] It is doubtful whether even in the Bishops' Bible the words are designed to indicate a various reading, or are a simple comment on the passage, compared with ver. 24. There is Syriac and some other very slender authority for inserting them, but that of Cyril alone would be known to our Translators, who doubtless took them from Beza's Latin version (1556).

[5] But as no early edition reads σὺν, the margin may only suggest a different rendering for ἐν.

τὸ Πνεῦμα with Compl. Col.); xvii. 5 (marg. is from Vulg. and all previous English versions).

To these 35 textual notes of 1611, the edition of 1762 added fourteen, that of 1769 one.

1762. S. MATT. vi. 1; x. 10; 25; xii. 27 ("†Gr. Beelzebul: and so ver. 24") now dropped. S. LUKE xxii. 42 (incidentally excluding παρένεγκε). ACTS viii. 13. HEB. x. 2 (see Appendix E, p. ciii.); 17 (probably from the Philoxenian Syriac version, then just becoming known). JAMES iv. 2, revived from the Bible of 1683 (φθονεῖτε Erasm. 1519, Luther, Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible, Geneva 1557, Bishops', but perhaps no manuscript). 2 PET. i. 1 (see Appendix E, p. c.). 2 JOHN 12 (ὑμῶν Vulg.). REV. xv. 3 (ἁγίων text, after Erasm., English versions: the alternative readings in the margin being ἐθνῶν of Compl., which is much the best supported, and ἁγίων of the Clementine Vulgate, of some of its manuscripts, and the later Syriac); xxi. 7 (margin ταῦτα Compl. Vulg. rightly); xxii. 19 (marg. ξύλου for second βιβλίου Compl. Vulg. rightly).

1769. S. MATT. xii. 24 taken mutatis mutandis from the marginal note of 1762 on ver. 27.

In Appendix E pp. c.—civ. has been brought together all that can throw light on the critical resources at the command of our Translators in the prosecution of their version of the New Testament. That these were very scanty is sufficiently well known, and, if for this cause only, a formal revision of their work has now become a matter of necessity, after the lapse of so long a period. None of the most ancient Greek manuscripts had then been collated, and though Codex Bezæ (D) had been for many years deposited in England, little use had been made of it, and that single document, from its very peculiar character, would have been more likely to mislead than to instruct in inexperienced hands. It would be unjust to assert that the Translators failed to take advantage of the materials which were readily accessible, nor did they lack care or discernment in the application of them. Doubtless they rested mainly on the later editions of Beza's Greek Testament, whereof his fourth (1589) was more highly esteemed than his fifth (1598), the production of his extreme old age. But besides these, the Complutensian Polyglott, together with the several editions of Erasmus and Stephens's of 1550, were constantly resorted to. Out of the 131 passages examined in Appendix E, wherein the differences between the texts of these books are sufficient to affect, however slightly, the language of the version, our Translators abide with Beza against Stephens in 81 places, with Stephens against Beza in 21, with the Complutensian, Erasmus, or the Vulgate against both Stephens and Beza in 29. The influence of Beza is just as perceptible in the cases of their choice between the various readings which have been collected above (p. xxxi.): the variation approved by him is set in the text, that of the other is mostly banished to the margin. On certain occasions, it may be, the Translators yielded too much to Beza's somewhat arbitrary decisions; but they lived at a time when his name was the very highest among Reformed theologians, when means for arriving at an independent judgment were few and scattered, and when the first principles of textual criticism had yet to be gathered from a long process of painful induction. His most obvious and glaring errors their good sense easily enabled them to avoid (cf. Matt. i. 23; John xviii. 20).

SECTION III.

On the use of the Italic type by the Translators, and on the extension of their principles by subsequent editors.

The practice of indicating by a variation of type such words in a translation of the Bible as have no exact representatives in the original is believed to have been first employed by Sebastian Munster in his Latin version of the Old Testament published in 1534[1]. Five years later this diversity of character ("a small letter in the text" as the editors describe it) was resorted to in Cranmer's Bible, in order to direct attention to clauses rendered from the Latin Vulgate which are not extant in the Hebrew or Greek originals. A good example of its use occurs in Matt. xxv. 1 where "(and the bride)" is added to the end of the verse from the Old Latin, not from any Greek copy known in that age. As the readings of the Vulgate came to be less regarded or less familiar in England, subsequent translators applied the smaller type to the purpose for which Munster had first designed it, the rather as Theodore Beza had so used it in his Latin New Testament of 1556. Thus the English New Testament published at Geneva in 1557, and the Geneva Bible of 1560, "put to that word, which lacking made the sentence obscure, but set it in such letters, as may easily be discerned from the common text[1]." The same expedient was adopted by the translators of the Bishops' Bible (1568, 1572), somewhat too freely indeed in parts. It is one of the most considerable faults of this not very successful version, that its authors assumed a liberty of running into paraphrase, the ill effects of which this very difference in the type tended to conceal from themselves. From these two preceding versions, then held in the best repute, the Geneva and the Bishops' Bibles, the small Roman as distinguished from the black letter (now respectively represented by the Italic and Roman type) was brought naturally enough into the Bible of 1611, and forms a prominent feature of it, whether for good or ill.

On this last point, namely, the wisdom or convenience of printing different words in the same verse or line in different kinds of type, with a view to the purpose explained above, it is not necessary for an editor of the Authorized Bible to express, or even to hold, an opinion. Italics, or whatever corresponds with them, may possibly be dispensed with altogether (though in practice this abstinence will be found hard to maintain); or they may be reserved for certain extreme cases, where marked difference in idiom between the two languages, or else some obscurity or corruption of the original text, seems to forbid a strict and literal translation. It is enough for the present purpose to say that our existing version was plainly constructed on another principle: those who made it saw no objection to the free use of a typographical device which custom had sanctioned, and would have doubtless given a different turn to many a sentence had they been debarred from indicating to the unlearned what they had felt obliged to add of their own to the actual words of the original; the addition being always either involved and implied in the Hebrew or Greek, or at any rate so necessary to the sense that the English reader would be perplexed or go wrong without it. Taking for granted, therefore, the right of the Translators thus to resort to the italic type, and the general propriety of the mode of their exercising it, the only inquiry now open to us is whether they were uniform, or reasonably consistent, in their use of it.

And in the face of patent and well-ascertained facts it is impossible to answer such a question in the affirmative. That undue haste and scarcely venial carelessness on the part of the persons engaged in carrying through the press the issues of 1611, which are only too visible in other matters (above, p. xii.), are nowhere more conspicuous than with regard to this difference in the type. If it be once conceded that the Translators must have intended to use or refrain from using italics in the selfsame manner in all cases that are absolutely identical (and the contrary supposition would be strange and unreasonable indeed), their whole case in this matter must be given up as indefensible. There is really no serious attempt to avoid palpable inconsistencies on the same page, in the same verse: and those who have gone over this branch of their work will be aware that even comparative uniformity can be secured only in one way, by the repeated comparison of the version with the sacred originals, by unflagging attention so that nothing however minute may pass unexamined. This close and critical examination was evidently entered upon, with more or less good results, by those who prepared the Cambridge Bibles of 1629 and more especially of 1638 (for before these appeared the italics of 1611, with all their glaring faults, were reprinted without change[2]), and in the next century by Dr Paris in 1762, by Dr Blayney and his friends in 1769[3]. The rules to be observed in such researches, and the principles on which they are grounded, must be gathered from the study of the standard of 1611, exclusively of subsequent changes, regard being paid to what its authors intended, rather than to their actual practice.

The cases in which the italic character has been employed by the Translators of our Authorized Bible may probably be brought under the following heads:—

(1) When words quite or nearly necessary to complete the sense of the sacred writers have been introduced into the text from parallel places of Scripture. Six such instances occur in the second book of Samuel:

[2] There may be more alterations, but we can name only Gal. i. 3, "be" italicised in 1613, but not in later Bibles before 1629 (Cambridge).

[3] Appendix D, p. xcviii.

ch. v. 8. "And David said on that day, Whosoever getteth up to the gutter, and smiteth the Jebusites, and the lame and the blind, that are hated of David's soul, he shall be chief and captain." The last clause is supplied from 1 Chr. xi. 6.

ch. vi. 6. "And when they came to Nachon's threshing-floor, Uzzah put forth his hand to the ark of God." Rather "his hand" (as in 1638) from 1 Chr. xiii. 9.

ch. viii. 4. "And David took from him a thousand chariots, and seven hundred horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen." We derive "chariots" from 1 Chr. xviii. 4.

ver. 18. "And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada was over both the Cherethites and the Pelethites" (was over 1629). In 1 Chr. xviii. 17 "was over" (1611).

ch. xxi. 19. "...slew the brother of Goliath the Gittite." In 1 Chr. xx. 5 we read "slew Lahmi the brother of Goliath the Gittite."

ch. xxiii. 8. "the same was Adino the Eznite: he lift up his spear against eight hundred, whom he slew at one time." 1 Chr. xi. 11 supplies "he lift up, &c."

Thus Num. xx. 26 is filled up from ver. 24; Judg. ii. 3 from Num. xxxiii. 55 or Josh. xxiii. 13; 1 Kin. ix. 8 from 2 Chr. vii. 21; 2 Kin. xxv. 3 from Jer. xxxix. 2 and lii. 6; 1 Chr. ix. 41 from ch. viii. 35; 1 Chr. xvii. 25 from 2 Sam. vii. 27; 1 Chr. xviii. 6 from 2 Sam. viii. 6; 2 Chr. xxv. 24 from 2 Kin. xiv. 14; Ezra ii. 6, 59 from Neh. vii. 11, 61. In the Bible of 1638 Jer. vi. 14 of the daughter is italicised as taken into the text from ch. viii. 11. This is the simplest case, for the words supplied in italics are doubtless lost in the one ancient text, preserved in the other.

(2) When the extreme conciseness of the Hebrew language produces a form of expression intelligible enough to those who are well versed in it, yet hardly capable of being transformed into a modern tongue. One or two of Bp. Turton's (Text, &c. pp. 50, 51) examples will illustrate our meaning:

Gen. xiii. 9. "Separate thyself, I pray thee, from me: if the left hand, then I will go to the right; or if the right hand, then I will go to the left."

Ex. xiv. 20. "And it was a cloud and darkness, but it gave light by night."

Every one must feel that something is wanting to render these verses perspicuous; the latter indeed we should hardly understand, without looking closely to the context. It seems quite right, therefore, that supplementary words should be inserted in such places, and equally fit that they should be indicated by some contrivance that may shew that they form no part of the Hebrew original. In our version accordingly the verses stand as follows, except that in the former "thou" (twice over) was not in italics before 1629; italicise also the second "to":

"If thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right; or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left."

"It was a cloud and darkness to them, but it gave light by night to these."

To this class we may most conveniently refer the numerous cases wherein what grammarians call the apodosis (that is, the consequence resulting from a supposed act or condition) is implied rather than stated, yet in English requires something to be expressed more or less fully: such are the following texts:

Gen. xxx. 27. "If I have found favour in thine eyes, tarry."

2 Chr. ii. 3. "As thou didst deal with David my father, and didst send him cedars...even so deal with me."

Dan. iii. 15. "If ye be ready that at what time ye hear the sound of the cornet,...ye fall down and worship the image which I have made, well."

Luke xiii. 9. "And if it bear fruit, well."

Occasionally our Translators, with happy boldness, have suppressed the apodosis entirely, as in the original (Ex. xxxii. 32; Luke xix. 42). In some few passages the seeming necessity for such insertion arises from a misunderstanding either of the sense or the construction: such is probably the case in Neh. iv. 12, and unquestionably so in Matt. xv. 6; Mark vii. 11.

(3) Just as little objection will probably be urged against the custom of our Translators in italicising words supplied to clear up the use of the grammatical figure known as the zeugma, whereby, in the Hebrew no less than in the Greek and Latin languages, an expression which strictly belongs to but one member of a sentence is made, with some violation of strict propriety, to do duty in another.

Gen. iv. 20. "And Adah bare Jabal: he was the father of such as dwell in tents, and cattle." Supply, "of such as have cattle."

Ex. iii. 16. "I have surely visited you, and that which is done to you in Egypt." Our version here, with less necessity, inserts "seen" after "and."

Ex. xx. 18. "And all the people saw the thunderings, and the lightnings, and the noise of the trumpet, and the mountain smoking." Here the order of the clauses renders it impossible to supply any single word which would not increase the awkwardness of the sentence: the passage is accordingly left as it stands in the original. Not so the sharper language of the parallel place:

Deut. iv. 12. "Ye heard the voice of the words, but saw no similitude, only a voice." After "only" insert with 1611 "ye heard."

2 Kin. xi. 12 (so 2 Chr. xxiii. 11). "And he brought forth the king's son, and put the crown upon him, and the testimony." Insert "gave him" before "the testimony."

Luke i. 64. "And his mouth was opened immediately, and his tongue," add "loosed."

1 Cor. xiv. 34. "It is not permitted unto them to speak, but to be under obedience." After "but" insert "they are commanded." So "and commanding" before "to abstain" in the exactly parallel passage, 1 Tim. iv. 3.

The following examples, taken from the Apocrypha, have been neglected by all editors up to the present date:

2 Esdr. ix. 24. "Taste no flesh, drink no wine, but eat flowers only."

xii. 17. "As for the voice which thou heardest speak, and that thou sawest not to go out from the heads." This rendering, taken from the Coverdale and Bishops' Bibles, is possibly incorrect.

Ecclus. li. 3. "According to the multitude of thy mercies and greatness of thy name."

(4) Akin to the preceding is the practice of inserting in the Authorized Version a word or two, in order to indicate that abrupt transition from the oblique to the direct form of speech, which is so familiar to most ancient languages, but so foreign to our own:

Gen. iv. 25. "And she bare a son, and called his name Seth: for God, said she, hath appointed me another seed instead of Abel."

Ex. xviii. 4. "And the name of the other was Eliezer; for the God of my father, said he, was mine help."

Our marginal references on the latter text supply several other instances of this construction. The inconvenience of a sudden change of person, unbroken by any such words supplied, may appear from Gen. xxxii. 30, "And Jacob called the name of the place Peniel: for I have seen God face to face, and my life is preserved." Just as abrupt is the construction in Gen. xli. 52 (compare ver. 51); Tobit viii. 21. In 2 Macc. vi. 24 "said he" continued in Roman type till 1638.

(5) Another use of italics is to indicate that a word or clause is of doubtful authority as a matter of textual criticism. Of this in the Authorized Version we can produce only one unequivocal instance in the Canonical books, 1 John ii. 23 (see Appendix E, p. cii.); for it is not quite certain that the change of type in Judg. xvi. 2; xx. 9, employed to point out words borrowed from the Septuagint, intimates any suspicion of a lacuna in the text. In subsequent editions occur the following instances, most of them being due to the Cambridge edition of 1638, those that are not so having another date affixed to them:

Deut. xxvii. 26 ("all"). Josh. xxii. 34 ("Ed"). 1 Sam. ii. 16 ("Nay" 1629 Camb.)[1]. 2 Kin. xix. 31 ("of hosts")[2]; xx. 13 (the second "all" appears in most Hebrew Bibles, and we have restored the Roman character). 2 Chr. v. 1 ("all"); xvii. 4 ("LORD"). Job x. 20 ("cease then, and," 1611 inconsistently: we should read with 1638, "cease then, and," or leave all in Roman as 1629 Camb., since both particles are found in Keri). Ps. xli. 2 ("And he shall be," Chetiv, not Keri); lxix. 32 ("and be glad"). Prov. xx. 4 (therefore: but ו of Keri is in Symmachus and the Vulgate, so that we restore the type of 1611). Jer. xiii. 16 ("and make," yet ו of Keri is in the Septuagint and Vulgate). Lam. v. 7 ("and are not;" "And have." These two conjunctions are both wanting in Chetiv, present in Keri, yet 1769 italicises the first, not the second). Mark ix. 42 (see Appendix E, p. c.). John viii. 6 (1769: see Appendix E, p. c.). 1 John iii. 16 (see Appendix E, p. c.).

Thus in the Apocrypha 1629 italicises on me in Tobit xi. 15, με being wanting in the Complutensian, but we have decided to return to the Roman type. For similar cases examine Ecclus. iii. 22 (1629 and 1769); 1 Macc. iii. 18 (1638); x. 78 (1638); xi. 15 (1638, partim rectè); xiv. 4 (1638).

To these passages, which in the present volume have been italicised or the contrary, according to the circumstances in each case, we have added 2 Chr. xv. 8 "of Oded[3]," to point out the doubt hanging over the reading or construction in that

[1] This is inevitable, as the reading is either לוֹ "to him" (Chetiv), or לֹא "Nay" (Keri), not both. The two words are confused in 18 other places, of which Delitzsch points out 17.

[2] The addition in this passage and others is from the Hebrew Keri or margin; but Keri is received without italics where we should not wish to insert them now: e.g. Judg. xx. 13 "the children;" Ruth iii. 5, 17 "to me." In ver. 37 of this chapter we have italicised Keri "his sons" for the sake of consistency. In the parallel place Isai. xxxvii. 38 "his sons" stands in Chetiv, or the text.

place. Also in Ecclus. i. 7; xvii. 5, italics have been substituted, as was stated above, p. xxvii., in the room of brackets, as a mark of probable spuriousness in the lines so printed. The portion of 1 John v. 7, 8 which is now for the first time set in italics, is probably no longer regarded as genuine by any one who is capable of forming an independent judgment on the state of the evidence.

(6) The last class to which we may refer the italicised words in our version, is that wherein the words supplied are essential to the English sense, although they may very well be dispensed with in the Hebrew or Greek; nay more, although they could not be received into the original without burdening the sense, or marring all propriety of style. This last head comprises a far greater number of cases than all the rest put together, and it may reasonably be doubted whether much advantage accrues from a change of type where the sense is not affected to an appreciable extent. Whether we say "the folk that are with me" (Gen. xxxiii. 15) with the Bible of 1611, or "the folk that are with me" with the Cambridge edition of 1629, could make no difference whatever, except to one who was comparing English with Hebrew idioms, and such a one would hardly need to carry on his studies in this fashion. One thing, however, is quite clear, that if it be well thus to mark the idiomatic or grammatical divergences between languages, all possible care should be devoted to secure uniformity of practice; cases precisely similar should be treated in a similar manner. Now this is just the point at which our Authorized Version utterly fails us; we can never be sure of its consistency for two verses together. To take one or two instances out of a thousand, why do we find "it be hid" in Levit. v. 3, 4, and "it be hidden" in ver. 2, the Hebrew being the same in all? Or why should the same Hebrew be represented by "upon all four" in Levit. xi. 20, but by "upon (or "on") all four" in ver. 21, 27, 42? Even in graver matters there is little attempt at uniformity: thus οὗτος Heb. iii. 3 is "this man" in 1611, but "this man" in Heb. viii. 3, a variation retained to this day; in 1 Pet. iv. 11 "let him speak" is italicised in 1611, but the clause immediately following "let him do it" not before 1629. These gross oversights, with countless others, are set right by the revisers of 1629 and 1638, yet these later editors have been found liable to introduce into the printed text nearly as many inconsistencies as they removed. Thus, for example, whereas "which were left" Lev. x. 16 adequately renders the Hebrew article with the participle of the Niphal conjugation, and so in 1611 was printed in ordinary characters, the edition of 1638 wrongly italicises "which were" here, but leaves untouched "that were left" in ver. 12, a discrepancy which still cleaves to our modern Bibles. The same must be said of "ye are to pass" ("are" first italicised in 1629) Deut. ii. 4 compared with "thou art to pass" ver. 18: "even unto Azzah" ver. 23 ("even" correctly italicised in 1638, indeed the word is expressed in ver. 36), but "even unto this day" left untouched in ver. 22: "the slain man" ("man" first in 1629) Deut. xxi. 6, but "the slain man" ver. 3: "their backs" ("their" first in 1629) Josh. vii. 12, but "their backs" ver. 8[1]. The reader will find as many instances of this nature as he cares to search for in any portion of our modern Bibles he may please to examine, and from the whole matter it is impossible to draw in the main any other conclusion than this:—that the changes introduced from time to time have been too unsystematic, too much the work of the moment, executed by too many hands, and on too unsettled principles, to hold out against hostile, or even friendly criticism.

Dr Blayney in his Report to the Oxford Delegates (Appendix D, p. xcviii.) appeals to the edition of Dr Paris (1762) as having "made large corrections in this particular," adding that "there still remained many necessary alterations, which escaped the Doctor's notice" and had to be set right by himself and his friends. And it cannot be doubted, that the two Bibles of 1762 and 1769 between them largely increased the number of the words printed in italics, but the effect was rather to add to than diminish the manifest inconsistencies of earlier books. Thus Blayney (and after him the moderns) in Luke xvii. 29 (ἅπαντας) italicises "them" before "all," yet leaves untouched "them all" ver. 27: in Luke xix. 22 he reads "thou wicked servant," retaining "thou good servant" in ver. 17. Nor can the correctness of Dr Paris be praised overmuch. In putting into Roman type the "good" of 1611, Eccles. vii. 1, he has been blindly followed by the rest, though a glance at the Hebrew would have set them right: yet some of his errors in italics were removed in 1769, e.g. "way-side" Matt. xiii. 4; Mark x. 46; Luke viii. 5. Hence it becomes manifest that in preparing a critical edition of our vernacular Translation, which shall aim at meeting the wants and satisfying the scholarship of the present age, nothing less than a close and repeated comparison of the sacred originals, line by line, with the English Bible, will enable us to amend the mistakes, which lack of time and consideration has led certain of the most eminent of our predecessors to pass by unnoticed, or even to exaggerate while attempting to remedy them. A task so laborious, yet promising from the first so little benefit from its most faithful execution, has been undertaken for the purposes of this volume only from a deep conviction of its necessity; and through the intervention of the Syndics of the Cambridge Press that task has been somewhat lightened by the use the editor has been allowed to make of the manuscript notes of the Rev. J. Gorle, Rector of Whatcote, whose acuteness, learning, and patience in the prosecution of researches so minute those who have toiled in the same field can best appreciate.

[1] In the Bible of 1638 we occasionally notice a strange want of critical skill. In Prov. iii. 18 our version happily changes "he" of the Bishops' version into "every one," to express the plural participle, to which the feminine pronoun is affixed, yet this book, followed by all the rest, actually sets "every one" in italics. In Cant. iv. 2 "even shorn" is designed to translate הַקְצוּבוֹת (ὁλοκλήρων, Symmachus, of the same bigness, Bishops'), yet "even" is set in italics, as if it were a conjunction. In Heb. xi. 36 we have retained, not without hesitation, the italics first used for the word cruel in 1638, since all the earlier English versions were satisfied with "mockings:" ludibria, Vulg.

In the Apocrypha indeed the work had to be done almost afresh, inasmuch as the Company of Translators to whom these books were assigned took no sort of pains to assimilate their portion of the work to that executed by the others. They introduce this difference of type only 54 times in the whole Apocrypha, indeed only three instances occur at all later than Ecclus. xlv. 4, after which brackets [ ], or sometimes ( ) are substituted in their room. No improvement worth mention seems to have been attempted before 1638, when 96 (e.g. Judith xiv. 18, but Tobit iv. 13 in 1629) fresh instances of italics were added, and most of the brackets were displaced to make room for italics, though a few yet survive in modern Bibles (2 Esdr. iii. 22. Wisd. xii. 27; xvii. 2, 3, 4. Ecclus. vi. 1, 2; viii. 11; xi. 30; xii. 5; xiv. 10[1]). About ten places more were subsequently italicised (e.g. Wisd. v. 17; viii. 2. Baruch iii. 33. 2 Macc. xi. 33 and, all in 1769), so that the italics of modern Bibles are but 273 in all. Those that are employed are of much the same character as in the Canonical Scriptures; some for pointing out the zeugma (above, p. xxxiv.), as 1 Macc. vii. 19[2]; x. 20, 24; 2 Macc. xi. 14: or a transition in the form of speech (Judith v. 23. Ecclus. ii. 18. 1 Macc. i. 50; xvi. 21; so 1 Esdr. i. 4 in 1629, and 2 Macc. vi. 24 in 1638): some for supplying a real or seeming grammatical defect (1 Esdr. iv. 11. Tobit viii. 10. Ecclus. xii. 5): one for indicating uncertainty in the reading (Tobit x. 5[3]; see p. xxxv.): a few for no reason that is apparent (Wisd. vi. 9 O kings. Ecclus. xl. 4; xlv. 4[4]), it would seem in mere error. As our version of the Apocrypha is so imperfectly revised as to resemble the Bishops' version in other respects more closely than we find in the inspired books, so does it in this over-free use of italic type by way of commentary. The interpolations in Wisd. ii. 1; xvi. 10. 1 Macc. vii. 32 are derived from this source; that in Ecclus. vi. 2 from the note of Junius (ferociens incerto et vago impetu); and too many others are conceived in the same spirit, e.g. Wisd. x. 10; xiv. 12; xix. 14. Ecclus. viii. 11; xi. 30; xlvi. 6. 1 Macc. viii. 18. In 1 Macc. ix. 35, after Coverdale and the Bishops' Bible, our Translation actually brings a Proper name into the text "[John]," avowedly on the authority of Josephus, for the slight evidence now produced in its favour (the Syriac and three recent Greek copies) was unknown to them.

[2] But we have set in ordinary character "[have they cast out]" of 1611 in ver. 17, inasmuch as the ellipsis is only accidental, arising from the order of the words cited from Ps. lxxix. 2, 3 in the Septuagint, and indeed in the Hebrew.

[3] In 1611 we read "Now I care for nothing, my son, since I have let thee go," οὐ μέλει μοι, τέκνον, ὅτι ἀφῆκά σε, but Junius would have us read οἴ for οὐ (Drusius persuades even Fritzsche to read σὺ μέλει), from the Vulgate heu heu me, fili mi, ut quid te misimus. The italic type should be changed into Roman, since the passage may very well stand.

[4] In the original edition the first four words of Ecclus. viii. 8 are italicised by a like oversight. They were set in Roman type in 1629.

After this general survey of the whole subject, it is proper to state certain rules, applicable to particular cases, which a careful study of the Bible of 1611 will shew that our Translators laid down for themselves, but which haste or inadvertence has caused them to carry out very imperfectly in practice. It will be seen that many of their omissions were supplied in one or other of those later editions which display care in the matter, while almost as many have remained to be set right in the present volume. "Whether the Translators, if they had foreseen and fully considered how far the system of italics which they adopted, when carried out, would lead, would have adopted it,...may be a question. And whether the abundance of the italics...does not in a measure defeat its own purpose by withdrawing attention from them, is perhaps a question also. But as it was, the course adopted by the editors of 1611 having been to mark by italics not important insertions only, but to aim at marking in this manner everything, even trifling pronouns and auxiliary verbs, not in the originals, carrying out however their intention very imperfectly: the choice for after editors lies between adopting a different system, and carrying out theirs to the full[1]." Between these alternatives few perhaps will censure us for having chosen the latter without much hesitation.

The following observations, therefore, grounded on the practice of our Translators, will guide us in a vast number of doubtful cases.

(1) The English possessive pronoun, when it renders the Hebrew or Greek article, should be set in italics. Compare in 1611 Judg. iii. 20. 2 Sam. vi. 7; xvii. 23. 2 Kin. ix. 35; xiii. 3. 2 Chr. xiii. 10. Job i. 5; ii. 13. 1 Cor. i. 1. 2 Cor. i. 1. Gal. v. 10. Eph. iv. 28. Phil. ii. 13. So in 1629, Gen. xxvi. 11. Neh. xii. 42: in 1638, Matt. viii. 3; x. 24; xii. 10, 33; xiii. 15 (ter); xiv. 19, 31; xv. 5, &c. passim: in 1762, Matt. xii. 46; xxi. 31; xxvi. 23, 51; xxvii. 24: in 1769, Matt. xv. 8; xxv. 32. Mark v. 29; x. 16, &c.

(2) Since the definite article is only the unemphatic form of the demonstrative "that," and has itself a demonstrative force[2], it might not appear necessary to set "that" in italics when it represents the Greek or Hebrew article. In 1611, however, it is thus printed so often as to prove that our Translators designed to do so always with "this" and "that." For their practice compare Gen. xviii. 32. Ex. ix. 27; xxxiv. 1. Num. xi. 32. Josh. iii. 4. 1 Sam. xiv. 8; xxv. 24. 1 Chr. xviii. 11; xxi. 22. 2 Chr. xx. 29; xxxvi. 18. Ezra ix. 2; x. 9. Eccles. vi. 12. Luke viii. 14. 2 Tim. ii. 4. In 1629 many more were added, e.g. Gen. xxxi. 43 (these ter); xliii. 16 (bis): in 1638, 1 Chr. vi. 64; vii. 21. 2 Chr. xxviii. 22. Ezra x. 4. Neh. viii. 10. Job xxxii. 5. Ps. li. 4. Eccles. viii. 8; ix. 9. Isai. xxxvii. 30 (yet not 2 Kin. xix. 29). Jer. ix. 26; xxxviii. 12. Ezek. xliv. 3; xlvi. 2, 8. Hab. i. 6. Mark iv. 11; ix. 42. John v. 13. Acts xxiv. 22. Rom. xvi. 22. 1 Cor. ix. 12; xi. 27. 2 Cor. v. 1, 4. 2 Thess. i. 11. 1 Tim. vi. 7, 14. 2 Pet. i. 14: a few in 1769, 2 Sam. xvi. 11; xviii. 32. Hos. ix. 10. Yet in the New Testament this rule is even now greatly neglected.

(3) The idioms of the English and the Hebrew differ so widely that no attempt has been made, in the great majority of cases, to print the English definite article in italics when the Hebrew one is wanting. The only apparent instance of such distinction being kept up by our Translators occurs in 1 Sam. xxvi. 8, and is a mere error, the Hebrew article being present: hence "the" is put into Roman type in 1638[3]. Occasionally, however, the sense is so much affected, perhaps for the worse, by the presence of the English article, that we have been careful to note its absence in the Hebrew: e.g. Ps. xlv. 1. Ezek. iv. 1; x. 20; xxiii. 45. Hos. ii. 4; viii. 7; x. 10; xii. 4. Joel ii. 6. Amos vii. 10. Jonah iv. 10 marg. Mic. v. 5. In thus dealing with the Greek article rather more freedom has been assumed, regard being always had to the anarthrous style of certain of the sacred writers, and to the licence which permits the omission of the article in certain constructions. Compare Ecclus. xliv. 18. Rom. i. 6; ii. 14. 1 Cor. ix. 20. Gal. iv. 31. 1 Thess. ii. 6. 1 Tim. ii. 5. Heb. ii. 5. 1 Pet. i. 12; iv. 10. 1 John ii. 1. 3 John 3. Rev. xiv. 9; xv. 2; xxi. 17. The English indefinite article[4], or none at all, would better suit most of these places.

[3] In Job xi. 16 also Synd. A. 3. 14, B. M. 1276. l. 4 and 3050. g. 3 read "the misery," but this is probably a misprint for "thy misery" of the other issue.

(4) Annexed to proper and common appellations of places the Hebrew He, the old accusative termination, is regarded as denoting motion to, and its absence, or that of a corresponding preposition, is indicated by italics: e.g. Job xxx. 23; Ps. v. 7 in 1611. But He prefixed, which may be the article, and sometimes accompanies He annexed (compare 2 Sam. xiii. 10), is not so regarded. Prepositions of motion in English, which have no Hebrew equivalent, are systematically set by us in italics, the rather, since it is not always certain that the right one is employed, e.g. 1 Sam. xxiii. 25. 2 Kin. xvi. 8.

(5) When an article is prefixed to a participle, but not otherwise, and it is rendered by "which are," "that is" &c. ("such as were" Eccles. iv. 1), these words are best printed without italics, as in 1611 they are pretty uniformly, e.g. Lev. x. 16. Deut. xx. 11; xxv. 6, 18; xxix. 29[1]. In 1638 italics came to be employed in some cases of this kind, e.g. "that was built" Judg. vi. 28; "which is shed" Ps. lxxix. 10; "she that looketh" Cant. vi. 10; "one that accuseth" John v. 45. We have retained italics in the last place (perhaps wrongly), discarding them in the rest. In Judg. xi. 30 marg. "that which cometh forth" of 1611 is properly changed in 1629 into "that which cometh forth."

(6) But even if the article be prefixed to an adjective, the correct practice is to italicise the words supplied. Thus in 1611 "that are wise," "that are mighty" Isai. v. 21, 22; "who is holy" Heb. vii. 26, in which passages there is no article. In Judg. viii. 15, where the article is found, we have "that are weary" 1611, "that are weary" 1629, "that are weary" 1638 correctly. This last edition is very careful on the point, having rightly put into italics what had previously been Roman in 1 Sam. xv. 9. Neh. iv. 14. Ps. lxxxv. 12. Ezek. xxii. 5. Yet in Judg. xvii. 6; xxi. 25 and such like passages we adopt (not very consistently) "that which was right," to intimate the presence of the article, as 1 Sam. ix. 24 in 1638.

(7) In such phrases as "and it came to pass ...that," if the Hebrew copulative ו be not expressed at the beginning of the second clause, its absence is denoted by italicising "that," which otherwise would stand in Roman type. This nice distinction is observed by our Translators with as much consistency as they display in greater matters. Thus 1611 in Gen. iv. 14. Ex. xxxiii. 8. Num. xvi. 7. 2 Kin. xviii. 1. 1 Chr. xiv. 15. Esther v. 2. Isai. x. 12, 20, 27; xxiv. 18. So in 1629, Ex. xxxiii. 7. Lev. ix. 1. Num. xvii. 5: in 1638, Neh. iv. 16: in 1762, Matt. xiii. 53; xix. 1. Luke xx. 1. Compare Luke v. 1, 17; vii. 12; viii. 1, &c.

(8) The personal pronoun, when omitted with the Hebrew infinitive (occasionally with some risk of ambiguity in the sense), should always, when supplied in the version, be printed in italics. This comprehensive rule is abided by in 1611 Gen. vi. 19, 20 "to keep them alive;" Ex. xxx. 12 (second case, but overlooked in the first), 15; xxxi. 13. Deut. xxvi. 18. 1 Kin. xii. 6 ("I" overlooked by 1629 and later Bibles). 1 Chr. xxviii. 4. 2 Chr. xxxv. 6. Isai. l. 4 ("I" again overlooked in 1629 and its successors). Thus also in 1629, Ex. xxviii. 28. Esther iv. 11: in 1638, Gen. iii. 6. Acts xii. 19. Rom. xiii. 5: in 1769, Ex. xxxv. 1. Deut. xxix. 29. Heb. xii. 10.

(9) Where in Hebrew the first of two nouns is in the state of construction, the word "of" between them is not italicised in English: but if the preceding noun be susceptible of a change by reason of the state of construction, and yet be not so changed, "of" or its equivalent is italicised. Compare, for example, Ex. xxxvii. 24 with Ex. xxv. 39. The Masoretic points are necessarily taken for true under this head.

(10) It would seem natural to italicise "own" in the expressions "your own," "his own" &c. where the original has but the simple possessive pronoun. Yet in 1611 we find it so written only in 2 Sam. xviii. 13. Job v. 13; ix. 20. Prov. i. 18 (bis). Blayney has "his own" in Gen. i. 27, and in no other place, as if he shrunk from making about 200 changes in respect to one word. We have italicised "own" only in Job xix. 17, where its presence excludes one very possible sense, and in Acts xxi. 11, where it is important to mark that ἑαυτοῦ is not in the text.

(11) The Hebrew preposition ל "to," with or without the verb "to be," is considered as equivanite article, as 1611 has done in rare instances, and 1762 in Acts xxiv. 5. It is here set in Roman type.

[1] In the concise style of poetry we have often willingly overlooked the absence of the article before the present participle.

lent, idiom for idiom, with the English verb "to have." It is so treated in the book of 1611 usually (e.g. Gen. xii. 20; xvi. 1), but not always (e.g. Gen. xi. 6 "they have," ver. 30 "she had"). But "pertained" in such phrases is always italicised, as Judg. vi. 11 in 1611. Hence we would not follow Scholefield[1], who reads "what have I" 1 Cor. v. 12.

(12) We have adopted, with some hesitation, Mr Gorle's refined distinction, confirmed by 1611 in Jer. xli. 16, between אַחַר "after that" and אַחֲרֵי־כֵן "after that;" not however with infinitives, as 2 Chr. xxvi. 2. Jer. xxxvi. 27; xl. 1.

(13) When in different parts of Scripture a phrase or expression is given with more or less fulness, it is right to distinguish the shorter form, by setting the missing part of it in italics. Examples are in 1611 "dead men" Ex. xii. 33; "mighty man" Ps. cxx. 4 marg. (compare Ruth ii. 1. 1 Sam. xiv. 52. Jer. xli. 16 where "man" is expressed): in 1638, Job xvii. 8, 10. Isai. xxix. 8; xliv. 25: in 1769, Isai. xli. 2. Again in 1611, "fill with" Gen. xliv. 1. Ps. lxxi. 8 (bis); lxxii. 19, a preposition being supplied after the verb (מָלֵא) in Ex. xvi. 32. 2 Kin. ix. 24. Ezra ix. 11. Job xli. 7. Ezek. xxxii. 6. Care, however, should be taken to put in italics no more than is really wanting: thus in Matt. viii. 25 προσελθόντες ought to be "came to him;" Matt. x. 1 προσκαλεσάμενος "called unto him" as it is given in 1762, not as the same word is represented by 1769 in Matt. xv. 32 "called unto him." This rule extends very widely, and is difficult to be observed with perfect consistency.

(14) The verb substantive is italicised before the participle passive (Paül), to distinguish it from the Niphal conjugation of the verb (e.g. Gen. xxix. 31, 33 "was hated" in 1629 Camb.); but more licence has been granted to the auxiliaries that render the active participle (Poel). In Num. x. 29 we have given "we are journeying," though in other places the present "is" "are" &c. is in Roman type, but not "was" or "were."

[1] In the Greek and English New Testament, published at Cambridge by Professor Scholefield (new edition, 1836), many words were printed in italics for the first time, chiefly such as bear on our first rule, that regarding pronouns. The changes he introduced evidence great care, but seem not to have influenced other editions of the Bible published since his time.

Such are the principal rules which the Translators of the Authorized Version designed to follow in the arrangement of italics for the standard Bible of 1611. How little what they printed was systematically reviewed and corrected in the preparation of later editions is evident from the numerous glaring errors, committed by them, which have remained undetected down to this day. The reader will perceive what is meant by comparing the present volume with any modern Bible in 1 Chr. vii. 6. 2 Chr. x. 16. Neh. v. 19. Job i. 5; xxii. 24; xli. 20. Ps. lv. 21. Prov. xv. 26. Cant. v. 12. Isai. xxii. 18 ("like" a little doubtful). Jer. xi. 4, 7; xxxvi. 22; xlvi. 13. Ezek. iv. 4, 9; xiii. 18; xxii. 20 marg.; xxxix. 11; xliii. 3 marg. Dan. i. 7; viii. 26; ix. 23 marg. Obad. 6. Hab. iii. 9. 1 Esdr. viii. 63. Tobit iii. 3. Wisd. ii. 1; xix. 14. 1 Macc. viii. 18; x. 24; xii. 37. Tit. ii. 3. 3 John 12. Indeed some more recent corrections are positively false, e. g. 2 Chr. iii. 11 "one wing of the one" (1638): Luke x. 30 "man" (1762).

What Blayney intended to do, and seems to have lacked time for (Appendix D, p. xcviii.), has been regarded as a matter of imperative duty by the editor of the present work. He has made out a full list of all the changes with respect to italics, in which this volume differs from his standard, the Cambridge small pica octavo of 1858, together with such reasons for them as each case might require; and has deposited the list for future reference in the Library of the Syndics of the University Press.

SECTION IV.

On the system of punctuation adopted in 1611, and modified in more recent Bibles.

"The question of punctuation," to employ the language of the late Professor Grote[2], "has two parts: one, respecting the general carrying it out for purposes of rhythm and distinction of sentences, independent of any question as to the meaning of the words; the other respecting the particular cases where different punctuation involves difference of meaning." In regard to the first of these parts, much variety of practice will always exist,

according to the age in which a writer lives, or the fashion which he has adopted for himself. Thus the edition of 1611 abounds with parentheses[1] which are largely discarded in modern Bibles, wherein commas supply their place, unless indeed they are left unrepresented altogether. The note of admiration, which is seldom met with in the old black-letter copies (wherein the note of interrogation usually stands in its room: e.g. Prov. xix. 7) is scattered more thickly over Blayney's pages than the taste of the present times would approve. Upon the whole, while the system of recent punctuation is heavier and more elaborate than necessity requires, and might be lightened to advantage, as in this volume has been attempted[2]; that of the standard of 1611 is too scanty to afford the guidance needed by the voice and eye in the act of public reading. "It is a torture to read aloud from, as those who have had to do it know[3]." Grote contrasts it in this particular with a Cambridge edition of 1683, into which more changes in the stops were admitted than later books cared to follow, and whose punctuation differs in fact but little from that in vogue in recent times.

The case in which difference of punctuation involves difference of meaning cannot be thus summarily dismissed. Since interpretation is now concerned, rather than arbitrary liking or convenience, the principles laid down in the First Section are strictly applicable here (pp. x., xiv.). The stops found in the original ought not to be altered unless the sense they assign be not merely doubtful, but manifestly wrong[4]. Modern changes, if still abided by, should be scrupulously recorded, and their retention can be justified only by the consideration that it is at once pedantic and improper to restore errors of the standard Bible which have once been banished out of sight. The following list will be found to contain all divergencies of punctuation from that prevailing in recent editions, not being too insignificant to deserve special notice, which can be supposed to influence the sense. They naturally divide themselves into two classes, those which are, and those which are not, countenanced by the two issues of 1611.

I. The stops of 1611 are retained in preference to those of later Bibles, there being no strong reason to the contrary, in

Gen. xxxi. 40, "Thus I was in the day, the drought consumed me," 1611, after Masoretic stops, LXX., Vulg., against the Bishops', 1638—1769, moderns, who have "Thus I was; (, 1638—1762) in the day the drought consumed me." Lev. iv. 2, "(concerning things which ought not to be done)." Here 1769 and the moderns reject the parenthesis of the earlier books, which, though not found in vv. 13, 22, 27, tends to relieve a hard construction. Joshua iii. 16, "very far, from the city Adam," 1611—1630. In 1629 Camb. and subsequent editions the comma after "far" is removed, but the other distribution is not less probable. 1 Kin. xii. 32, "and he ‖ offered upon the altar (so did he in Bethel,) ‖ sacrificing." The moderns, after 1769, punctuate "and he ‖ offered upon the altar. So did he in Bethel, ‖ sacrificing:" against the Hebrew stops, Zakeph-katon standing over both "altar" and "Bethel;" and rendering the margin (which provides for וַיַּעַל, being the Kal rather than the Hiphil conjugation) quite unintelligible. xix. 5, "behold then, an angel" (וְהִנֵּה־זֶה): "behold, then an angel," 1769, moderns. Neh. ix. 4, "upon the stairs of the Levites," (עַל־מַעֲלֵה הַלְוִיִּם): "upon the stairs, of the Levites," 1769, moderns. ver. 5, "Jeshua and Kadmiel," (cf. Ezra ii. 40): "Jeshua, and Kadmiel," 1769, moderns. Job xix. 28, "persecute we him?...found in me." 1611—1617. But 1629 Lond., 1630 place (?) also after "me:" 1629 Camb., 1638, moderns, transfer the second clause into the oratio obliqua "persecute we him,... found in me?" xxxi. 30. This verse is rightly set in a parenthesis in 1611—1744, which 1762, moderns, remove. xxxiii. 5, "If thou canst, answer me," as in ver. 32. The first comma is removed in 1629 Camb. (not 1629 Lond., 1630) and all modern books. xl. 24 marg. "or bore," 1611: "or bore," 1629, 1638, Bagster 1846. But 1744, 1762, moderns, "or, bore," quite absurdly. Psalm ii. 12, "but a little: Blessed," 1611—1744, "but a little. Blessed," 1762 mod.[5] lxxix. 5, "wilt thou be angry, for ever?" Cf. Ps. xiii. 1; lxxxix. 46. The comma is removed by 1616 (not 1617, 1630), 1629 Camb., &c. ver. 11, "come before thee, According to the greatness of thy

[1] In Synd. A. 3. 14, these marks of parenthesis often seem to have been inserted with a pen, in places where the Oxford reprint has them.

[2] For instance, in such expressions as "and behold," "and lo," "for lo," we omit the comma set by Blayney, &c., between the two words.

[5] The two lines of the couplet are closely connected, as the parallelism shews. Here, and in some other places (notably in Ps. iii. 5; lxiv. 7), the Masoretic punctuation is at variance with the poetical structure. So in Ps. xl. 12, Rebiah has tempted 1762 to change the comma after "head" into a semicolon, 1769 and the moderns into a colon, where we prefer the comma of 1611—1744.

power: Preserve thou." Thus 1611—1744, following the Hebrew punctuation. "come before thee; According to the greatness of thy power (, 1762 only) Preserve thou" 1769, moderns, very boldly, though approved by Canon Perowne. lxxxix. 46, "How long, LORD[1], wilt thou hide thyself, for ever?" The third comma is removed in 1629, London and Camb. (not 1630), 1638, 1744, 1769 mod. In 1762 this comma is strengthened into a semicolon. Prov. i. 27. The final colon of 1611—1630 is clearly preferable to the full stop of 1629 Camb., moderns. xix. 2. Restore the comma before "sinneth" discarded in 1762: also in xxi. 28, that before "speaketh," removed in 1769: both these for the sake of perspicuity. xxx. 1 fin. The full stop is changed into a comma by 1769 mod. Eccles. ii. 3, "(yet acquainting mine heart with wisdom)." In 1769 mod. the marks of parenthesis are rejected, and a semicolon placed after "wisdom." Cant. vii. 9, ", For my beloved, that" 1611, &c. (", For my beloved that," 1629 Lond., 1630: almost preferable; cf. Heb.): "For my beloved, that" 1769, moderns. viii. 2, ", of the juice" 1611—1630: "of the juice" 1629 Camb., 1638, &c. Isai. xxiv. 14, "they shall sing,". The comma is found only in 1611 (Oxford reprint, not Synd. A. 3. 14), and acknowledged by Vulg. and Field ("jubilabunt;") as representing the Hebrew Athnakh. xlviii. 12, ", O Jacob, and Israel my called;" 1611—1630. But 1629 Camb. 1638 place commas after "Israel," 1769 and the moderns join "Jacob and Israel," against the Hebrew stops. Lam. ii. 4, "pleasant to the eye," (cf. Heb. stop): 1769 mod. remove the comma. iv. 15, " , when they fled away and wandered:" (, for : in 1769 mod.). Hosea vii. 11, "a silly dove, without heart." In 1629 Camb. and the moderns, the comma (which represents the Hebrew accent) is removed, as if "without heart" referred exclusively to the dove. Hagg. i. 1, 12, 14; ii. 2, remove comma of 1769 mod. after "Josedech." Cf. Zech. i. 1.

2 Esdr. viii. 39, "and the reward that they shall have." (et salvationis et mercedis receptionis, Vulg., but et salutis, et recipiendæ mercedis Junius): but 1762 mod. place a comma after "reward," as if receptionis of Vulg. belonged also to salvationis. xii. 2, "and behold, the head that remained, and the four wings appeared no more." In 1762 a comma is inserted after "wings:" in 1769 mod. both commas are removed. There is a pause in the sense after "remained," such as a semicolon would perhaps better represent, before the vision in ch. xi. 18, &c., is repeated. Judith iv. 6, "toward the open country near to Dothaim (κατὰ πρόσωπον τοῦ πεδίου τοῦ πλησίον Δωθαΐμ, LXX.). Here 1629 Camb., 1630, &c., insert a comma before "near." viii. 9, 10. In 1769 mod. the marks of parenthesis are withdrawn, to the detriment of perspicuity. xiv. 17, "After, he went" (καὶ εἰσῆλθεν, LXX.): 1629 Camb. (not 1630), 1638 mod. remove the necessary comma. Ecclus. xxxvii. 8, "(For he will counsel for himself):" 1769 mod. reject the marks of parenthesis, setting a semicolon after "himself". ver. 11, ", of finishing" (περὶ συντελείας, LXX.): 1769 mod. obscure the sense by rejecting the comma. Baruch vi. 40, "that they are gods?" In 1629, &c., "gods," the interrogation being thrown on the end of the verse. But compare the refrains ver. 44, 52, 56, 65, to justify our arrangement of the paragraph. 1 Macc. vi. 51, "to cast darts, and slings." The comma is removed in 1638 mod.

S. Matt. ix. 20—22, are inclosed in a parenthesis by 1611—1762, which 1769 rejects[2]. S. Mark iii. 17, and v. 41. The marks of parenthesis (of which 1769 mod. make too clean a riddance) are restored from 1611—1762. S. John ii. 15, "and the sheep and the oxen," thus keeping the animals distinct from πάντας ("them all...with the sheep and oxen," Bishops'). In 1630 (not 1638, 1743), 1762 mod., a comma intrudes after "sheep." xviii. 3, "a band of men, and officers," 1611 — 1762, thus distinguishing the Roman cohort from the Jewish ὑπηρέται (Archb. Trench). In 1769 mod. the comma is lost. Acts xi. 26, "taught much people, and the disciples were called," 1611—1630: both verbs depending on ἐγένετο. Yet 1638—1743 substitute a semicolon for the comma, while 1762 mod. begin a new sentence after "people," as if the editors had never glanced at the Greek. xviii. 18, "and Aquila: having shorn his head", Paul being the person referred to in κειράμενος. By changing the colon into a semicolon, 1762 mod. render this more doubtful. Rom. i. 9, ", always in my prayers," 1611, 1612, 1613. The first comma is removed in 1629 Camb. and London, 1630, &c.: the second changed into a semicolon by 1769 mod. Cf. 1 Thess. i. 2; Philem. 4. iv. 1, "Abraham our father, as pertaining to the flesh," 1611—1762. In 1769 mod. the comma is transferred from after "father" to before "our." v. 13—17, were first inclosed in a parenthesis by 1769, which is followed by all moderns, even by the American Bible of 1867, though the American revisers of 1851 (see p. xxiii.) had removed it. It is worse than useless, inasmuch as it interrupts the course of the argument. viii. 33 fin. The colon of 1611—1762 is almost too great a break, yet 1769 mod. substitute a full stop. The semicolon of The Five Clergymen is quite sufficient. xv. 7, "received us," 1611—1743. The comma is removed in 1762 mod. 1 Cor. vii. 5, "prayer," 1611—1630. But 1638 mod. substitute a semicolon for the comma, as if to drive us to take the various reading συνέρχεσθε of Beza 1598 (see App. E, p. civ.), and the Elzevirs. viii. 7, "with conscience of the idol unto this hour," 1611—1762, as if the reading ἕως ἄρτι τοῦ εἰδώλου were accepted, ("with the yet abiding consciousness of the idol,") or cf. Phil. i. 26, and Prof. Moulton's Winer, p. 584. In 1769 mod. the comma is deleted. 2 Cor. xiii. 2, "as if I were present the second time," 1611—1762. In 1769 mod. a comma is put in after "present," through an obvious misconception. Eph. iii. 2—iv. 1 "of the Lord," is wrongly set in a parenthesis by 1769 mod. (not American, 1867). Rather connect ch. iii. 1 with ver. 14. Phil. i. 11, "by Jesus Christ unto the glory..." In 1762 mod. a comma is inserted before "unto." Col. ii. 11, "of the flesh," the two clauses beginning with ἐν τῇ being parallel (cf. var. lect.), so that 1762 mod. wrongly remove the comma after "flesh." 1 Thess. iii. 7 ", by your faith" 1611—1630, but 1629 London and Camb. and all after them wrongly omit the comma. 2 Thess. i. 8, "in flaming fire," 1611—1762, connecting the words with ἐν τῇ ἀποκαλύψει, ver. 7. In 1769 mod.

the comma is absent. Titus ii. 8, "sound speech that cannot..." The comma after "speech" in 1769 mod. obscures, rather than helps, the English. ver. 12, "teaching us that denying ungodliness and worldly lusts we should live..." Thus the sentence runs in the Oxford reprint of 1611 and in 1612, and this is the safest plan in such a construction, but Synd. A. 3. 14 places a comma after "lusts," and is followed by 1613 and the rest. In 1629 Camb., &c. another comma is set after "us," which 1769 mod. do not improve upon by transposing it to after "that." Heb. ii. 9, "lower than the angels," In 1769 mod. this comma is removed, so as to compel us to take διὰ τὸ πάθημα τοῦ θανάτου with the preceding clause, to which it hardly seems to belong. iii. 7—11. Reject the marks of parenthesis introduced into modern Bibles in 1769. The American Bible of 1867 has them not. x. 12, "for ever, sat down." So 1611—1630, plainly rejecting "is set down for ever" of Bishops' Bible. This arrangement is supported by our standard Cambridge edition of 1858, and the American (1867), Bp. Christ. Wordsworth, &c., and is surely safer than "for ever sat down" of 1638—1769 and most moderns. xii. 23. Restore the comma of 1611—30 after "assembly". xiii. 7. Restore the full stop of 1611 at the end of this verse, which 1762 mod. change to a colon. 2 Pet. ii. 14. The Greek compels us to reject the comma after "adultery" of 1743, mod. Jude 7, "the cities about them, in like manner..." The comma after "them" is injudiciously removed by 1638, 1699 (not 1743), while 1762 mod. increase the error by placing it after "in like manner."

It would be endless, and answer no good purpose, to enumerate all the cases wherein minute but real improvements in the punctuation, introduced into editions subsequent to 1611, have been universally acquiesced in (e.g. Jer. xvii. 3; Dan. xi. 18; Bel & Drag. ver. 10; Matt. xix. 4; Rom. ii. 13—15; 1 Pet. v. 13). Some very strange oversights of the standard Bible, in this as in other particulars (see pp. x., xl.), were permitted to hold their place quite late. Thus in John xii. 20 "And there were certain Greeks among them, that came up to worship at the feast:" the intrusive comma lingered till 1769. The comma, which originally stood after "about midnight," Acts xxvii. 27, was removed and set after "Adria" later than 1638. In regard to weightier matters, the comma put by 1611 after "God" in Titus ii. 13 is fitly removed by 1769 mod., that "the great God and our Saviour" may be seen to be joint predicates of the same Divine Person. Luke xxiii. 32 affords us a rare instance of an important change in the stops subsequent to 1769 (we have not been able to trace it up earlier than D'Oyly and Mant's Bible 1817) "And there were also two other malefactors," where recent editors insert a comma before "malefactors", in order to obviate the possibility of mistake in the meaning of a phrase which is rather Greek than English. They were rightly unwilling to adopt the alternative of changing the plural "other" into "others," as the American Bible (1867) has unfortunately done[1]. The following chief additional changes in punctuation made in this volume, like those affecting the text itself (Appendix A, p. lxxxiii.), though usually sanctioned by respectable authority, occasionally by some of our own Bibles, must ultimately depend on their own merits for justification.

II. Passages in which the stops, as well of 1611 as of most later Bibles, have been altered in the present volume.

Ex. xi. 1—3 we have placed within a parenthesis, thus referring ver. 4 to ch. x. 29: Josh. vi. 1 might well be treated in the same manner. Josh. xv. 1, "even to the border of Edom" is better followed by a comma, as in 1762, than by the semicolon of 1611—1744: both stops are removed in 1769. 1 Kin. vii. 19, and xxi. 25, 26, should be set in parentheses, so as to connect closely the preceding and following verses in either case. xxi. 20. With 1617 (only) place a comma at the end of this verse, the protasis beginning with יַעַן, ver. 20, the apodosis with הִנֵּנִי, ver. 21, just as in ch. xx. 36. Cf. also ch. xx. 42; xxi. 29. 2 Kin. xv. 25. Set a semicolon after Arieh, in place of the comma of 1611, &c. The "him" following refers to "Pekah," not to "Arieh." So Tremellius after Heb.[2] Job iv. 6. See Appendix A. p. lxxiii. vi. 10, "Yea, I would harden myself in sorrow; let him not spare:" forms one line in the stichometry (Addenda). This does not appear in 1611—1744, which set a comma after "spare," or in 1762 mod., which punctuate ": let him not spare." xxviii. 3. Lighten the colon of 1611, &c., after "perfection" into a comma. "The stones" is governed by "searcheth out," whether we consider לְכָל־תַּכְלִית to be used adverbially, or no. Ps. cv. 6, "Ye children of Jacob, his chosen." Unless the comma be inserted, "his chosen" would not be understood as plural.

[1] Luke x. 1 is exactly parallel in this use of other, but that antiquated plural is very common in our version: Josh. viii. 22; xii. 19; 2 Sam. ii. 13; 1 Esdr. vii. 6; 2 Esdr. x. 6, 57; xi. 18; xvi. 22; Tobit vi. 14; Wisd. xi. 10, 13; 2 Macc. vii. 34; xi. 7, 11, 20; Matt. xxiii. 23; Luke xi. 16, 42; xviii. 9; John xix. 18; Acts xvii. 9 (but others ver. 34); 1 Cor. xiv. 29; 2 Cor. xiii. 2; Phil. i. 17; ii. 3; iv. 3, most of which remain unchanged in modern Bibles.

[2] In Neh. xii. 24, we have substituted a semicolon instead of a full stop at the end of the verse, and perhaps ought to have changed the comma after Obadiah, ver. 25, into a colon. It would seem from 1 Chr. ix. 15—17; ch. xi. 17—19, that the list of the singers ends with Obadiah, that of the porters begins with Meshullam.

In 1 Chr. xvi. 13, a comma is inserted by 1769 mod. without much need. Ps. cvii. 35. End in a semicolon: yet all our Bibles have a full stop. Ps. cviii. 5, 6. All our Bibles except that of the Tract Society (1861) join these two verses, which seems an impossible arrangement (Perowne). Substitute a full stop for the colon of 1611 (which is made a semicolon by 1629 Camb. and the moderns) at the end of ver. 5, and a semicolon for the colon after "delivered," as 1611 has in Ps. lx. 5. Prov. vi. 2. Since this verse, as well as ver. 1, is plainly hypothetical (Bp. Christ. Wordsworth), in spite of LXX., Vulg. and Tremellius, a comma must take the place of the full stop of 1611, &c. after "mouth." viii. 2, "high places by the way." Transfer the comma of 1611 from after "place" to after "way." Eccles. iv. 1, "and behold," 1629 Camb.—1762. In 1769 mod. the comma is removed though it is really wanted. Even the Hebrew has a distinctive mark (׀) here. Cant. iii. 2, "In the streets and in the broad ways," So LXX., the Hebrew punctuation and parallelism. In 1611, &c., the comma is transferred to a place after "streets," thus joining the second clause with what follows. Isai. xi. 11, "his people, Which shall be left from Assyria," So the Hebrew stops, the analogy of ver. 16 (recognized by 1611—1762, not by 1769 mod.), LXX., Vulg., Lowth, Field: "his people that shall be left, from Assyria" 1611—1762: in 1769 mod. another comma follows "people." xxxii. 9. This verse is a distich, the true division of which after "voice" is plainer in Hebrew than in English. It is variously punctuated in our Bibles, but all agree in suggesting a false division into three lines, ending respectively at "ease," "daughters," "speech." xxxviii. 10, "I said," All insert the comma in ver. 11. Jer. xlviii. 29. Instead of the parenthesis which encloses "he is exceeding proud" in all our Bibles, substitute a semicolon before, a colon after the words, as in Isai. xvi. 6 in 1762 mod. Ezek. v. 6, "my judgments, and my statutes." The comma, imperatively required by the Hebrew, was inserted in 1629 (both editions)—1762, discarded in 1769 mod. xxi. 29, "that are slain of the wicked." The comma after "slain", apparently employed by 1611, &c., to aid the voice, fails to represent the status constructus of the Hebrew. xlvi. 18, "by oppression to thrust them out" renders a single Hebrew word (oppressione deturbandi eos, Trem.). Yet 1611—1630 separate the English by placing a comma after "oppression," which 1762 mod. restore after it had been rejected by 1629 Camb., 1744. xlviii. 30, "of the city:" So the Hebrew stops. The Bishops' Bible and 1611—1630 have a comma after "city," which 1629 Camb. and the moderns omit altogether (cf. Wordsworth). Hosea ix. 15, "in Gilgal:" the colon of 1611 and the rest is too strong for the sense and the Hebrew accent. xii. 10. Remove the comma of 1611, &c., after "similitudes." Cf. Heb. Micah vi. 5, "; From Shittim", the inserted semicolon representing the Hebrew Athnakh (cf. Wordsworth). The Bishops' Bible separates these words from the preceding, though only by a comma[1].

2 Esdr. ii. 15 marg. ", as a dove," with 1629—1744. In 1611 we have "as a dove:" in 1630 ", as a dove:" against the Latin. In 1762 mod. ", as a dove", but our way seems safer. vii. 42, "is not the end, where..." Without the inserted comma, our version is hardly intelligible; in eo sc. sæculo, not fine. Judith viii. 21, "if we be taken, so all..." Junius and 1611, &c., join οὕτως closely to the preceding words. (Cf. Moulton's Winer, p. 678.) Wisd. xiii. 13, "the very refuse among those, which served to no use," (τὸ δὲ ἐξ αὐτῶν ἀπόβλημα εἰς οὐδὲν εὔχρηστον). If, with 1611, &c., we omit the comma, "those" will inevitably be taken as the antecedent to "which." xvii. 11—13. Place these verses within a parenthesis. Prayer of Manasses, ll. 17, 18, " : Thou, O Lord,..." The very long English sentence is so constructed (differently from the Greek, this Prayer having been rendered from the Old Latin, see p. xxvii.), that the apodosis does not begin before this point; yet 1611 and all its successors put a full stop before "Thou." We have adopted a colon from the Bishops' Bible. 1 Macc. vi. 36, "every occasion, wheresoever the beast was:" far preferable to "every occasion: wheresoever the beast was," of 1611, &c. ix. 34 marg. "understood on the sabbath day." 1629—1744. In 1762 mod. the false punctuation of 1611—1630 is revived ("understood, on the sabbath day"), against the Greek, which is not in the same order as in ver. 43. We have set ver. 35–42 in a parenthesis. x. 1, "Antiochus, surnamed Epiphanes" ὁ ἐπιφανής, the comma after "Antiochus" distinguishing the text from that of Josephus, namely τοῦ ἐπιφανοῦς, as mentioned in the margin. 2 Macc. x. 29, "men upon horses with bridles of gold" (ἐφ' ἵππων χρυσοχαλίνων ἄνδρες). In 1611, &c., a comma, worse than idle, is set after "horses." xiii. 2, "a Grecian power, of footmen, &c." In 1611, &c., we have "a Grecian power of footmen"[2].

S. Matt. xix. 28, "which have followed me, in the regeneration, when, &c." So 1630 alone of our old Bibles, with Nourse (Paragraph Bible, Boston, 1836), Bagster 1846, Scholefield (English), Lachmann, Tischendorf, Tregelles. This is at any rate the safest course. The second comma is wanting in 1611, 1612, 1613, 1616, 1617, 1629 London, most modern Bibles, D'Oyly and Mant (1817), Tract Society's (1861), Blackadder (1864), American (1867), Newberry (1870), and Alford's. The first comma is absent in the Bishops' Bible, the books from 1629 (Camb.) to 1769, and Scholefield's Greek text. S. Luke i. 55, "(As he spake to our fathers)". Thus with Nourse, the Tract Society, and Blackadder (see last note), indicate by a parenthesis the change of construction. Ver. 70 is also parenthetic[3]. Acts xxiii. 8, "neither angel nor spirit:" Even though the true reading be μήτε...μήτε instead of μηδὲ...μήτε, angel and spirit comprehend together one class, resurrection the other, the two classes together comprising ἀμφότερα. The comma after "angel" in 1611—1630, abolished by 1629 (both editions)—1743, is restored in 1762

[2] Yet it must be confessed that the Roman edition reads ἱππεῖς immediately afterwards, while our punctuation represents ἱππέων of Codex Alexandrinus.

[3] It would be well also to place Acts i. 18, 19 within a parenthesis, even though the words be still regarded as S. Peter's. It is quite possible that the citation in ver. 20 is appealed to in ver. 16.

mod. Rom. viii. 20, "; in hope." We can hardly do more in this doubtful passage, than relax the connection of ἐπ' ἐλπίδι with what precedes, by inserting the comma before it, and lightening the stop after it from a colon to a comma, as in 1769 mod. xi. 8, from "according" to "hear" is rightly set in a parenthesis in 1769, as approved by the Five Clergymen. 1 Cor. xvi. 22. See Appendix A, p. lxxxii., note 4. 2 Cor. v. 2, "we groan, earnestly desiring..." The adverb is doubtless intended to represent the intensive force of the preposition in ἐπιποθοῦντες (rendered coveting by Wickliffe, but simply desiring by the later versions), so that this punctuation, first found by Prof. Grote in Field's small 8vo. (not in his 12mo.) Bible of 1660, but afterwards lost sight of, is that to be received, although through mere oversight, rather than with a view to render ingemiscimus of the Vulgate, the comma is placed after, not before, "earnestly" in 1611—1762, the final correction being due to 1769, from which the moderns adopt it. ver. 19, "God was in Christ reconciling..." All the Bibles from 1611 downwards, except that of 1743, insert a comma after "Christ". Eph. iv. 12, "for the perfecting of the saints for the work of the ministry, for..." (πρὸς...εἰς...εἰς). The comma of 1611, &c., after "saints" would be tolerable if the three prepositions were truly parallel. Phil. ii. 15, "the sons of God without rebuke," The comma set after "God" in 1611, &c., would inevitably suggest a different gender for ἀμώμητα or ἄμωμα. Col. ii. 2, "of God and of the Father and of Christ." The received text can hardly stand here, but the translation (taken verbatim from the Bishops' Bible) is unquestionably very inferior to that of Tyndale, Coverdale, the Great Bible and Geneva (1557), "of God the Father, and of Christ." The Bishops' and our own Bibles from 1611 downwards, make bad worse by adding a comma after "God". Heb. iv. 6, 7, "unbelief, again..." The apodosis begins with πάλιν. This is not so apparent if with 1611, &c., we set a colon after "unbelief". vii. 5, "they that are of the sons of Levi who receive the office of the priesthood..." The comma set after "Levi" by 1611, &c., might suggest the inference that all Levites were priests. 2 Pet. i. 1—5. All our Bibles, following 1611 in their arrangement, place a comma at the end of ver. 2, a full stop at the end of ver. 4. Yet it seems evident that vv. 1, 2 form a separate paragraph, as Nourse, the Tract Society, Blackadder (see above), Wordsworth, and Tischendorf represent them; and if ver. 3 must be connected with ver. 5 (Moulton's Winer, p. 771), a colon suffices at the end of ver. 4. ii. 22, "and, The sow", a new proverb beginning. Thus 1638—1762, American 1867, but 1769 mod. return to "and the sow" of 1611—1630. Rev. viii. 12. Remove the stop, whether colon (1611—1630) or comma (1638 mod.), after "darkened", since the following verb also is governed by ἵνα.

As the result of his investigations on this subject Prof. Grote infers that "With respect to the punctuation in general, independently of its affecting the meaning of particular passages, it is, in the editions before 1638, comparatively little graduated, colons and semicolons being much fewer in number than commas, and full stops.....That edition made the punctuation much more graduated, and introduced one practice not common in the earlier ones, that of a full stop in the middle of a verse." "The graduation of the punctuation; i.e. the placing of colons and semicolons, is not materially different in Blayney's edition (1769) from what it was in that of 1683. This latter (which is pointed, as printers say, very low) improved greatly in this respect upon 1638, as 1638 had improved upon the earlier ones[1]."

Section V.

On the orthography, grammatical peculiarities, and capital letters of the original, as compared with modern editions.

One of the salient points which distinguish the early editions of our Bibles from those of modern date, is their wide divergency of practice in regard to modes of spelling. It would be nothing remarkable, but rather analogous to what we observe in the case of all modern and probably of some ancient languages, that the customary orthography, even of very familiar words, should vary considerably at different periods of their literary history. But this is not the phænomenon we have mainly to account for in regard to English books printed in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Judged by them, it would hardly be extravagant to assert that our ancestors had no uniform system of orthography whatsoever, since there are comparatively few words, except a few particles of perpetual occurrence, that are not spelt in several fashions in the same book, on the same page, sometimes even in the same line[2]. The licence extended, as is well known, even to proper names: men of the highest culture (Shakespeare for a conspicuous example, if we give credit to certain biographers) varying the orthography of their own signatures in three or four several ways. This circumstance affords a conclusive answer to the demand that has sometimes been urged by ill-informed persons, that our modern Bibles should be exact reprints of the standard of 1611; and it was partly to silence such a demand that the Oxford reprint of 1833 was undertaken. A glance at that volume must have convinced any reasonable person that more recent editors were right in the main in gradually clearing the sacred page of uncouth, obsolete, and variable forms, which could answer no purpose save to perplex the ignorant, and offend the educated taste; whether the judgment of those who are responsible for the Bibles of 1762 and 1769 (for these were the great and most thorough modernisers) was always as true as might be wished for, we shall have to consider in the sequel.

[1] Grote MS. pp. 83—85, where will also be found some interesting matter, rather foreign to our immediate purpose, on the gradual disuse in our Bibles of what the writer calls "the cæsural comma, a comma dividing any longish proposition into two balancing parts, and distinguishing the main members of it from each other, as the voice very frequently does, so that the comma marks a real vocal pause." Just as, for instance, there is a comma in John v. 23, after the second "Son" in 1611—1743, which 1762 and the moderns discard. Nor ought the editor to quit the subject of the present Section without rendering his best thanks to the Rev. G. C. Waller, M.A., and R.N., for the use of some acute and weighty notes on the punctuation of the Epistles, in the course of which that gentleman is frequently found to advocate a return to the practice of 1611, without being aware of the fact.

The general rule laid down in the preparation of the present volume is a very simple one:—whensoever an English word is spelt in the two issues of 1611 in two or more different ways, to adopt in all places that method which may best agree with present usage, even though it is not so found in the majority of instances in the older books. Thus though charet is the form employed in at least nineteen places out of twenty, we have uniformly taken chariot as in Ecclus. xlix. 8; 1 Macc. i. 17; viii. 6. Kinred is probably the correct mode of spelling, and is by far the most frequent in the standard Bible, yet we abide by kindred, as it is found in Ecclus. xiv. 4; 2 Macc. v. 9; 1 Tim. v. 8 marg. We take caterpillar from Joel i. 4; elsewhere in 1611 it is caterpiller. Cieled and Cieling are due to the Cambridge Bible of 1629, sieled and sieling being the forms of 1611 in all the eight places where they occur: possibly the American ceiled and ceiling would be better, as the root seems to be cælo, not ciel. Again, forrest occurs everywhere else, but forest Isai. xxi. 13. For fain, the ordinary form, we see feign in Neh. vi. 8 only. Ghest occurs mostly, as in Matt. xxii. 10, but guests in ver. 11. Iron appears in Ecclus. xxxviii. 28, instead of yron, the common form. Linen is found 1 Kin. x. 28; 1 Esdr. iii. 6, but linnen elsewhere. Miter is almost constant in 1611, yet we adopt mitre from Ex. xxxix. 31; Zech. iii. 5. We find oake Josh. xxiv. 26, elsewhere oke. Between burden, murder, household, and burthen, murther, houshold, the usage is more divided: we prefer the former. Pedegree occurs thrice, but pedigree in Heb. vii. 3 marg., 6 marg. Pelican appears in Ps. cii. 6, elsewhere pellicane or pellican. After 1611, in Ecclus. xxxviii. 25 we give plough for the noun, but plow for the verb and its compounds in the 26 places where it occurs: the American (1867) has plough always. Pray (præda) is almost always used, but prey Job ix. 26. Again, surfeited, the modern form, occurs only Wisd. v. 7 marg., surfetting, &c. elsewhere. We find profane in Ezek. xxiii. 38, 39; 1 Macc. iii. 51; 2 Macc. vi. 5; Acts xxiv. 6: elsewhere the incorrect prophane. Instead of renowned (Num. i. 16; Ezek. xxvi. 17; 1 Macc. iii. 9; v. 63; vi. 1) we oftener meet with renowmed (Ecclus. xliv. 3, &c.). Such examples might be multiplied indefinitely. On the other hand, for the modern scent, we have boldly printed sent, following the ordinary, if not universal practice of the seventeenth century, inasmuch as sent is true to the etymology, and is invariably used in all the five places where the word occurs, Job xiv. 9; Isai. xi. 3 marg.; Jer. xlviii. 11; Hos. xiv. 7; Wisd. xi. 18. For omitting the c in scythe we have good authority, as well as the practice of our Translation in the margins of Isai. ii. 4; Jer. l. 16; Joel iii. 10; Mic. iv. 3. We must return to rye of 1611, which occurs but twice (Ex. ix. 32; Isai. xxviii. 25), though rie is in both Bibles of 1629. Probably, too, lancers should have been restored in 1 Kin. xviii. 28: it came from the Language, Lect. xx. p. 313) ascribes the variation of spelling in the same line to the mere convenience of the printer. Cardwell (Oxford Bibles, p. 4) had taken the same view before him. To Marsh's example, they shall lie down together, they shal, Isai. xlii. 17, many might be added, e. g. thereof, the locks thereof, and the barres, Neh. iii. 3: tread with shouting, their showting shall, Jer. xlviii. 33: stayed from dew, and the earth is staied, Hagg. i. 10, without coming nearer to a solution of the problem. A word is often differently spelt in the text and margin, as in Gen. iii. 16, where Coverdale has "huszbande" in the body of his version, "husbande" in the foot-note. Nor is the date of a writer any safe criterion. The best manuscripts of Chaucer, and especially of Gower, and the Paston letters, written about 1470, approach nearer our present standard of spelling than the Bible of 1611 (Marsh, p. 312).

Bishops' Bible (launsers), but occurs nowhere else, and was not altered into lancets before 1762. For andirons Ezek. xl. 43 marg. (which is etymologically true) 1638, 1769 and the moderns have endirons; end irons of 1744, 1762 is a bad guess. The Bishops' margin has trevets. Another word, used but once, is ebeny, Ezek. xxvii. 15, which is so spelt both in Hebrew and Greek: ebony of the moderns is more recent than 1638. Thus, too, turbant, Dan. iii. 21 marg. only, the form adopted by Milton and Dryden, was not changed into turbans before 1762. So imbers, Tobit vi. 16 marg. Since sailer, Rev. xviii. 17, is pronounced by Johnson to be more analogical than sailor, and held the ground till after 1638, we have taken courage to revive it. In Nahum ii. 4 also justle of 1611 is restored, instead of jostle of some moderns. Of words met with but twice, ambassage Luke xiv. 32 is adopted rather than embassage 1 Macc. xiv. 23; scrole, Isai. xxxiv. 4, is preferred to scrowle, Rev. vi. 14; but it is not possible to take either champion, Deut. xi. 30, or champian, Ezek. xxxvii. 2 marg.; either musitian, Ecclus. xxxii. 4, or musition, Rev. xviii. 22; or scholler as in 1 Chr. xxv. 8; Mal. ii. 12. Nor would anker, ballance, threed, suit the modern eye, although they are never met with in what to us appears the only correct form.

The same liberty has been taken in regard to soldier and vinegar, which the standard Bibles, contrary to their derivation, invariably spell souldier and vineger. What is spelt haply in five other places, in 1611 was happily 2 Cor. ix. 4 (πως): though changed in both books of 1629, happily was brought back in 1630, but can hardly hold its ground. The particle of comparison than is uniformly then in the Bible of 1611, as in many books far into the seventeenth century: this fashion, of course, could not be imitated now. Although saphir or saphire or saphyre does not vary in the same Bibles, the original will not dispense with pph. Nor have we retained cabbins, used but once, Jer. xxxvii. 16: though we have ventured upon fauchin of 1611, Judith xiii. 6; xvi. 9. The strange form chawes for jaws Ezek. xxix. 4 suggests a questionable etymology. Traffique (the verb used once, the noun four times) and traffiquers Isai. xxiii. 8 have also been refused [1].

[1] In regard to the spelling of Proper names, absolute uniformity has not been aimed at, but the Hebrew has been followed in each case as it arose. The result of this has been to keep up apparent inconsistency in some places: e. g. Josh. xiii. 27, compared with ch. xix. 35.

Those English words which, whether from custom or difference of origin, vary in their signification according to the modes in which they are severally spelt, are invariably confused in the standard Bible. Travel and travail afford a familiar example of the fact, inasmuch as the fault has not yet been completely removed from modern editions, e.g. Num. xx. 14 where travel of 1629 (Camb.) and recent Bibles, though the Hebrew is הַתְּלָאָה, would just make sense, and has been substituted for travail of 1611. In Wisd. x. 10 also the latest Bibles, after that of 1629, erroneously render μόχθοις by travels, in the room of travails of 1611. In Lam. iii. 5 travel is given for תְּלָאָה, as in Num. xx. 14, in all the books from 1611 to the American (1867) which has travail: although many like errors of the original edition have been corrected by its successors. The case between twined and twinned is stated below (Appendix B, p. lxxxviii., note 3). The distinction between morter (Gen. xi. 3) and mortar Num. xi. 8; Prov. xxvii. 22, was first taken in 1638: by spelling both morter, the Bible of 1611 confounds words which have only an accidental resemblance. We should also discriminate carefully between naught (רַע) 2 Kin. ii. 19; Prov. xx. 14, and nought (i.e. nothing) Gen. xxix. 15, &c.: they were both spelt nought previously to 1638[2]. In spite of the analogy of nought, it is probably right to spell aught in such places as Gen. xxxix. 6, as the American revisers have done, but we have here abided by ought with 1611. We have not ventured on the fine distinction between veil, an article of dress, and the Vail of the Sanctuary, but retained in all cases (except in error Wisd. xvii. 3; Ecclus. l. 5 marg.) vail of 1611 in preference to veil of later editions. In Job xiv. 17 the great oversight of 1611 sowest for sewest was left in our Bibles till 1762. The similar error sow for sew in Eccles. iii. 7; Mark ii. 21, remained till 1629; in Ezek. xiii. 18 it survived beyond 1638. Between intreat (to pray) and entreat (i. e. treat) there is a broad difference of sense, properly recognized in 1762: yet in 1611 the former is spelt intreated Job xix. 16, but entreated in the next verse; while in Job xxiv. 21 the second is intreateth. In Jer. xv. 11 text and margin, intreat and entreat actually change places in 1611, and are not put right until 1638. Between enquire and inquire, on the contrary, the choice is purely indifferent; the former is chiefly adopted in 1611 (but inquired Deut. xvii. 4 Oxford reprint; Ps. lxxviii. 34; Ezekiel xx. 31 bis; John iv. 52, &c.; inquiry Prov. xx. 25), the latter is our practice, derived from our model (1858) and the recent Cambridge Bibles. Thus also we take informed with 1611 in Acts xxv. 2, rather than enformed as in 2 Macc. xiv. 1; Acts xxiv. 1; xxv. 15: but enrolled of 1611 in 1 Macc. x. 36 in preference to inrolled of the margins of Luke ii. 1; Heb. xii. 23. In Isai. v. 11 enflame is in 1611, but inflaming in Isai. lvii. 5; modern Bibles reverse this, yet all keep inflamed of 1611 in Hist. of Susanna ver. 8. Many words, the exact orthography of which is quite indifferent, we have laboured to reduce to a uniform method. Thus ankles, the usual modern practice, which we take in all five places, is found in 1611 only in Ps. xviii. 36 marg., but ancles in 2 Sam. xxii. 37 marg.; Ezek. xlvii. 3 text and marg.; Acts iii. 7: in 1629 ancles is set in the first place, ankles in the third and fourth, later Bibles recalling this last correction, but bringing ankles into 2 Sam. xxii. 37 marg. Sometimes the later Bibles issuing from different presses exhibit their characteristic varieties of spelling. Instead of inquire, noticed above as a peculiarity of the Cambridge books, those of Oxford (1857) and London or the Queen's Printer (1859) read enquire: for axe (which word is thus spelt ten times in 1611) these last, after the example of their predecessors from 1629 (Camb.) downwards, wrongly print ax, against the modern Cambridge editions. In 1 Kin. v. 9; 2 Chr. ii. 16; 1 Esdr. v. 55 we find flotes in 1611, but recent Cambridge Bibles have needlessly changed it into floats. These last are again wrong in soap, which, after 1611, the Oxford and London Bibles spell sope in both places (Jer. ii. 22; Mal. iii. 2). The truer form rasor occurs seven times in 1611 and the Cambridge text, while the books of Oxford and London have razor. In Judg. ix. 53 the Oxford editions, with 1611, adopt scull, but the Cambridge, and 1611 in all other places, prefer skull. The Cambridge books, after 1611, have gray (greyhound Prov. xxx. 31, rightly so spelt in 1629 Camb., 1630, has no connection with it), the Oxford and London grey. With the Cambridge Bible we also spell counseller (not counsellor with those of Oxford and London), as does also that of 1611 except in three places, where it has counsellours (Ezra viii. 25; Prov. xii. 20; xv. 22). Council (variously spelt councill, councel, councell in 1611) is ordinarily distinguished from counsel or counsell, but the latter is put for the former in 1 Esdr. iii. 15 marg. (χρηματιστηρίῳ); Matt. v. 22; Mark xiv. 55, all subsequently set right. Since ours, yours, theirs are possessive cases plural of the personal pronouns, the apostrophe set before s in the editions of 1762 and 1769, as also in the London and Oxford Bibles to this day, is positively incorrect: hence the Cambridge practice, which never admitted the apostrophe, has been followed in this respect.

Again, there are forms not wholly banished from our modern books, though their number is diminished in later times, whose presence tends to lend richness and variety to the style. Such is marish Ezek. xlvii. 11; 1 Macc. ix. 42, 45, for the more familiar marsh: the pathetic astonied, yet standing for the more common-place astonished in Ezra ix. 3, 4; Job xvii. 8; xviii. 20; Jer. xiv. 9; Ezek. iv. 17; Dan. iii. 24; iv. 19; v. 9, and restored to its rightful position in the great passage Isai. lii. 14, whence a false taste has removed it subsequently to 1638. Stablish also has been brought again into twelve places (e.g. Lev. xxv. 30; Deut. xix. 15) instead of established of later books: grin or grinne (Job xviii. 9; Ps. cxl. 5; cxli. 9) has been treated as a legitimate modification of gin or ginne (Job xl. 24 marg.; Isai. viii. 14; Amos iii. 5), though cast out in 1762. Once only, it would appear, a superficial difficulty is attempted to be concealed by a slight change in the spelling. In Gen. l. 23 marg. borne, which in 1611 was equivalent to born, was sufficiently correct to convey no wrong impression. To ensure clearness the final e was dropped in 1629 (Camb.), but restored again in 1762, by which time it would be sure to suggest a false meaning.

Enough has been said of those variations in orthography which are due to accident or the caprice of fashion. Others, more interesting, spring from grammatical inflections common in the older stages of our language, which have been gradually withdrawn from later Bibles, wholly or in part, chiefly by those great modernisers, Dr Paris (1762) and Dr Blayney (1769), and have all been brought back again in the present volume. Yet it is not always easy to distinguish these from forms involving a mere change in spelling, and different persons will judge differently about them at times. Thus we cannot well retain growen 1 Kin. xii. 8, 10, while we alter knowen 1 Kin. xiv. 2, &c. To reject, however, such words as fet by substituting the modern fetched, is a liberty far beyond what an editor of our version ought ever to have assumed: we have restored fet in 2 Sam. ix. 5; xi. 27; 1 Kin. vii. 13; ix. 28; 2 Kin. xi. 4; 2 Chr. xii. 11; Jer. xxvi. 23; xxxvi. 21; Acts xxviii. 13: it is full as legitimate as fetcht of 2 Sam. xiv. 2; 2 Kin. iii. 9; 2 Chr. i. 17, and even of our latest Bibles in Gen. xviii. 7. The editors of 1762 and 1769 bestowed much evil diligence in clearing our English Translation of this participle in -t, Blayney following in the steps of Paris and supplying many of his deficiencies, yet, with characteristic negligence, leaving not a few untouched. Thus burned is substituted by them for burnt in some 93 places (burnt being left untouched in 2 Kin. xvi. 4; xvii. 11, &c.). For lift they put lifted 95 times, once (Dan. iv. 34, where lift is past tense indicative) with some show of reason; sometimes (e. g. Zech. i. 21, where lift up is present) to the detriment of the sense. Similar cases are built Neh. iii. 1 (builded ver. 2, 1611): clapt 2 Kin. xi. 12: clipt Jer. xlviii. 37: cropt Ezek. xvii. 4: crusht Num. xxii. 25: deckt Prov. vii. 16; 2 Esdr. xv. 47; 1 Macc. iv. 57: dipt Lev. ix. 9; 1 Sam. xiv. 27; 2 Kin. viii. 15; Rev. xix. 13 (dipped also in 1611 Gen. xxxvii. 31): girt 1 Sam. ii. 4 (girded ver. 18 in 1611): leapt 1 Kin. xviii. 26 (text, leaped marg.); Wisd. xviii. 15 (leaped 1611 in ch. xix. 9); 1 Macc. xiii. 44; Acts xix. 16: mixt Prov. xxiii. 30; Isai. i. 22; Dan. ii. 41 (sic 1611, not ver. 43, the second time); 2 Esdr. xiii. 11: past 2 Cor. v. 17 (so even moderns in 1 Pet. iv. 3; in Eph. ii. 11 we have passed in 1611, past 1769): pluckt 1 Chr. xi. 23; Ezra ix. 3; Neh. xiii. 25; Job xxix. 17; Prov. ii. 22 marg.; Dan. vii. 4, 8; xi. 4; Amos iv. 11; Zech. iii. 2; 2 Macc. xiv. 46 (plucked 1611 in Gal. iv. 15): puft Col. ii. 18: pusht Ezek. xxxiv. 21: ravisht Prov. v. 19, 20 (ravished 1611 in Zech. xiv. 2): ript 2 Kin. xv. 16; Hos. xiii. 16; Amos i. 13: slipt 1 Sam. xix. 10; Ps. lxxiii. 2; Ecclus. xiii. 22; xiv. 1: stampt 2 Kin. xxiii. 6, 15: start Tobit ii. 4 (started 1762, but it might be present, ἀναπηδήσας ἀνειλόμην): stopt 2 Chr. xxxii. 4 (stopped ver. 30; Zech. vii. 11 in 1611): stript Ex. xxxiii. 6; 1 Sam. xviii. 4; xix. 24; 2 Chr. xx. 25; Job xix. 9; Mic. i. 8: watcht Ps. lix. title: wrapt 1 Sam. xxi. 9; 2 Kin. ii. 8; Job xl. 17; Ezek. xxi. 15; Jonah ii. 5. These archaic preterites contribute to produce a pleasing variety in the style of our version, and are grammatically just as accurate as the modern forms; which is perhaps hardly the case with rent when it is used not as a preterite only, but as a present, as in Lev. xxi. 10 (sic, 1611); 2 Sam. iii. 31; 1 Kin. xi. 31; Eccles. iii. 7; Isai. lxiv. 1 (sic, 1611); Ezek. xiii. 11, 13; xxix. 7; Hos. xiii. 8; Joel ii. 13; Matt. vii. 6; John xix. 24. Other antiquated preterites are begun Num. xxv. 1 (began 1611 in Gen. iv. 26): drunk Gen. xliii. 34 (text not margin); Dan. v. 4: shaked Ecclus. xxix. 18; shined quite as often as shone; sprang Gen. xli. 6 (sprung ver. 23): stale Gen. xxxi. 20; 2 Kin. xi. 2 (stole 2 Sam. xv. 6; 2 Chr. xxii. 11 in 1611): strooke 1 Sam. ii. 14; 2 Chr. xiii. 20 (sic, 1611); 1 Esdr. iv. 30 (stroke 2 Macc. i. 16; Matt. xxvi. 51; Luke xxii. 64; John xviii. 22, also strake 2 Sam. xii. 15; xx. 10: never struck): stunk Ex. vii. 21 (stank ch. viii. 14 in 1611): sung Ezra iii. 11: swore 1 Macc. vii. 35: wan 1 Macc. i. 2; xii. 33 (sic, 1611); 2 Macc. x. 17; xii. 28 (won 2 Macc. xv. 9 in 1611). Among past participles may be noted (wast) begot Ecclus. vii. 28: (his) hid (things) Obad. 6: (have) sit Ecclus. xi. 5. It would have been well to have retained lien (which even modern Bibles keep in Ps. lxviii. 13) for lain in Num. v. 19, 20, as we have in the other places, Judg. xxi. 11; Job iii. 13; John xi. 17. Other verbal forms deserving notice are oweth Lev. xiv. 35; Acts xxi. 11, and ought Matt. xviii. 24, 28; Luke vii. 41, which were not changed into owneth and owed respectively till after 1638: leese (lose 1762) 1 Kin. xviii. 5. The noun flixe (flix 1629) was corrupted into flux in Acts xxviii. 8 as early as 1699.

It is hard to discover any intelligible principle which guided the editors of 1762 and 1769 in their vexatious changes of several particles into their cognate forms. Thus for amongst they print among 81 times, for towards they print toward 121 times, for besides they give beside 44 times[1], yet keep the forms they dislike so often that it is plain they have no design to disuse them altogether. Such wanton, or perhaps merely careless, variations are cancelled in this volume. Nor can there be any good ground for turning sith into since as does Dr Paris in Jer. xv. 7; Zech. iv. 10 marg.; 2 Esdr. vii. 53, and Blayney in Jer. xxiii. 38, the rather as sith is in our modern Bibles Ezek. xxxv. 6: sithence in 2 Esdr. x. 14 was modernized into since as early as 1616, so that it must have been going out of use even then. All our Bibles preserve whiles in 2 Macc. ix. 9; x. 36, yet in Ps. xlix. 18 while is printed in 1762; in Isai. lxv. 24 whiles in 1769 becomes while; whilst becomes while in Heb. iii. 15; ix. 17 in the books of 1629; in 2 Macc. vii. 24 whilst is substituted for whiles in 1629. The interchanges between to and unto in Gen. xxv. 33 (1629 Lond.); 1 Kin. xxii. 53 (1616); 1 Macc. vii. 20 (1629 Camb.); Luke xx. 42 (1616); 2 Cor. xi. 9 (1629 Camb.) are not very intelligible. Amidst all this unmeaning tampering with the text, the several editors, especially those of 1762 and 1769, carried out fully at least two things on which they had set their minds: they got rid of the quaint old moe for more (spelt mo in the Bible of 1638) from the 35 places in which it occurs in the standard copies, and in 364 places they have altered the nominative plural you into ye, besides that Blayney makes the opposite change in Build you Num. xxxii. 24; Wash you Isai. i. 16; Get you Zech. vi. 7; Turn you Zech. ix. 12. In one particular the orthography of modern Bibles has been acquiesced in. The word midst is often spelt in the Authorized Bibles as middest, about Ezekiel and some of the later Prophets almost constantly for a time. This form, however strange to our eyes, would have the advantage of suggesting the true character of the word as a superlative adjective; but the spelling varies so much between midst, middest, midest (Judith vi. 11), middes (Ps. cxvi. 19; Acts xxvii. 21; Phil. ii. 15) and mids (Jer. xxxvii. 12; Hist. Susanna ver. 34, 48, &c.), that it seemed safer to fall back on our general rule of adopting that one out of several forms which best suits the modern usage.

The practice of the Authorized Version with respect to placing the indefinite article a or an before a word beginning with h calls for some consideration, the rather as modern Bibles, with the exception of the American (see p. xxiii.) which conforms to present usage, have made no systematic or important changes regarding it. It would seem indeed as if a were but an abridged form of an, the n being dropped before an initial consonant proper, and only subsequently, under certain limitations, before h aspirated. Thus Chaucer's use an halle, an hare, an herth, is uniform, and the fashion maintained its ground far into the sixteenth century. In the earliest draft of our English Litany, contained in the King's Primer of 1545, we read, "an heart to love and dread thee," as it still remains in the Book of Common Prayer; and such cases as a harpe 1 Sam. x. 5, a hert Ecclus. xvii. 6 in Coverdale's Bible of 1535 are quite rare, though no doubt the custom of dropping the n had already begun. In the Authorized Version of 1611 we mark a further step in the same direction. As a general rule an is there retained before the sounded h, though the exceptions are more numerous than some have supposed, and suggest to the modern editor the propriety of conforming the Bible to the now universal habit of the best English writers. The following list will shew how the matter stands in the original books:

An habergeon Ex. xxviii. 32; xxxix. 23[1]: an habit Heb. v. 14 marg.: a habitation Jer. xxxiii. 12 up to 1629 Camb., 1630, but an in 8 places: an Hachmonite 1 Chr. xi. 11: a hair 1 Kin. i. 52[2]; Luke xxi. 18 up to 1629 Camb. and Lond., 1630, an in 3 places: a hairy Gen. xxvii. 11, an twice: a half Ex. xxv. 10 (1st and 3rd, an in 2nd until 1629), 17, 23; xxxvi. 21; xxxvii. 1 (ter), 10; Ezek. xl. 42 (2nd); 2 Esdr. xiii. 45, but an in 16 places: a hammer Jer. xxiii. 29, an hammer Judg. iv. 21: a hand Ex. xix. 13 up to 1638, but an 5 times: an handbreadth 7 times: an handful 5 times: a handmaid Gen. xxix. 24 up to the two editions of 1629, but an twice: an hanging thrice: a happy 2 Macc. vii. 24: a hard 2 Kin. ii. 10; Ps. xxxi. 18 marg.;

Camb., 1638, 1744, 1762) will not affect the sense, as may be seen from ver. 19, where the Hebrew is virtually the same. Both forms of the English word then meant "except," which is the signification here.

[1] This is apparently correct, if Dean Alford's rule be true: "When the accent is on the second, or any following syllable of the word, we may use an, because the first syllable, by losing its accent, also loses some portion of the strength of its aspiration" (The Queen's English, p. 43).

[1] Of these words whose initial h is unaspirated, humble and perhaps herb are a little doubtful; but they have all one property in common, in that they are Latin words coming to us through the French.

An huckster Ecclus. xxvi. 29: an humble Prov. xvi. 19; Song, ver. 16 is probably true, and is so represented in the American Bible: a hungry Isai. xxix. 8 up to 1762, 2 Esdr. xvi. 6 up to 1629, but an Ecclus. iv. 2: a husband Ruth i. 12 (once out of 3 times, but an thrice in 1762); Jer. xxxi. 32 marg. (not text) up to 1629 Camb.; Ecclus. iv. 10, but an 15 times: an husbandman Gen. ix. 20; Zech. xiii. 5.

An hymn Matt. xxvi. 30; Mark xiv. 26: an hypocrite Job xiii. 16; Prov. xi. 9; Isai. ix. 17; Ecclus. i. 29; xxxiii. 2: an hypocritical Isai. x. 6.

This variable and inconsistent practice of the Authorized Bible, rather concealed than remedied in later editions, will probably be allowed to justify our rejection of the n of the indefinite article, whensoever modern usage shall demand it. In the case of the word hundred alone this has not been done, as well because that out of the 150 places or more wherein hundred occurs a is found before it only in six (Ex. xxxviii. 9; Judg. xx. 10 once; 1 Kin. vii. 2; Isai. xxxvii. 36; Ecclus. xli. 4; 1 Macc. vii. 41), whereof all but Isai. xxxvii. 36 are corrected in subsequent copies, as especially because an hundred is still found in some recent writers conspicuous for purity of style. The choice between an hungred (Matt. iv. 2; xii. 1, 3; xxv. 35, 37, 42, 44; Mark ii. 25; Luke vi. 3) and a hungred, which latter does not occur in 1611, is more precarious, inasmuch as here an or a is probably not the article at all, but a prefix expressive of a continued state, as "a building" 2 Chr. xvi. 6; 1 Esdr. vi. 20, "a coming" Luke ix. 42, "a dying" Luke viii. 42; Heb. xi. 21, "a fishing" John xxi. 3, "a preparing" 1 Pet. iii. 20 (where, however, a might represent the prepositions at[2] or on), athirst Matt. xxv. 44, for which thirsty is substituted in ver. 35, 37, 42, where the connection with an hungred is not so close[3]. An is also made to precede w in three passages of the standard Bibles, an whole Num. x. 2 up to 1762 (but not in Num. xi. 20), an whore Prov. xxiii. 27 also up to 1762; 2 Esdr. xvi. 49 altered after 1638. Such a one, where the sound is cognate to that of w, should be the form taken if we acquiesce in a before whole, &c., and is adopted by our Translators in Gen. xli. 38; Ruth iv. 1; Ps. l. 21 (an 1762); lxviii. 21 (an 1762); Ecclus. xxvi. 28 (an 1638); 1 Cor. v. 5 (an 1638), 11 (an both books of 1629); 2 Cor. x. 11 (an 1629 Camb.); xii. 2, 5 (an both books of 1629); Gal. vi. 1 (an 1629 Camb.); Philem. 9 (an 1762), but such an one Job xiv. 3; Ecclus. vi. 14; x. 9; xx. 15; 2 Macc. vi. 27.

My and mine, thy and thine, should of course be used respectively as a and an before a consonant, or vowel, or h; but neither the original Translators nor later editors have shewn any knowledge of the fact, so that in the present volume it has been deemed advisable to follow the Bible of 1611 exactly in this respect, the earlier issue a little in preference to the other. The changes introduced in more recent books are apparently capricious or accidental, being as often wrong as right. Thus if my of 1611 is turned into mine before integrity Job xxvii. 5 in 1762, and mine correctly changed into my before head by the same, Luke vii. 46; the opposite alterations of my for mine before eyelids Job xvi. 16 in 1617, of thy for thine before eyes Job xv. 12 in 1769, and of thine for thy before hands 1 Macc. xv. 7 in 1629, prove clearly that they had no principle to guide them in the matter. Mutations of these forms made for the better in later Bibles will be seen in Deut. xvi. 15 and xviii. 4 (1769); Isai. lxiv. 8 (1629 Camb.); Ezek. xvi. 11 (1762); Zech. viii. 6 (1629 Camb.); Tobit ii. 13 and v. 14 (1629); Wisd. viii. 17 (1629); 1 Macc. ii. 18 (1629); Luke xiii. 12 (1616); 2 Cor. xi. 26 (1629, both books). Those changed for the worse are Deut. ii. 24 and xv. 7 (1769); Ruth ii. 13 (2nd) and 1 Sam. ii. 35 (1629, both books); Job xxxi. 7 (1762); xl. 4 (1629 Camb.); Ps. cxvi. 16 (later than 1638); Eccles. iii. 18 (1629 Lond.); 2 Esdr. x. 55 and Ecclus. v. 8 (1629); Ecclus. li. 2 (1629, 1630). These passages may be verified by comparing any modern Bible with the present volume.

The apparent solecisms also and unusual grammatical constructions of our standard of 1611 have been scrupulously retained, without any attempt to amend them. Such as they are, they comprise an integral part of the Translation, and preserve phrases once legitimate enough, which have since grown obsolete. Later editors have but ill spent their pains in partial attempts to remove or conceal them. Some, indeed, violate the concord of the verb with its subject, as Ex. ix. 31 "the flax and the barley was smitten," as in the Hebrew: "tidings is brought" 2 Sam. xviii. 31 marg.: "thou wast he that leddest" 1 Chr. xi. 2: "earth and water was wont" Judith ii. 7 marg.: "the number of names together were" Acts i. 15[1]: "a great company...were obedient" Acts vi. 7, as in the Greek: "riches is..." Rev. xviii. 17. In 1 Cor. vii. 32, however, we have acquiesced in "the things that belong" (see Appendix A), "belong" being substituted for "belongeth" as early as 1612. These faults may be imputed to venial carelessness, to the momentary relaxing of close attention which every one is sensible of in the course of a long task. At other times our version reminds the reader of some racy idiomatic expression which once formed a part of the spoken or even of the written language of our ancestors. A good example of this kind of archaism, which the best grammarians even now hesitate to condemn, is the double genitive in such cases as Gen. xxxi. 1 and the rest, given in Appendix C, p. xci., and note 3. The opposite practice of suppressing the sign of the possessive altogether, which survives in modern Bibles in Judg. iii. 16 "of a cubit length," is found in 1611 in Lev. vii. 23; xiv. 54 (Appendix C in loco); xxv. 5 "it[2] own accord"; and in one issue, Esther i. 13 "the king manner" (Appendix B, p. lxxxix.): it was never removed from Rev. xviii. 12 (bis). It may be stated here that the habit of placing the apostrophe before or after s to indicate the possessive case, singular or plural respectively, was first adopted by the editor of 1762 in part, more consistently by Blayney, yet with so little care that not very few errors in the placing of the apostrophe, such as one glance at the original would have detected, have clung to our common Bibles to this day, and have been left for us to set right. These are all noted in Appendix A (see p. lxix., note 4), and being of modern date, are distinguished by being placed within brackets: e.g.

[1] Thus also Rev. ix. 16 (and viii. 9) in all Bibles. In 1 Esdr. viii. 49 a similar oversight is corrected in the present edition, as also in Acts xxv. 23 "was" is amended into "were." See Appendix A, pp. lxxxiv., lxxxvi. In Tobit iv. 10 (see Appendix C), the text of 1611 is correct. Compare also Cant. iv. 2 with ch. vi. 6.

[2] The only place in our version where "it" occurs in the possessive case, although much wanted in Num. xx. 8; Zech. iv. 2. See Mr Aldis Wright's full note on "It" in his Bible Word-book, and Bain, English Grammar, p. 87.

1 Sam. ii. 13; 1 Chr. vii. 2, 40. Since there exists no doubt that this s represents the Anglo-Saxon possessive ending -es (-is more often in Old English) it is manifest that the possessive his standing after the possessing noun is a mere error. We have accordingly adopted the changes of 1762, "Asa's heart" 1 Kin. xv. 14 for "Asa his heart" (Bishops'); "Mordecai's matters" Esther iii. 4 for "Mordecai his matters"; elsewhere retaining the original form in 1 Esdr. ii. 30; iii. 7, 8; Judith xiii. 9; xv. 11; 2 Macc. i. 33 marg.; iv. 38; xii. 22 (Bishops'), all in the debased style of the Apocrypha (see Sect. VII. p. lxv.). The antiquated singular for plural with the word "year" has been kept in 2 Kin. xxiii. 36; Jer. lii. 1; Dan. v. 31; Amos i. 1; 1 Esdr. i. 39; 1 Macc. ix. 57; 2 Macc. iv. 23; Rom. iv. 19 (see App. C in locis citatis). In like manner we have "two mile" John xi. 18 marg. (App. C): "three pound" 1 Kin. x. 17; Ezra ii. 69; Neh. vii. 71, 72; 1 Macc. xiv. 24; xv. 18; John xix. 39: "thirty change" Judg. xiv. 12, 13: "thirty foot" Ezek. xli. 6 marg.: so "an eight days" Luke ix. 28: these last have never been altered. The use of the cardinal for the ordinal number we have suppressed only four times, the earliest being Gen. viii. 13, on which passage in Appendix A, note 2, the case is stated. Nor have we meddled with a few manifest inaccuracies of other kinds, most of which the hands even of Dr Blayney have spared. Such are the pronouns pleonastic in "which pains...they slack not" 2 Esdr. xvi. 38; "Onias...he went" 2 Macc. iv. 4, 5[1]: the double negatives in "shall not leave...neither name nor... 2 Sam. xiv. 7; "Give none offence, neither...nor... nor" 1 Cor. x. 32. The objective in the place of the nominative in "him that soweth" Prov. vi. 19 was corrected in 1769; it is less clear that "whom" is wrong in Matt. xvi. 13, 15; Acts xiii. 25. The use of the adjective for the adverb is not unfrequent in the Authorized Version (Eph. iv. 1; 1 Thess. ii. 12; 2 Pet. ii. 6), and has not been disturbed even in so extreme a case as "wonderful great" 2 Chr. ii. 9. Double superlatives, "most straitest" Acts xxvi. 5; "chiefest" Mark x. 44, and the places cited in the margin there, have ceased to displease by reason of their very familiarity. Verbs transitive and intransitive are sometimes confounded; e.g. "lying in wait" Acts xx. 19 compared with "laying await" Acts ix. 24; "to be heat" Dan. iii. 19; "shall ripe" 2 Esdr. xvi. 26; "will fat" Ecclus. xxvi. 13 (see Appendix C, p. xcv., for the last three); "can white" Mark ix. 3; compare "did fear" Wisd. xvii. 9. The following errors have not been touched, the first three being imported from the Bishops' version, "that we should live still in wickedness and to suffer, and not to know wherefore" 2 Esdr. iv. 12; "if any man knew where he were" John xi. 57; "or ever he come near" Acts xxiii. 15; "if we know that he hear us" 1 John v. 15 (Bishops', after Tyndale). The next instance seems to have been influenced by the Greek (like Acts vii. 39), "she took it, and laid it on her mule; and made ready her carts, and laid them (αὐτὰ) thereon" Judith xv. 11.

A few miscellaneous observations may close this branch of the subject.

The more English prefix un- in the place of im- or in- has been restored in all eleven passages where it was given in 1611; even modern Bibles keep unperfect, Ps. cxxxix. 16. This form chiefly comes from the Bishops' version; except those cases cited on Matt. xvii. 20 in Appendix C, it is found only in Wisdom and Ecclesiasticus. To set s after the Hebrew termination -im (Gen. iii. 24; Ex. xxv. 18; xxvi. 1, &c.) is a manifest inaccuracy, and if the American rule (Report, &c. p. 22) had been adopted of rejecting the s throughout, no valid objection could have been raised. The middle course taken in recent English editions, that of sometimes making the required change and sometimes not, admits of no reasonable defence. We have simply abided by the standard of 1611 in every instance, not caring to adopt even such changes as that set down in Appendix C on Gen. xxvi. 1. In regard to the interjection O or Oh, the American plan (ubi supra) looks tempting from its simplicity, since it limits O to the pure vocative, and employs Oh for the optative, which practically introduces the latter into the great majority of places. But Oh in English is neither dignified nor pleasing enough for constant repetition, and after a fruitless attempt to discover the law observed by our Translators, it has been judged advisable to limit Oh to passages where the optative sense is very decided, as when it answers to the Hebrew נָא Gen. xix. 18, 20, or אֵם 1 Chr. iv. 10, or אָנָּה Ps. cxvi. 16, or הוֹי Isai. xxix. 1 marg.: it would probably be better to banish Oh altogether. The intensive forms of certain words are occasionally put for the weaker, and vice versâ, perhaps for euphony: thus bide Rom. xi. 23 becomes abide, ware in Matt. xxiv. 50 becomes aware (see App. C in loco), both in 1762: rise becomes arise 1 Sam. xxiv. 8 (both books of 1629, 1630); xxv. 42 (1629 Camb., which makes the opposite change in ch. xxviii. 25); 2 Sam. xix. 8 (1629 Lond.); Tobit xii. 21 (1638); 1 Macc. ix. 23 (1769); Mark x. 1 (1629 Camb.); Luke viii. 24 (1616). In Gen. xi. 3 thoroughly best represents thorowly of 1611, though the latter has throughly in Ex. xxi. 19 (where thoroughly of 1762 should be withdrawn from our text); 2 Kin. xi. 18; Job vi. 2. Lastly, it ought to be stated that the diphthongs æ and œ occur only in that small Roman type which in the Bibles of 1611 answers to our italic, and have no corresponding characters in the black letter in which the text is printed. In this way we mark Cæsars Phil. i. 13 marg., chœnix Rev. vi. 6 marg., the same character being set up in both places. In fact, a simple e represented both these diphthongs in the ordinary Bibles until after Blayney's time, when they gradually came into use, though they are wanting in the latest copies for Nagge Luke iii. 25, Menan ver. 31, Colosse Col. i. 2, nor do they exist at all in the American book, except in chœnix. In 1611 indeed they found more favour than afterwards, for besides the margins afore-mentioned, we meet with Coelosyria in 1 Esdr. ii. 17, &c., Aenon John iii. 23, which double vowels, after having been made real diphthongs in 1630, and partly in both books of 1629, were converted into simple e in the influential edition of 1638.

The employment of capital letters was much more free in the seventeenth century than at present, and in the Authorized Version whole classes of words that seem little entitled to that distinction are constantly so represented. Such are Altar, Ark, Court, Hanging, Mercy-seat, Noble, Priest, Sabbath, Statutes, Tabernacle; even Cedar-wood, Shittim-wood, &c. The tendency of later times has been to diminish such capitals very considerably, and in a few instances the moderns may have gone a little too far. Cherubims has a capital now only in Gen. iii. 24, and the Americans seem right in removing it thence. Archbishop Trench would restore the lost capital in "Vengeance" Acts xxviii. 4, which is not in the Bishops' Bible, and was withdrawn as early as 1629 (both editions), but then we must treat Wisd. xi. 20 in the same way, for the personification is just as strongly marked, though the initial v is small in 1611. Ordinary words also, when pregnant with sacred associations, may wisely be distinguished by a capital. Such are Testimony Ex. xvi. 34, &c., Witness Num. xvii. 7, 8, &c., especially in Acts vii. 44, where in 1611 the w is small. But indeed the practice of our Translators in this matter is little more consistent than in certain others. Thus we have "the city of Salt" Josh. xv. 62, but "the valley of salt" 2 Sam. viii. 13, in all our books from 1611 downwards. With Mr Gorle we prefer no capital, where the character rather than the name of the region is designated. Sometimes an initial capital is useful to intimate a change of speaker, as in John iv. 9, where "For" of 1611 ("for" 1629 Camb., &c.) shews that the woman's speech is already ended[1].

But what in most instances is only a matter of taste or propriety, becomes of real importance where the Divine Persons are spoken of. The familiar rule that Spirit should have a capital when the Holy Ghost or Spirit Himself is indicated, while spirit ought to be used in other cases, even when His power or influence is referred to, may be as safe as any, yet in application it gives rise to occasional perplexity, which the inconsistencies of the standard and other editions do little to remove. Thus in Gen. xli. 38 the Bible of 1611 has spirit (changed as early as 1613, though Spirit was not finally adopted before 1762), while in the precise parallel (Ex. xxxi. 3) it reads Spirit. The original edition is right also in 2 Chr. xxiv. 20 (s); Ps. cxxxix. 7 (s); Isai. xi. 2 (S, and s three times); xxx. 1 (S); lix. 19 (s); Matt. iv. 1 (S); Mark i. 12 (S); Acts x. 19 (s, as ch. xi. 12, 28); Rom. i. 4 (S); 1 John v. 8 (S, as all ver. 6), against some or many later Bibles, but wrongly has S Num. xi. 17, 25 (bis),

[1] James iv. 5 is less easy to deal with. In 1611 we have "the spirit," but from 1629 (both editions) "The spirit" has prevailed, as if a quotation began at this point, which is hardly true.

29. In 2 Esdr. vi. 39 Spiritus calls for the capital, when the verse is compared with Gen. i. 2, though none hitherto have so printed it, whereas spiramen 2 Esdr. xvi. 62 requires the opposite. Thus every case must be considered on its own merits. So again, while we admit that "Son of God" or "Son of man," wheresoever the word refers to the Lord Christ, should invariably have a capital letter[1], we may legitimately question its propriety in Dan. iii. 25; vii. 13, where it does not appear in 1611: the analogy of Rev. i. 13 has persuaded us to receive S from the books of 1629 (Lond.), 1630. Appellations derived from the Divine attributes we have indicated by capitals, whatever the variations of editions, being more studious of uniformity in such matters than of following the inconsistencies of those that have preceded us. Thus, when relating to God, we have Author (Wisd. xiii. 3), Father, the Most High, the Holy One, Maker[2], Mighty One, Redeemer[3], Saviour[4]. As regards Scripture, we abide by the ordinary rule of using the capital where the whole body of Holy Writ is meant (e.g. John v. 39, to which might be added 2 Tim. iii. 15, 16), the small s where some particular portion is referred to[5].

Section VI.

On the references to parallel texts of Scripture which are set in the margin.

A large proportion of the time and labour bestowed on the present volume has been spent upon the references to parallel texts which are set in the margin. The Authorized Version only followed the example of earlier English translations in providing these materials for the exact study of Holy Scripture by means of comparing one portion of it with others. In fact, more than half the references contained in the edition of 1611 are derived from manuscript and printed copies of the Vulgate Latin Bible, and thus present to us the fruits of the researches of mediæval scholars and the traditional expositions of the Western Church. The references found in the standard of 1611, however, scarcely amount to a seventh part of those printed in modern Bibles, and have been computed not to exceed nine thousand[6]; the whole of which, inasmuch as they must be regarded as an integral portion of the Translators' work, have been scrupulously retained in this volume; except only a few where the reference is hopelessly wrong. Such are Chap. xvi. 15 in the margin of 2 Sam. xix. 19: Eccles. v. 12 in that of Job xx. 19: Judg. xiii. 21 in that of Ps. cvi. 2: Judg. vii. 19 in that of Ps. cvi. 6. Sometimes they appear to have mistaken the drift or meaning of the passage; e.g. 1 Chron. ix. set over against Neh. xii. 23, where our existing books of the Chronicles are scarcely meant at all: Prov. xv. 30 as parallel to Eccles. vii. 1: Ps. cxxxii. 6 as parallel to Jer. vii. 14: and 2 Macc. iii. 4 referred to in Ecclus. l. 1, although quite a different person is meant: the last two have disappeared from modern Bibles. Occasionally, indeed, the original reference has been preserved by us, where it would hardly have been accepted on its own merits: such is the case of Ex. xxxiv. 6 in the margin of Neh. ix. 32: Deut. vii. 1, (2) in that of Ps. cxlix. 9: Ps. l. 9 in that of Prov. xxi. 27: Isai. liii. 3 in that of Wisd. ii. 15: 2 Cor. iii. 17 in that of John iv. 24: Matt. xxviii. 19 in that of John xv. 16: Mark ix. 12 (from the Vulgate) in Isai. liii. 3: Rom. vii. 9 in 1 Thess. iii. 8[7]. The doubtful appropriateness of these references is occasionally indicated by annexing to them the note of interrogation (?). As

[2] As in 1611, "maker" has no capital in Isai. xlv. 9. 11. where a contrast is intended with the "makers" of idols.

[3] So (against the standard of 1611) we read in Prov. xxiii. 11, comparing Job xix. 25.

[4] Yet not so with 1611 in Ps. cvi. 21, since temporal deliverance seems to be intended: cf. Judg. iii. 9 marg.

[5] For the small capitals, by which our Translation represents the Hebrew JEHOVAH, see Appendix A, p. lxviii., note 1.

[6] In the Old Testament 6588, in the Apocrypha 885, in the New Testament 1517. Comparatively few additions have been made to the original parallel texts in the Apocrypha—Blayney has only 1772 in all—and many more in proportion in the New Testament than in the Old. These figures are taken from Hewlett's Commentary, Vol. I. p. 45, 4to., cited by Hartwell Horne (Introduction, Vol. II. Part II. p. 81, 1834), who computes Blayney's additions alone at 30,495 (p. 80), which is probably too high a sum.

[7] In Amos ii. 1 the reference of 1611 to 2 Kin. iii. 27 has been retained, because the heading to the latter chapter renders it plain that our Translators supposed (wrongly, as it would seem) that the king of Edom's son was sacrificed.

we cannot praise very highly the typographical correctness of the Bibles of 1611 in other particulars (see p. xii.), so it must be stated that no other portion of the work is so carelessly printed as these parallel texts, each issue having a few errors peculiar to itself[1], but few leaves indeed being exempt from some gross fault common to them both. The references to the Psalms direct us constantly to the wrong verse; namely, that of the Latin Vulgate from which they were first derived, not to that of the English Bible on whose pages they stand. The marks of reference from the text to the margin are so often misplaced, that it would be endless to enumerate glaring errors in regard to them which have long since been removed.

One of the main services rendered by the revisers of the Cambridge folios of 1629 and 1638 was the setting right these vexatious inaccuracies of the earlier books, which toilsome duty they performed very thoroughly, leaving to their successors the more congenial employment of adding largely to the original texts, a liberty which seems to have been taken by almost every one who prepared a special edition. Whensoever a reference had once found its way into the margin, there it was allowed to remain, unchallenged and even unexamined, however frivolous or mistaken it might be. Moreover, in recent Bibles that do not contain the Apocryphal books, all references drawn from them by our Translators have been summarily rejected, through the same unwarrantable licence which led later editors to expunge altogether the marginal note in 1 Chr. vii. 28 (see Appendix A, pp. lxxxii. note 1, lxxxiii. note 2), and to mutilate that on Acts xiii. 18 by striking out the reference to 2 Macc. vii. 27. All such Apocryphal texts, together with a few others dropped through apparent inadvertence, have in the present volume been restored to their rightful places. The parallel references in the Apocrypha itself have been largely increased, as well for other purposes, as with a view to illustrate the style of the Greek New Testament.

The textual references which have been gradually accumulating in the margins of our modern Bibles have here been received or expunged solely on their own merits: they have no such general reception to plead in their favour as those in the standard of 1611. Many of them are excellent, and help much for the right understanding of Scripture: these, after having been verified more than once, as well in the original tongues as in the Authorized Version, have of course been retained. Of the rest, a larger portion than might have been anticipated have been judged irrelevant, questionable, or even untrue. No editions are more open to criticism in this particular than those of Dr Paris (1762) and of Dr Blayney (1769), who between them added at least half as many references as they found already existing. The worst errors, because unlearned readers cannot discover or so much as suspect them, relate to parallelisms which are true in the English, false in the Hebrew or Greek. Such are Judg. ix. 27 cited at Judg. xvi. 25 (1769): 1 Chr. v. 26 cited at 1 Kin. xi. 14 (1769): 1 Sam. xii. 21 (1762) and Isai. xli. 29 (1769) cited at 1 Kin. xvi. 13: 1 Sam. ix. 9 cited at 1 Chr. xxi. 9 (1762): Ruth i. 21 cited at Job x. 17 (1769): Hos. xi. 12 cited at Ps. cxxxii. 16 (1762): Ex. xxviii. 36; xxix. 6; Lev. viii. 9 cited at Zech. vi. 11 (1769): John xix. 40 cited at Acts v. 6 and vice versâ (1762). Even in the Bible of 1611 we have Gen. iv. 4 made to illustrate Num. xvi. 15, although the resemblance is far less exact than the English might make it appear. References objectionable on more general grounds, some few being scarcely intelligible, are Num. ii. 3, 10, 18, 25 to illustrate Ezek. i. 10 (1762): the marvellous comment implied by citing John i. 14; Col. ii. 9 in Rev. xiii. 6, and 2 Kin. xx. 7 in Rev. xiii. 14 (both due to 1762): the allusions to the Great day of Atonement in Jer. xxxvi. 6 (1762 and 1769), whereas some special fast is obviously meant (ver. 9): the hopeless confusion arising from connecting Acts xx. 1, 3 with 1 Tim. i. 3 (1762): the tasteless quotation of 1 Sam. xxiv. 3 in Jonah i. 5 (1762). Hardly less false are John x. 23 cited at 1 Kin. vii. 12 (1762) and Acts iii. 11 (1762): 1 Chr. xxiv. 10 and Luke i. 5 made parallel to Neh. xii. 4, 17 (1762): Josh. xiv. 10 to Matt. iii. 1 (1762): while Ex. xxiii. 2 employed to explain Job xxxi. 34

[1] Thus the copy from which the Oxford reprint was taken corrects Synd. A. 3. 14 in 1 Kin. ii. 11. 2 Chr. xxxiv. 4; xxxvi. 10. Ezra viii. 20: while the latter is right and the former wrong in Ps. xxxii. 5; xliii. 5; lxxviii. 60, where it should be stated that the first and third examples are from the revised sheets of Synd. A. 3. 14 (p. xi.). But these are exceptional cases. The two issues ordinarily coincide in most manifest errors.

(1769); Esther vii. 8 compared with Prov. x. 6 (1769); 1 Kin. v. 17, 18 with Prov. xxiv. 27 (1769); Ps. lxviii. 4 with Isai. xl. 3 (1762); Dan. iv. 27 with Ecclus. xxxv. 3 (1762), will be regarded as but slender helps to the student of Scripture. In 2 Macc. ii. 8 the allusion surely is to Ex. xl. 38, not (as in 1762) to Ex. xxxiv. 5. Finally, the note of interrogation is annexed in these pages to some overbold, though not impossible, suggestions of the more recent editors, as when in Ps. cxxxiii. 3 the reference to Deut. iv. 48 (1762) would identify צִיּוֹן with שִׂיאֹן.

We can only conjecture that the "Scotch edition" of which Dr Blayney speaks so vaguely in his Report to the Delegates (see Appendix D, p. xcix.) was that of Brown of Haddington, then just published. The parallel texts of Canne (1664, 1682), though often surprisingly wide of the mark, are said by those who have patiently used them to be at times very suggestive, and to contain more truth than might appear on the surface[1]. The editor of Bagster's Miniature Quarto Bible 1846, while "admitting without examination the references of Blayney, Scott [1822], Clarke [1810, &c.] and the English Version of Bagster's Polyglot, from their acknowledged accuracy," held himself obliged "to verify all that were found in Canne, Brown, and Wilson [i.e. Crutwell, 1785, p. xcix., note 2]; the aggregate number, it is believed, being nearly half a million" (Preface, p. i.). It is plain that so numerous a host can prove little else than an encumbrance to the private Christian, by positively discouraging him from resorting to the margin at all, and even earnest students will often be sensible of the danger incurred by such burdensome and minute commentaries, lest, "after all, the design and scope of the whole may not be understood, while the reader's mind stays so long in the several parts" (Bp. Patrick, Dedication to Paraphrase of Job). Bagster's publications have been so perpetually consulted in cases of difficulty for the purposes of the present volume, that the editor may fairly express his regret that what is intrinsically valuable in them should be buried under a heap of irrelevant matter. Less full, but on the whole more profitable for study, is the collection of texts in the Religious Tract Society's "Annotated Paragraph Bible" of 1861, but here too, as in Bagster's books, nearly all the old matter is adopted without any attempt at revision, or apparent consciousness of the need of it. That the additions made in the present work to the store of already existing references will by many be deemed too copious, their compiler is painfully aware. He can only plead in self-defence that he has aimed at brevity throughout; that no single text has been accepted as parallel which did not seem to him really illustrative either of the sense or language of Scripture; and that all the materials, whether new or old, have been digested into such a shape as, it is hoped, will prove convenient for practical use; while the form in which they are given will afford some indication as to their respective characters and relative values. With this last end in view, the reader's attention is directed to the following simple rules, on which the collection of textual references in the margin of this volume has been constructed and arranged.

(1) When the parallel between the passage in the text and that in the margin, whether it be verbal or relate to the general sense, is as exact as the subject allows, the marginal text stands with no prefix: e.g. 2 Cor. iv. 6 cited in the margin of Gen. i. 3.

(2) If "So" stand before the marginal text, it indicates that the parallel, although real, is less

[1] "Canne's references are very different in character from those of the edition of 1611, being more for the purpose of comment and explanation, and less for that of scholarlike illustration. He refers scarcely at all to quotations. His references are more suggestive than immediately striking. They are not numerous, but evidently carefully selected. In the edition I have seen (Edin. 1747) they are most incorrectly printed." Grote MS. p. 13 (see p. xviii., note 1). John Canne was an Independent, and a prolific writer in the interest of that party. His own small octavo editions bear no mark of place or printer's name, but came from Amsterdam, whither he went into exile after the Restoration. He had prepared a larger work, which was never published, on the principle of making the Bible its own Interpreter. In his edition of 1682 he says, "The sweetness and great content that I have had all along in this Scripture work, hath caused me to account other studies and readings (which I formerly used) very low in comparison of it. It is said of Jacob, that he served seven years for Rachel, and they seemed but a few days, for the love he had to her. I can truly speak it, I have served the Lord in this work more than thrice seven years, and the time hath not seemed long, neither hath the work been any way a burden to me, for the love I have had to it" (Preface, p. 2). His book was often reprinted in the former half of the eighteenth century.

complete, or that the language is more or less varied in the two places: e.g. 2 Chr. xiii. 9 "[s]no gods" being exactly like Jer. v. 7, but less closely akin to Deut. xxxii. 21, the marginal note is thus expressed "[s]Jer. 5. 7. So Deut. 32. 21." Again, Job. xi. 10 "[l]shut up," being precisely identical with Lev. xiii. 4, while in Job xii. 14 the Hebrew verb is of a different conjugation, the margin runs "[l]Lev. 13. 4, &c. So ch. 12. 14[1]."

(3) If instead of "So," the word "Compare" or "Comp." be prefixed, it is intimated that the resemblance is slighter and less direct, or even that there is a seeming inconsistency between the two places: e.g. 2 Kin. ii. 11 in the margin of Gen. v. 24, where the events recorded are not in all respects analogous. So also "[f]Comp. 2 Kin. 8. 26. and ch. 21. 20" annexed to 2 Chr. xxii. 2, to draw attention to the numerical difficulty. Such phrases as "Supplied from" in the margin of 2 Sam. xxi. 19; "Expressed in" Ex. xxiii. 2; "Expressed" Judg. vii. 18, will be understood at once by consulting the passages alleged.

(4) Much space has been economised and the constant repetition of a body of texts, all bearing on the same point, avoided, by setting them down once for all in full, and elsewhere referring the reader to that place by means of the word "See." Thus "See 1 Chr. 29. 14" in the margin of 2 Chr. ii. 6, directs the reader to a place where all extant examples of a certain idiom had already been brought together. In Num. ix. 15, "See Ex. 13. 21" shews that the latter place contains a collection of the texts relating to the pillars of cloud and fire. This method has been much employed in regard to Proper names both of places and persons. It should also be stated that where passages of the New Testament are noticed as "Cited from" the Old, it has been judged needless to repeat the textual references previously set down in the corresponding places from which the citation is made: e.g. Matt. xxii. 37, 39, 44.

(5) When the parallelism extends to a whole paragraph, or indeed to any portion of the sacred text exceeding a single verse, the fact is carefully indicated by a peculiar notation. Thus in the margin of Ex. xxi. 1, "To ver. 17, Deut. 5. 6—21" (the name of the book being printed in italic type) intimates that Ex. xx. 1—17 is in substance identical with Deut. v. 6—21. Such instances occur very frequently, especially in the books of Samuel and Kings compared with Chronicles, and in the first three or Synoptic Gospels. Here again it has not been thought advisable to repeat in a later passage the textual references already given in an earlier passage in great measure resembling it. Such as are found in the second passage either belong to it alone, or are intended to direct attention to its divergencies from the first one: e.g. "Compare 2 Sam. 10. 18" in the margin of 1 Chr. xix. 18.

(6) The parallel is frequently a real one in the original tongues, although it appears faintly or not at all in the Authorized Version. In this case (Heb.), (Chald.), or (Gk.), as the case may be, is annexed to the citation, to give notice of the fact: e.g. Lev. xi. 17. Where several texts are cited, and this is true of two or more of them, the expression is varied to "in the Heb.", "in the Gk.": e.g. Deut. xxxiii. 27, where the notation happens to relate to all the three places in the Psalms. Whensoever, in the margin of the New Testament, (Gk.) is set after a quotation from the Old, it is intimated that the Septuagint version agrees with the New Testament: e.g. Matt. xxvi. 12. In a few instances, and for special reasons, the word (Septuagint) has been printed at length.

(7) If, on the contrary, the resemblance between two or more passages belong only to the English, and have no respect to the original, (Eng.) or (English) is added to the quotation. Such notices are designed to gather in one view words nearly obsolete, or otherwise to throw light upon the phraseology of the Authorized Version: e.g. Gen. xlv. 6; 1 Sam. ix. 5; 1 Kin. xx. 11; 2 Chr. xxvi. 14; Dan. vi. 3; 2 Esdr. xvi. 49; Tobit iv. 14; vi. 12; Matt. x. 10; xiii. 20; xiv. 8; xvii. 12, 25; xx. 11; xxiv. 48; xxvi. 67; xxvii. 39; Mark x. 44; Luke i. 54; vi. 32; vii. 4; viii. 23; xiv. 32; 1 Tim. ii. 9. Compare Judg. xii. 14.

(8) Lastly, as a note of interrogation (?) has been used to bring into question the references both of the standard of 1611 (p. lv.), and of preceding editors (p. lvii.), so it has been occasionally employed for the same purpose with certain that appear in the present volume either alone, or with little countenance elsewhere: e.g. "1 Chr. 27. 21" cited for "Iddo" in 1 Kin. iv. 14. Names of places and persons are frequently so marked, if the orthography be somewhat varied: e.g. "Ramah," Josh. xviii. 24. In Judg. xviii. 30, by illustrating "Gershom" from "Ex. 2. 22? & 18. 3?" attention is directed to the proposed substitution of "Moses" instead of "Manasseh," a reading both probable in itself, and supported by weighty and varied authorities. In the same spirit, an attempt has frequently been made to convey some notion of the relative value of the marginal renderings (see Section II.) as compared with those in the text, by means of passages cited by us to illustrate one or both of them: e.g. Esther vi. 1; Ps. vi. 6.

Advantage has also been taken of the present opportunity to insert in the margin a great number of passages tending to illustrate the internal connection and relative dates of the several books of the Old Testament, which have been the most subjected in modern times to criticism more or less sober and profound. Such references as are made to the Pentateuch in Judg. xix. 7, 8; 2 Sam. xiv. 7, are so many additional proofs that the diction of the oldest books of the Bible clave to the memory, and was wrought into the literary style even of the earliest surviving writers after the conquest of Canaan. Nothing short of actual collation of parallel texts, undertaken by the student for himself, can cause him to realize the extent to which the peculiar language of the book of Job has influenced those which followed it, or can do justice to its claim to the most venerable antiquity. Thus too the resemblances between Zech. i.—viii. and ix.—xiv. have been diligently recorded: while in regard to the prophecies of Isaiah it may be confidently affirmed that no unprejudiced scholar, who shall but faithfully examine the numberless coincidences both in thought and expression between the first thirty-nine and last twenty-seven chapters of his book (coincidences which are all the more instructive by reason of their often being so minute and sometimes lying below the surface), will ever again admit into his mind the faintest doubt, whether the two several portions of that inspired volume are the production of one author or of more.

The compilation of this virtually new body of textual references has been greatly aided by Wetstein's only too copious collections from the Septuagint in the notes to his Greek Testament (1751—2), and yet more by two laborious volumes, to which the editor has been more largely indebted than he knows how to express;—Canon Wilson's accurate and exhaustive English, Hebrew and Chaldee Lexicon and Concordance (Second edition 1866), especially valuable for the attention paid therein to the marginal notes; and Wigram's Hebraist's Vade Mecum (1867), which, answering as it does many of the purposes of that great desideratum of sacred literature, a real Hebrew Concordance, has been his hourly companion ever since it was published. He has also enjoyed the benefit of using for the Poetical and Prophetic books, that glory of the Clarendon Press, the Origenis Hexaplorum quæ supersunt (1867—1871) of Mr Field; whose Latin version of the Hebrew passages cited throughout the work, by reason of its elegance and precision no less than from an almost instinctive perception of the true sense of the original in cases of difficulty, leaves us nothing to regret save its fragmentary character, and begets in the student an earnest longing for a continuous translation, at least of these harder portions of the Old Testament, from the same able and accomplished hand.

SECTION VII.

Miscellaneous observations relating to the present edition, and general Conclusion.

It is obvious that the practice of printing the English Bible in sections or paragraphs accommodated to the sense (the notation of the chapters and verses being set in the margin), which Mr Reeves the King's Printer introduced early in the present century, and in which he has found so many imitators, is in substance only a return to the fashion that prevailed in our early versions, before the Genevan New Testament of 1557 unfortunately broke up the text into divisions at once so minute and so arbitrary as the verses invented by Robert Stephens. "The subdivision of the books of Sacred Scripture into chapters and verses, without regard to the sense, and frequently to its great injury, has thrown a most serious obstacle in the way of common readers." It has given rise to "a very erroneous impression, that the Bible is rather a collection of apophthegms, or disconnected sentences, than composed of regular histories and treatises on religion, which have their separate topics and connexions." "It is a method peculiar to the Bible, and confined to translations alone. Yet the word of God is not deserving of such an injurious peculiarity as this[1]." Thus clearly is the case stated by an editor who seems to have been the first to introduce this simple plan into the United States of America, and who has certainly carried it out with singular skill and discretion.

For indeed the division of the sacred text into sections suitable for general use will not be deemed an easy matter by any one who has assayed it. If we look only to the broad and prominent breaks in a Bible narrative or discourse, they will usually be found too far apart for the reader's convenience: if the subordinate members be separated from each other, the result will often be a virtual return to the discarded verse divisions. Something between these two extremes is to be aimed at, and in this effort there is room as well for much honest difference of opinion, as for the exercise of careful discrimination and a subtil faculty of analysis. From the marks of paragraph division (¶) employed for the first time in the Authorized Version, little help has been derived. They are unequally and capriciously distributed, and in both issues of 1611 and in the Bible of 1613 they cease altogether after Acts xx. 36: nor have they any perceptible connection with the headings of the chapters, hereafter to be mentioned. The editor would have been glad, in the prosecution of this portion of his task, if he could have followed rather than preceded the publication of the new Church Lectionary. It is, however, with great satisfaction that on comparing the paragraphs in this volume with the beginnings and endings of the Lessons as appointed by the Royal Commissioners, he has been able to note a resemblance between the two which is quite remarkable, due allowance being always made for the motives which sometimes cause a Church Lesson to commence or leave off at a certain place, irrespective of considerations suggested by the sense.

The poetical portions of the Old Testament and Apocrypha, as well as a very few passages of the New Testament[2], have been arranged according to the principles first enunciated by Bishop Lowth, and modified and improved upon by his successors. The series of couplets or triplets of parallel lines is furthermore broken everywhere by divisions (similar to those in the prose books) suggested by the sense, which throughout Job (as represented by Delitzsch) and in some of the Psalms (e.g. xlii., xliii.; lxxxix.; cvii.) may be regarded as stanzas, often though by no means always of uniform length. The thirteen alphabetical poems[3] are distinguished by Hebrew letters at the proper places, so that an English reader may form some notion of the grounds on which the Lowthian system of Hebrew parallelism ultimately rests. Here again a difficulty often occurs which is at times unavoidable in a version made before the true laws of the poetry were ascertained, in that the order of the English, departing for good reasons from that of the original, forbids a correct distribution of the verse into its proper members. Instances may be noticed in Ps. xxxi. 18; lxviii. 23; lxxiv. 6; lxxv. 8; xci. 9; xcviii. 1; cxix. 4; cxx. 1; cxxix. 5; cxxxii. 12; cxxxiv. 3; cxxxvii. 2. Prov. viii. 2, 3; xxiv. 11. Isai. xxviii. 4. Mic. iv. 8. Nah. iii. 3. Zeph. iii. 17. Zech. ix. 1. Mal. i. 3. Ecclus. i. 2, 3; xviii. 6; xxvi. 9; xxxiii. 19; xl. 29; xlviii. 22. Not that we should be over anxious to maintain an equable length for the lines, as Nourse too often does, dividing (for example) Mal. iv. 5, at the word "coming" instead of "prophet," in violation of the sense, and against the Masoretic points, which, through some happy instinct of their authors, seldom lead us wrong. More considerable is the perplexity, in dealing with writers that pass gradually from what might well be deemed poetry into rhetorical prose, and so back again, to determine the precise point at which the poetical structure should begin or terminate. This was found especially the case in Jeremiah and the earlier chapters of Zechariah, wherein another mind might easily arrive at a different result. Portions also of Ecclesiastes (ch. vii. 1—14; x. 1—xii. 7) and 2 Esdras xvi., are imperfectly metrical, though printed as prose; while on the other hand the tone of Zephaniah is less elevated than is usual in poetry. We notice a burst of poetic fervour in so prosaic a book as Daniel (ch. ii. 20—23), while the last prayer of David (1 Chr. xxix. 10—19), which began in the same high strain, gradually sinks to a lower level. Passages of the hymn Neh. ix. 5, &c., are among the latest breathings of an expiring literature of holy song. The opening of Wisdom again is quite as capable of being thrown into parallel lines as Ecclesiasticus, yet as the book proceeds (though it is the work of a single writer and composed on a regular plan) it insensibly swells into the ornate periods of the later Greek style[1]. How wholly unsuitable some parts of it are for reduction into parallel lines may be seen in the edition of O. T. Fritzsche (Libri Apocryphi V. T. 1871), who in this matter will find few imitators.

We are very little concerned with the chapters and verses of ordinary Bibles, though they should not be interfered with needlessly. In the Apocryphal additions to Esther, nothing can be more confused or preposterous than the order of the matter and the numbering of the chapters in our own version, and to some extent in the Clementine Vulgate and earlier English Bibles. By adopting Jerome's arrangement, and omitting his explanatory notes, we have as a result, among other inconsistencies, the interpretation of Mardocheus' dream before the dream itself[2]. It is hoped that the directions placed within brackets [ ] in this volume will prove sufficient for the reader's guidance. In other cases the divisions of chapters have been disregarded without scruple, whensoever they appeared erroneous or unnecessary. Thus with the Hebrews we join Lev. vi. 1—7 with ch. v. Connect also Josh. v. 15 with ch. vi.; Isai. ii. 22 with ch. iii.; Isai. x. 1—4 with ch. ix.; Jer. xix. 14, 15 with ch. xx.; Ezek. xx. 45—50 with ch. xxi. (the parable with its solution), as in the Hebrew (which also rightly joins Hos. xi. 12 with ch. xii.; and Nah. i. 15 with ch. ii.); Amos ii. 1—3, or 1—5, with ch. i.; Ecclus. vi. 1 with ch. v. 15; Matt. xv. 39 to ch. xvi.; xix. 30 to ch. xx.; Mark ix. 1 to ch. viii.; the first clause of Acts viii. to ch. vii.; 1 Cor. xi. 1 to ch. x.; 2 Cor. v. 1 to ch. iv.; vii. 1 to ch. vi.; Col. iv. 1 to ch. iii.; Rev. viii. 1 to ch. vii. Nor can anything be worse than the verse divisions at times, especially in the Old Testament, e.g. Ps. lxxviii. 30, 31; xcv. 7, 8; Isai. i. 16, 17. We may also notice that in the Song of the Three Holy Children the modern verses are, from the commencement, one in advance of those of 1611 (see Appendix A, p. lxxix.), and that the English verses in John i. 38, &c.; Acts ix. 28, 29; xi. 25, 26; xiii. 32, 33; 2 Cor. xiii. 12, 13 differ slightly from those in ordinary Greek Testaments.

The headings of the chapters, as also those set over the several columns of the text, the plan of this work compels us to dispense with altogether, and nothing considerable is lost by their omission. The column headings of necessity varied more or less for every edition which did not (like the black-letter books of 1617, 1634, and that of 1640 very nearly) correspond with the standard of 1611 page for page: the headings summing up the contents of each chapter do not much resemble those previously given either in the Genevan or in the Great and Bishops' Bibles (which two in this particular are almost identical), but seem to be quite original. In the early chapters of the Acts of the Apostles they are inordinately long. The variations between our present headings and those of 1611, other than mere corrections of the press, are but twelve in number, that prefixed to Ps. cxlix. being the only one of importance[3].

[3] Where "that power which he hath given to the Church to rule the consciences of men" is discreetly curtailed in the edition of 1762 by the omission of the last six words, that of 1769 further amending by substituting "his saints" for "the Church," which latter some modern Bibles still retain. D'Oyly and Mant stand to the words of 1611. On this

Dr Blayney, however, for his edition of 1769, gave what may be called "a New Version of these headings, bearing somewhat of the same relation to the Old that Tate and Brady does to Sternhold and Hopkins. It has been stigmatized by some as a doctrinal depravation of them, and praised by others as an improvement. It is in fact a modernization or dilation of them, with little systematic difference of doctrine, but with less force of it, giving however in many cases a better account of the real contents of the chapters than the old[1]." This portion of his labours Blayney speaks of with complacency in his Report to the Delegates of the Clarendon Press (Appendix D, p. xcviii.); but whatever might be its merits, it met with no sort of acceptance. Oxford Bibles have returned long since to the headings of 1611; his changes were never adopted at Cambridge. It was felt, perhaps, that there is much comment of this kind in the original edition which long prescription alone has persuaded men to tolerate, and his work was rejected not because it was bad, but because it was new.

The chronological dates placed in the margin of the present volume are derived from Bishop Lloyd's Bible of 1701 (above, p. xix.), without any pretence of vouching for their correctness. They are in substance taken from Archbishop Ussher's Annales V. et N. Testamenti (1650—4), and are beyond doubt sufficiently exact to be a real help to the reader, the data on which they are constructed being always assumed as true. In the history of the later kings of Judah modern researches have not been able to suggest a variation from them of more than two years. The dates according to the Greek reckoning, set under those of the Hebrew in the first six books of the Bible, are grounded upon the well-known differences in respect to numerals between the text of the Hebrew and of the Septuagint, in the fifth and eleventh chapters of Genesis. Bp. Lloyd's dates have not been materially tampered with since they were first brought into our Bibles, though in some copies they are repeated more frequently than in others. Lloyd and after him the books of 1762 and 1769 had assigned to the ninth chapter of Zechariah the date of B.C. 587 (being 67 years earlier than that of his first chapter), in accordance with an opinion, more plausible than solid, to which Joseph Mede first lent the weight of his profound learning, that the last six chapters of that prophecy are the composition of some earlier writer, who flourished about the period of the Captivity. Modern Bibles later than 1835 have substituted in ch. ix. the date of B.C. 517; in Bagster's edition of 1846, it is reduced to B.C. 510, in the American of 1867 to B.C. 487, which is much too low. A mark of interrogation has simply been placed by us after this and some other questionable dates. The year B.C. 791 for the eclipse referred to Amos viii. 9, being now known to be incorrect, other more possible dates have been substituted within brackets. In Jer. xxvii. 1, "B.C. 598" is omitted altogether, as it rests on the needless supposition that for "Jehoiakim" in the text we ought to read "Zedekiah." The like remedy has been applied to Isai. ix. 8 and x. 1, which obviously belong to the same idyl or ode, and are connected by the same refrain: yet the one part of it is assigned to B.C. 738, the other to B.C. 713. It would have been well to have set a query after the date (B.C. 862) of the prophecy of Jonah, inasmuch as it is nearly certain that the Twelve Minor Prophets stand in the Canon in chronological order: and certainly on comparing Mic. vi. 16, the third chapter of that book must have been written before the fall of Samaria, not eleven years after it (B.C. 710). In the second Prologue to Ecclesiasticus "the eight and thirtieth year" being that of the writer's life, not of the reign of Euergetes, for B.C. 133 we should probably read some earlier time. The few dates added in this volume are included in brackets, and may perhaps be regarded as at once convenient and certain: such as that on Esther xi. 1. It is not easy to approve of the boldness of the editor of 1762, who affixes to Ps. cxx. "cir. 1058," apparently on the authority of the chapter heading that Doeg is the enemy referred to, as indeed a comparison of ver. 4 with Ps. lii. 1 renders not improbable.

The passages of the Old Testament which are cited in the New we have distinguished by printing them in spaced type, both in their original places and where they occur as quotations[2]. Whensoever subject the editor is much indebted to an obliging communication from the Rev. C. K. Paul, of Bailie, Wimborne.

[2] We have thus anticipated the suggestion of Mr R. B. Girdlestone, of the Bible Society (Revision of the English Bible, a text is quoted generally, or (as is so often the case) with variations, those words only are set in spaces which are truly identical, at least in sense. But we have not employed this notation where the reference seems uncertain or remote, such as Ps. lxvii. 4 alleged by some in Acts xvii. 31, and Gen. vi. 5 or viii. 21 in James iv. 5.

The present is scarcely a fit opportunity for discussing at length the merits and faults of the Authorized Version, which "so laborious, so generally accurate, so close, so abhorrent of paraphrase, so grave and weighty in word and rhythm, so intimately bound up with the religious convictions and associations of the English people[1]" will never yield its hard-earned supremacy, save to some reverential and well-considered Revision of which it has been adopted as the basis, that shall be happy enough to retain its characteristic excellencies, while amending its venial errors and supplying its unavoidable defects. Yet it may not be improper to touch briefly on one or two particulars, which have not been prominently noted by others, but have impressed the editor's mind in the prosecution of his laborious, yet most interesting task.

First then, we mark great inequality in the execution of the several portions of this version. The limits of life and human patience would forbid the whole Bible (including the Apocrypha) from being committed to the care of a single Company, but it was surely a mistake to divide the whole body of Translators into six parties. The Bishops' Bible indeed seems to have had a fresh translator for almost every book[2], and the inconsistency which such a plan must needs engender may have been one of the causes which hindered that version from obtaining general acceptance. No doubt it had been wisely provided by the King's ninth and tenth Instructions that "As any one Company hath despatched any book..., they shall send it to the rest to be considered of seriously and judiciously; for His Majesty is very careful in this point:" as also that "If any Company doubt or differ upon any place...the difference be compounded at the general meeting, which is to be of the chief persons of each company at the end of the work." But our very meagre information respecting the progress of the Translators gives us no great reason to believe that this wholesome device was carried out in practice (see Sect. I. p. xiv.), while internal evidence points decidedly to a contrary conclusion[3]. Certain it is that the six or twelve who met at Stationers' Hall during the nine months which immediately preceded publication had mechanical work enough on their hands in carrying the sheets through the press, without troubling themselves much about higher matters. The first Westminster Company undertook the historical books from Genesis down to the end of 2 Kings, and included the great names of Andrewes, then Dean of Westminster; of Overall Dean of S. Paul's; and of Adrian de Saravia, by birth a Fleming, at that time Prebendary of Westminster, but best known as the bosom friend and spiritual counseller of saintlike Richard Hooker. Compared with other portions of Holy Scripture their share in the work may seem

p. 8), who notices that the same plan is adopted by the American Bible Union, and justly prefers it to the method of the Douay Bible, and indeed of the Rhemish New Testament, which employed italics for the same purpose.

[1] Preface to The Gospel of S. John revised by Five Clergymen, p. VI. In regard to the rhythm it may be said that those can best appreciate the Translators' happy skill, who have tried to improve upon their version. Even such an expression as "that that" Ezek. xxxvi. 36; Dan. xi. 36; Jonah ii. 9; Zech. xi. 9 (bis), 16—all the work of one Company—is common in so musical a contemporary writer as Fletcher.

[2] Fourteen of the sacred books have appended to them the initials of their translators, eight of these being Bishops, so far as they can be identified; but "they do not indicate all the contributors." Westcott, General View of the History of the English Bible, p. 135. This is plain both from the manner in which the initials are distributed, and because the names of some persons known to have been employed nowhere appear. But even in regard to the present Authorized translation, tradition has assigned a share in the final revision to Dr Thomas Bilson, Bishop of Winchester, whose name appears in no list of the six Companies.

[3] One instance of this lack of consistency observable in the different parts of our Translation, the more minute the better for our purpose, will serve to illustrate a statement which is notoriously true. The Oxford Company, which revised the Prophets, was careful to render the Niphal conjugation of דבר with some intensity of meaning, whether wrongly or rightly matters not. In Ezek. xxxiii. 30 we find "still are talking;" in Mal. iii. 16 "spake often;" three verses before "spoken so much," where 1629 so little understands what is intended as to put "so much" in italics. This Niphal form occurs only once elsewhere, Ps. cxix. 23, where the second Company simply has "speak."

an easy one, yet the eminent success of the whole enterprise is largely due to the simple dignity of their style, and the mingled prudence and boldness wherewith they so blended together the idioms of two very diverse languages, that the reader is almost tempted to believe that the genius of his native tongue must have some subtil affinity with the Hebrew. Not inferior to theirs in merit, but far surpassing it in difficulty, is the work of the third, or first Oxford Company, the prophets from Isaiah to Malachi inclusive. This body was presided over by Dr John Harding, Regius Professor of Hebrew [1591—8; 1604—10], in the room of the great Puritan John Reynolds, President of Corpus Christi College [ob. 1607], who is reputed to have first suggested the new translation at the Hampton Court Conference (1603—4), full three years before it was actually commenced. This party included Dr Richard Kilbye, Rector of Lincoln College [1590—1620], afterwards Regius Professor of Hebrew [1610—1620], whose testimony to the anxious pains devoted to this version, as preserved by Isaac Walton, will be most readily credited by those whose privilege it has been to bear a part in similar conferences, directed to the same great end[1]. It needs but the comparison of a single chapter of Isaiah, for instance, as rendered by the Authorized translation, with that in the Bishops' Bible which was adopted as the ground of their labours, to estimate very highly the manifold improvements effected by this Company. The common notion that the Minor Prophets are less felicitously rendered than the four Greater, must be modified by the consideration that three or four of the Twelve, as well from their pregnant brevity as from the obscurity of their allusions, are among the very hardest books of the Bible in the original, whose difficulties no faithful translator would wish to dissemble or conceal. Respecting the second, or first Cambridge Company, which sustained irreparable loss by the death of Edward Lively, Regius Professor of Hebrew [1580—1606], before their task was fairly begun, his successor also, R. Spalding, apparently dying a year after, it may be confessed that its version of Job is very unsatisfactory, nor indeed could it well be otherwise before the breaking forth of that flood of light which Albert Schultens long afterwards (1737) shed upon it from the cognate languages. A more legitimate subject of complaint is the prosaic tone of its translation of the Psalms, which, however exact and elaborate, is so spiritless as to be willingly used by but few that are familiar with the version in the Book of Common Prayer; a recension which, though derived immediately from the Great Bible, is in substance the work of that consummate master of rhythmical prose, Bishop Miles Coverdale. Of the other three Companies it will suffice to re-echo the general verdict, that the Epistles, entrusted to persons sitting at Westminster of whom little is now known, are worse done than any other part of the Canonical Scriptures, and bear no comparison with the Gospels, the Acts (which book is especially good, as indeed is its prototype in the preceding version, from the hand of Bishop Cox of Ely), and Apocalypse, as revised by the second Oxford Company, on which served Sir Henry Savile, then the most famous Greek scholar in England. In the New Testament, as was both right and almost necessary, the renderings of the older English versions were more closely adhered to than in the Old. Of the performance of the fourth, or second Cambridge Company, to which the Apocrypha was consigned, little favourable can be said. It was the earliest party to complete its share, as appears from the fact that John Bois (above, pp. xiii., xiv.) was transferred to the first Cambridge Company after his proper task herein was completed[2]. A formal correction of the text, often so obviously corrupt, might have been impossible with the means within their reach; yet it required very little critical discrimination to perceive the vast superiority of that which they perpetually appeal to as the "Roman edition" (p. xxvii.) over the older recensions of the Complutensian and Aldus. For the rest, they are contented to leave many a rendering of the Bishops' Bible as they found it, when nearly any change must have been for the better; even where their predecessor sets them a better example they resort to undignified, mean, almost vulgar words and phrases[1]; and on the whole they convey to the reader's mind the painful impression of having disparaged the importance of their own work, or of having imperfectly realised the truth that what is worth doing at all is worth doing well[2].

[1] "The Doctor going to a Parish Church in Derbyshire ...found the young preacher to have no more discretion than to waste a great part of the hour allotted for his sermon in exceptions against the late translation of several words (not expecting such a hearer as Dr Kilbye), and shewed three reasons why a particular word should have been otherwise translated. When Evening Prayer was ended, the preacher was invited to the Doctor's friend's house, where after some other conference the Doctor told him, he "might have preached more useful doctrine, and not have filled his auditors' ears with needless exceptions against the late translation; and for that word for which he offered to that poor congregation three reasons why it ought to have been translated as he said, he and others had considered all of them, and found thirteen more considerable reasons why it was translated as now printed." Walton, Life of Sanderson, p. 367 (Zouch, 1807).

[2] Yet John Selden, who was twenty-seven years old in 1611, and must have had means of information not open to us, is represented in his Table Talk (p. 6) as speaking thus: "The translation in King James's time took an excellent way.

Nor can the attentive student of the Authorized Version fail to marvel at the perfect and easy command over the English language exhibited by its authors on every page. The fulness and variety of their diction, the raciness of their idiomatic resources, seem almost to defy imitation, while they claim our just and cheerful admiration. We need not extenuate that great error of judgment which is acknowledged to be the capital defect of the Translation, especially in the New Testament, in that the same foreign word is perpetually translated by several English ones, while on the other hand a single English word is made to represent two or three in the original, and that too in the same context, where the cogency of the argument or the perspicuity of the narrative absolutely depends on identity in the rendering. But in avoiding this conspicuous fault of the men of 1611, some modern revisers whose efforts are already before the public have fallen into the opposite mistake of forcing the same English word to stand for the same Hebrew or Greek one where there is no real need for preserving such slavish uniformity, thus at once impoverishing our native tongue which is so much more copious than either of the others, and casting over the version an air of baldness very painful to a cultivated taste. Let us take for an example of the beautiful flexibility of their English style the numberless devices our Translators resort to while endeavouring to convey the intensive force of the Hebrew gerundial infinitive when used with some finite form of the selfsame verb, of which the earliest example occurs in Gen. iii. 4, "Ye shall not surely die." The passages are cited almost at random and might be multiplied indefinitely.

1 Sam. ii. 16. Let them not fail to burn the fat. 2 Sam. xiv. 14. we must needs die (after the Bishops'); xvii. 10. shall utterly melt; 16. speedily pass over; xviii. 2. I will surely go forth; 3. if we flee away (with the Bishops'); 25. came apace (Bishops'); xx. 18. They were wont to speak (margin, They plainly spake). 1 Kin. ii. 37, (42). thou shalt know for certain that thou shalt surely die; iii. 26, 27. in no wise slay it (Bishops'); ix. 6. If ye shall at all turn. 1 Chr. iv. 10. Oh that thou wouldest bless me indeed (Bishops'). Neh. i. 7. We have dealt very corruptly against thee ("grievously sinned" Bishops'). Esther iv. 14. If thou altogether holdest thy peace. Job vi. 2. Oh that my grief were throughly weighed ("truly weighed" Bishops'); xiii. 17 and xxi. 2. Hear diligently (Bishops'); xxvii. 22. he would fain flee. Jer. xxiii. 17. They say still; 32. profit at all; 39. utterly forget; xxv. 30. mightily roar; xxxi. 20. earnestly remember; xli. 6. weeping all along; l. 34. throughly plead. Ezek. i. 3. came expressly. Thus too both versions even in translating the Latin of 2 Esdr. iii. 33; iv. 2, 26; vii. 21, &c.

Yet it has been said by one who ought to know, that "our Translators of the Bible, in their attempt

That part of the Bible was given to him who was most excellent in such a tongue--as the Apocrypha to Andrew Downes" [Regius Professor of Greek, 1585—1625]. He adds moreover this interesting piece of information, to whatever part of the work it may apply: "Then they met together, and one read the translation, the rest holding in their hands some Bible, either of the learned tongues, or French [Olivetan 1535, The Pastors' 1588], Spanish [Pined 1553, De Reyna 1569, De Valera 1602], Italian [Bruccioli 1532?, or more probably Diodati 1607], &c. If they found any fault, they spoke; if not, he read on." We hear nothing from him of Luther's German [1522, &c.], which, however, is no doubt the "Dutch" of the Translators' Preface (infra, p. cxvi.), a passage that Selden probably had in his mind.

[1] Such are the colloquial forms, "He sticks not" 1 Esdr. iv. 21; "stands fast" Ecclus. xliv. 12. So Baruch vi. 9, 21. "Cocker thy child" Ecclus. xxx. 9; "a shrewd turn" Ecclus. viii. 19; "get the day" (yet the verbal play of the Greek is thus kept up) 2 Macc. v. 6; "he is not for our turn" Wisd. ii. 12; "sour behaviour" 2 Macc. xiv. 30. Add the mere archaisms "brickle" Wisd. xv. 13; "the party" Tobit vi. 7; "pensions" (κλήρους) 1 Esdr. iv. 56 (Bp.); "liberties" (ὁρίοις) 1 Macc. x. 43 (Bp.). We find nothing like this elsewhere in our version.

[2] The foregoing estimate of the relative merits of the several portions of our version differs only in one particular from that of its sturdy opponent Dr Robert Gell: "The further we proceed in survey of the Scripture, the Translation is the more faulty, as the Hagiographa more than the Historical Scripture, and the Prophets more than the Hagiographa [?], and the Apocrypha most of all; and generally the New more than the Old Testament." (An Essay toward the amendment of the last English Translation of the Bible, 1659. Preface, pp. 38, 39.)

to maintain idiom, have sometimes sacrificed vigour[1]."

The editor earnestly trusts that no apology is necessary for the labour bestowed in this volume on the English text and marginal references of the Apocrypha. So long as that very miscellaneous collection of books shall comprise a part of the Holy Bible in its largest form, or lessons shall be selected from it for the course of Divine service, it deserves far more regard than has been paid to it in recent times, even by those who have undertaken to reprint it. But the frequent and exact study of a large portion of the Apocryphal writings may be vindicated on higher grounds by such as most loyally accept the rule that "the Church doth read them for example of life and instruction of manners; but yet doth it not apply them to establish any doctrine." Few more conspicuous instances can be alleged of the tendency in man's nature to rush into extremes than the strong reaction to their prejudice which has set in since the Reformation, by way of protest against the error that had placed the greater part of them on a level in point of authority with the Canonical books of the Old Testament. Add to this that by some untoward accident those portions of the Apocrypha which deserve the least esteem have become best known, as in the case of the History of Susanna (unfit for public reading, for all its delicate touches of natural beauty), and of the grotesque story of Bel and the Dragon. Yet Ecclesiasticus and the first book of the Maccabees, written in the second century before the Christian æra, are among the noblest of uninspired compositions; if indeed their authors, so full of faith and holy fear, can be regarded as entirely uninspired. The second book of the Maccabees also, though greatly inferior to the first in respect of energy, judgment, veracity, and correct taste, abounds in passages fraught with encouragement to those who in every age shall be called upon to suffer for the truth's sake; not to add that it powerfully illustrates the eleventh chapter and other parts of Daniel's prophecies. The Wisdom of Solomon (which was not seriously intended to be ascribed to the king of Israel) approximates in tone to the spirit of Christ more nearly than any book without the Canon; the Epistle of S. James is full of allusions to it, and to the first five Chapters of Ecclesiasticus. Judith too is a fine work; grave, elevated, pious, chaste in thought and expression, exquisitely finished. Were it not buried where it is, it would long since have attracted the admiration it deserves; but it is not history, and does not claim to be such. It is fable constructed with a moral purpose; and must have stirred up the heart of many a Jewish patriot in that heroic struggle for liberty and religion whose details fill the books of the Maccabees. For the remaining books less can be said. Tobit, probably the oldest of them all, exhibits a pleasing picture of the prosperity of a religious household in the land of their captivity: the main outlines seem correct, though sadly deformed by childish superstitions, which are more visible in the Old Latin version followed by the Bishops' Bible, than in our own which adhered to the Greek. Baruch, though of course a pseudonym, contains some excellent poetry: the Prayer of Manasses and the Song of the Three Children need no praise. It is difficult to determine the precise relation of 1 Esdras to the Canonical books of Ezra and Nehemiah: after all the trouble bestowed upon it, we can but conclude that it contains not much intrinsically valuable. "The rest of the book of Esther" seems worth little for any purpose, since it is founded on a radically false conception of the character of two of the most worldly-minded persons God ever employed in the dispensations of His Providence, and rewarded for their obedience with blessings purely temporal. The remaining book, the second of Esdras, is a curious composition, not very fitly placed in the same volume as the rest, and never accounted canonical by any branch of the Church. Though extant only in Latin, it betrays on every page its Hebrew original; but since no considerable portion of it can be earlier than the second century after Christ, what it has in common with the Revelation and other books of the New Testament is drawn from them, not they from it. It can hardly be questioned that the fortunes of the Roman emperors during the first century are herein figuratively depicted. The celebrated passage ch. vii. 26—35 bears every appearance of interpolation.

It may be thought seemly in the editor to plead some excuse for the long time this work has been in hand, or at least for the unexpected delay which has ensued since the publication of its earlier Parts. Hindrances indeed and grave ones he has met with, but to detail them could interest none who are not already acquainted with them. The main causes of all were the great labour demanded by this employment, and an ever-growing sense of the duty of avoiding haste, but for which any one of those that had assayed the same task before him, would have accomplished it thoroughly once for all. Their short-comings (for, compared with what the case required, Blayney and those who preceded him must be held to have fallen greatly short) might justly prove a warning to one who was treading in their steps, and induce him to store up for his profit the words of a living Divine, himself as able as most men et proparare loco et cessare:

"When we consider the errors and failures that mark every stage in our most deliberate and most matured progress in merely secular subjects, we may well pause before we presume to hurry through the sanctuary of God with the dust and turmoil of worldly, self-seeking, and irreverent speed[1]."

Finally, it is right to state very explicitly that the Syndics of the Cambridge University Press, after having arranged with the editor the general plan of this volume first projected by themselves, were pleased to leave all details to his judgment; and furthermore, that he alone is responsible for the statements alleged and the opinions maintained in the foregoing pages of this INTRODUCTION.

The words "Lord" and "God" are always intended to be printed in small capitals in the Authorized Version, when they are employed to translate that Holy Name. Adonai Jehovah is represented by "Lord GOD" about a hundred times in Ezekiel alone, and Jehovah Adonai by "LORD God" only in Hab. iii. 19, itself corrected (perhaps wrongly) in the Cambridge folio of 1629. [2] In Deut. xxxiii. 5 alone "Jeshurun" is read also in 1629, C and L. 1630. In Isaiah xliv. 2 the same form is found in 1616 alone of all our editions.

[4] The apostrophe does not usually appear in our Bibles before 1762, nor constantly before 1769, e.g. not in 1769, Ezra ii. 57, Neh. vii. 61, Ps. vi. 4, xxxi. 16, xlv. 12, lxxxi. 12, cvii. 27, cxl. 3, &c. Though the rulers of these books, it is sometimes misplaced, as is noted in this list within brackets. Cf. 1 Sam. ii. 13. 1 Chr. vii. 2, 40. Ezra ii. 59. Ps. lxxxi. 12. Matt. xiv. 9. Mark vi. 26, in which places, unless the contrary be stated, the apostrophe is placed right for the first time in the present edition.

[1] That this marginal rendering of 1611, 1612, 1613 cannot be designed appears from the version of Junius, which, especially in the margin (see p. xxvi), our Translators closely follow;—quod referebat piscem. See Cardwell, Oxford Bibles, p. 10.

[2] But these archaisms we have elsewhere retained: e.g. 2 Kin. xii. 18. Compare 1 Chr. xxvi. 20, App. C.

[3] The rendering of 1611 is quite justifiable, but the LXX. and Vulgate translate as in 1629.

[1] The editions of 1629—1769 correct the discrepancy with Gen. xxxvi. 22 in the wrong way, by putting "Heman" in the former place. The latter error is corrected by some (e. g. D'Oyly and Mant 1817, Oxford 1835) that retain Heman in 1 Chr. i. 39 marg.

[2] The references to the margin, up to 1638, I., 1, 2, are in hopeless confusion; "‖ Or Coniah, Jer. 22. 24" being made a marginal note to "Zedekiah," instead of to "Jeconiah," and "2 K. 24. 17 Heb. his uncle," which is the proper note on "his son," being misplaced so as to stand after † Heb. Shealtiel, ver. 17.

[3] He final is usually represented by h: yet not so by any edition in 1 Chr. iii. 10; v. 5 (Reaia); vi. 29.

[4] All editions retain the false form "Ajalon" Josh. x. 12. 2 Chr. xxviii. 18: all have the true form "Aijalon" Josh. xxi. 24. Judg. i. 35. 1 Sam. xiv. 31. In Josh. xix. 42, 2 Chr. x. 10, 1629 makes the same change as here.

[1] To distinguish יְעִיאֵל (Jeiel) from יְחִיאֵל (Jehiel) of ver. 20. In this verse and ch. xvi. 5 both names occur, and are thus distinguished in 1611. "Jeiel" is right ver. 21 and in ch. v. 7; "Jehiel" in ch. xxiii. 8; 2 Chr. xxi. 2; xxix. 14; xxxi. 13; xxxv. 8; Ezra viii. 9; x. 2, 21, 26. See also 2 Chr. xx. 14; xxix. 13.

[2] In ver. 4 the vowel points are different, and "Jerimoth" correct.

[3] A strange oversight (retained up to 1638) in a matter about which our Translators are usually more careful than later editors, viz. in representing יְהוָה by LORD (or GOD, see p. lxvii., note 1) but אֲדֹנָי by "Lord" or "lord." In ch. xxix. 15 marg. "Lord" is a misprint, the text being correct. Compare also Neh. i. 11; iii. 5; viii. 10. Ps. ii. 4, and Append. C. p. xciii., note 7.

Though this has been noted as a mere error, the changes both of 1629 and 1638 which all later editions have followed) are plainly intentional, and unique for their boldness. In this volume we have changed the comma after "hope" into a semicolon, although the Hebrew has only Rebia, and Athnakh in the word before. Grote MS. pp. 130, 131.

[1] Cardwell (Oxford Bibles, p. 16) imputes this change to Bp. Lloyd in 1701. But he knew no more of Camb. 1638 than Bp. Turton did of Camb. 1629. See Introd. p. xvii.

[2] So ch. xxii. 25; xxiv. 5; xxv. 12; xxxii. 4, 5, 24, 25, 28, 29, 43; xxxiii. 5; xxxv. 11; xxxvii. 5, 8—11, 13, 14; xxxviii. 2, 17—19, 23; xl. 9, 10; xli. 3, 15; xliii. 3; l. 1, 8, 25, 35, 45; li. 4, 54; lii. 7, 8, 14, 17.

[3] This rendering of the margin in 1611 comes, as usual, from Tremellius (Introd. p. xxvi., "legiones detestationum desolantes. Heb. alam detestationum desolantem: ala pro copiis metaphorice, ut Isai. viii 8." Whatever may be its value, it ought not to have been displaced by the edition of 1762 (which 1769 and the moderns have servilely followed) for something not so very good of its own. We have retained both.

[4] So in Amos vi. 7 Camb. Synd. A. 3. 14 alone has "first that goeth" for "first that go" of Oxf. 1611, 1612, 1613, 1616, 1617, &c. See Appendix B, p. xc.

[2] Gk. χρηματιστηρίῳ: Vulg. concilio: Junius consilio. Similar confusion between the words occurs in Matt. v. 22; Mark xiv. 55.

[3] This word is wanting in the Roman edition (1586—7), the Alexandrian MS., the Vulgate and Junius. Our Translators (after the Bishops' Bible) followed the text of Aldus (1518) in this book, as plainly appears from Introduction, p. xxvii. 1 Esdras is not contained in the Complutensian (1517—22). Yet how could Junius say, in his Preface to the Apocryphal books (1592), "Hezræ libros duos me tacente evincit veritas: quos neque Hebraicè neque Græcè vidi, aut fuisse visos memini legere"? See Introduction, p. xxvi.

[2] The errors of 1611 and its earlier reprints in regard to these marginal marks are numberless. We note only the most important, or those remarkable for other causes, adopting in silence the corrections made in other places, chiefly in the editions of 1629, C. and 1762.

[1] A variation taken from Matt. xix. 17. A like change might well be made in some other places, e.g. Matt. xi. 27; ch. xiii. 32. In John x. 28 "any," 29 "none" of 1638—1762, are rejected by 1769 and later Bibles for "any man," "no man" of 1611 1629; "man" however being printed in italic type.

[2] In the same way all our books from Tyndale downwards (except Coverdale and the Genevan version) read "Heber" ver. 35 from Erasmus's Ἔβὲρ, though "Eber" is the form used in the O.T.

[3] Eliseus might be preferable here, as Zacchæus is spelt in Oxf 1835, Camb. 1858, and some recent Bibles. An English reader can hardly fail to confound the three separate terminations in -eus; (1) eu diphthong, as, Menestheus 2 Macc. iv. 21, Nereus Rom. xvi. 15: (2) the dissyllable ĕ-us, e being short, as Timothĕus 1 Thess. i. 1, &c.: (3) the more usual dissyllable -ē-us, e being long as here. Such are Aggēus, 1 Esdr. vi. 1; 2 Esdr. i. 40: Asmodēus, Tobit iii. 8: Cendebēus, 1 Macc. xv. 38: Channunēus, 1 Esdr. viii. 48: Elisēus, here: Hymenēus, 1 Tim. i. 20: Maccabēus, 1 Macc. iii. 1, &c.: Mardochēus, Esther x. 4, &c.: Ptolemēus, Esther xi. 1, &c.: Sabbathēus, 1 Esdr. ix. 14: Sabatēus ver. 48: Zacchēus, Luke xix. 2, 5, 8. So also in 1 Esdr. ix. 21, 23, 30, 32 (bis), 33. These all represent the termination -αῖος. In 1 Macc. xii. 7 marg., 20, Ἄρειος should be rendered Arĭus, not Areus.

[1] After Deut. i. 31 in this marginal note modern Bibles which do not contain the Apocrypha (e.g. Camb. 1858) unwarrantably omit the reference to 2 Macc. vii 27. See Introd. p. lvi.

[1] The Book of Common Prayer (Epistle for the First Sunday after Easter) follows the reading of 1611, as does the Gospel for Palm Sunday in Matt. xxvii. 52, "of saints which slept," not "the saints," as in 1762 and later Bibles. See Cardwell, Oxford Bibles, p. 14.

List of Passages in which this Edition departs from the Text of 1611.

N.B. All variations in the foregoing list, except those relating to the apostrophe, have been made in at least one previous edition. The changes described in the subjoined list (which relates chiefly to the Apocrypha) are peculiar to this volume, and must justify themselves.

[3] Less palpable is the error in 1 Chr. xxvi. 19 (cf. ver. 1), where Kore (קֹרֵא) is put for Korhite (קָרְחִי).

[4] The annexed marginal note (omitted in Bibles which do not contain the Apocrypha, see Introd. p. lvi.) is almost unintelligible as it stands in 1611, &c. Inasmuch as the border of Ephraim did not reach to Gaza (Josh. xv. 47), our Translators suggest that עַד־עַזָּה may possibly mean Adassa, the Ἀδασά of 1 Macc. vii. 40, 45.

Nehemiah	Reading of 1611 and later editions.	Correction made in the present volume.

[1] The noun in pausa is no doubt singular, and so LXX. Vulg. have it in Ps. vi. 4; xxxi. 16. Our Translators may have meant "mercies" to be singular, as they so spell "mercy" about four times out of ten. In that case 1769 would be the first to go wrong. See p. lxix., note 4.

[2] The marginal "bring unto" (b not B, 1611—1638) cannot be meant for the imperative, but renders differentes super of Tremellius.

[4] So Camb. Synd. A. 3. 14, &c., 1613, 1617, &c.: but Serenias, Oxf. 1611, 1612, (1616).

xiii. 23	confounded (συνεχύθη)	was confounded [i.e. Eupator, Cotton].

[1] This must be the intention of the Translators, since Vulg. has Nihil memini of the text, Junius Nihil venit in mentem of the margin, the Bishops' Bible "I cannot perceive."

[2] So Fritzsche's text of the LXX.: Vulg. has civitatem. But the arrangement of 1611 might very well stand, as the margin exactly represents the reading of Aldus, ἐν ἀγροῖς τῆς Μηδείας. See Introduction, p. xxviii.

[3] This must be the proper arrangement even if for πρὸ λήψεως ἀρχῆς be read πρὸ λήξεως ἀρχῆ with the Complutensian, or προλήψεως ἀρχῆ with Cod. 106, or πρὸ λήξεως ἀρχῆς with Grabe. The verse is wanting in the best manuscripts and the Aldine edition.

[1] So all the early versions from Tyndale to the Bishops' Bible, and even T. Baskett's 8vo. edition of the Authorized, London, 8vo. 1754, Brit. Mus. 1411. f. 5. This last fact was made known by the Rev. J. Henley (Guardian, June 7, 1871).

[2] That the margin "Or habit" refers to σχήματι, not to ὁμοιώματι, is plain enough in itself, not to add that for σχήματι the Vulg. has habitu, Tyndale, Coverdale, and the Great Bible apparel.

APPENDIX B.

The two Issues of the Bible of 1611 compared.

Catalogue of variations (not being very manifest misprints) between the two issues of the Authorized Version of 1611, represented by Camb. Synd. A. 3. 14 and the Oxford reprint of 1833 respectively. See Introduction, Sect. I. pp. xii. xiv. Wheresoever the contrary is not stated, the British Museum copies, 3050. g. 2, 3050. g. 3, and 1276. l. 4, have been ascertained to agree with Camb. Synd. A. 3. 14.

N.B. Bp. denotes the Bishops' Bible (1572), Synd. our Cambridge, Oxf. our Oxford model. Amer. the New York Bible, diamond, 24mo. 1867[3].

[3] The readings of the Bishops' Bible are added in some places, in case that any should think that light may be thrown upon the origin of these variations by the Bible from which, as it would seem, our own version was set up for the press. Inferences thus drawn seem to the editor for the most part too slight to be relied on. See, however, the next note.

[4] Since Bp. has "hoops" in both verses (10, 11), though for the word rendered "fillets" in 1611, it is not unlikely that Oxf. was set up from a copy of Bp., and the same inference might be drawn from other places, where Bp. and Oxf. minutely coincide.

[1] The copy in S. John's College, Cambridge (F. 6. 20), and B. M. 3050. g. 3, must be earlier on this leaf, since they read "it it time." See Sect. 1. p. xvi.

[3] So B. M. 466. i. 6 "she," but not 3050. g. 1 which is almost identical with it. Bp. has "till she be content her self" in all these places. The original American revise of 1851 (see Introduction, p. xxiii.) read "she" uniformly in all, but Amer. 1867 has returned to "he."

NOTE. Between the two copies in the British Museum which resemble the Oxford reprint (3050. g. 1 and 466. i. 6) the only differences in any of the passages cited in the foregoing lists § I. and § II. occur in Ex. xxi. 26; Cant. ii. 7. Of the other issue, B. M. 3050. g. 2 being regarded as the standard, and 3050. g. 3, 1276. l. 4, and Synd. A. 3. 14 mixed copies, the Syndics' nowhere agrees with 3050. g. 2 against the other two, but with 3050. g. 3 alone in Ezek. v. 5; with 3050. g. 2 and 1276. l. 4 against 3050. g. 3 in 15 places; with 3050. g. 3 and 1276. l. 4 against 3050. g. 2 in 5 places; with 1276. l. 4 alone (which is a fine tall volume, once the property of Lea Wilson) in no less than 34 places. Not one of the four is ever left without one copy to countenance it, except Synd. in 2 Kin. xviii. 37 (p. lxx.); 1 Chr. iv. 36. Hence it is plain that Synd. A. 3. 14 and B. M. 1276. l. 4 were among the earliest and least revised of the copies printed off.

[2] So all have the word in 1 Chr. i. 33, and the final Ain is not usually represented by h, cf. 2 Sam. v. 14—1 Chr. xxiv. 11. See however h final in Gen. xxxv. 27, xxxviii. 2 (but not 1 Chr. ii. 3); Josh. xxi. 11. This variation was overlooked in the text of the present volume.

[3] Cf. Lev. xxii. 10. Deut. xxiii. 25. 1 Cor. x. 29. This double possessive is sometimes retained even in modern Bibles: e. g. 2 Kin. xxii. 12—2 Chr. ii. 13; xxxiv. 20. Matt. xxvi. 51 (not so Mark xiv. 47, Luke xxii. 50). Luke xv. 17.

[4] Variation 1611 in ch. xxxviii. 30 on account of the Hebrew pause.

[5] Corrected in the Scotch and American (1867) Bibles only.

[6] The re-correction of 1769 is followed by Mant 1817, Oxford 8vo. 1835, Bagster 1846, Oxford 4to. 1857, London 8vo. 1858, American 1867, but not by our standard (Cambr. 8vo. 1858) and some modern Bibles.

[8] See Introd. p. lii.

[1] Modern Bibles are divided between the two wrong renderings of 1616, 1769. The American only follows 1611.

[3] So Oxf. 1835, Bagster 1846.

[4] See p. xci., Gen. xxv. 4 note 2. Ain is not represented in ver. 15 bis, 16 bis.

[5] Vulg. has premunt te mala tua. The Translators give what they hold to be the general sense in the text, reserving a more literal rendering for the margin.

[6] The reading of the Keri and of 1 Chr. xx. 7. The variation of 1769 will not suit the form in the Chetiv and the Vatican Septuagint (Σεμεεί). Yet "Shimeah" is correct in ch. xiii. 3.

[7] A very needless change, though upheld by LXX. and Vulg. Cf. Cardwell, Oxford Bibles, p. 16. In 1762, &c. we find the marginal note † Heb. sons.

[8] Ain final is usually mute (see p. xci., note 2), but in the middle of a word the practice is less fixed.

[9] In ver. 21 the first "sons" is also singular in Hebrew, so that 1611 is inconsistent in the matter. So ch. vii. 35.

[10] Corrected only in B st 1 18[illegible] of the moderns.

[1] This mere typographical error, whose adoption may have been helped by "staves" ver. 18, remains in Mant 1817, Bagster 1846 and some modern Bibles, but is corrected in Oxford [illegible], Cambridge 1858, American 1867.

[3] This seems to be an attempt on the part of the Translators (afterwards given over, ch. vii. 18) to represent, whensoever it might be possible, the status emphaticus of the Chaldee.

[4] The passage is too obscure to be worth altering. The Vulgate has filii Phochereth, qui erat ortus ex Sabaim filio Amon.

[5] In 2 Chr. xx. 16 "cliffe" of 1611 represents another Hebrew word. "Clift" in Ex. xxxiii. 22; Isai. lvii. 5 is left unaltered in 1762 and the moderns, the general sense, though not the Hebrew words, being the same as here.

[6] That is, the partners in the fishery (Luke v. 7, 10); Blayney's variation hardly looks accidental, and lingers in many later Bibles, e.g. Ostervald [illegible], Oxford 8vo [illegible], D'Oyly & Mant 1817, even in Bagster 1846.

[7] The present text is Adonai, but Jehovah is read in at least 85 Hebrew manuscripts and five early editions, so that the Translators (who seldom err in this matter) probably intended to use capitals. Since Oxford 8vo [illegible], as also by Bp. Turton's direction (Text p. xxii.), the capitals have been again withdrawn, but not in Bagster 1846.

[8] Nec est dimissio in bello, [illegible]. The sense given by 1629, C. and the moderns may be as good as that of 1611, but not identical with it. For "off" see 1611 in Gen. xxxviii. 14. Ex. iii. 5.

[1] The error of 1611, which misplaces the reference mark in the text (as it so often does), led to the hopeless confusion of 1629 and the moderns. Our Translators merely wish to give, as an alternative rendering for "theirs," Tremellius' ex Thrasonibus ipsorum.

[3] The correctors of 1629 failed to perceive that the margin (following Tremellius, conquescant in se ipsis altitudine suâ) translates by "upon themselves" the word rendered "their trees" by the Bishops' and Authorized versions.

[5] Most moderns here, with our standard, omit "the." Ostervald (1808) reads it consistently in ver. 11, 12.

[6] Blayney in the very same note corrects the false reference to Josephus of 1611—1762 from cap. 4 to cap. 3.

[7] The correction of 1629 represents et omnem Israel (πάντα τὸν Ἰσραὴλ) of the Vulgate and (virtually) of Junius. Our Translators seem to have read somewhere Καὶ πάντος τοῦ Ἰσραὴλ, but Aldus, the Vatican and Alexandrian MSS, have no καί.

[3] In ver 33 "eight" of 1611—1630 (not 1629) may be regarded as another mode of spelling the ordinal, as 1611 has it in Lev. xiv. 10, 23, Luke xv. 8 marg. Compare also 2 Kin. xv 8 and Ezek. xlii. 27. p. xciv.

[4] So, though wrongly, nearly all the moderns, but not Scholefield, in the Cambridge Greek and English N.T. (Introd. p. xl., note 1), and the Tract Society's Bible 1868. [5] This change has not been imported into the Gospel for Palm Sunday in the Book of Common Prayer. Cf. 1 John v. 12 in Appendix A, and 1 Cor. xiii. 2 below, where in modern Prayer Books we read "not" in the Epistle for Quinquagesima Sunday.

[1] So always in the Apocrypha. Note also that 1701 has the apostrophe in Rom. iv. 19 "Sara's," but not elsewhere, so far as we have observed. The awkwardness of "Saras" caused it to be brought into this Bible from the ordinary literature of the period.

[2] A deliberate but needless correction (which ought not to have been followed in the present volume), derived from Tyndale's, Coverdale's, the Great, and the Bishops' Bibles. The Geneva 1557 has "destinate to death."

[3] So Wisd. xvi. 18, where the Bishops' renders ποτὲ "sometimes" and "sometime" in consecutive verses. The modern distinction between the two words did not exist when these versions were made. Hence all our Bibles have "sometimes" Eph. ii. 13, v. 8; Titus iii. 3; all "sometime" Col. iii. 7, 1 Pet. iii. 20, the Greek being always ποτέ.

APPENDIX D.

Blayney's Report to the Rev. the Vice-Chancellor, and the other Delegates of the Clarendon Press.

THE Editor of the two editions of the Bible lately printed at the Clarendon Press thinks it his duty, now that he has completed the whole in a course of between three and four years close application, to make his report to the Delegates of the manner in which that work has been executed; and hopes for their approbation.

In the first place, according to the instructions he received, the folio edition of 1611, that of 1701, published under the direction of Bishop Lloyd, and two Cambridge editions of a late date, one in Quarto, the other in octavo, have been carefully collated, whereby many errors that were found in former editions have been corrected, and the text reformed to such a standard of purity, as, it is presumed, is not to be met with in any other edition hitherto extant.

The punctuation has been carefully attended to, not only with a view to preserve the true sense, but also to uniformity, as far as was possible.

Frequent recourse has been had to the Hebrew and Greek Originals; and as on other occasions, so with a special regard to the words not expressed in the Original Language, but which our Translators have thought fit to insert in Italics, in order to make out the sense after the English idiom, or to preserve the connexion. And though Dr Paris made large corrections in this particular in an edition published at Cambridge, there still remained many necessary alterations, which escaped the Doctor's notice; in making which the Editor chose not to rely on his own judgment singly, but submitted them all to the previous examination of the Select Committee, and particularly of the Principal of Hertford College[1], and Mr Professor Wheeler. A list of the above alterations was intended to have been given in to the Vice Chancellor at this time, but the Editor has not yet found time to make it completely out.

Considerable alterations have been made in the Heads or Contents prefixed to the Chapters, as will appear on inspection; and though the Editor is unwilling to enlarge upon the labour bestowed by himself in this particular, he cannot avoid taking notice of the peculiar obligations, which both himself and the public lie under to the Principal of Hertford College, Mr Griffith of Pembroke College, Mr Wheeler, Poetry Professor[2], and the late Warden of New College[3], so long as he lived to bear a part in it; who with a prodigious expence of time, and inexpressible fatigue to themselves, judiciously corrected and improved the rude and imperfect Draughts of the Editor.

The running titles at the top of the columns in each page, how trifling a circumstance soever it may appear, required no small degree of thought and attention.

Many of the proper names being left untranslated, whose etymology was necessary to be known, in order to a more perfect comprehension of the allusions in the text, the translation of them, under the inspection of the above named Committee, has been for the benefit of the unlearned supplied in the margin.

Some obvious and material errors in the chronology have been considered and rectified.

The marginal references, even in Bishop Lloyd's Bible, had in many places suffered by the inaccuracy of the Press; subsequent editions had copied those Errata, and added many others of their own; so that it became absolutely necessary to turn to and compare the several passages; which has been done in every single instance, and by this precaution several false references brought to light, which would otherwise have passed unsuspected. It has been the care of the Editor to rectify these, as far as he could, by critical conjecture, where the copies universally failed him, as they did in most of the errors discovered in Bishop Lloyd's edition. In some few instances he confesses himself to have been at a loss in finding out the true reference, though the corruption was manifest in the want of any the most distant resemblance between the passages compared together. Cases of this sort indeed did not often occur; so that a very small number only of the old references are, with the sanction of the Committee, omitted, and their places more usefully supplied.

It had been suggested by the late Archbishop of Canterbury[1], that an improvement might be made in the present editions of the Bible, by taking in a number of additional references, of which many useful ones, as he supposed, might be furnished from other editions referred to by him, and particularly from a Scotch edition, of which the present Vice-Chancellor was kind enough to lend a Copy. The references found in it, which were indeed very numerous, having been severally turned to and examined, such of them were selected as the Editor judged most pertinent, together with others that occurred from his own reading and observation. In doing this he has endeavoured to keep clear of mere fanciful allusions, of which too many presented themselves in the before named Scotch edition; and to adhere as near as possible to the plan marked out in the former collection made by Bishop Lloyd; pointing out such passages chiefly, where the same history or the same name were introduced, the same matter treated of, or sentiment expressed, or at least where parallels might fairly be drawn; and sometimes where a similar use of a particular word or expression tended to illustrate the application of it, on another occasion. The number of References being thus augmented considerably, the Collection upon the whole will, it is hoped, be regarded as useful in the light of a Concordance, material as well as verbal, always at hand.

In this state the Quarto Copy was sent to press; and the first proofs carefully collated with the Copy both text and margin; after which the second proofs were again read, and generally speaking, the third likewise; not to mention the frequent revisions of proofs besides, which are common in correcting the press. This proved indeed a very tiresome and tedious task; but was not more than was absolutely necessary in order to attain the degree of accuracy that was wished. A particular attention was required with respect to the figures belonging to the marginal References, where errors were continually creeping in after a manner that would appear highly astonishing to those, who have never been concerned in correcting multitudes of figures, as they came from the press.

When the Quarto Sheets, were printed off, the Forms were lengthened out in order to make up the Folio Edition; in doing which the parts were often so jumbled together, and such Confusion introduced by misplacing the References and mistaking the Chronology, that nothing else would suffice than a fresh Collation of the whole with the Quarto Copy, and a repetition of almost the same trouble and care in the revisal, and in making up the running Titles anew, as had been used before. But the Editor thinks he has just reason to congratulate himself on the opportunity hereby given him of discovering and correcting some few trivial inaccuracies, which in spite of all his vigilance had escaped his notice in the Quarto Edition. So that the Folio Edition is rendered by this somewhat the more perfect of the two, and therefore more fit to be recommended for a standard Copy.

The Editor humbly hopes this Account of his proceedings will not be unacceptable to the Board; and will think his time and pains not ill bestowed, if he shall have succeeded in his desire of giving satisfaction to those who honoured him with the employment, and of contributing in any wise to God's honour, and the public utility.

Acts i. 4. In Beza's editions of 1582, 1589, 1598 (not 1565) μετ' αὐτῶν follows συναλιζόμενος, being doubtless derived from his own celebrated manuscript, Codex D. The italics in "with them" belong to 1769: no other English have "with." xvii. 25. καὶ τὰ πάντα Vulg. So Geneva only of preceding English versions. xxi. 8. ἤλθομεν Compl., Vulg., all English. xxii. 25. προέτειναν Compl., Beza 1589 (not 1565), Vulg., the other English; against Eras., Stephens, Coverdale προέτεινεν. xxiv. 13. παραστῆσαι (Erasm., Steph. add με) Compl. ver. 18. τινες (Erasm., Steph., Vulg., Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible, Bishops' add δὲ) Compl. ver. 19. ἔδει Vulg., Geneva 1557: but δεῖ Compl., Erasm., Steph., Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible, Bishops'. xxvii. 13. ἄσσον Erasm. Ἀμὴν only in Bishops': omitted in other English, after Compl., Erasm., Steph., Vulg. 1 Cor. v. 11. ἢ πόρνος Erasm. (Latin), Vulg., all English. ἢ πόρνος Erasm. (Greek), Steph. xiv. 10. of them is placed in the type representing italics in the Bishops' Bible and in ours of 1611, in deference to Beza, who, after Colinæus (1534) and Vulg., would fain omit αὐτῶν. xv. 31. ὑμετέραν Compl., Vulg., Geneva 1557: but ἡμετέραν Erasm., Steph. (even Beza 1565), Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible, Bishops'. 2 Cor. iii. 1. ἢ μὴ χρῄζομεν Vulg., Coverdale, Bishops', for εἰ μὴ χρ. of Compl., Erasm., Steph. v. 4. ἐφ' ᾧ "for that" Compl., Vulg., Geneva 1557 ("wherein whiles we are"), but ἐπειδὴ Erasm., Steph., "for" Tyndale, Coverdale; "because" Great Bible, Bishops'. vi. 15. Eph. i. 3. ἐν Χριστῷ Compl., Vulg., Geneva 1557, Bishops': but Erasm., Ald., Steph. omit ἐν ("by Christ," Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible). vi. 7. ὡς follows

[1] This is one of Canon Westcott's examples, but he sees how precarious it is. In fact ὅτι is untranslated in ver. 19; ch. vi. 5, 16, x. 7, and numberless other places.

[2] All the English have "a tomb," or "a grave," but they are so careless in respect of the definite article, that, but for Canon Westcott's authority, this instance too would have been withheld. Luke vii. 12; xvii. 35; xxii. 45. Rev. xiii. 3 are also not a little doubtful.

δουλεύοντες in Compl., Beza's last three editions, Vulg., Tyndale 1526 ("even as though ye served the lorde"), but not in Erasm., Steph., Beza 1565, Tyndale 1534 or the subsequent English versions. COL. i. 2. Κολοσσαῖς in nearly all: Κολασσαῖς Erasm., Steph. ver. 24. ὃς is set before νῦν χαίρω in Beza's last three editions, Vulg., and our Authorized Version only among the English. ii. 13. ὑμῖν Vulg., Geneva 1557 (Bishops'): but ἡμῖν Compl., Erasm., Steph., other English versions. 1 THESS. ii. 13. οὐχ ὡς λόγον ἀνθρώπων Beza 1589, 1598 (not 1565), Vulg., English (perhaps rather as an interpretation than a reading)[1]: the rest omit ὡς. ver. 15. ἡμᾶς all except Steph., which has ὑμᾶς. 1 TIM. i. 4. οἰκοδομίαν Erasm., Ald., Vulg., all English?, but οἰκονομίαν Compl., Steph. TITUS ii. 10. ἡμῶν all except Steph., who reads ὑμῶν. HEB. ix. 1. σκηνὴ omitted by Erasm., Ald., Beza, Vulg. ("Testament" Great Bible, "covenant" Geneva 1557, Bishops', Authorized), but Compl., Tyndale, Coverdale have it. x. 10. Compl., Erasm., Steph., but apparently no English version, prefix οἱ to διά. xii. 22, 23. Compl., Erasm., Steph., Vulg., with all the English versions before the Authorized, and most modern editors, join πανηγύρει with ver. 22. JAMES iv. 13, 15. The four verbs in ver. 13 and ποιήσομεν ver. 15 are futures in Vulg., Geneva 1557 (the Authorized stands alone in reading with Stephens 1549[2] ζήσομεν ver. 15), but they are aorists subjunctive in Compl., Erasm., Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible, Bishops'. v. 12. εἰς ὑπόκρισιν of Compl., Erasm., Steph., Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible, was corrected into εἰς κρίσιν by Geneva 1557, Bishops' ("sub judicio" Vulg.). 1 PET. iii. 21 init. ᾧ Compl., Ald., Geneva 1557, Bishops': but ὃ Erasm., Steph., Vulg., Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible. 2 PET. ii. 18. ἐν ἀσελγείαις of Beza is certainly the reading of the Authorized ("through" was not italicised before 1769), possibly of Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible, Geneva 1557: but the Bishops' ("they entice through lusts with the bait of wantonness of the flesh") after Compl., Erasm., Steph., rightly omits ἐν. iii. 7. τῷ αὐτῷ λόγῳ Vulg., Tyndale, Geneva 1557, but τῷ αὐτοῦ (αὐτοῦ only, Erasm.) λόγῳ Compl., Erasm., Steph., Coverdale, Great Bible, Bishops'. 1 JOHN i. 4. χαρὰ ὑμῶν after Erasm. is rendered in all English versions except Tyndale 1534, but ἡμῶν in Compl., Steph., Vulg. ii. 23. ὁ ὁμολογῶν τὸν υἱὸν καὶ τὸν πατέρα ἔχει is the well-known clause inserted in italics in our own and the Bishops' versions, to indicate thereby a doubtful reading (Introduction, p. xxxv.). Though not in Compl., Erasm., Steph., or even in Beza 1565, Tyndale, Coverdale, Geneva 1557, it was brought in within brackets and italicised in the Great Bible, doubtless from the Vulgate, and rightly forms a part of the text in Beza's last three editions. v. 14. ὑμῶν is a mere erratum of Stephens. 2 JOHN 3. ὑμῶν Compl., all English except the Great Bible: ἡμῶν Erasm., Steph., Vulg. (manuscripts, not Clementine edition). ver. 5. γράφω Erasm., Steph. only. 3 JOHN 7. αὐτοῦ after ὀνόματος of Compl., Vulg. (Clementine), English versions, is omitted in Erasm., Steph., Vulg. manuscripts. JUDE 19. ἑαυτοὺς is added after ἀποδιορίζοντες in Vulg., Beza, and our own Version against Compl., Erasm., and the other English ("makers of sects"). ver. 24. ὑμᾶς Vulg., English versions, but αὐτοὺς Compl., Erasm., Steph. REV. i. 11[3]. ἑπτὰ is prefixed to ἐκκλησίαις in Compl., Vulg., Great Bible, Geneva 1557, Bishops'; but not in Erasm., Steph., Tyndale, Coverdale. iii. 1. ἑπτὰ is prefixed to πνεύματα in Compl., Vulg., all English except Tyndale ("the spirit"); but not in Erasm., Steph., Luther. v. 11. Erasm., Steph. omit καὶ ἦν ὁ ἀριθμὸς αὐτῶν μυριάδες μυριάδων with Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible, Bishops': μυριάδες μυριάδων is omitted in Vulg., Geneva 1557. But Compl. and the Authorized have the whole clause. vii. 2. ἀναβαίνοντα Compl., Vulg., Bishops' ("ascend" other English): ἀναβάντα Erasm., Steph. ver. 3. σφραγίσωμεν Compl., English versions: σφραγίζωμεν Erasm., Steph. ver. 10. τῷ θεῷ ἡμῶν τῷ καθημένῳ ἐπὶ τοῦ θρόνου Compl., Vulg., Geneva 1557: but τῷ καθημένῳ ἐπὶ τοῦ θρόνου τοῦ θεοῦ ἡμῶν Erasm., Steph., Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible, Bishops'. ver. 14. αὐτὰς (after ἐλεύκαναν) Compl., Vulg., English versions: στολὰς αὐτῶν Erasm.[4], Steph. viii. 6. οἱ

[1] The word "as" in the Authorized Version was not italicised before 1629, and is now restored by us to Roman type.

[2] Canon Westcott considers ζήσομεν a conjecture of our Translators: if so, it was a happy one, being the reading of the three great manuscripts ℵAB.

[3] The marked inferiority of Stephens' text in the Apocalypse will be seen to arise from his following Erasmus in preference to the Complutensian throughout that book.

ἔχοντες Compl., Vulg., all English: but Erasm., Steph. omit οἱ. ver. 11. τῶν ὑδάτων after τὸ τρίτον is omitted by Tyndale, Great Bible, Bishops'; but not by Compl., Vulg., Coverdale, Geneva 1557. ix. 19. αἱ γὰρ ἐξουσίαι αὐτῶν ἐν τῷ στόματι αὐτῶν εἰσιν (omitting καὶ ἐν ταῖς οὐραῖς αὐτῶν) Erasm., Steph., against Compl., English ("their powers be" Bishops'). xi. 1. καὶ ὁ ἄγγελος εἱστήκει before λέγων is omitted by Erasm., Steph., Vulg., Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible: the words are found, less correctly, in Compl., Geneva 1557, Bishops'. ver. 2. ἔξωθεν (before τοῦ ναοῦ) Compl., Vulg., Geneva 1557, Bishops'; but ἔσωθεν Erasm., Steph., Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible. xiii. 3. ἐθαύμασεν ὅλη ἡ γῆ Compl., Vulg., all English: ἐθαυμάσθη ἐν ὅλῃ τῇ γῇ Erasm., Steph. xiv. 18. τοὺς βότρυας τῆς ἀμπέλου Compl., Vulg., Geneva 1557, Bishops': but τῆς ἀμπέλου is omitted in Erasm. (but not his Latin of 1516), Steph., Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible. xvi. 5. ἐσόμενος (for ὅσιος), a bold variation of Beza's last three editions, is adopted in our version and the Elzevir text of 1633. ver. 14. ἃ ἐκπορεύεται Compl., Vulg. (Clementine): but ἐκπορεύεσθαι of Erasm., Steph., all English versions before the Authorized, is perhaps preferable. xix. 14. τὰ is prefixed to ἐν τῷ οὐρανῷ in Compl., Vulg., all English versions ("which were" not being italicised in the Authorized before 1769): but τὰ is omitted by Erasm., Steph. Total 81.

§ III. Passages in which the text of the Authorized Version agrees with that of Stephens (1550) against Beza (1589).

S. Matt. i. 23. καλέσουσι all English. Beza's καλέσεις must be derived from Codex D (Greek, but its Latin version vocabit), which in 1565 had been in his possession about three years. It has little other support. xx. 15. εἰ ὁ ὀφθαλμός σου Compl., Erasm., Vulg., English versions, but ἢ (for εἰ) Beza. S. Mark xvi. 20 fin. Ἀμήν of Compl., Vulg. (manuscripts), is omitted by Erasm., Vulg. (Clementine), and all English versions except the Authorized. S. Luke vii. 12. αὐτῇ ἦν χήρα Erasm., Ald., Vulg., all English except Geneva 1557: but αὐτῇ χήρᾳ Compl. S. John iv. 5. Συχὰρ Compl., Erasm., Vulg., Bishops', but Σιχὰρ other English. ix. 10. σου Compl., Erasm., all English: σοι Vulg. xiv. 11. ἐστιν after ἐν ἐμοί is in Erasm., Vulg., Coverdale only. xviii. 20. πάντες of Erasm., Vulg., Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible, Geneva 1557, Bishops', is the true reading: our Authorized Version derives πάντοτε from Compl., Steph.: πάντοθεν seems a mere conjecture of Beza. Acts ii. 36. καὶ κύριον Compl., Erasm., Vulg., Geneva 1557, Bishops': καὶ, not rendered by Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible, is omitted by Beza. iv. 27. ἐν τῇ πόλει ταύτῃ is added after ἐπ' ἀληθείας only in Stephens 1546, 1549, Beza's last three editions, the Vulgate, and Great Bible (in other type and within brackets). xvi. 17. ἡμῖν Compl., Erasm., all English: ὑμῖν Vulg., &c. xxiv. 14. τοῖς προφήταις (without ἐν) Compl., Erasm., Vulg., all English except Coverdale. The word "in" before "the prophets" in modern Bibles is as late as 1762. xxvi. 8. τί ἄπιστον Compl., Erasm., all English, rather than τί; ἄπιστον. 1 Cor. vii. 29. ὁ καιρὸς συνεσταλμένος· τὸ λοιπόν ἐστιν (omitting ὅτι before ὁ καιρὸς) Compl., Erasm., Vulg., Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible (the Bishops' renders ὅτι, "because"): but ὅτι ὁ καιρὸς συνεσταλμένος τὸ λοιπόν ἐστιν· Geneva 1557 after Beza. xi. 22. ὑμᾶς ἐν τούτῳ; οὐκ ἐπαινῶ Compl., Geneva 1557: but ὑμᾶς; ἐν τούτῳ οὐκ ἐπαινῶ Erasm., Beza, Tyndale, Coverdale, Great Bible, Bishops'. 2 Cor. iii. 14. ὅ τι Erasm. 1519, all English: but ὅτι Compl., Erasm. 1516, Beza, Vulg. viii. 24. καὶ εἰς πρόσωπον Erasm., Beza 1565, Coverdale, with the Authorized: καὶ is omitted in Compl., Beza's last three editions, Vulg., and the other English versions. xi. 1. τῇ ἀφροσύνῃ Compl., Erasm., Ald., all our English: τί τῆς ἀφροσύνης Beza, Vulg. ("some little of my folly" Rhemish). Phil. i. 23. πολλῷ Compl., Erasm., Vulg., all English: Beza, &c. add γάρ. Titus ii. 7. ἀφθαρσίαν of Compl., Bishops', Authorized, is omitted by Erasm., Ald., Vulg., and the other English versions. Hebr. x. 2. οὐκ ἂν ἐπαύσαντο προσφερόμεναι: Erasm., Vulg., Tyndale, Great Bible, Geneva 1557, Bishops': ἂν ἐπαύσαντο προσφερόμεναι, Compl., Beza, Coverdale. Total 21.

The following variations of the Greek could scarcely be represented in our English versions: Acts vii. 26 & xv. 32. τε Compl., Erasm., Steph. δὲ Beza. xix. 27. μέλλειν δὲ Compl., Erasm. 1516, Steph. μέλλειν τε Erasm. 1519, Beza. xxvii. 3. πρὸς τοὺς φίλους Compl., Erasm.: τοὺς omitted by Stephens and Beza. 1 Cor. vii. 5. συνέρχησθε Compl., Erasm., Steph., Beza 1565, 1589: συνέρχεσθε Beza 1598, Vulg., Tyndale 1534 (perhaps also 1526), Great Bible, Geneva 1557, Bishops'. See Introd. p. xlii. 2 Thess. ii. 4. "all that is called God" is the rendering of all our versions from Tyndale downwards, or it might be thought to represent Beza's conjectural reading πᾶν τὸ for πάντα. Rev. iv. 10. Since all read πεσοῦνται, no stress can be laid on the variation between the present and future in the verbs that follow. x. 7. τελεσθῇ Compl., Erasm., Steph., Beza 1565, "shall be finished" other English versions after Vulg. But Beza's last three editions have τελεσθήσεται, which ill suits "should be finished" of the Authorized.

Postscript on note 1, page xix.

His Grace the Archbishop has permitted the editor to search for himself the Records of the Convocation of the Province of Canterbury, with the following results. No trace of any synodical action about a new edition of the Bible in 1699 now remains either in the Registers or in the Schedules, which for that year are not complete. Those for 1703 (the year ending on March 24) are all preserved, and in a long list of Gravamina, brought to the Upper House on Feb. 11, $170\frac{3}{4}$, as "The humble representation of the Lower House," one article declares "That in some late editions of the Holy Bible and of the Liturgy of the Church of England, several gross errors have been committed." The temper of the whole document, as well as the express testimony of Lewis, renders it likely that the complaint was aimed chiefly at Lloyd's edition by men willing enough to wound, but half afraid to strike.

THE TRANSLATORS TO THE READER.[1]

The best things have been calumniated.

ZEAL to promote the common good, whether it be by devising any thing ourselves, or revising that which hath been laboured by others, deserveth certainly much respect and esteem, but yet findeth but cold entertainment in the world. It is welcomed with suspicion instead of love, and with emulation instead of thanks: and if there be any hole left for cavil to enter, (and cavil, if it do not find a hole, will make one) it is sure to be misconstrued, and in danger to be condemned. This will easily be granted by as many as know story, or have any experience. For was there ever any thing projected, that savoured any way of newness or renewing, but the same endured many a storm of gainsaying or opposition? A man would think that civility, wholesome laws, learning and eloquence, synods, and Church-maintenance, (that we speak of no more things of this kind) should be as safe as a sanctuary, ἔξω βέλους. and [out of shot, as they say, that no man would lift up the heel, no, nor dog move his tongue against the motioners of them. For by the first we are distinguished from brute beasts led with sensuality: by the second we are bridled and restrained from outrageous behaviour, and from doing of injuries, whether by fraud or by violence: by the third we are enabled to inform and reform others, by the light and feeling that we have attained unto ourselves: briefly, by the fourth, being brought together to a parle face to face, we sooner compose our differences than by writings, which are endless: and lastly, that the Church be sufficiently provided for is so agreeable to good reason and conscience, that those mothers are holden to be less cruel, that kill their children as soon as they are born, than those nursing fathers and mothers (wheresoever they be) that withdraw from them who hang upon their breasts (and upon whose breasts again themselves do hang to receive the spiritual and sincere milk of the word) livelihood and support fit for their estates. Thus it is apparent, that these things which we speak of are of most necessary use, and therefore that none, either without absurdity can speak against them, or without note of wickedness can spurn against them.

Yet for all that, the learned know that certain worthy men have been brought to untimely death for none other fault, but for seeking to reduce their countrymen to good order and discipline: and that in some Commonweals it was made a capital crime, once to motion the making of a new law for the abrogating of an old, though the same were most pernicious: And that certain, which would be counted pillars of the State, and patterns of virtue and prudence, could not be brought for a long time to give way to good letters and refined speech; but bare themselves as averse from them, as from rocks or boxes of poison: And fourthly, that he was no babe, but a great clerk, that gave forth, (and in writing to remain to posterity) in passion peradventure, but yet he gave forth, That he had not seen any profit to come by any synod or meeting of the Clergy, but rather the contrary: And lastly, against Church-maintenance and allowance, in such sort as the ambassadors and messengers of the great King of kings should be furnished, it is not unknown what a fiction or fable (so it is esteemed, and for no better by the reporter himself, though superstitious) was devised: namely, That at such time as the professors and teachers of Christianity in the Church of Rome, then a true Church, were liberally endowed, a voice forsooth was heard from heaven, saying,

Now is poison poured down into the Church, &c. Thus not only as oft as we speak, as one saith, but also as oft as we do any thing of note or consequence, we subject ourselves to every one's censure, and happy is he that is least tossed upon tongues; for utterly to escape the snatch of them it is impossible. If any man conceit that this is the lot and portion of the meaner sort only, and that princes are privileged by their high estate, he is deceived. As the sword devoureth as well one as another, as it is in Samuel; nay, as the great commander charged his soldiers in a certain battle to strike at no part of the enemy, but at the face; and as the king of Syria commanded his chief captains to fight neither with small nor great, save only against the king of Israel: so it is too true, that envy striketh most spitefully at the fairest, and at the chiefest. David was a worthy prince, and no man to be compared to him for his first deeds; and yet for as worthy an act as ever he did, even for bringing back the ark of God in solemnity, he was scorned and scoffed at by his own wife. Solomon was greater than David, though not in virtue, yet in power; and by his power and wisdom he built a temple to the Lord, such a one as was the glory of the land of Israel, and the wonder of the whole world. But was that his magnificence liked of by all? We doubt of it. Otherwise why do they lay it in his son's dish, and call unto him for †easing of the burden? Make, say they, the grievous servitude of thy father, and his sore yoke, lighter. Belike he had charged them with some levies, and troubled them with some carriages; hereupon they raise up a tragedy, and wish in their heart the temple had never been built. So hard a thing it is to please all, even when we please God best, and do seek to approve ourselves to every one's conscience.

C. Cæsar. Plutarch [cap. 59].

If we will descend to later times, we shall find many the like examples of such kind, or rather unkind, acceptance. The first Roman Emperor did never do a more pleasing deed to the learned, nor more profitable to posterity, for conserving the record of times in true supputation, than when he corrected the Calendar, and ordered the year according to the course of the sun: and yet this was imputed to him for novelty and arrogancy, and procured to him great obloquy. So the first Christened Emperor, Constantine.

(at the leastwise, that openly professed the faith himself, and allowed others to do the like) for strengthening the empire at his great charges, and providing for the Church, as he did, got for his labour the name Pupillus, as who would say, a wasteful Prince, that had need of a guardian or overseer. So the best Christened Emperor, for the love that he bare unto peace, thereby to enrich both himself and his subjects, and because he did not seek war, but find it, was judged to be no man at arms, (though in deed he excelled in feats of chivalry, and shewed so much when he was provoked) and condemned for giving himself to his ease, and to his pleasure. To be short, the most learned Emperor of former times, (at the least, the greatest politician) what thanks had he for cutting off the superfluities of the laws, and digesting them into some order and method? This, that he hath been blotted by some to be an Epitomist, that is, one that extinguished worthy whole volumes, to bring his abridgments into request. This is the measure that hath been rendered to excellent Princes in former times, even, cum benè facerent, malè audire, for their good deeds to be evil spoken of. Neither is there any likelihood that envy and malignity died and were buried with the ancient. No, no, the reproof of Moses taketh hold of most ages, You are risen up in your fathers' stead, an increase of sinful men. What is that that hath been done? that which shall be done: and there is no new thing under the sun, saith the wise man: and S. Stephen, As your fathers did, so do ye. This, and more to this purpose, his Majesty that now reigneth (and long and long may he reign, and his offspring for ever, *Himself and children and children's children always) knew full well, according to the singular wisdom given unto him by God, and the rare learning and experience that he hath attained unto; namely, that whosoever attempteth any thing for the publick, (specially if it pertain to religion, and to the opening and clearing of the word of God) the same setteth himself upon a stage to be glouted upon by every evil eye; yea, he casteth himself headlong upon pikes, to be gored by every sharp tongue. For he that meddleth with men's religion in any part meddleth with their custom, nay, with their freehold; and though they find no content in that which they have, yet they cannot abide to hear of altering. Notwithstanding his royal heart was not daunted or discouraged for this or that colour, but stood resolute, as a statue immoveable, and an anvil not easy to be beaten into plates, as one saith; he knew who had chosen him to be a soldier, or rather a captain; and being assured that the course which he intended made much for the glory of God, and the building up of his Church, he would not suffer it to be broken off for whatsoever speeches or practices. It doth certainly belong unto kings, yea, it doth specially belong unto them, to have care of religion, yea, to know it aright, yea, to profess it zealously, yea, to promote it to the uttermost of their power. This is their glory before all nations which mean well, and this will bring unto them a far most excellent weight of glory in the day of the Lord Jesus. For the Scripture saith not in vain, Them that honour me I will honour: neither was it a vain word that Eusebius delivered long ago, That piety towards God was the weapon, and the only weapon, that both preserved Constantine's person, and avenged him of his enemies.

But now what piety without truth? What truth, what saving truth, without the word of God? What word of God, whereof we may be sure, without the Scripture? The Scriptures we are commanded to search. John 5. 39. Isaiah 8. 20. They are commended that searched and studied them. Acts 17. 11. and 8. 28, 29. They are reproved that were unskilful in them, or slow to believe them. Matth. 22. 29. Luke 24. 25. They can make us wise unto salvation. 2 Tim. 3. 15. If we be ignorant, they will instruct us; if out of the way, they will bring us home; if out of order, they will reform us; if in heaviness, comfort us; if dull, quicken us; if cold, inflame us. Tolle, lege; tolle, lege; Take up and read, take up and read the Scriptures, (for unto them was the direction) it was said unto S. Augustine by a supernatural voice. Whatsoever is in the Scriptures, believe me, saith the same S. Augustine, is high and divine; there is verily truth, and a doctrine most fit for the refreshing and renewing of men's minds, and truly so tempered, that every one may draw from thence that which is sufficient for him, if he come to draw with a devout and pious mind, as true religion requireth. Thus S. Augustine. And S. Hierome, Ama Scripturas, et amabit te sapientia, &c. Love the Scriptures, and wisdom will love thee. And S. Cyrill against Julian, Even boys that are bred up in the Scriptures, become most religious, &c. But what mention we three or four uses of the Scripture, whereas whatsoever is to be believed, or practised, or hoped for, is contained in them? or three or four sentences of the Fathers, since whosoever is worthy the name of a Father, from Christ's time downward, hath likewise written not only of the riches, but also of the perfection of the Scripture? I adore the fulness of the Scripture, saith Tertullian against Hermogenes. And again, to Apelles a heretick of the like stamp he saith, I do not admit that which thou bringest in (or concludest) of thine own (head or store, de tuo) without Scripture. So Saint Justin Martyr before him; We must know by all means (saith he) that it is not lawful (or possible) to learn (any thing) of God or of right piety, save only out of the Prophets, who teach us by divine inspiration. So Saint Basil after Tertullian, It is a manifest falling away from the faith, and a fault of presumption, either to reject any of those things that are written, or to bring in (upon the head of them, ἐπεισάγειν) any of those things that are not written. We omit to cite to the same effect S. Cyrill, Bishop of Jerusalem, in his 4. Cateches. Saint Hierome against Helvidius, Saint Augustine in his third book against the letters of Petilian, and in very many other places of his works. Also we forbear to descend to latter Fathers, because we will not weary the reader. The Scriptures then being acknowledged to be so full and so perfect, how can we excuse ourselves of negligence, if we do not study them? of curiosity, if we be not content with them? Men talk much of εἰρεσιώνῃ, how many sweet and goodly things it had hanging on it; of the Philosopher's stone, that it turneth copper into gold; of Cornu-copiæ, that it had all things necessary for food in it; of Panaces the herb, that it was good for all diseases; of Catholicon the drug, that it is instead of all purges; of Vulcan's armour, that it was an armour of proof against all thrusts and all blows, &c. Well, that which they falsely or vainly attributed to these things for bodily good, we may justly and with full measure ascribe unto the Scripture for spiritual. It is not only an armour, but also a whole armoury of weapons, both offensive and defensive; whereby we may save ourselves, and put the enemy to flight. It is not an herb, but a tree, or rather a whole paradise of trees of life, which bring forth fruit every month, and the fruit thereof is for meat, and the leaves for medicine. It is not a pot of Manna or a cruse of oil, which were for memory only, or for a meal's meat or two; but as it were a shower of heavenly bread sufficient for a whole host, be it never so great, and as it were a whole cellar full of oil vessels; whereby all our necessities may be provided for, and our debts discharged. In a word, it is a panary of wholesome food against fenowed* traditions; a physician's shop (Saint Basil calleth it) of preservatives against poisoned heresies; a pandect of profitable laws against rebellious spirits; a treasury of most costly jewels against beggarly rudiments; finally, a fountain of most pure water springing up unto everlasting life. And what marvel? the original thereof being from heaven, not from earth; the author being God, not man; the inditer, the Holy Spirit, not the wit of the Apostles or Prophets; the penmen, such as were sanctified from the womb, and endued with a principal portion of God's Spirit; the matter, verity, piety, purity, uprightness; the form, God's word, God's testimony, God's oracles, the word of truth, the word of salvation, &c.; the effects, light of understanding, stableness of persuasion, repentance from dead works, newness of life, holiness, peace, joy in the Holy Ghost; lastly, the end and reward of the study thereof, fellowship with the saints, participation of the heavenly nature, fruition of an inheritance immortal, undefiled, and that never shall fade away: Happy is the man that delighteth in the Scripture, and thrice happy that meditateth in it day and night.

But how shall men meditate in that which they cannot understand? How shall they understand that which is kept close in an unknown tongue? as it is written. Except I know the power of the voice, I shall be to him that speaketh a barbarian, and he that speaketh shall be a barbarian to me. The Apostle excepteth no tongue; not Hebrew the ancientest, not Greek the most copious, not Latin the finest. Nature taught a natural man to confess, that all of us in those tongues which we do not understand are plainly deaf; we may turn the deaf ear unto them. The Scythian counted the Athenian, whom he did not understand, barbarous: so the Roman did the Syrian and the Jew: (even S. Hierome himself calleth the Hebrew tongue barbarous; belike, because it was strange to so many:) so the Emperor of Constantinople calleth the Latin tongue barbarous, though Pope Nicolas do storm at it: so the Jews long before Christ called all other nations Lognazim *, which is little better than barbarous. Therefore as one complaineth that always in the Senate of Rome there was one or other that called for an interpreter; so, lest the Church be driven to the like exigent, it is necessary to have translations in a readiness. Translation it is that openeth the window, to let in the light; that breaketh the shell, that we may eat the kernel; that putteth aside the curtain, that we may look into the most holy place; that removeth the cover of the well, that we may come by the water; even as Jacob rolled away the stone from the mouth of the well, by which means the flocks of Laban were watered. Indeed without translation into the vulgar tongue, the unlearned are but like children at Jacob's well (which was deep) without a bucket or something to draw with: or as that person mentioned by Esay, to whom when a sealed book was delivered with this motion, Read this, I pray thee, he was fain to make this answer, I cannot, for it is sealed.

While God would be known only in Jacob, and have his name great in Israel, and in none other place; while the dew lay on Gideon's fleece only, and all the earth besides was dry; then for one and the same people, which spake all of them the language of Canaan, that is, Hebrew, one and the same original in Hebrew was sufficient. But when the fulness of time drew near, that the Sun of righteousness, the Son of God, should come into the world, whom God ordained to be a reconciliation through faith in his blood, not of the Jew only, but also of the Greek, yea, of all them that were scattered abroad; then lo, it pleased the Lord to stir up the spirit of a Greek Prince, (Greek for descent and language) even of Ptolemy Philadelph king of Egypt, to procure the translating of the book of God out of Hebrew into Greek. This is the translation of the Seventy interpreters, commonly so called, which prepared the way for our Saviour among the Gentiles by written preaching, as Saint John Baptist did among the Jews by vocal. For the

Grecians, being desirous of learning, were not wont to suffer books of worth to lie moulding in kings' libraries, but had many of their servants, ready scribes, to copy them out, and so they were dispersed and made common. Again, the Greek tongue was well known and made familiar to most inhabitants in Asia by reason of the conquest that there the Grecians had made, as also by the colonies which thither they had sent. For the same causes also it was well understood in many places of Europe, yea, and of Africk too. Therefore the word of God being set forth in Greek, becometh hereby like a candle set upon a candlestick, which giveth light to all that are in the house; or like a proclamation sounded forth in the market-place, which most men presently take knowledge of; and therefore that language was fittest to contain the Scriptures, both for the first preachers of the Gospel to appeal unto for witness, and for the learners also of those times to make search and trial by. It is certain, that that translation was not so sound and so perfect, but that it needed in many places correction; and who had been so sufficient for this work as the Apostles or apostolick men? Yet it seemed good to the Holy Ghost and to them to take that which they found, (the same being for the greatest part true and sufficient) rather than by making a new, in that new world and green age of the Church, to expose themselves to many exceptions and cavillations, as though they made a translation to serve their own turn, and therefore bearing witness to themselves, their witness not to be regarded. This may be supposed to be some cause, why the translation of the Seventy was allowed to pass for current. Notwithstanding, though it was commended generally, yet it did not fully content the learned, no not of the Jews. For not long after Christ, Aquila fell in hand with a new translation, and after him Theodotion, and after him Symmachus: yea, there was a fifth and a sixth edition, the authors whereof were not known. These with the Seventy made up the Hexapla, and were worthily and to great purpose compiled together by Origen. Howbeit the edition of the Seventy went away with the credit, and therefore not only was placed in the midst by Origen, (for the worth and excellency thereof above the rest, as Epiphanius gathereth) but also was used by the Greek Fathers for the ground and foundation of their commentaries. Yea, Epiphanius abovenamed doth attribute so much unto it, that he holdeth the authors thereof not only for interpreters, but also for prophets in some respect: and Justinian the Emperor, enjoining the Jews his subjects to use specially the Translation of the Seventy, rendereth this reason thereof, Because they were, as it were, enlightened with prophetical grace. Yet for all that, as the Egyptians are said of the Prophet to be men and not God, and their horses flesh and not spirit: so it is evident, (and Saint Hierome affirmeth as much) that the Seventy were interpreters, they were not prophets. They did many things well, as learned men; but yet as men they stumbled and fell, one while through oversight, another while through ignorance; yea, sometimes they may be noted to add to the original, and sometimes to take from it: which made the Apostles to leave them many times, when they left the Hebrew, and to deliver the sense thereof according to the truth of the word, as the Spirit gave them utterance. This may suffice touching the Greek translations of the Old Testament.

There were also within a few hundred years after Christ translations many into the Latin tongue: for this tongue also was very fit to convey the law and the Gospel by, because in those times very many countries of the West, yea of the South, East, and North, spake or understood Latin, being made provinces to the Romans. But now the Latin translations were too many to be all good, for they were infinite; (Latini interpretes nullo modo numerari possunt, saith S. Augustine.) Again, they were not out of the Hebrew fountain, (we speak of the Latin translations of the Old Testament) but out of the Greek stream; therefore the Greek being not altogether clear, the Latin derived from it must needs be muddy. This moved S. Hierome, a most learned Father, and the best linguist without controversy of his age, or of any that went before him, to undertake the translating of the Old Testament out of the very fountains themselves; which he performed with that evidence of great learning, judgment, industry, and faithfulness, that he hath for ever bound the Church unto him in a debt of special remembrance and thankfulness.

Translation out of Hebrew and Greek into Latin.

S. August. [de doctr. Christ. lib. 2. cap. 11.

The translating of the Scripture into the vulgar tongues.

Now though the Church were thus furnished with Greek and Latin translations, even before the faith of Christ was generally embraced in the Empire: (for the learned know that even in S. Hierome's time the Consul of Rome and his wife were both Ethnicks, and about the same time the greatest part of the Senate also) yet for all that the godly learned were not content to have the Scriptures in the language which themselves understood, Greek and Latin, (as the good lepers were not content to fare well themselves, but acquainted their neighbours with the store that God had sent, that they also might provide for themselves) but also for the behoof and edifying of the unlearned which hungered and thirsted after righteousness, and had souls to be saved as well as they, they provided translations into the vulgar for their countrymen, insomuch that most nations under heaven did shortly after their conversion hear Christ speaking unto them in their mother tongue, not by the voice of their minister only, but also by the written word translated. If any doubt hereof, he may be satisfied by examples enough, if enough will serve the turn. First, S. Hierome saith, Multarum gentium linguis Scriptura ante translata docet falsa esse quæ addita sunt, &c. i.e. The Scripture being translated before in the language of many nations doth shew that those things that were added (by Lucian or Hesychius) are false. So S. Hierome in that place. The same Hierome elsewhere affirmeth that he, the time was, had set forth the translation of the Seventy, suæ linguæ hominibus; i.e. for his countrymen of Dalmatia. Which words not only Erasmus doth understand to purport, that S. Hierome translated the Scripture into the Dalmatian tongue; but also Sixtus Senensis, and Alphonsus a Castro, (that we speak of no more) men not to be excepted against by them of Rome, do ingenuously confess as much. So S. Chrysostome, that lived in S. Hierome's time, giveth evidence with him: The doctrine of S. John (saith he) did not in such sort (as the Philosophers did) vanish away: but the Syrians, Egyptians, Indians, Persians, Ethiopians, and infinite other nations, being barbarous people, translated it into their (mother) tongue, and have learned to be (true) Philosophers, he meaneth Christians. To this may be added Theodoret, as next unto him both for antiquity, and for learning. His words be these, Every country that is under the sun is full of these words, (of the Apostles and Prophets) and the Hebrew tongue (he meaneth the Scriptures in the Hebrew tongue) is turned not only into the language of the Grecians, but also of the Romans, and Egyptians, and Persians, and Indians, and Armenians, and Scythians, and Sauromatians, and, briefly, into all the languages that any nation useth. So he. In like manner Ulpilas is reported by Paulus Diaconus and Isidore, and before them by Sozomen, to have translated the Scriptures into the Gothick tongue: John Bishop of Sevil by Vasseus, to have turned them into Arabick about the Year of our Lord 717: Beda by Cistertiensis, to have turned a great part of them into Saxon: Efnard by Trithemius, to have abridged the French Psalter (as Beda had done the Hebrew) about the year 800: King Alured by the said Cistertiensis, to have turned the Psalter into Saxon: Methodius by Aventinus (printed at Ingolstad) to have turned the Scriptures into Sclavonian‖: Valdo Bishop of Frising by Beatus Rhenanus, to have caused about that time the Gospels to be translated into Dutch rhythme, yet extant in the library of *Corbinian: Valdus by divers, to have turned them himself, or to have gotten them turned, into French about the year 1160: Charles the fifth of that name, surnamed The wise, to have caused them to be turned into French, about 200 years after Valdus his time; of which translation there be many copies yet extant, as witnesseth Beroaldus. Much about that time, even in our King Richard the second's days, John Trevisa translated them into English, and many English Bibles in written hand are yet to be seen with divers; translated, as it is very probable, in that age. So the Syrian translation of the New Testament is in most learned men's libraries, of Widminstadius his setting forth; and the Psalter in Arabick is with many, of Augustinus Nebiensis' setting forth. So Postel affirmeth, that in his travel he saw the Gospels in the Ethiopian tongue: And Ambrose Thesius allegeth the Psalter of the Indians, which he testifieth to have been set forth by Potken in Syrian characters. So that to have the Scriptures in the mother tongue is not a quaint conceit lately taken up, either by the Lord Cromwell in England, or by the Lord Radevil in Polonie, or by the Lord Ungnadius in the Emperor's dominion, but hath been thought upon, and put in practice of old, even from the first times of the conversion of any nation; no doubt, because it was esteemed most profitable to cause faith to grow in men's hearts the sooner, and to make them to be able to say with the words of the Psalm, As we have heard, so we have seen.

Ps. 48. 8.

The unwillingness of our chief adversaries that the Scriptures should be divulged in the mother tongue, δῶρον ἄδωρον κοὐκ ὀνήσιμον. Sophocles [Ajax, v. 665]. See the observation set forth by Clement his authority) upon the 4th rule of Pius the 4th his making in the Index lib. prohib. pag. 15. ver. 5. Tertul. de veland. virg. [cap. 47].

Now the Church of Rome would seem at the length to bear a motherly affection towards her children, and to allow them the Scriptures in their mother tongue: but indeed it is a gift, not deserving to be called a gift*, an unprofitable gift: they must first get a licence in writing before they may use them; and to get that, they must approve themselves to their Confessor, that is, to be such as are, if not frozen in the dregs, yet soured with the leaven of their superstition. Howbeit, it seemed too much to Clement the eighth that there should be any licence granted to have them in the vulgar tongue, and therefore he overruleth and frustrateth the grant of Pius the fourth. So much are they afraid of the light of the Scripture, (Lucifuga Scripturarum, as Tertullian speaketh) that they will not trust the people with it, no not as it is set forth by their own sworn men, no not with the licence of their own Bishops and Inquisitors. Yea, so unwilling they are to communicate the Scriptures to the people's understanding in any sort, that they are not ashamed to confess that we forced them to translate it into English against their wills. This seemeth to argue a bad cause, or a bad conscience, or both. Sure we are, that it is not he that hath good gold, that is afraid to bring it to the touchstone, but he that hath the counterfeit; neither is it the true man that shunneth the light, but the malefactor, lest his deeds should be reproved; neither is it the plain-dealing merchant that is unwilling to have the weights, or the meteyard, brought in place, but he that useth deceit. But we will let them alone for this fault, and return to translation.

The speeches and reasons, both of our brethren, and of our adversaries, against this work.

Many men's mouths have been open a good while (and yet are not stopped) with speeches about the translation so long in hand, or rather perusals of translations made before: and ask what may be the reason, what the necessity, of the employment. Hath the Church been deceived, say they, all this while? Hath her sweet bread been mingled with leaven, her silver with dross, her wine with water, her milk with lime? (lacte gypsum malè miscetur, saith S. Ireney.) We hoped that we had been in the right way, that we had had the oracles of God delivered unto us, and that though all the world had cause to be offended, and to complain, yet that we had none. Hath the nurse holden out the breast, and nothing but wind in it? Hath the bread been delivered by the Fathers of the Church, and the same proved to be lapidosus, as Seneca speaketh? What is it to handle the word of God deceitfully, if this be not? Thus certain brethren. Also the adversaries of Judah and Hierusalem, like Sanballat in Nehemiah, mock, as we hear, both at the work and workmen, saying, What do these weak Jews, &c. will they make the stones whole again out of the heaps of dust which are burnt? Although they build, yet if a fox go up, he shall even break down their stony wall. Was their translation good before? Why do they now mend it? Was it not good? Why then was it obtruded to the people? Yea, why did the Catholicks (meaning Popish Romanists) always go in jeopardy for refusing to go to hear it? Nay, if it must be translated into English, Catholicks are fittest to do it. They have learning, and they know when a thing is well, they can manum de tabulâ. We will answer them both briefly: and the former, being brethren, thus with St. Hierome, Damnamus veteres? Minimè, sed post priorum studia in domo Domini quod possumus laboramus. That is, Do we condemn the ancient? In no case: but after the endeavours of them that were before us, we take the best pains we can in the house of God. As if he said, Being provoked by the example of the learned that lived before my time, I have thought it my duty to assay whether my talent in the knowledge of the tongues may be profitable in any measure to God's Church, lest I should seem to have laboured in them in vain, and lest I should be thought to glory in men (although ancient) above that which was in them. Thus S. Hierome may be thought to speak.

Neh. 4. 2, 3.

S. Hieron. Apolog. advers. Ruffin. [lib. II. cap. 25].

A satisfaction to our brethren.

And to the same effect say we, that we are so far off from condemning any of their labours that travailed before us in this kind, either in this land, or beyond sea, either in King Henry's time, or King Edward's, (if there were any translation, or correction of a translation, in his time) or Queen Elizabeth's of ever renowned memory, that we acknowledge them to have been raised up of God for the building and furnishing of his Church, and that they deserve to be had of us and of posterity in everlasting remembrance. The judgment of Aristotle is worthy and well known: If Timotheus had not been, we had not had much sweet musick: But if Phrynis (Timotheus his master) had not been, we had not had Timotheus. Therefore blessed be they, and most honoured be their name, that break the ice, and give the onset upon that which helpeth forward to the saving of souls. Now what can be more available thereto, than to deliver God's book unto God's people in a tongue which they understand? Since of an hidden treasure, and of a fountain that is sealed, there is no profit, as Ptolemy Philadelph wrote to the Rabbins or masters of the Jews, as witnesseth Epiphanius: and as S. Augustine saith, A man had rather be with his dog than with a stranger (whose tongue is strange unto him.) Yet for all that, as nothing is begun and perfected at the same time, and the latter thoughts are thought to be the wiser: so, if we building upon their foundation that went before us, and being holpen by their labours, do endeavour to make that better which they left so good; no man, we are sure, hath cause to mislike us; they, we persuade ourselves, if they were alive, would thank us. The vintage of Abiezer, that strake the stroke: yet the gleaning of grapes of Ephraim was not to be despised. See Judges viii. verse 2. Joash the king of Israel did not satisfy himself till he had smitten the ground three times; and yet he offended the Prophet for giving over then. Aquila, of whom we spake before, translated the Bible as carefully and as skilfully as he could; and yet he thought good to go over it again, and then it got the credit with the Jews to be called κατὰ ἀκρίβειαν, that is, accurately done, as St. Hierome witnesseth. How many books of profane learning have been gone over again and again, by the same translators, by others? Of one and the same book of Aristotle's Ethics there are extant not so few as six or seven several translations. Now if this cost may be bestowed upon the gourd, which affordeth us a little shade, and which to-day flourisheth, but to-morrow is cut down; what may we bestow, nay, what ought we not to bestow, upon the vine, the fruit whereof maketh glad the conscience of man, and the stem whereof abideth for ever? And this is the word of God, which we translate. What is the chaff to the wheat? saith the Lord. Tanti vitreum, quanti verum margaritum (saith Tertullian,) if a toy of glass be of that reckoning with us, how ought we to value the true pearl? Therefore let no man's eye be evil, because his Majesty's is good; neither let any be grieved, that we have a Prince that seeketh the increase of the spiritual wealth of Israel; (let Sanballats and Tobiahs do so, which therefore do bear their just reproof) but let us rather bless God from the ground of our heart for working this religious care in him to have the translations of the Bible maturely considered of and examined. For by this means it cometh to pass, that whatsoever is sound already, (and all is sound for substance in one or other of our editions, and the worst of ours far better than their authentick Vulgar) the same will shine as gold more brightly, being rubbed and polished; also, if any thing be halting, or superfluous, or not so agreeable to the original, the same may be corrected, and the truth set in place. And what can the King command to be done, that will bring him more true honour than this? And wherein could they that have been set a work approve their duty to the King, yea, their obedience to God, and love to his Saints, more, than by yielding their service, and all that is within them, for the furnishing of the work? But besides all this, they were the principal motives of it, and therefore ought least to quarrel it. For the very historical truth is, that upon the importunate petitions of the Puritans at his Majesty's coming to this crown, the conference at Hampton Court having been appointed for hearing their complaints, when by force of reason they were put from all other grounds, they had recourse at the last to this shift, that they could not with good conscience subscribe to the Communion book, since it maintained the Bible as it was there translated, which was, as they said, a most corrupted translation. And although this was judged to be but a very poor and empty shift, yet even hereupon did his Majesty begin to bethink himself of the good that might ensue by a new translation, and presently after gave order for this translation which is now presented unto thee. Thus much to satisfy our scrupulous brethren.

An answer to the first objection.

Now to the latter we answer, that we do not deny, nay, we affirm and avow, that the very meanest translation of the Bible in English set forth by men of our profession (for we have seen none of theirs of the whole Bible as yet*) containeth the word of God, nay, is the word of God: as the King's speech which he uttered in Parliament, being translated into French, Dutch, Italian, and Latin, is still the King's speech, though it be not interpreted by every translator with the like grace, nor peradventure so fitly for phrase, nor so expressly for sense, every where. For it is confessed, that things are to take their denomination of the greater part; and a natural man could say, Verum ubi multa nitent in carmine, non ego paucis offendor maculis, &c. A man may be counted a virtuous man, though he have made many slips in his life, (else there were none virtuous, for in many things we offend all,) also a comely man and lovely, though he have some warts upon his hand, yea, not only freckles upon his face, but also scars. No cause therefore why the word translated should be denied to be the word, or forbidden to be current, notwithstanding that some imperfections and blemishes may be noted in the setting forth of it. For whatever was perfect under the sun, where Apostles or apostolick men, that is, men endued with an extraordinary measure of God's Spirit, and privileged with the privilege of infallibility, had not their hand? The Romanists therefore in refusing to hear, and daring to burn the word translated, did no less than despite the Spirit of grace, from whom originally it proceeded, and whose sense and meaning, as well as man's weakness would enable, it did express. Judge by an example or two.

Plutarch writeth, that after that Rome had been burnt by the Gauls, they fell soon to build it again: but doing it in haste, they did not cast the streets, nor proportion the houses, in such comely fashion, as had been most sightly and convenient. Was Catiline therefore an honest man, or a good patriot, that sought to bring it to a combustion? or Nero a good Prince, that did indeed set it on fire? So by the story of Ezra and the prophecy of Haggai it may be gathered, that the temple built by Zerubbabel after the return from Babylon was by no means to be compared to the former built by Solomon: (for they that remembered the former wept when they considered the latter) notwithstanding might this latter either have been abhorred and forsaken by the Jews, or profaned by the Grecks? The like we are to think of translations. The translation of the Seventy dissenteth from the Original in many places, neither doth it come near it for perspicuity, gravity, majesty; yet which of the Apostles did condemn it? Condemn it? Nay, they used it, (as it is apparent, and as Saint Hierome and most learned men do confess) which they would not have done, nor by their example of using of it so grace and commend it to the Church, if it had been unworthy the appellation and name of the word of God. And whereas they urge for their second defence of their vilifying and abusing of the English Bibles, or some pieces thereof, which they meet with, for that Hereticks forsooth were the authors of the translations: (Hereticks they call us by the same right that they call themselves Catholicks, both being wrong) we marvel what divinity taught them so. We are sure Tertullian was of another mind: Ex personis probamus fidem, an ex fide personas? Do we try men's faith by their persons? We should try their persons by their faith. Also S. Augustine was of another mind: for he, lighting upon certain rules made by Tychonius a Donatist for the better understanding of the Word, was not ashamed to make use of them, yea, to insert them into his own book, with giving commendation to them so far forth as they were worthy to be commended, as is to be seen in St. Augustine's third book De Doctrinâ Christianâ. To be short, Origen, and the whole Church of God for certain hundred years, were of another mind: for they were so far from treading under foot (much more from burning) the translation of Aquila a proselyte, that is, one that had turned Jew, of Symmachus, and Theodotion, both Ebionites, that is, most vile hereticks, that they joined them together with the Hebrew original, and the translation of the Seventy, (as hath been before signified out of Epiphanius) and set them forth openly to be considered of and perused by all. But we weary the unlearned, who need not know so much; and trouble the learned, who know it already.

Yet before we end, we must answer a third cavil and objection of theirs against us, for altering and amending our Translations so oft; wherein truly they deal hardly and strangely with us. For to whom ever was it imputed for a fault (by such as were wise) to go over that which he had done, and to amend it where he saw cause? Saint Augustine was not afraid to exhort S. Hierome to a Palinodia or recantation. The same S. Augustine was not ashamed to retractate, we might say, revoke, many things that had passed him, and doth even glory that he seeth his infirmities. If we will be sons of the truth, we must consider what it speaketh, and trample upon our own credit, yea, and upon other men's too, if either be any way a hinderance to it. This to the cause. Then to the persons we say, that of all men they ought to be most silent in this case. For what varieties have they, and what alterations have they made, not only of their service books, portesses, and breviaries, but also of their Latin translation? The service book supposed to be made by S. Ambrose (Officium Ambrosianum) was a great while in special use and request: but Pope Adrian, calling a council with the aid of Charles the Emperor, abolished it, yea, burnt it, and commanded the service book of Saint Gregory universally to be used. Well, Officium Gregorianum gets by this means to be in credit; but doth it continue without change or altering? No, the very Roman service was of two fashions; the new fashion, and the old, the one used in one Church, the other in another; as is to be seen in Pamelius a Romanist his preface before Micrologus. The same Pamelius reporteth out of Radulphus de Rivo, that about the year of our Lord 1277 Pope Nicolas the third removed out of the churches of Rome the more ancient books (of service) and brought into use the missals of the Friers Minorites, and commanded them to be observed there; insomuch that about an hundred years after, when the above named Radulphus happened to be at Rome, he found all the books to be new, of the new stamp. Neither was there this chopping and changing in the more ancient times only, but also of late. Pius Quintus himself confesseth, that every bishoprick almost had a peculiar kind of service, most unlike to that which others had; which moved him to abolish all other breviaries, though never so ancient, and privileged and published by Bishops in their Dioceses, and to establish and ratify that only which was of his own setting forth in the year 1568. Now when the Father of their Church, who gladly would heal the sore of the daughter of his people softly and slightly, and make the best of it, findeth so great fault with them for their odds and jarring; we hope the children have no great cause to vaunt of their uniformity. But the difference that appeareth between our translations, and our often correcting of them, is the thing that we are specially charged with; let us see therefore whether they themselves be without fault this way, (if it be to be counted a fault to correct) and whether they be fit men to throw stones at us: O tandem major parcas insane minori: they that are less sound themselves ought not to object infirmities to others. If we should tell them that Valla, Stapulensis, Erasmus, and Vives, found fault with their vulgar translation, and consequently wished the same to be mended, or a new one to be made; they would answer peradventure, that we produced their enemies for witnesses against them; albeit they were in no other sort enemies, than as S. Paul was to the Galatians, for telling them the truth: and it were to be wished, that they had dared to tell it them plainlier and oftener. But what will they say to this, That Pope Leo the tenth allowed Erasmus's translation of the New Testament, so much different from the Vulgar, by his apostolick letter and bull? That the same Leo exhorted Pagnine to translate the whole Bible, and bare whatsoever charges was necessary for the work? Surely, as the Apostle reasoneth to the Hebrews, that if the former Law and Testament had been sufficient, there had been no need of the latter: so we may say, that if the old Vulgar had been at all points allowable, to small purpose had labour and charges been undergone about framing of a new. If they say, it was one Pope's private opinion, and that he consulted only himself; then we are able to go further with them, and to aver, that more of their chief men of all sorts, even their own Trent champions, Paiva and Vega, and their own Inquisitors, Hieronymus ab Oleastro, and their own Bishop Isidorus Clarius, and their own Cardinal Thomas a Vio Cajetan, do either make new translations themselves, or follow new ones of other men's making, or note the Vulgar interpreter for halting, none of them fear to dissent from him, nor yet to except against him. And call they this an uniform tenor of text and judgment about the text, so many of their worthies disclaiming the now received conceit? Nay, we will yet come nearer the quick. Doth not their Paris edition differ from the Lovaine, and Hentenius his from them both, and yet all of them allowed by authority? Nay, doth not Sixtus Quintus confess, that certain Catholicks (he meaneth certain of his own side) were in such a humour of translating the Scriptures into Latin, that Satan taking occasion by them, though they thought of no such matter, did strive what he could, out of so uncertain and manifold a variety of translations, so to mingle all things, that nothing might seem to be left certain and firm in them? &c. Nay further, did not the same Sixtus ordain by an inviolable decree, and that with the counsel and consent of his Cardinals, that the Latin edition of the Old and New Testament, which the Council of Trent would have to be authentick, is the same without controversy which he then set forth, being diligently corrected and printed in the printinghouse of Vatican? Thus Sixtus in his Preface before his Bible. And yet Clement the eighth, his immediate successor, published another edition of the Bible, containing in it infinite differences from that of Sixtus, and many of them weighty and material; and yet this must be authentick by all means. What is to have the faith of our glorious Lord Jesus Christ with yea and nay, if this be not? Again, what is sweet harmony and consent, if this be? Therefore, as Demaratus of Corinth advised a great King, before he talked of the dissensions among the Grecians, to compose his domestick broils; (for at that time his Queen and his son and heir were at deadly feud with him) so all the while that our adversaries do make so many and so various editions themselves, and do jar so much about the worth and authority of them, they can with no show of equity challenge us for changing and correcting.

But it is high time to leave them, and to shew in brief what we proposed to ourselves, and what course we held, in this our perusal and survey of the Bible. Truly, good Christian Reader, we never thought from the beginning that we should need to make a new translation, nor yet to make of a bad one a good one; (for then the imputation of Sixtus had been true in some sort, that our people had been fed with gall of dragons instead of wine, with whey instead of milk;) but to make a good one better, or out of many good ones one principal good one, not justly to be excepted against; that hath been our endeavour, that our mark. To that purpose there were many chosen, that were greater in other men's eyes than in their own, and that sought the truth rather than their own praise. Again, they came, or were thought to come, to the work, not exercendi causâ, (as one saith) but exercitati, that is, learned, not to learn: For the chief overseer and ἐργοδιώκτης under his Majesty, to whom not only we, but also our whole Church was much bound*, knew by his wisdom, which thing also Nazianzen taught so long ago, that it is a preposterous order to teach first, and to learn after, yea that τὸ ἐν πίθῳ κεραμίαν μανθάνειν, to learn and practise together, is neither commendable for the workman, nor safe for the work. Therefore such were thought upon, as could say modestly with Saint Hierome, Et Hebræum sermonem ex parte didicimus, et in Latino penè ab ipsis incunabulis, &c. detriti sumus; Both we have learned the Hebrew tongue in part, and in the Latin we have been exercised almost from our very cradle. S. Hierome maketh no mention of the Greek tongue, wherein yet he did excel; because he translated not the Old Testament out of Greek, but out of Hebrew. And in what sort did these assemble? In the trust of their own knowledge, or of their sharpness of wit, or deepness of judgment, as it were in an arm of flesh? At no hand. They trusted in him that hath the key of David, opening, and no man shutting; they prayed to the Lord, the Father of our

S. Aug. lib. 11 Confess. cap. 2.

Lord, to the effect that St. Augustine did: O let thy Scriptures be my pure delight; let me not be deceived in them, neither let me deceive by them. In this confidence, and with this devotion, did they assemble together; not too many, lest one should trouble another; and yet many, lest many things haply might escape them. If you ask what they had before them, truly it was the Hebrew text of the Old Testament, the Greek of the New. These are the two golden pipes, or rather conduits, wherethrough the olive branches empty themselves into the gold. Saint Augustine calleth them precedent, or original, tongues; Saint Hierome, fountains. The same Saint Hierome affirmeth, and Gratian hath not spared to put it into his decree, That as the credit of the old books (he meaneth of the Old Testament) is to be tried by the Hebrew volumes; so of the New by the Greek tongue, he meaneth by the original Greek. If truth be to be tried by these tongues, then whence should a translation be made, but out of them? These tongues therefore (the Scriptures, we say, in those tongues) we set before us to translate, being the tongues wherein God was pleased to speak to his Church by his Prophets and Apostles. Neither did we run over the work with that posting haste that the Septuagint did, if that be true which is reported of them, that they finished it in seventy two days; neither were we barred or hindered from going over it again, having once done it, like S. Hierome, if that be true which himself reporteth, that he could no sooner write any thing, but presently it was caught from him, and published, and he could not have leave to mend it: neither, to be short, were we the first that fell in hand with translating the Scripture into English, and consequently destitute of former helps, as it is written of Origen, that he was the first in a manner, that put his hand to write commentaries upon the Scriptures, and therefore no marvel if he overshot himself many times. None of these things: the work hath not been huddled up in seventy two days, but hath cost the workmen, as light as it seemeth, the pains of twice seven times seventy two days, and more. Matters of such weight and consequence are to be speeded with maturity: for in a business of moment a man feareth not the blame of convenient slackness. Neither did we think much to consult the translators or commentators, Chaldee, Hebrew, Syrian, Greek, or Latin; no, nor the Spanish, French, Italian, or *Dutch; neither did we disdain to revise that which we had done, and to bring back to the anvil that which we had hammered: but having and using as great helps as were needful, and fearing no reproach for slowness, nor coveting praise for expedition, we have at the length, through the good hand of the Lord upon us, brought the work to that pass that you see.

Some peradventure would have no variety of senses to be set in the margin, lest the authority of the Scriptures for deciding of controversies by that show of uncertainty should somewhat be shaken. But we hold their judgment not to be so sound in this point. For though whatsoever things are necessary are manifest, as S. Chrysostome saith; and, as S. Augustine, in those things that are plainly set down in the Scriptures all such matters are found that concern faith, hope, and charity: yet for all that it cannot be dissembled, that partly to exercise and whet our wits, partly to wean the curious from loathing of them for their every where plainness, partly also to stir up our devotion to crave the assistance of God's Spirit by prayer, and lastly, that we might be forward to seek aid of our brethren by conference, and never scorn those that be not in all respects so complete as they should be, being to seek in many things ourselves, it hath pleased God in his Divine Providence here and there to scatter words and sentences of that difficulty and doubtfulness, not in doctrinal points that concern salvation, (for in such it hath been vouched that the Scriptures are plain) but in matters of less moment, that fearfulness would better beseem us than confidence, and if we will resolve, to resolve upon modesty with S. Augustine, (though not in this same case altogether, yet upon the same ground) Melius est dubitare de occultis, quam litigare de incertis: It is better to make doubt of those things which are secret, than to strive about those things that are uncertain. There be many words in the Scriptures which be never found there but once, (having neither brother nor neighbour, as the Hebrews speak) so that we cannot be holpen by conference of places. Again, there be many rare names of certain birds, beasts, and precious stones, &c. concerning which the Hebrews themselves are so divided among themselves for judgment, that they may seem to have defined this or that, rather because they would say something, than because they were sure of that which they said, as S. Hierome somewhere saith of the Septuagint. Now in such a case doth not a margin do well to admonish the Reader to seek further, and not to conclude or dogmatize upon this or that peremptorily? For as it is a fault of incredulity, to doubt of those things that are evident; so to determine of such things as the Spirit of God hath left (even in the judgment of the judicious) questionable, can be no less than presumption. Therefore as S. Augustine saith, that variety of translations is profitable for the finding out of the sense of the Scriptures: so diversity of signification and sense in the margin, where the text is not so clear, must needs do good; yea, is necessary, as we are persuaded. We know that Sixtus Quintus expressly forbiddeth that any variety of readings of their Vulgar edition should be put in the margin; (which though it be not altogether the same thing to that we have in hand, yet it looketh that way;) but we think he hath not all of his own side his favourers for this conceit. They that are wise had rather have their judgments at liberty in differences of readings, than to be captivated to one, when it may be the other. If they were sure that their high priest had all laws shut up in his breast, as Paul the second bragged, and that he were as free from error by special privilege, as the dictators of Rome were made by law inviolable, it were another matter; then his word were an oracle, his opinion a decision. But the eyes of the world are now open, God be thanked, and have been a great while; they find that he is subject to the same affections and infirmities that others be, that his skin is penetrable, and therefore so much as he proveth, not as much as he claimeth, they grant and embrace.

Another thing we think good to admonish thee of, gentle Reader, that we have not tied ourselves to an uniformity of phrasing, or to an identity of words, as some peradventure would wish that we had done, because they observe, that some learned men somewhere have been as exact as they could that way. Truly, that we might not vary from the sense of that which we had translated before, if the word signified the same thing in both places, (for there be some words that be not of the same sense every where) we were especially careful, and made a conscience, according to our duty. But that we should express the same notion in the same particular word; as for example, if we translate the Hebrew or Greek word once by purpose, never to call it intent; if one where journeying, never travelling; if one where think, never suppose; if one where pain, never ache; if one where joy, never gladness, &c. thus to mince the matter, we thought to savour more of curiosity than wisdom, and that rather it would breed scorn in the atheist, than bring profit to the godly reader. For is the kingdom of God become words or syllables? Why should we be in bondage to them, if we may be free? use one precisely, when we may use another no less fit as commodiously? A godly Father in the primitive time shewed himself greatly moved, that one of newfangleness called κράββατον, σκίμπους, though the difference be little or none; and another reporteth, that he was much abused for turning cucurbita (to which reading the people had been used) into hedera. Now if this happen in better times, and upon so small occasions, we might justly fear hard censure, if generally we should make verbal and unnecessary changings. We might also be charged (by scoffers) with some unequal dealing towards a great number of good English words. For as it is written of a certain great Philosopher, that he should say, that those logs were happy that were made images to be worshipped; for their fellows, as good as they, lay for blocks behind the fire: so if we should say, as it were, unto certain words, Stand up higher, have a place in the Bible always; and to others of like quality, Get ye hence, be banished for ever; we might be taxed peradventure with S. James his words, namely, To be partial in ourselves, and judges of evil thoughts. Add hereunto, that niceness in words was always counted the next step to trifling; and so was to be curious about names too: also that we cannot follow a better pattern for elocution than God himself; therefore he using divers words in his holy writ, and indifferently for one thing in nature; we, if we will not be superstitious, may use the same liberty in our English versions out of Hebrew and Greek, for that copy or store that he hath given us. Lastly, we have on the one side avoided the scrupulosity of the Puritans, who leave the old Ecclesiastical words, and betake them to other, as when they put washing for Baptism, and Congregation instead of Church: as also on the other side we have shunned the obscurity of the Papists, in their Azimes, Tunike, Rational, Holocausts, Præpuce, Pasche, and a number of such like, whereof their late translation is full*, and that of purpose to darken the sense, that since they must needs translate the Bible, yet by the language thereof it may be kept from being understood. But we desire that the Scripture may speak like itself, as in the language of Canaan, that it may be understood even of the very vulgar.

Many other things we might give thee warning of, gentle Reader, if we had not exceeded the measure of a preface already. It remaineth that we commend thee to God, and to the Spirit of his grace, which is able to build further than we can ask or think. He removeth the scales from our eyes, the vail from our hearts, opening our wits that we may understand his word, enlarging our hearts, yea, correcting our affections, that we may love it above gold and silver, yea, that we may love it to the end. Ye are brought unto fountains of living water which ye digged not; do not cast earth into them, with the Philistines, neither prefer broken pits before them, with the wicked Jews. Others have laboured, and you may enter into their labours. O receive not so great things in vain: O despise not so great salvation. Be not like swine to tread under foot so precious things, neither yet like dogs to tear and abuse holy things. Say not to our Saviour with the Gergesites, Depart out of our coasts; neither yet with Esau sell your birthright for a mess of pottage. If light be come into the world, love not darkness more than light: if food, if clothing, be offered, go not naked, starve not yourselves. Remember the advice of Nazianzene, It is a grievous thing (or dangerous) to neglect a great fair, and to seek to make markets afterwards: also the encouragement of S. Chrysostome, It is altogether impossible, that he that is sober (and watchful) should at any time be neglected: lastly, the admonition and menacing of S. Augustine, They that despise God's will inviting them shall feel God's will taking vengeance of them. It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God; but a blessed thing it is, and will bring us to everlasting blessedness in the end, when God speaketh unto us, to hearken; when he setteth his word before us, to read it; when he stretcheth out his hand and calleth, to answer, Here am I, here we are to do thy will, O God. The Lord work a care and conscience in us to know him and serve him, that we may be acknowledged of him at the appearing of our Lord JESUS CHRIST, to whom with the Holy Ghost be all praise and thanksgiving. Amen.

TO THE MOST HIGH AND MIGHTY PRINCE

JAMES,

BY THE GRACE OF GOD

KING OF GREAT BRITAIN, FRANCE, AND IRELAND,

DEFENDER OF THE FAITH, &c.

The Translators of the Bible wish Grace, Mercy, and Peace, through JESUS CHRIST our Lord.

GREAT and manifold were the blessings, most dread Sovereign, which Almighty God, the Father of all mercies, bestowed upon us the people of England, when first he sent Your Majesty's Royal Person to rule and reign over us. For whereas it was the expectation of many, who wished not well unto our Sion, that upon the setting of that bright Occidental Star, Queen Elizabeth of most happy memory, some thick and palpable clouds of darkness would so have overshadowed this land, that men should have been in doubt which way they were to walk; and that it should hardly be known, who was to direct the unsettled State; the appearance of Your Majesty, as of the Sun in his strength, instantly dispelled those supposed and surmised mists, and gave unto all that were well affected exceeding cause of comfort; especially when we beheld the Government established in Your Highness, and Your hopeful Seed, by an undoubted Title, and this also accompanied with peace and tranquillity at home and abroad.

But amongst all our joys, there was no one that more filled our hearts, than the blessed continuance of the preaching of God's sacred Word amongst us; which is that inestimable treasure, which excelleth all the riches of the earth; because the fruit thereof extendeth itself, not only to the time spent in this transitory world, but directeth and disposeth men unto that eternal happiness which is above in heaven.

Then, not to suffer this to fall to the ground, but rather to take it up, and to continue it in that state, wherein the famous Predecessor of Your Highness did leave it: nay, to go forward with the confidence and resolution of a man in maintaining the truth of Christ, and propagating it far and near, is that which hath so bound and firmly knit the hearts of all Your Majesty's loyal and religious people unto You, that Your very name is precious among them: their eye doth behold You with comfort, and they bless You in their hearts, as that sanctified person, who, under God, is the immediate author of their true happiness. And this their contentment doth not diminish or decay, but every day increaseth and taketh strength, when they observe, that the zeal of Your Majesty towards the house of God doth not slack or go backward, but is more and more kindled, manifesting itself abroad in the furthest parts of Christendom, by writing in defence of the Truth, (which hath given such a blow unto that man of sin, as will not be healed,) and every day at home, by religious and learned discourse, by frequenting the house of God, by hearing the Word preached, by cherishing the teachers thereof, by caring for the Church, as a most tender and loving nursing Father.

There are infinite arguments of this right Christian and religious affection in Your Majesty; but none is more forcible to declare it to others than the vehement and perpetuated desire of the accomplishing and publishing of this work, which now with all humility we present unto Your Majesty. For when Your Highness had once out of deep judgment apprehended how convenient it was, that out of the Original Sacred Tongues, together with comparing of the labours, both in our own, and other foreign Languages, of many worthy men who went before us, there should be one more exact Translation of the holy Scriptures into the English Tongue; Your Majesty did never desist to urge and to excite those to whom it was commended, that the work might be hastened, and that the business might be expedited in so decent a manner, as a matter of such importance might justly require.

And now at last, by the mercy of God, and the continuance of our labours, it being brought unto such a conclusion, as that we have great hope that the Church of England shall reap good fruit thereby; we hold it our duty to offer it to Your Majesty, not only as to our King and Sovereign, but as to the principal mover and Author of the work: humbly craving of Your most Sacred Majesty, that since things of this quality have ever been subject to the censures of ill-meaning and discontented persons, it may receive approbation and patronage from so learned and judicious a Prince as Your Highness is, whose allowance and acceptance of our labours shall more honour and encourage us, than all the calumniations and hard interpretations of other men shall dismay us. So that if, on the one side, we shall be traduced by Popish persons at home or abroad, who therefore will malign us, because we are poor instruments to make God's holy Truth to be yet more and more known unto the people, whom they desire still to keep in ignorance and darkness; or if, on the other side, we shall be maligned by self-conceited brethren, who run their own ways, and give liking unto nothing but what is framed by themselves, and hammered on their anvil; we may rest secure, supported within by the truth and innocency of a good conscience, having walked the ways of simplicity and integrity, as before the Lord; and sustained without by the powerful protection of Your Majesty's grace and favour, which will ever give countenance to honest and Christian endeavours against bitter censures and uncharitable imputations.

The Lord of heaven and earth bless Your Majesty with many and happy days, that, as his heavenly hand hath enriched Your Highness with many singular and extraordinary graces, so You may be the wonder of the world in this later age for happiness and true felicity, to the honour of that great GOD, and the good of his Church, through Jesus Christ our Lord and only Saviour.

THE FIRST BOOK OF MOSES,

CALLED

GENESIS.

CHAP. I. Before CHRIST 4004 Hebrew, 5586? Greek.

IN the [a]beginning God created the heaven and the earth. And the earth was [b]without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.

And God said, [c]Let there be light: and there was light. And God saw the light, that it was good: and God divided [†]the light from the darkness. And God called the light Day, and the darkness he called Night. [†]And the evening and the morning were the first day.

And God said, [d]Let there be a [†]firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters. And God made the firmament, and divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were [e]above the firmament: and it was so. And God called the firmament Heaven. And the evening and the morning were the second day.

And God said, [f]Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry land appear: and it was so. And God called the dry land Earth; and the gathering together of the waters called he Seas: and God saw that it was good. And God said, Let the earth bring forth [†]grass, the herb yielding seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself, upon the earth: and it was so. And the earth brought forth grass, and herb yielding seed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in itself, after his kind: and God saw that it was good. And the evening and the morning were the third day.

And God said, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide [†]the day from the night; and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days, and years: and let them be for lights in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth: and it was so. And God [g]made two great lights; the greater light [†]to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night: he made the stars also. And God set them in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth, and to [h]rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness: and God saw that it was good. And the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

And God said, Let the waters bring forth abundantly the [‖]moving [†]creature that hath life, and [†]fowl that may fly above the earth in the [†]open firmament of heaven. And God created great whales, and every living creature that moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly, after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind: and God saw that it was good. And God blessed them, saying, [i]Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let fowl multiply in the earth. And the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

And God said, Let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind, cattle, and creeping thing, and beast of the earth after his kind: and it was so. And God made the beast of the earth after his kind, and cattle after their kind, and every thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

And God said, [k]Let us make man in our image, [l]after our likeness: [m]and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created 27 man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; [n]male and female created he them. And God blessed them, 28

and God said unto them, [o]Be fruitful,
and multiply, and replenish the earth,
and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that [†]moveth upon the earth.

And God said, Behold, I have given 29
you every herb [†]bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in the which is the fruit of a tree [†]yielding seed; to [p]you it shall be for meat. And to every beast of the earth, 30 and to every fowl of the air, and to every thing that creepeth upon the earth, wherein there is [†]life, I have given every green herb for meat: and it was so.
And [q]God saw every thing that he had 31
made, and behold, it was very good.
And the evening and the morning were
the sixth day.

II. Thus the heavens and the earth were finished, and [a]all the host of them. And 2 [b]on the seventh day God ended his work which he had made; and he rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made. And God blessed the 3 seventh day, and sanctified it: because that in it he had rested from all his work which God [†]created and made.

[c]These are the generations of the hea- 4
vens and of the earth when they were created, in the day that the LORD God made the earth and the heavens, and 5 every [d]plant of the field before it was in the earth, and every herb of the field before it grew: for the LORD God had not caused it to rain upon the earth, and there was not a man to till the ground. But [‖]there went up a mist from 6
the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground. And the LORD God formed 7 man [†]of the [e]dust of the ground, and [f]breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul.

And the LORD God planted a [g]garden 8 eastward in Eden; and there he put the man whom he had formed. And out of 9
the ground made the LORD God to grow
every tree that is pleasant to the sight,
and good for food; [h]the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil. And a 10
river went out of Eden to water the garden; and from thence it was parted, and became into four heads. The name of 11
the first is [i]Pison: that is it which compasseth the whole land of [k]Havilah, where 12
there is gold; and the gold of that land
is good: there is bdellium and the [l]onyx stone. And the name of the second 13 river is Gihon: the same is it that compasseth the whole land of [†]Ethiopia. And 14
the name of the third river is Hiddekel:
that is it which goeth [‖]toward the east of Assyria. And the fourth river is Euphrates. And the LORD God took [‖]the 15 man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it. And 16
the LORD God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden [†]thou 17
mayest freely eat: but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof [†]thou shalt surely die.

And the LORD God said, It is not 18
good that the man should be alone; [m]I will make him a help [†]meet for him.
[n]And out of the ground the LORD God 19 formed every beast of the field, and every fowl of the air; and [o]brought them
unto [‖]Adam to see what he would call them: and whatsoever Adam called every living creature, that was the name thereof. And Adam [†]gave names to all 20 cattle, and to the fowl of the air, and to every beast of the field; but for Adam there was not found a help meet for him. And the LORD God caused a [p]deep 21 sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept:
and he took one of his ribs, and closed
up the flesh instead thereof; and the rib, 22 which the LORD God had taken from man, [†]made he a woman, and brought her unto the man. And Adam said, This 23 is now [q]bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called [†]Woman,
because she was [r]taken out of [†]Man.
[s]Therefore shall a man leave his fa- 24
ther and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh. And they were both naked, the 25
man and his wife, and were not ashamed.

III. Now the serpent was [a]more subtil than any beast of the field which the LORD God had made. And he said unto the woman, [†]Yea, hath God said, Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden? And 2
the woman said unto the serpent, We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden: [b]but of the fruit of the tree 3
which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die. And the 4 serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die: for God doth know that 5

in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil. And when 6
the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was [t]pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit thereof, [c]and did eat, and gave also unto her husband with her; and he did eat.
And [d]the eyes of them both were opened, 7
[e]and they knew that they were naked;
and they sewed fig leaves together, and made themselves [l]aprons. And they 8 heard the voice of the LORD God walking in the garden in the [t]cool of the day: and Adam and his wife hid themselves from the presence of the LORD
God amongst the trees of the garden.
And the LORD God called unto Adam, 9
and said unto him, Where art thou? And 10
he said, I heard thy voice in the garden,
and I was afraid, because I was naked;
and I hid myself. And he said, Who 11 told thee that thou wast naked? Hast thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldest not eat? And the man said, [f]The woman 12 whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat. And 13
the LORD God said unto the woman, What is this that thou hast done? And the woman said, [g]The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat. And the LORD God 14 said unto the serpent, Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field;
upon thy belly shalt thou go, and [h]dust
shalt thou eat all the days of thy life:
and I will put enmity between thee and 15
the woman, and between thy seed and [i]her seed; [k]it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel. Unto the wo- 16 man he said, I will greatly multiply thy sorrow and thy conception; in sorrow thou shalt bring forth children; [l]and thy desire shall be [l]to thy husband, and he shall [m]rule over thee. And unto Adam 17
he said, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, [n]of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it:
[o]cursed is the ground for thy sake; [p]in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life; thorns also and thistles shall 18
it [t]bring forth to thee; and thou shalt eat the herb of the field; in the sweat of 19
thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken: [q]for dust thou art, and [r]unto dust shalt thou return. And Adam called 20 his wife's name [t]Eve; because she was the mother of all living. Unto Adam 21
also and to his wife did the LORD God make coats of skins, and clothed them.
And the LORD God said, [s]Behold, the 22
man is become as one of us, to know good and evil: and now, lest he put forth his hand, [t]and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever: there- 23
fore the LORD God sent him forth from the garden of Eden, to till the ground from whence he was taken. So he drove 24
out the man; and he placed [u]at the east of the garden of Eden Cherubims, and a flaming sword [x]which turned every way,
to keep the way of the tree of life.

And Adam knew Eve his wife; and IV.
she conceived, and bare [l]Cain, and said, 1
I have gotten a man from the LORD.
And she again bare his brother [t]Abel. 2
And Abel was [t]a keeper of sheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground. And 3
[t]in process of time it came to pass, that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground
an offering unto the LORD. And Abel, 4
he also brought of [a]the firstlings of his [t]flock and of the fat thereof. And the LORD had [b]respect unto Abel and to his offering: but unto Cain and to his offer- 5 ing he had not respect. And Cain was very wroth, [c]and his countenance fell.
And the LORD said unto Cain, Why art 6
thou wroth? and why is thy countenance fallen? If thou doest well, shalt thou 7 not [l]be accepted? and if thou doest not well, sin lieth at the door. And [l]unto thee shall be his desire, and thou shalt rule over him. And Cain talked with 8
Abel his brother: and it came to pass,
when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and slew him. And the LORD said unto 9 Cain, Where is Abel thy brother? And he said, [e]I know not: Am I my brother's keeper? And he said, What hast thou 10 done? the voice of thy brother's [t]blood crieth unto me from the ground. And 11
now art thou cursed from the earth,
which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand. When 12
thou tillest the ground, it shall not henceforth yield unto thee her strength; a fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be in the earth. And Cain said unto the 13
LORD, [l]My punishment is greater than I can bear. Behold, thou hast driven 14 me out this day from the face of the earth; and [f] from thy face shall I be hid; and I shall be a fugitive and a vagabond in the earth; and it shall come to pass, [g] that every one that findeth me shall slay me. And the LORD said unto him, Therefore whosoever slayeth Cain, vengeance shall be taken on him [h] sevenfold. And the LORD set a mark upon Cain, lest any finding him should kill him. And Cain went out from the presence of the LORD, and dwelt in the land of Nod, on the east of Eden. And Cain knew his wife; and she conceived, and bare [†] Enoch: and he builded a city, and called the name of the city, after the name of his son, Enoch. And unto Enoch was born Irad: and Irad begat Mehujael: and Mehujael begat Methusael: and Methusael begat [†] Lamech. And Lamech took unto him two wives: the name of the one was Adah, and the name of the other Zillah. And Adah bare Jabal: he was the father of such as dwell in tents, and of such as have cattle. And his brother's name was Jubal: he was the father of all such as handle the harp and organ. And Zillah, she also bare Tubal-cain, an [†] instructor of every artificer in brass and iron: and the sister of Tubal-cain was Naamah. And Lamech said unto his wives,

Adah and Zillah, Hear my voice;
Ye wives of Lamech, hearken unto my speech:
For [‖] I have slain a man to my [i] wounding,
And a young man [‖] to my hurt.
[k] If Cain shall be avenged sevenfold,
Truly Lamech seventy and sevenfold.

And Adam knew his wife again; and she bare a son, and called his name [†] Seth: For God, [l] said she, hath appointed me another seed instead of Abel, whom Cain slew. And to Seth, to him also there was born a son; and he called his name [†] Enos; then began men [‖] to call upon the name of the LORD.

V.

This is the book of the generations of Adam. In the day that God created man, in [a] the likeness of God made he him; male and female created he them; and blessed them, and called their name Adam, in the day when they were created. And Adam lived an hundred and thirty years, and begat a son in his own likeness, after his image; and [b] called his name Seth: [c] and the days of Adam after he had begotten Seth were eight hundred years: and he begat sons and daughters: and all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years: [d] and he died. And Seth lived an hundred and five years, and [e] begat [†] Enos: and Seth lived after he begat Enos eight hundred and seven years, and begat sons and daughters: and all the days of Seth were nine hundred and twelve years: and he died. And Enos lived ninety years, and begat [†] Cainan: and Enos lived after he begat Cainan eight hundred and fifteen years, and begat sons and daughters: and all the days of Enos were nine hundred and five years: and he died. And Cainan lived seventy years, and begat [†] Mahalaleel: and Cainan lived after he begat Mahalaleel eight hundred and forty years, and begat sons and daughters: and all the days of Cainan were nine hundred and ten years: and he died. And Mahalaleel lived sixty and five years, and begat [†] Jared: and Mahalaleel lived after he begat Jared eight hundred and thirty years, and begat sons and daughters: and all the days of Mahalaleel were eight hundred ninety and five years: and he died. And Jared lived an hundred sixty and two years, and he begat [f] Enoch: and Jared lived after he begat Enoch eight hundred years, and begat sons and daughters: and all the days of Jared were nine hundred sixty and two years: and he died. And Enoch lived sixty and five years, and begat [†] Methuselah: and Enoch [g] walked with God after he begat Methuselah three hundred years, and begat sons and daughters: and all the days of Enoch were three hundred sixty and five years: and [h] Enoch walked with God: and he was not; for God took him. And Methuselah lived an hundred eighty and seven years, and begat Lamech: and Methuselah lived after he begat [†] Lamech seven hundred eighty and two years, and begat sons and daughters: and all the days of Methuselah were nine hundred sixty and nine years: and he died. And Lamech lived an hundred eighty and two years, and begat a son: and he called his name [†] Noah, saying, This same shall comfort us concerning our work and [i] toil of our hands, because of the ground [k] which the LORD hath cursed. And Lamech lived after he begat Noah five hundred ninety and five years, and begat sons and daughters: and all the days of Lamech were seven hundred seventy and seven years: and he died.

VI.

And it came to pass, when men began 1
to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them, that 2
the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; and they [a]took them wives of all which they chose.
And the LORD said, [b]My spirit shall not 3 always strive with man, [c]for that he also is flesh: yet his days shall be an hundred and twenty years. There were 4 giants in the earth in those days; and also after that, when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children to them, the same became mighty men which were of old, men of renown. And GOD saw that the 5 wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that [‖]every [d]imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil [f]continually. And [e]it repented the LORD 6 that he had made man on the earth, and it [f]grieved him at his heart. And the 7
LORD said, I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth;
[f]both man, and beast, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air; for it repenteth me that I have made them.
But Noah [g]found grace in the eyes of 8
the LORD.

These are the generations of Noah: 9 [h]Noah was a just man and [‖]perfect in his generations, and Noah [i]walked with God. And Noah begat three sons, 10
Shem, Ham, and Japheth. The earth 11 also was corrupt [k]before God, and the earth was [l]filled with violence. And 12 God [m]looked upon the earth, and behold, it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted his way upon the earth. And 13
God said unto Noah, [n]The end of all flesh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violence through them; and behold, I will destroy them [‖]with the earth. Make thee an ark of gopher 14 wood; [f]rooms shalt thou make in the ark, and shalt pitch it within and without with pitch. And this is the fashion which 15 thou shalt make it of: the length of the ark shall be three hundred cubits, the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits. A window shalt thou 16 make to the ark, and in a cubit shalt thou finish it above; and the door of the ark shalt thou set in the side thereof;
with lower, second, and third stories
shalt thou make it. And behold, I, 17 even I, do bring a flood of waters upon the earth, to destroy all flesh, wherein is
the breath of life, from under heaven;
and every thing that is in the earth shall 18 die. But with thee will I establish my covenant; and thou shalt come into the ark, thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, 19 and thy sons' wives with thee. And of every living thing of all flesh, two of every sort shalt thou bring into the ark, to keep them alive with thee; they shall be 20 male and female. Of fowls after their kind, and of cattle after their kind, of every creeping thing of the earth after his kind, [o]two of every sort shall come 21 unto thee, to keep them alive. And take thou unto thee of all food that is eaten, and thou shalt gather it to thee;
and it shall be for food for thee, and for 22 them. [p]Thus did Noah; according to all that God commanded him, so did he.

And the LORD said unto Noah, [a]Come thou and all thy house into the ark; for [b]thee have I seen righteous before me
2 in this generation. Of every [c]clean beast thou shalt take to thee [f]by sevens, the male and his female: and of beasts that are not clean by two, the male and his 3 female. Of fowls also of the air [f]by sevens, the male and the female; to 4 earth. For yet seven days, and I will cause it to rain upon the earth forty days and forty nights; and every living substance that I have made will I [f]destroy from off the face of the earth.

5 [d]And Noah did according unto all that 6 the LORD commanded him. And Noah was six hundred years old when the flood 7 of waters was upon the earth. And Noah went in, and his sons, and his wife, and his sons' wives with him, into the ark, because 8 of the waters of the flood. Of clean beasts, and of beasts that are not clean, and of fowls, and of every thing that creepeth 9 upon the earth, there went in two and two unto Noah into the ark, the male and the female, as God had commanded Noah.

10 And it came to pass [‖]after seven days, that the waters of the flood were 11 upon the earth. In the six hundredth year of Noah's life, in the second month,
the seventeenth day of the month, the same day were all the [e]fountains of the great deep broken up, and the [‖]windows 12 of heaven were opened. And the rain was upon the earth forty days and 13 forty nights. In the selfsame day entered Noah, and Shem, and Ham, and

Japheth, the sons of Noah, and Noah's wife, and the three wives of his sons with them, into the ark; they, and 14 every beast after his kind, and all the cattle after their kind, and every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind, and every fowl after his kind, every bird of every [†]sort. And 15 they [g]went in unto Noah into the ark, two and two of all flesh, wherein is the breath of life. And they that went in, 16 went in male and female of all flesh, as God had commanded him: and the LORD [h]shut him in. And the flood was 17 forty days upon the earth; and the waters increased, and bare up the ark, and it was lift up above the earth. And 18 the waters prevailed, and were increased greatly upon the earth; and the ark went upon the face of the waters. And 19 the waters prevailed exceedingly upon the earth; and all the high hills, that were under the whole heaven, were covered. Fifteen cubits upward did the 20 waters prevail; and the mountains were covered. And all flesh died that moved 21 upon the earth, both of fowl, and of cattle, and of beast, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, and every man: all in [i]whose nostrils 22 was [†]the breath of life, of all that was in the dry land, died. And every living 23 substance was destroyed which was upon the face of the ground, both man, and cattle, and the creeping things, and the fowl of the heaven; and they were destroyed from the earth: and [k]Noah only remained alive, and they that were with him in the ark. And the waters pre- 24 vailed upon the earth an hundred and fifty days.

VIII. And God [a]remembered Noah, and every living thing, and all the cattle that was with him in the ark: [b]and God made a wind to pass over the earth, and the waters asswaged; [c]the fountains also 2 of the deep and the windows of heaven were stopped, and the rain from heaven was restrained; and the waters returned 3 from off the earth [†]continually: and after the end [d]of the hundred and fifty days the waters were abated. And the ark 4 rested in the seventh month, on the seventeenth day of the month, upon the mountains of Ararat. And the waters 5 [†]decreased continually until the tenth month: in the tenth month, on the first day of the month, were the tops of the mountains seen. And it came to pass 6 at the end of forty days, that Noah opened [e]the window of the ark which he had 7 made: and he sent forth a raven, which went forth [†]to and fro, until the waters 8 were dried up from off the earth. Also he sent forth a dove from him, to see if the waters were abated from off the face 9 of the ground; but the dove found no rest for the sole of her foot, and she returned unto him into the ark, for the waters were on the face of the whole earth: then he put forth his hand, and took her, and [†]pulled her in unto him 10 into the ark. And he stayed yet other seven days; and again he sent forth the 11 dove out of the ark; and the dove came in to him in the evening; and lo, in her mouth was an olive leaf pluckt off: so Noah knew that the waters were abated 12 from off the earth. And he stayed yet other seven days; and sent forth the dove; which returned not again unto him any more.

13 And it came to pass in the six hundredth and first year, in the first month, the first day of the month, the waters were dried up from off the earth: and Noah removed the covering of the ark, and looked, and behold, the face of the 14 ground was dry. And in the second month, on the seven and twentieth day 15 of the month, was the earth dried. And 16 God spake unto Noah, saying, Go forth of the ark, thou, and thy wife, and thy sons, and thy sons' wives with thee. 17 Bring forth with thee every living thing that is with thee, of all flesh, both of fowl, and of cattle, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth; that they may breed abundantly in the earth, and [f]be fruitful, and multiply upon 18 the earth. And Noah went forth, and his sons, and his wife, and his sons' 19 wives with him: every beast, every creeping thing, and every fowl, and whatsoever creepeth upon the earth, after their [†]kinds, went forth out of the ark.

20 And Noah builded an altar unto the LORD; and took of every clean beast, and of every clean fowl, and offered burnt offer- 21 ings on the altar. And the LORD smelled [g†]a sweet savour; and the LORD said in his heart, I will not again [h]curse the ground any more for man's sake; [‖]for the [i]imagination of man's heart is evil from his youth; [k]neither will I again smite any more every thing living, as I 22 have done. And unto Eber were born 24 two sons: the name of one was ‖Peleg; for in his days was the earth divided; and his brother's name was Joktan. And 25 Joktan begat Almodad, and Sheleph, and Hazarmaveth, and Jerah, and Ha- 26 doram, and Uzal, and Diklah, and Obal, 27 and Abimael, and Sheba, and ᵠOphir, 28 and Havilah, and Jobab: all these were 29 the sons of Joktan. And the LORD said, Behold, the people is one, and they have all one language; and this they begin to do: and now nothing will be restrained from them, which they have 7 imagined to do. Go to, ᵉlet us go down, and there confound their language, that they may not understand one another's 8 speech. XII.

Now the [a]LORD had said unto Abram, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto a land that I will shew thee: 1 and I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be a blessing: 2
[b]and I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee: [c]and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed. 3
So Abram departed, as the LORD had spoken unto him; and Lot went with him: and Abram was seventy and five years old when he departed out of Haran. 4
And Abram took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brother's son, and all their substance that they had gathered, and [d]the souls that they had gotten [e]in Haran; and they went forth to go into the land of Canaan; and into the land of Canaan they came. 5
And Abram [f]passed through the land unto the place of Sichem, unto the [g]plain of [h]Moreh. [i]And the Canaanite was then in the land. 6
And the LORD appeared unto Abram, and said, [k]Unto thy seed will I give this land: and there builded he an altar unto the LORD, who appeared unto him. 7
And he removed from thence unto a mountain on the east of Beth-el, and pitched his tent, having Beth-el on the west, and Hai on the east: and there he built an altar unto the LORD, and [l]called upon the name of the LORD. 8
And Abram journeyed, [l]going on still toward the south. 9
And there was [m]a famine in the land: and Abram went down into Egypt to sojourn there; for the famine was [n]grievous in the land. 10
And it came to pass, when he was come near to enter into Egypt, 11 that he said unto Sarai his wife, Behold now, I know that thou art a fair woman to look upon: 12
therefore it shall come to pass, when the Egyptians shall see thee, that they shall say, This is his wife: and they [o]will kill me, but they will save thee alive. 13
Say, I pray thee, thou art my sister: that it may be well with me for thy sake; and my soul shall live because of thee. 14
And it came to pass, that, when Abram was come into Egypt, the Egyptians beheld the woman that she was very fair. 15
The princes also of Pharaoh saw her, and commended her before Pharaoh: and the woman was taken into Pharaoh's house. 16
And he entreated Abram well for her sake: and he had sheep, and oxen, and he asses, and menservants, and maidservants, and she asses, and camels. 17
And the LORD [p]plagued Pharaoh and his house with great plagues because of Sarai Abram's wife. 18
And Pharaoh called Abram, and said, What is this that thou hast done unto me? why didst thou not tell me that she was thy wife? 19
Why saidst thou, She is my sister? so I might have taken her to me to wife: now therefore behold thy wife, take her, and go thy way. 20
And Pharaoh commanded his men concerning him: and they sent him away, and his wife, and all that he had.

And Abram went up out of Egypt, he, and his wife, and all that he had, and Lot with him, into the south. 1
[a]And Abram was very rich in cattle, in silver, and in gold. 2
And he went on his journeys from the south even to Beth-el, unto the place where his tent had been at the beginning, between Beth-el and Hai; 3 unto the [b]place of the altar, which he had made there at the first: and there Abram called on the name of the LORD. 4
And Lot also, which went with Abram, had flocks, and herds, and tents. 5
And [c]the land was not able to bear them, that they might dwell together: for their substance was great, so that they could not dwell together. 6
And there was [d]a strife between the herdmen of Abram's cattle and the herdmen of Lot's cattle: [e]and the Canaanite and the Perizzite dwelled then in the land. 7
And Abram said unto Lot, Let there be no strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdmen and thy herdmen; for we be [f†]brethren. 8

then I will go to the right; or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left. And Lot lifted up his eyes, and 10 beheld all [h]the plain of Jordan, that it was well watered every where, before the LORD [i]destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, [k]even as the garden of the LORD, like the land of Egypt, as thou comest unto [l]Zoar. Then Lot chose him all the plain of Jor- 11 dan; and Lot journeyed east: and they separated themselves the one from the other. Abram dwelled in the land of 12 Canaan, and Lot dwelled in the cities of the plain, and pitched his tent toward Sodom. But the men of Sodom [m]were 13 wicked and [n]sinners before the LORD exceedingly.

And the LORD said unto Abram, after 14 that Lot was separated from him, Lift up now thine eyes, and look from the place where thou art [o]northward, and southward, and eastward, and westward: for 15 all the land which thou seest, [p]to thee will I give it, and [q]to thy seed for ever. And [r]I will make thy seed as the dust of 16 the earth: so that if a man can number the dust of the earth, then shall thy seed also be numbered. Arise, walk through 17 the land in the length of it and in the breadth of it; for I will give it unto thee. Then Abram removed his tent, and came 18 and dwelt in the [t]plain of Mamre, [s]which is in Hebron, and built there an altar unto the LORD.

And it came to pass in the days of Amraphel king of [a]Shinar, Arioch king of Ellasar, Chedorlaomer king of [b]Elam, and Tidal king of nations; that these 2 made war with Bera king of [c]Sodom, and with Birsha king of [c]Gomorrah, Shinab king of [d]Admah, and Shemeber king of [d]Zeboiim, and the king of Bela, which is [e]Zoar. All these were joined 3 together in the vale of Siddim, [f]which is the salt sea. Twelve years they served 4 Chedorlaomer, and in the thirteenth year they rebelled. And in the fourteenth 5 year came Chedorlaomer, and the kings that were with him, and smote [g]the Rephaims [h]in Ashteroth Karnaim, and [‖]the Zuzims in Ham, [k]and the Emims in [‖]Shaveh Kiriathaim, [l]and the Horites 6 in their mount Seir, unto [‖]El-[m]paran, which is by the wilderness. And they 7 returned, and came to En-mishpat, which is Kadesh, and smote all the country of the Amalekites, and also the Amorites, 8 that dwelt [n]in Hazezon-tamar. And there went out the king of Sodom, and the king of Gomorrah, and the king of Admah, and the king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela (the same is Zoar); and they joined battle with them in the vale 9 of Siddim; with Chedorlaomer the king of Elam, and with Tidal king of nations, and Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellasar; four kings with five. 10 And the vale of Siddim was full of [o]slimepits; and the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah fled, and fell there; and they that remained fled [p]to the mountain. 11 And they took [q]all the goods of Sodom and Gomorrah, and all their victuals, 12 and went their way. And they took Lot, Abram's [r]brother's son, [s]who dwelt in Sodom, and his goods, and departed. 13 And there came one that had escaped, and told Abram the Hebrew; for he dwelt in the [t]plain of Mamre the Amorite, brother of Eshcol, and brother of Aner: [u]and these were confederate with 14 Abram. And when Abram heard that [w]his brother was taken captive, he [‖]armed his [‖]trained servants, [x]born in his own house, three hundred and eighteen, and 15 pursued them unto [y]Dan. And he divided himself against them, he and his servants, by night, and smote them, and pursued them unto Hobah, which is[z] on 16 the left hand of Damascus. And he brought back all the goods, and also brought again his brother Lot, and his goods, and the women also, and the people.

17 And the king of Sodom went out to meet him after his return from the slaughter of Chedorlaomer, and of the kings that were with him, at the valley of Shaveh, which is the [a]king's dale. 18 And [b]Melchizedek king of Salem brought forth bread and wine: and he was [c]the 19 priest of [d]the most high God. And he blessed him, and said, [e]Blessed be Abram of the most high God, [f]possessor of heaven and earth: 20 and [g]blessed be the most high God, which hath delivered thine enemies into thy hand. And he gave 21 him [h]tithes of all. And the king of Sodom said unto Abram, Give me the [†]persons, and take the goods to thyself. 22 And Abram said to the king of Sodom, [i]I have lift up mine hand unto the LORD, the most high God, the possessor of 23 heaven and earth, that [k]I will not take from a thread even to a shoelatchet, and that I will not take any thing that is

XV.

After these things the word of the LORD came unto Abram in a vision, saying, [a]Fear not, Abram: I am thy [b]shield, and thy exceeding [c]great reward. And 2
Abram said, Lord GOD, what wilt thou give me, seeing I go childless, and the steward of my house is this Eliezer of [d]Damascus? And Abram said, Behold, 3 to me thou hast given no seed: and lo, [e]one born in my house is mine heir. And behold, the word of the LORD came 4 unto him, saying, This shall not be thine heir; but he that [f]shall come forth out of thine own bowels shall be thine heir. And he brought him forth abroad, and 5 said, Look now towards heaven, and [g]tell the [h]stars, if thou be able to number them: and he said unto him, [i]So shall thy seed be. And he [k]believed in 6 the LORD; and he [l]counted it to him for righteousness. And he said unto him, I am the LORD that brought thee 7 out of [m]Ur of the Chaldees, [n]to give thee this land to inherit it. And he said, Lord GOD, [o]whereby shall I know that I shall 8 inherit it? And he said unto him, Take 9 me a heifer of three years old, and a she goat of three years old, and a ram of three years old, and a turtle-dove, and a young pigeon. And he took unto him 10 all these, and [p]divided them in the midst, and laid each piece one against another: but [q]the birds divided he not. And when 11 the fowls came down upon the carcases, Abram drove them away. And when 12 the sun was going down, [r]a deep sleep fell upon Abram; and, lo, a horror of great darkness fell upon him. And he 13 said unto Abram, Know of a surety [s]that thy seed shall be a stranger in a land that is not theirs, and shall serve them; and [t]they shall afflict them [u]four hundred years; and 14 also that nation, whom they shall serve, [x]will I judge: and afterward [y]shall they come out with great substance. And [z]thou shalt go [a]to thy 15 [b]fathers in peace; thou shalt be buried [b]in a good old age. But [c]in the fourth 16 generation they shall come hither again: for the iniquity [d]of the Amorites [e]is not yet full. And it came to pass, that, when 17
the sun went down, and it was [f]dark, behold a smoking furnace, and [f]a burning lamp that passed between those 18 pieces. In the same day the LORD made a covenant with Abram, saying, [g]Unto thy seed have I given this land, from [h]the river of Egypt unto the great 19 river, the river Euphrates: the [i]Kenites, and the Kenizzites, and the Kadmonites, 20
and the [k]Hittites, and the [l]Perizzites, and 21

Now Sarai Abram's wife [a]bare him no children: and she had a handmaid, [b]an Egyptian, whose name was [c]Hagar. 2 [d]And Sarai said unto Abram, Behold now, the LORD [e]hath restrained me from bearing: I pray thee, go in unto my maid; it may be that I may [f]obtain children by her. And Abram hearkened to the voice 3 of Sarai. And Sarai Abram's wife took Hagar her maid the Egyptian, after Abram [f]had dwelt ten years in the land of Canaan, and gave her to her husband 4
Abram to be his wife. And he went in unto Hagar, and she conceived: and when she saw that she had conceived, her mistress was [g]despised in her eyes. 5
And Sarai said unto Abram, My wrong be upon thee: I have given my maid into thy bosom; and when she saw that she had conceived, I was despised in her eyes: [h]the LORD judge between me and 6 thee. But Abram said unto Sarai, [i]Behold, thy maid is in thy hand; do to her [f]as it pleaseth thee. And when Sarai [f]dealt hardly with her, [k]she fled from 7 her face. And the angel of the LORD found her by a fountain of water in the [l]wilderness, by the fountain in the way 8 to [m]Shur. And he said, Hagar, Sarai's maid, whence camest thou? and whither wilt thou go? And she said, I flee from 9 the face of my mistress Sarai. And the angel of the LORD said unto her, Return to thy mistress, and submit thyself under 10 her hands. And the angel of the LORD said unto her, [n]I will multiply thy seed exceedingly, that it shall not be num- 11

your feet, and rest yourselves under the tree: and [c]I will fetch a morsel of bread, and [†]comfort ye your hearts; after that you shall pass on: [f]for therefore [†]are you come to your servant. And they said, So do, as thou hast said. And Abraham hastened into the tent unto Sarah, and said, [†]Make ready quickly three measures of fine meal, knead it, and make cakes upon the hearth. And Abraham ran unto the herd, and fetcht a calf tender and good, and gave it unto a young man; and he hasted to dress it. And he took butter, and milk, and the calf which he had dressed, and set it before them; and he stood by them under the tree, and they did eat. And they said unto him, Where is Sarah thy wife? And he said, Behold, [g]in the tent. And he said, I will certainly return unto thee [h]according to the time of life; and lo, [i]Sarah thy wife shall have a son. And Sarah heard it in the tent door, which was behind him. Now [k]Abraham and Sarah were old and well stricken in age; and it ceased to be with Sarah [l]after the manner of women. Therefore Sarah [m]laughed within herself, saying, After I am waxed old shall I have pleasure, my [n]lord being old also? And the LORD said unto Abraham, Wherefore did Sarah laugh, saying, Shall I of a surety bear a child, which am old? [o]Is any thing too hard for the LORD? [p]At the time appointed I will return unto thee, according to the time of life, and Sarah shall have a son. Then Sarah [q]denied, saying, I laughed not; for she was afraid. And he said, Nay; but thou didst laugh.

And the men rose up from thence, and looked toward Sodom: and Abraham went with them [r]to bring them on the way. And the LORD said, [s]Shall I hide from Abraham that thing which I do; seeing that Abraham shall surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be [t]blessed in him? For I know him, [u]that he will command his children and his [w]household after him, and they shall keep the way of the LORD, to do justice and judgment; that the LORD may bring upon Abraham that which he hath spoken of him. And the LORD said, Because [x]the cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and because their sin is very grievous; [y]I will go down now, and see whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it, which is come unto me; and if not, [z]I will know. And the men turned their faces from thence, [a]and went toward Sodom: but Abraham [b]stood yet before the LORD.

And Abraham [c]drew near, and said, [d]Wilt thou also destroy the righteous with the wicked? Peradventure there be fifty righteous within the city: wilt thou also destroy and not spare the place for the fifty righteous that are therein? That be far from thee to do after this manner, to slay the righteous with the wicked: and [e]that the righteous should be as the wicked, that be far from thee: [f]Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right? And the LORD said, [g]If I find in Sodom fifty righteous within the city, then I will spare all the place for their sakes. And Abraham answered and said, [h]Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the Lord, which am but [i]dust and ashes: Peradventure there shall lack five of the fifty righteous: wilt thou destroy all the city for lack of five? And he said, If I find there forty and five, I will not destroy it. And he spake unto him yet again, and said, Peradventure there shall be forty found there. And he said, I will not do it for forty's sake. And he said unto him, Oh let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak: Peradventure there shall thirty be found there. And he said, I will not do it, if I find thirty there. And he said, Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the Lord: Peradventure there shall be twenty found there. And he said, I will not destroy it for twenty's sake. And he said, [k]Oh let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak yet but this once: Peradventure ten shall be found there. And he said, I will not destroy it for ten's sake. And the LORD went his way, as soon as he had left communing with Abraham: and Abraham returned unto his place.

XIX. And there [a]came two angels to Sodom at even; and Lot sat in the gate of Sodom: and [b]Lot seeing them rose up to meet them; and he bowed himself with his face toward the ground; and he said, Behold now, my lords, [c]turn in, I pray you, into your servant's house, and tarry all night, and [d]wash your feet, and ye shall rise up early, and go on your ways. him, that we may preserve seed of our 33 father. And they made their father drink wine that night: and the firstborn went in, and lay with her father; and he perceived not when she lay down, nor 34 when she arose. And it came to pass on the morrow, that the firstborn said unto the younger, Behold, I lay yesternight with my father: let us make him drink wine this night also; and go thou

in, and lie with him, that we may preserve seed of our father. And they made 35 their father drink wine that night also: and the younger arose, and lay with him; and he perceived not when she lay down, nor when she arose. Thus were both 36 the daughters of Lot with child by their father. And the firstborn bare a son, 37 and called his name Moab: [f]the same is the father of the Moabites unto this day. And the younger, she also bare a son, 38 and called his name Ben-ammi: [g]the same is the father of the children of Ammon unto this day.

And Abraham journeyed from [a]thence toward the south country, and dwelled between [b]Kadesh and Shur, and [c]sojourned in [d]Gerar. And Abraham said 2 of Sarah his wife, [e]She is my sister: and Abimelech king of Gerar sent, and took Sarah. But [f]God came to Abimelech 3 [g]in a dream by night, and said to him, [h]Behold, thou art but a dead man, for the woman which thou hast taken; for she is [i]a man's wife. But Abimelech 4 had not come near her: and he said, Lord, [j]wilt thou slay also a righteous nation? Said he not unto me, She is my 5 sister? and she, even she herself said, He is my brother: in the [k]integrity of my heart and innocency of my hands have I done this. And God said unto 6 him in a dream, Yea, I know that thou didst this in the integrity of thy heart; for I also withheld thee from sinning [l]against me: therefore suffered I thee not to touch her. Now therefore restore the 7 man his wife; [m]for he is a prophet, and he shall pray for thee, and thou shalt live: and if thou restore her not, know thou that thou shalt surely die, thou, [n]and all that are thine. Therefore Abi- 8 melech rose early in the morning, and called all his servants, and told all these things in their ears: and the men were sore afraid. Then Abimelech called A- 9 braham, and said unto him, What hast thou done unto us? and what have I offended thee, that thou hast brought on me and on my kingdom a great sin? thou hast done deeds unto me [o]that ought not to be done. And Abimelech said 10 unto Abraham, What sawest thou, that thou hast done this thing? And Abra- 11 ham said, Because I thought, Surely [p]the fear of God is not in this place; and they will slay me for my wife's sake. And 12 yet indeed [q]she is my sister; she is the daughter of my father, but not the daughter of my mother; and she became my 13 wife. And it came to pass, when [r]God caused me to wander from my father's house, that I said unto her, This is thy kindness which thou shalt shew unto me; at every place whither we shall come, 14 [s]say of me, He is my brother. And Abimelech [t]took sheep, and oxen, and menservants, and womenservants, and gave them unto Abraham, and restored 15 him Sarah his wife. And Abimelech said, Behold, [u]my land is before thee: 16 dwell [v]where it pleaseth thee. And unto Sarah he said, Behold, I have given [w]thy brother a thousand pieces of silver: behold, he is to thee [x]a covering of the eyes, unto all that are with thee, and with all other: thus she was [y]reproved. 17 So Abraham prayed unto God: and God healed Abimelech, and his wife, and his maidservants; and they bare children. 18 For the LORD [z]had fast closed up all the wombs of the house of Abimelech, because of Sarah Abraham's wife.

And the LORD [a]visited Sarah as he had said, and the LORD did unto Sarah 2 [b]as he had spoken. For Sarah [c]conceived, and bare Abraham a son in his old age, [d]at the set time of which God 3 had spoken to him. And Abraham called the name of his son that was born unto him, whom Sarah bare to him, [e]Isaac. 4 And Abraham [f]circumcised his son Isaac being eight days old, [g]as God had com- 5 manded him. And [h]Abraham was an hundred years old, when his son Isaac 6 was born unto him. And Sarah said, [i]God hath made me to laugh, so that all 7 that hear will laugh with me. And she said, Who would have said unto Abraham, that Sarah should have given children suck? [k]for I have born him a son 8 in his old age. And the child grew, and was weaned: and Abraham made a great feast the same day that Isaac was weaned. 9 And Sarah saw the son of Hagar [l]the Egyptian, [m]which she had born unto A- 10 braham, [n]mocking. Wherefore she said unto Abraham, [o]Cast out this bondwoman and her son: for the son of this bondwoman shall not be heir 11 with my son, even with Isaac. And the thing was very grievous in Abraham's 12 sight [p]because of his son. And 14 Abraham called the name of that place ‖Jehovah-jireh: as it is said to this day, In the mount of the LORD it shall be seen. And the angel of the LORD called 15 unto Abraham out of heaven the second time, and said, [g]By myself have I sworn, saith the LORD, for because thou hast done this thing, and hast not withheld thy son, thine only son: that in 17 blessing I will bless thee, and in multiplying I will multiply thy seed [h]as the stars of the heaven, [i]and as the sand which is upon the sea [†]shore; and [k]thy seed shall possess [l]the gate of his enemies; [m]and in thy seed shall all the 18 nations of the earth be blessed; [n]because thou hast obeyed my voice. And Sarah was an hundred and seven and twenty years old: these were the years of the life of Sarah. And Sarah 2 died in [a]Kirjath-arba; the same is [b]Hebron in the land of Canaan: and Abraham came to mourn for Sarah, and to weep for her. And Abraham stood up 3 from before his dead, and spake unto the sons of Heth, saying, [c]I am a stranger 4 and a sojourner with you: [d]give me a possession of a buryingplace with you, that I may bury my dead out of my sight. And the children of Heth answered Abraham, saying unto him, Hear 5 6 us, my lord: thou art [†]a mighty prince among us: in the choice of our sepulchres bury thy dead; none of us shall withhold from thee his sepulchre, but that thou mayest bury thy dead. And 7 Abraham stood up, and bowed himself to the people of the land, even to the 8 children of Heth. And he communed with them, saying, If it be your mind that I should bury my dead out of my sight; hear me, and intreat for me to 9 Ephron the son of Zohar, that he may give me the cave of Machpelah, which he hath, which is in the end of his field; for [†]as much money as it is worth he shall give it me for a possession of a 10 buryingplace amongst you. And Ephron dwelt amongst the children of Heth: and Ephron the Hittite answered Abraham in the [†]audience of the children of Heth, even of all that [e]went in at the gate of 11 his city, saying, [f]Nay, my lord, hear me: the field give I thee, and the cave that is therein, I give it thee; in the presence of the sons of my people give I it thee: 12 bury thy dead. And Abraham bowed down himself before the people of the 13 land. And he spake unto Ephron in the audience of the people of the land, saying, But if thou wilt give it, I pray thee, hear me: I will give thee money for the field; take it of me, and I will 14 bury my dead there. And Ephron an- 15 swered Abraham, saying unto him, My lord, hearken unto me: the land is worth four hundred [g]shekels of silver; what is that betwixt me and thee? bury there- 16 fore thy dead. And Abraham hearkened unto Ephron; and Abraham [h]weighed to Ephron the silver, which he had named in the audience of the sons of Heth, four hundred shekels of silver, current money 17 with the merchant. And [i]the field of Ephron, which was in Machpelah, which was before Mamre, the field, and the cave which was therein, and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all the borders round about, were made sure 18 unto Abraham for a possession in the presence of the children of Heth, before all that went in at the gate of his city. 19 And after this, Abraham buried Sarah his wife in the cave of the field of Machpelah before Mamre: the same is Heb- 20 ron in the land of Canaan. LORD, the God of heaven, and the God of the earth, that [f]thou shalt not take a wife unto my son of the daughters of the Canaanites, amongst whom I dwell: [g]but thou shalt go [h]unto my country, and to my kindred, and take a wife unto my son Isaac. And the servant said unto him, Peradventure the woman will not be willing to follow me unto this land: must I needs bring thy son again unto the land from whence thou camest? And Abraham said unto him, Beware thou that thou bring not my son thither again. The LORD God of heaven, which [i]took me from my father's house, and from the land of my kindred, and which spake unto me, and that sware unto me, saying, [k]Unto thy seed will I give this land; [l]he shall send his angel before thee, and thou shalt take a wife unto my son from thence. And if the woman will not be willing to follow thee, then [m]thou shalt be clear from this my oath: only bring not my son thither again. And the servant [n]put his hand under the thigh of Abraham his master, and sware to him concerning that matter.

And the servant took ten [o]camels of the camels of his master, and departed; [‖]for all the goods of his master were in his hand: and he arose, and went to Mesopotamia, unto [p]the city of Nahor. And he made his camels to kneel down without the city by a well of water at the time of the evening, even the time [†q]that women go out to draw water. And he said, [r]O LORD God of my master Abraham, I pray thee, [s]send me good speed this day, and shew kindness unto my master Abraham. Behold, [t]I stand here by the well of water; and [u]the daughters of the men of the city come out to draw water: and let it come to pass, that the damsel to whom I shall say, Let down thy pitcher, I pray thee, that I may drink; and she shall say, Drink, and I will give thy camels drink also: let the same be she that thou hast appointed for thy servant Isaac; and [x]thereby shall I know that thou hast shewed kindness unto my master. And it came to pass, before he had done speaking, that behold, Rebekah came out, who was born to Bethuel, son of [y]Milcah, the wife of Nahor, Abraham's brother, with her pitcher upon her shoulder. And the damsel was [z]very [†‡]fair to look upon, a virgin, neither had any man known her: and she went down to the well, and filled her pitcher, and came up. And the servant ran to meet her, and said, Let me, I pray thee, drink a little water of thy pitcher. And she said, Drink, my lord: and she hasted, and let down her pitcher upon her hand, and gave him drink. And when she had done giving him drink, she said, I will draw water for thy camels also, until they have done drinking. And she hasted, and emptied her pitcher into the trough, and ran again unto the well to draw water, and drew for all his camels. And the man wondering at her held his peace, to wit whether [a]the LORD had made his journey [b]prosperous or not. And it came to pass, as the camels had done drinking, that the man took a golden [‖]earring of half a shekel weight, and two bracelets for her hands of ten shekels weight of gold; and said, Whose daughter art thou? tell me, I pray thee: is there room in thy father's house for us to lodge in? And she said unto him, [c]I am the daughter of Bethuel the son of Milcah, which she bare unto Nahor. She said moreover unto him, We have both straw and provender enough, and room to lodge in. And the man [d]bowed down his head, and worshipped the LORD. And he said, Blessed be the LORD God of my master Abraham, who hath not left destitute my master of [e]his mercy and his truth: I being in the way, the LORD [f]led me to the house of my master's brethren. And the damsel ran, and told them of her mother's house these things. And Rebekah had a brother, and his name was [g]Laban: and Laban ran out unto the man, unto the well. And it came to pass, when he saw the earring and bracelets upon his sister's hands, and when he heard the words of Rebekah his sister, saying, Thus spake the man unto me; that he came unto the man; and behold, he stood by the camels at the well. And he said, Come in, [h]thou blessed of the LORD; wherefore standest thou without? for I have prepared the house, and room for the camels. And the man came into the house: and he ungirded his camels, and [i]gave straw and provender for the camels, and [k]water to wash his feet, and the men's feet that were with him. And there was set meat before him to eat: but he said, I will not eat, until I have told mine errand. And he said, Speak on. And he said, I am Abraham's servant. greatly; and he is become great: and he hath given him flocks, and herds, and silver, and gold, and menservants, and maidservants, and camels, and asses.
36 And Sarah my master's wife [m]bare a son to my master when she was old: and [n]unto him hath he given all that he hath. And my master [o]made me swear, 37 saying, Thou shalt not take a wife to my son of the daughters of the Canaanites, in whose land I dwell: [p]but thou shalt 38 go unto my father's house, and to my kindred, and take a wife unto my son.
39 [q]And I said unto my master, Peradventure the woman will not follow me. [r]And 40 he said unto me, The LORD, [s]before whom I walk, will send his angel with thee, and [t]prosper thy way; and thou shalt take a wife for my son of my kindred, and of my father's house: 41 [u]then shalt thou be clear from this my oath, when thou comest to my kindred; and if they give not thee one, thou shalt be clear from my oath. And I came this 42 day unto the well, and said, [x]O LORD God of my master Abraham, if now thou do [y]prosper my way which I go: 43 [z]behold, I stand by the well of water; and it shall come to pass, that when the virgin cometh forth to draw water, and I say to her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water of thy pitcher to drink; 44 [a]and she say to me, Both drink thou, and I will also draw for thy camels: let the same be the woman whom the LORD [b]hath appointed out for my master's son. 45 And before I had done [c]speaking in mine heart, behold, Rebekah came forth with her pitcher on her shoulder; and she went down unto the well, and drew water: and I said unto her, Let me drink, I pray thee. 46 And she made haste, and let down her pitcher from her shoulder, and said, Drink, and I will give thy camels drink also: so I drank, and she made the camels drink also. 47 And I asked her, and said, Whose daughter art thou? And she said, The daughter of Bethuel, Nahor's son, whom Milcah bare unto him: and I put [d]the earring upon her face, and the bracelets upon her hands. 48 [e]And I bowed down my head, and worshipped the LORD, and blessed the LORD God of my master Abraham, which had led me in the right way to take [f]my master's brother's daughter unto his son. 49 And now if ye will [g]deal kindly and truly with my master, tell me: and if not, tell me; that I may turn
50 to the right hand, or to the left. Then Laban and Bethuel answered and said, The thing proceedeth from the LORD: we cannot [h]speak unto thee bad or good.
51 Behold, Rebekah is before thee, take her, and go, and let her be thy master's son's wife, [i]as the LORD hath spoken.
52 And it came to pass, that, when Abraham's servant heard their words, he [k]worshipped the LORD, bowing himself 53 to the earth. And the servant brought forth [l]jewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and raiment, and gave them to Rebekah: he gave also to her brother and 54 to her mother [l]precious things. And they did eat and drink, he and the men that were with him, and tarried all night; and they rose up in the morning, and he said, [m]Send me away unto my master.
55 And her brother and her mother said, Let the damsel abide with us [l]a few days, at the least ten; after that she 56 shall go. And he said unto them, Hinder me not, seeing the LORD hath prospered my way; send me away that I 57 may go to my master. And they said, We will call the damsel, and inquire at 58 her mouth. And they called Rebekah, and said unto her, Wilt thou go with this 59 man? And she said, I will go. And they sent away Rebekah their sister, and [n]her nurse, and Abraham's servant, and 60 his men. And they blessed Rebekah, and said unto her, Thou art our sister, be thou [o]the mother of thousands of millions, and [p]let thy seed possess the gate of those which hate them.
61 And Rebekah arose, and her damsels, and they rode upon the camels, and followed the man: and the servant took 62 Rebekah, and went his way. And Isaac came from the way of the [q]well Lahai-roi; for he dwelt in the south country.
63 And Isaac went out [l][r]to meditate in the field at the eventide: and he lift up his eyes, and saw, and behold, the 64 camels were coming. And Rebekah lift up her eyes, and when she saw Isaac, 65 [s]she lighted off the camel. For she had said unto the servant, What man is this that walketh in the field to meet us? And the servant had said, It is my master: therefore she took a vail, and co-
66 vered herself. And the servant told

and will give unto thy seed all these countries; [l]and in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed; [m]because that Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge, my commandments, my statutes, and my laws. And Isaac dwelt in Gerar: and the men of the place asked him of his wife; and [n]he said, She is my sister: for he feared to say, She is my wife; lest, [o]said he, the men of the place should kill me for Rebekah; because she [p]was fair to look upon. And it came to pass, when he had been there a long time, that Abimelech king of the Philistims looked out at a window, and saw, and behold, Isaac was sporting with Rebekah his wife. And Abimelech called Isaac, and said, Behold, of a surety she is thy wife: and how saidst thou, She is my sister? And Isaac said unto him, Because I said, Lest I die for her. And Abimelech said, What is this thou hast done unto us? one of the people might lightly have lien with thy wife, and [q]thou shouldest have brought guiltiness upon us. And Abimelech charged all his people, saying, He that toucheth this man or his wife shall surely be put to death. Then Isaac sowed in that land, and [t]received in the same year an hundredfold: and the LORD [r]blessed him. And the man waxed great, and [t]went forward, and grew until he became very great: for he had possession of flocks, and possession of herds, and great store of [l]servants: and the Philistims [s]envied him. For all the wells [t]which his father's servants had digged in the days of Abraham his father, the Philistims had stopped them, and filled them with earth. And Abimelech said unto Isaac, Go from us; for [u]thou art much mightier than we.

And Isaac departed thence, and pitched his tent in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there. And Isaac digged again the wells of water, which they had digged in the days of Abraham his father; for the Philistims had stopped them after the death of Abraham: [x]and he called their names after the names by which his father had called them. And Isaac's servants digged in the valley, and found there a well of [t]springing water. And the herdmen of Gerar [y]did strive with Isaac's herdmen, saying, The water is ours: and he called the name of the well [l]Esek; because they strove with him. And they digged another well, and strove for that also: and he called the name of it [l]Sitnah. And he removed from thence, and digged another well; and for that they strove not: and he called the name of it [l]Rehoboth; and he said, For now the LORD hath made room for us, and we shall [z]be fruitful in the land. And he went up from thence to Beer-sheba. And the LORD appeared unto him the same night, and said, [a]I am the God of Abraham thy father: [b]fear not, for [c]I am with thee, and will bless thee, and multiply thy seed for my servant Abraham's sake. And he [d]builded an altar there, and called upon the name of the LORD, and pitched his tent there: and there Isaac's servants digged a well. Then Abimelech went to him from Gerar, and Ahuzzath one of his friends, and [e]Phichol the chief captain of his army. And Isaac said unto them, Wherefore come ye to me, seeing ye hate me, and have [f]sent me away from you? And they said, [t]We saw certainly that the LORD [g]was with thee: and we said, Let there be now an oath betwixt us, even betwixt us and thee, and let us make a covenant with thee; [t]that thou wilt do us no hurt, as we have not touched thee, and as we have done unto thee nothing but good, and have sent thee away in peace: [h]thou art now the blessed of the LORD. [i]And he made them a feast, and they did eat and drink. And they rose up betimes in the morning, and [k]sware one to another: and Isaac sent them away, and they departed from him in peace. And it came to pass the same day, that Isaac's servants came, and told him concerning the well which they had digged, and said unto him, We have found water. And he called it [l]Shebah: [l]therefore the name of the city is [l]Beer-sheba unto this day. And Esau was forty years old when he took to wife [m]Judith the daughter of Beeri the Hittite, and Bashemath the daughter of Elon the Hittite: [n]which were [t]a grief of mind unto Isaac and to Rebekah.

XXVII. And it came to pass, that when Isaac was old, and [a]his eyes were dim, so that he could not see, he called Esau his eldest son, and said unto him, My son: and he said unto him, Behold, here am I. And he said, Behold now, I am old, I know not the day of my death: [b]now therefore take, I pray thee, thy weapons, thy quiver and thy bow, and go out to the field, and [t]take me some venison;

30 And it came to pass, as soon as Isaac had made an end of blessing Jacob, and Jacob was yet scarce gone out from the presence of Isaac his father, that Esau
his brother came in from his hunting.
31 And he also had made savoury meat, and brought it unto his father, and said unto his father, Let my father arise, and eat
of his son's venison, that thy soul may 32 bless me. And Isaac his father said unto him, Who art thou? And he said, I am 33 thy son, thy firstborn Esau. And Isaac father, Bless me, even me also, O my taken away my blessing. And he said, Hast thou not reserved a blessing for 37 me? And Isaac answered and said unto Esau, [d]Behold, I have made him thy [d] ver. 29. [Fulfilled, 2 Sam. 8. 14.]

lord, and all his brethren have I given to him for servants; and [e]with corn and wine have I [i]sustained him: and what shall I do now unto thee, my son? And 38 Esau said unto his father, Hast thou but one blessing, my father? bless me, even me also, O my father. And Esau lift up his voice, [f]and wept. And Isaac his 39 father answered and said unto him,

Behold, thy dwelling shall be [l]the fatness of the earth,
And of the dew of heaven from above;
And by thy sword shalt thou live, 40
And [g]shalt serve thy brother;
And it shall come to pass when thou shalt have the dominion,
That [h]thou shalt break his yoke from off thy neck.

And Esau [i]hated Jacob because of 41 the blessing wherewith his father blessed him: and Esau said in his heart, [k]The days of mourning for my father are at hand; [l]then will I slay my brother Jacob. And these words of Esau her 42 elder son were told to Rebekah: and she sent and called Jacob her younger son, and said unto him, Behold, thy brother Esau, as touching thee, doth comfort himself, purposing to kill thee. Now 43 therefore, my son, obey my voice; and arise, flee thou to Laban my brother [m]to Haran; and tarry with him a few days, 44 until thy brother's fury turn away; until 45 thy brother's anger turn away from thee, and he forget that which thou hast done to him: then I will send, and fetch thee from thence: why should I be deprived also of you both in one day? And Re- 46 bekah said to Isaac, [n]I am weary of my life because of the daughters of Heth: [o]if Jacob take a wife of the daughters of Heth, such as these which are of the daughters of the land, what good shall my life do me?

XXVIII. And Isaac called Jacob, and blessed him, and charged him, and said unto him, [a]Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan. [b]Arise, go to [c]Pa- 2 dan-aram, to the house of [d]Bethuel thy mother's father; and take thee a wife from thence of the daughters of [e]Laban thy mother's brother. [f]And God Almighty 3 bless thee, and make thee fruitful, and multiply thee, that thou mayest be [t]a multitude of people; and give thee [g]the 4 blessing of Abraham, to thee, and to thy seed with thee; that thou mayest inherit the land [t]h]wherein thou art a stranger, which God gave unto Abraham. And 5 Isaac sent away Jacob: and he went to Padan-aram unto Laban, son of Bethuel the Syrian, the brother of Rebekah, Ja- 6 cob's and Esau's mother. When Esau saw that Isaac [h]had blessed Jacob, and sent him away to Padan-aram, to take him a wife from thence; and that as he blessed him he gave him a charge, saying, Thou shalt not take a wife of the 7 daughters of Canaan; and that Jacob obeyed his father and his mother, and 8 was gone to Padan-aram; and Esau seeing [i]that the daughters of Canaan [t]pleased not Isaac his father; then went Esau 9 unto Ishmael, and took unto the wives which he had [k]Mahalath the daughter of Ishmael Abraham's son, [l]the sister of Nebajoth, to be his wife.

And Jacob went out from [m]Beer-sheba, 10 and went toward [n]Haran. And he light- 11 ed upon a certain place, and tarried there all night, because the sun was set; and he took of the stones of that place, and put them for his pillows, and lay down 12 in that place to sleep. And he [o]dreamed, and behold a ladder set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven: and behold [p]the angels of God ascending 13 and descending on it. [q]And behold, the LORD stood above it, and said, [r]I am the LORD God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isaac: [s]the land whereon thou liest, to thee will I give it, and 14 to thy seed; and [t]thy seed shall be as the dust of the earth, and thou shalt [t]spread abroad [u]to the west, and to the east, and to the north, and to the south: and in thee and [x]in thy seed shall all 15 the families of the earth be blessed. And behold, [y]I am with thee, and will keep thee in all places whither thou goest, and will [z]bring thee again into this land; for I [a]will not leave thee, until I have done that which I have spoken to thee 16 of. And Jacob awaked out of his sleep, and he said, Surely the LORD is in [b]this 17 place; and I knew it not. And he was afraid, and said, How dreadful is this place! this is none other but the house of God, and this is the gate of heaven. 18 And Jacob rose up early in the morning, and took the stone that he had put for his pillows, and set it up [c]for a pillar, 19 [d]and poured oil upon the top of it. And he called the name of [e]that place [l]Bethel: but the name of that city was called 20 Luz at the first. XXIX. Then Jacob [†]went on his journey, and came into the land of the [†]people of [a]the east. And he looked, and behold a well in the field, and lo, there were three flocks of sheep lying by it; for out of that well they watered the flocks: and a great stone was upon the well's mouth. And thither were all the flocks gathered: and they rolled the stone from the well's mouth, and watered the sheep, and put the stone again upon the well's mouth in his place. And Jacob said unto them, My brethren, whence be ye? And they said, Of [b]Haran are we. And he said unto them, Know ye Laban the son of Nahor? And they said, We know him. And he said unto them, [†]Is he well? And they said, [c]He is well: and behold, Rachel his daughter cometh with the sheep. And he said, Lo, [†]it is yet high day, neither is it time that the cattle should be gathered together: water ye the sheep, and go and feed them. And they said, We cannot, until all the flocks be gathered together, and till they roll the stone from the well's mouth; then we water the sheep. And while he yet spake with them, [d]Rachel came with her father's sheep: for she kept them. And it came to pass, when Jacob saw Rachel the daughter of Laban his mother's brother, and the sheep of Laban his mother's brother, that Jacob went near, and [e]rolled the stone from the well's mouth, and watered the flock of Laban his mother's brother. And Jacob [f]kissed Rachel, and lifted up his voice, and wept. And Jacob told Rachel that he was [g]her father's brother, and that he was Rebekah's son: [h]and she ran and told her father. And it came to pass, when Laban heard the [†]tidings of Jacob his sister's son, that [i]he ran to meet him, and embraced him, and kissed him, and brought him to his house. And he told Laban all these things. And Laban said to him, [k]Surely thou art my bone and my flesh. And he abode with him [†]the space of a month. And Laban said unto Jacob, Because thou art my brother, shouldest thou therefore serve me for nought? tell me, what shall thy wages be? And Laban had two daughters: the name of the elder was Leah, and the name of the younger was Rachel. Leah was tender eyed; but Rachel was [l]beautiful and well favoured. And Jacob loved Rachel; and said, [m]I will serve thee seven years for Rachel thy younger daughter. And Laban said, It is better that I give her to thee, than that I should give her to another man: abide with me. And Jacob [n]served seven years for Rachel; and they seemed unto him but a few days, for the love he had to her.

And Jacob said unto Laban, Give me my wife, for my days are fulfilled, that I may go in unto her. And Laban gathered together all the men of the place, and [o]made a feast. And it came to pass in the evening, that he took Leah his daughter, and brought her to him; and he went in unto her. And Laban gave unto his daughter Leah [p]Zilpah his maid for a handmaid. And it came to pass, that in the morning, behold, it was Leah: and he said to Laban, What is this thou hast done unto me? did not I serve with thee for Rachel? wherefore then hast thou beguiled me? And Laban said, It [q]must not be so done in our [†]country, to give the younger before the firstborn. [r]Fulfil her week, and we will give thee this also for the service which thou shalt serve with me yet seven other years. And Jacob did so, and fulfilled her week: and he gave him Rachel his daughter to wife also. And Laban gave to Rachel his daughter [s]Bilhah his handmaid to be her maid. And he went in also unto Rachel, and he [t]loved also Rachel more than Leah, and served with him [u]yet seven other years.

And when the LORD saw that Leah was hated, he [w]opened her womb: but Rachel was barren. And Leah conceived, and bare a son, and she called his name ‖Reuben: for she said, Surely the LORD hath [x]looked upon my affliction; now therefore my husband will love me. And she conceived again, and bare a son; and said, Because the LORD hath heard that I was hated, he hath therefore given me this son also: and she called his name ‖Simeon. And she conceived again, and bare a son; and said, Now this time will my husband [y]be joined unto me, because I have born him three sons: therefore was his name called ‖Levi. And she conceived again, and bare a son: and she said, Now will

XXX. And when Rachel saw that [a]she bare Jacob no children, Rachel [b]envied her sister; and said unto Jacob, Give me children, or else I die. And Jacob's anger was kindled against Rachel: and he said, Am I in God's stead, who hath [c]withheld from thee the fruit of the womb? And she said, Behold my maid [d]Bilhah, [e]go in unto her; [f]and she shall bear upon my knees, that I may also [†]have children by her. And she gave him Bilhah her handmaid [g]to wife: and Jacob went in unto her. And Bilhah conceived, and bare Jacob a son. And Rachel said, God hath judged me, and hath also heard my voice, and hath given me a son: therefore called she his name ‖Dan. And Bilhah Rachel's maid conceived again, and bare Jacob a second son. And Rachel said, With [†]great wrestlings have I wrestled with my sister, and I have prevailed: and she called his name ‖[†]Naphtali. When Leah saw that [h]she had left bearing, she took Zilpah her maid, and [i]gave her Jacob to wife. And Zilpah Leah's maid bare Jacob a son. And Leah said, A troop cometh: and she called his name ‖Gad. And Zilpah Leah's maid bare Jacob a second son. And Leah said, [†]Happy am I, for the daughters [k]will call me blessed: and she called his name ‖Asher. And Reuben went in the days of wheat harvest, and found [l]mandrakes in the field, and brought them unto his mother Leah. Then Rachel said to Leah, Give me, I pray thee, of thy son's mandrakes. And she said unto her, [m]Is it a small matter that thou hast taken my husband? and wouldest thou take away my son's mandrakes also? And Rachel said, Therefore he shall lie with thee to night for thy son's mandrakes. And Jacob came out of the field in the evening, and Leah went out to meet him, and said, Thou must come in unto me; for surely I have hired thee with my son's mandrakes. And he lay with her that night. And God hearkened unto Leah, and she conceived, and bare Jacob the fifth son. And Leah said, God hath given me my hire, because I have given my maiden to my husband: and she called his name ‖Issachar. And Leah conceived again, and bare Jacob the sixth son. And Leah said, God hath endued me with a good dowry; now will my husband dwell with me, because I have born him six sons: and she called his name ‖*Zebulun. And afterwards she bare a daughter, and called her name ‖Dinah. And God [n]remembered Rachel, and God hearkened to her, and [o]opened her womb. And she conceived, and bare a son; and said, God hath taken away [p]my reproach: and she called his name ‖Joseph; and said, [q]The LORD shall add to me another son.

And it came to pass, when Rachel had born Joseph, that Jacob said unto Laban, Send me away, that I may go unto mine own place, and to my country. Give me my wives and my children, [r]for whom I have served thee, and let me go: for thou knowest my service which I have done thee. And Laban said unto him, I pray thee, if I have found favour in thine eyes, [s]tarry: for I have learned by experience that [t]the LORD hath blessed me for thy sake. And he said, [u]Appoint me thy wages, and I will give it. And he said unto him, [w]Thou knowest how I have served thee, and how thy cattle was with me. For it was little which thou hadst before I came, and it is now [†]increased unto a multitude; and the LORD hath blessed thee [†]since my coming: and now when shall I [x]provide for mine own house also? And he said, What shall I give thee? And Jacob said, Thou shalt not give me any thing: if thou wilt do this thing for me, I will again feed and keep thy flock: I will pass through all thy flock to day, removing from thence all the speckled and spotted cattle, and all the brown cattle among the sheep, and the spotted and speckled among the goats: and [y]of such shall be my hire. So shall my righteousness answer for me [†]in time to come, when it shall come for my hire before thy face: every one that is not speckled and spotted amongst the goats, and brown amongst the sheep, that shall be counted stolen with me. And Laban said, Behold, I would it might be according to thy word. And he removed that day the he goats that were ringstraked and spotted, and all the she goats that were speckled and spotted, and every one that had some white in it, and all the brown amongst the sheep, and gave them into the hand of his sons. And he set three days' journey betwixt himself and Jacob: and Jacob fed the rest of Laban's flocks.

he had pilled before the flocks in the

the flocks came to drink, that they should

the flocks conceived before the rods, and brought forth cattle [b]ringstraked, speckflocks toward the ringstraked, and all the

his own flocks by themselves, and put them not unto Laban's cattle. And it 41

[h]The speckled shall be thy wages; then all the cattle bare speckled: and if he said thus, The ringstraked shall be thy hire; then bare all the cattle ringstraked.
Thus God hath [i]taken away the cattle of 9
your father, and given them to me. And 10
it came to pass at the time that the cattle conceived, that I lifted up mine eyes, and saw in a dream, and behold, the [l]rams which leaped upon the cattle were ringstraked, speckled, and grisled. And 11
the angel of God spake unto me in a dream, saying, Jacob: And I said, Here 12 am I. And he said, Lift up now thine eyes, and see, all the rams which leap upon the cattle are ringstraked, speckled,
and [k]grisled: for [l]I have seen all that Laban doeth unto thee. I am the God of 13
Beth-el, [m]where thou anointedst the pillar, and where thou vowedst a vow unto me: [n]now arise, get thee out from this land, and return unto the land of thy kindred. And Rachel and Leah answer- 14
ed and said unto him, Is there yet any portion or inheritance for us in our father's house? Are we not counted of 15 him strangers? for [o]he hath sold us, and hath quite devoured also our money.
For all the riches which God hath taken 16
from our father, that is ours, and our children's: now then, whatsoever God hath said unto thee, do.

Then Jacob rose up, and set his sons 17
and his wives upon camels; and he car- 18
ried away all his cattle, and all his goods which he had gotten, the cattle of his getting, which he had gotten in Padanaram, for to go to Isaac his father in the land of Canaan. And Laban went to 19 shear his sheep: and Rachel had stolen
the [f]images that were her father's. And 20
Jacob stale away [f]unawares to Laban the Syrian, in that he told him not that he fled. So he fled with all that he had; 21 and he rose up, and passed over the river, and [p]set his face toward the mount Gilead. And it was told Laban on the 22 third day that Jacob was fled. And he took his brethren with him, and pursued after him seven days' journey; and they overtook him in the mount Gilead. And 23 God [q]came to Laban the Syrian in a dream by night, and said unto him, Take heed that thou speak not to Jacob [f]either good or bad. Then Laban overtook Ja- 24
cob. Now Jacob had pitched his tent in the mount: and Laban with his brethren pitched in the mount of Gilead.
And Laban said to Jacob, What hast 25
thou done, that thou hast stolen away [r]unawares to me, and [s]carried away my daughters, as captives taken with the sword? Wherefore didst thou flee away 26 secretly, and [t]steal away from me; and didst not tell me, that I might have sent thee away with mirth, and with songs,
with tabret, and with harp? and hast 27
not suffered me [t]to kiss my sons and my daughters? [u]thou hast now done foolish- 28

your father spake unto me [x]yesternight, saying, Take thou heed that thou speak
not to Jacob either good or bad. And 30
now, though thou wouldest needs be gone,
because thou sore longedst after thy father's house, yet wherefore hast thou [y]stolen my gods? And Jacob answered 31
and said to Laban, Because I was afraid:
for I said, Peradventure thou wouldest
take by force thy daughters from me.
With whomsoever thou findest thy gods, 32
let him not live: before our brethren discern thou what is thine with me, and take it to thee. For Jacob knew not that Rachel had stolen them. And La- 33 ban went into Jacob's tent, and into Le-ah's tent, and into the two maidservants' tents; but he found them not. Then went he out of Leah's tent, and entered into Rachel's tent. Now Rachel had 34 taken the images, and put them in the camel's furniture, and sat upon them.
And Laban †searched all the tent, but found them not. And she said to her 35 father, Let it not displease my lord that I cannot [z]rise up before thee; for the custom of women is upon me. And he searched, but found not the images. And 36
Jacob was wroth, and chode with Laban:
and Jacob answered and said to Laban,
What is my trespass? what is my sin,
that thou hast so [a]hotly pursued after me? Whereas thou hast †searched all 37
my stuff, what hast thou found of all thy household stuff? set it here before [b]my

thy she goats have not cast their young,
and the rams of thy flock have I not eaten. That which was torn of beasts I 39 brought not unto thee; I bare the loss of it; of [d]my hand didst thou require it,
whether stolen by day, or stolen by night.
Thus I was in the day, the drought con- 40
sumed me, and the frost by night; and my sleep departed from mine eyes. Thus 41
have I been twenty years in thy house;
I [e]served thee fourteen years for thy two daughters, and six years for thy cattle:
and [f]thou hast changed my wages ten times. [g]Except the God of my father, 42
the God of Abraham, and [h]the fear of Isaac, had been with me, surely thou
hadst sent me away now empty. [i]God

46 it up for a pillar. And Jacob said unto his brethren, Gather stones; and they took stones, and made a heap: and 47 they did eat there upon the heap. And Laban called it ‖Jegar-sahadutha: but Ja-48 cob called it ‖Galeed. And Laban said, [p]This heap is a witness between me and that I will not pass over this heap to cob ‖offered sacrifice upon the mount,

and called [t]his brethren to eat bread:
and they did eat bread, and tarried all 55 night in the mount. And early in the morning Laban rose up, and kissed [u]his sons and his daughters, and [x]blessed them: and Laban departed, and returned unto his place.

XXXII. And Jacob went on his way, and the

XXXVI. Now these are the generations of Esau, [a]who is Edom. [b]Esau took his wives of 2
the daughters of Canaan; Adah the daughter of Elon the Hittite, and [c]Aholibamah the daughter of Anah the daughter of Zibeon the Hivite; and [d]Bashe- 3
math Ishmael's daughter, sister of Nebajoth. And Adah bare to Esau [e]Eliphaz; 4 and Bashemath bare Reuel; and Aholi- 5
bamah bare Jeush, and Jaalam, and Ko-rah: these are the sons of Esau, which were born unto him in the land of Canaan. And Esau took his wives, and 6 his sons, and his daughters, and all the [f]persons of his house, and his cattle, and all his beasts, and all his substance, which he had got in the land of Canaan; and went into the country from the face of his brother Jacob. [f]For their riches were 7
more than that they might dwell together; and the land [g]wherein they were strangers could not bear them because of their cattle. Thus dwelt Esau in 8
[h]mount Seir: [i]Esau is Edom.

And these are the generations of Esau 9
the father of [f]the Edomites in mount Seir: these are the names of Esau's sons; 10 [k]Eliphaz the son of [l]Adah the wife of Esau, Reuel the son of Bashemath the wife of Esau. And the sons of Eliphaz 11 were Teman, Omar, [m]Zepho, and Gatam, and Kenaz. And Timna was concubine 12 to Eliphaz Esau's son; and she bare to Eliphaz [n]Amalek: these were the sons of Adah Esau's wife. And these are the 13 sons of Reuel; Nahath, and Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah: these were the sons of Bashemath Esau's wife. And these 14 were the sons of [o]Aholibamah, the daughter of Anah, daughter of Zibeon, Esau's wife: and she bare to Esau Jeush, and Jaalam, and Korah. These were 15 dukes of the sons of Esau: [p]the sons of Eliphaz the firstborn son of Esau; duke
Teman, duke Omar, duke Zepho, duke Kenaz, duke Korah, duke Gatam, and 16
duke Amalek: these are the dukes that came of Eliphaz in the land of Edom;
these were the sons of Adah. And these 17
are the sons of [q]Reuel Esau's son; duke Nahath, duke Zerah, duke Shammah, duke Mizzah: these are the dukes that came of Reuel in the land of Edom; these are the sons of Bashemath Esau's wife.
And these are the sons of [r]Aholibamah 18
Esau's wife; duke Jeush, duke Jaalam, duke Korah: these were the dukes that came of Aholibamah the daughter of A-nah, Esau's wife. These are the sons of 19 Esau, [s]who is Edom, and these are their dukes.

These are the sons of Seir [t]the Horite, 20
who inhabited the land; Lotan, and Sho-bal, and Zibeon, and Anah, and Dishon, 21 and Ezer, and Dishan: these are the dukes of the Horites, the children of Seir in the land of Edom. And the children 22 of Lotan were Hori and [u]Hemam; and Lotan's sister was [v]Timna. And the 23
children of Shobal were these; [w]Alvan,
and Manahath, and Ebal, [x]Shepho, and Onam. And these are the children of 24 Zibeon; both Aiah, and Anah: this was that Anah that found the mules in the wilderness, as he fed the asses of Zibeon his father. And the children of Anah 25 were these; Dishon, and [y]Aholibamah
the daughter of Anah. And these are 26
the children of Dishon; [z]Hemdan, and Eshban, and Ithran, and Cheran. The 27 children of Ezer are these; Bilhan, and Zaavan, and [a]Akan. The children of 28
Dishan are these; Uz, and Aran. These 29
are the dukes that came of the Horites;
[b]duke Lotan, duke Shobal, duke Zibeon, 30
duke Anah, duke Dishon, duke Ezer, duke Dishan: these are the dukes that came of Hori, among their dukes in the land of Seir.

And [c]these are the kings that reigned 31
in the land of Edom, before there reigned any king over the children of Israel.
And Bela the son of Beor reigned in 32
Edom: and the name of his city was Dinhabah. And Bela died, and Jobab 33

XXXVII. And Jacob dwelt in the land [†]wherein his father was a stranger, in the land of Canaan. These are [a]the generations of 2 Jacob. Joseph, being [b]seventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brethren; and the lad was with the sons of Bilhah, and with the sons of Zilpah, his father's wives: and Joseph brought unto his father [c]their evil report. Now Israel 3 loved Joseph more than all his children, because he was [d]the son of his old age: and he made him a coat of many [‖]colours. And when his brethren saw that 4 their father loved him more than all his brethren, they hated him, and could not speak peaceably unto him. And Joseph 5 dreamed a dream, and he told it his brethren: and they hated him yet the more. And he said unto them, Hear, 6 I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed: for, [e]behold, we were binding 7 sheaves in the field, and lo, my sheaf arose, and also stood upright; and behold, your sheaves stood round about, and [f]made obeisance to my sheaf. And 8 his brethren said to him, Shall thou indeed reign over us? or shalt thou indeed have dominion over us? And they hated him yet the more for his dreams, and for his words. And he dreamed yet another 9 dream, and told it his brethren, and said, Behold, I have dreamed a dream more; and behold, the sun and the moon and the eleven stars made obeisance to me. And he told it to his father, and to his 10 brethren: and his father rebuked him, and said unto him, What is this dream that thou hast dreamed? Shall I and [g]thy mother and thy brethren indeed come to bow down ourselves to thee to the earth? And [h]his brethren envied him; but his 11 father [i]observed the saying.

And his brethren went to feed their 12 father's flock in [k]Shechem. And Israel 13 said unto Joseph, Do not thy brethren feed the flock in Shechem? come, and I will send thee unto them. And he said 14 to him, Here am I. And he said to him, Go, I pray thee, [†]see whether it be well with thy brethren, and well with the flocks; and bring me word again. So he sent him out of the vale of [l]Hebron, and 15 he came to Shechem. And a certain man found him, and behold, he was wandering in the field: and the man asked him, saying, What seekest thou? 16 And he said, I seek my brethren: tell me, I pray thee, where they feed their 17 flocks. And the man said, They are departed hence; for I heard them say, Let us go to Dothan. And Joseph went after his brethren, and found them in 18 [m]Dothan. And when they saw him afar off, even before he came near unto them, they conspired against him to slay him. 19 And they said one to another, Behold, 20 this [†]dreamer cometh. Come now therefore, and let us slay him, and cast him into some pit, and we will say, Some evil beast hath devoured him: and we shall see what will become of his dreams. 21 And [n]Reuben heard it, and he delivered him out of their hands; and said, Let us 22 not kill him. And Reuben said unto them, Shed no blood, but cast him into this pit that is in the wilderness, and lay no hand upon him, [o]that he might rid him out of their hands, to deliver him to 23 his father again. And it came to pass, when Joseph was come unto his brethren, that they stript Joseph out of his coat, his coat of many [‖]colours that was 24 on him; and they took him, and cast him into a pit: and the pit was empty, 25 there was no water in it. And they sat down to eat bread: and they lift up their eyes and looked, and behold, a company of [p]Ishmeelites came from Gilead with their camels bearing [q]spicery and [r]balm and myrrh, going to carry it 26 down to Egypt. And Judah said unto his brethren, What profit is it if we slay our brother, and [s]conceal his blood? 27 Come, and let us sell him to the Ishmeelites, and [t]let not our hand be upon him; for he is our brother and [u]our flesh. 28 And his brethren [†]were content. Then there passed by [w]Midianites merchantmen; and they drew and lift up Joseph out of the pit, [x]and sold Joseph to the Ishmeelites for twenty [y]pieces of silver: and they brought Joseph into Egypt. 29 And Reuben returned unto the pit; and

XXXVIII. And it came to pass at that time, that Judah went down from his brethren, and [a]turned in to a certain [b]Adullamite, 2 whose name was Hirah. And Judah saw there a daughter of a certain Canaanite, whose name was [c]Shuah; and he took her, and went in unto her. And 3 she conceived, and bare a son; and he called his name Er. And she conceived 4 again, and bare a son; and she called his name [d]Onan. And she yet again 5 conceived, and bare a son; and called his name Shelah: and he was at [e]Chezib, when she bare him. And Judah [f]took 6
a wife for Er his firstborn, whose name was Tamar. And Er, Judah's firstborn, 7 was wicked in the sight of the LORD;
[g]and the LORD slew him. And Judah 8 said unto Onan, Go in unto [h]thy brother's wife, and marry her, and raise up seed to thy brother. And Onan knew 9 that the seed should not be his; and it came to pass, when he went in unto his brother's wife, that he spilled it on the ground, lest that he should give seed to his brother. And the thing which he 10 did [t]displeased the LORD: wherefore he slew him also. Then said Judah to Ta- 11 mar his daughter in law, [i]Remain a widow at thy father's house, till Shelah my son be grown: for he said, Lest peradventure he die also, as his brethren did.
And Tamar went and dwelt [k]in her father's house. And [t]in process of time 12
the daughter of Shuah Judah's wife died;
and Judah [l]was comforted, and went up unto his sheepshearers to [m]Timnath, he and his friend Hirah the Adullamite.
13 And it was told Tamar, saying, Behold
thy father in law goeth up to [m]Timnath 14 to shear his sheep. And she put her widow's garments off from her, and covered her with a vail, and wrapped herself, and sat in [t]an open place, which is by the way to [m]Timnath; for she saw that Shelah was grown, and she was not given 15 unto him to wife. When Judah saw her,
he thought her to be a harlot; because 16 she had covered her face. And he

Go to, I pray thee, let me come in unto

And they said, There was no harlot in bout three months after, that it was told Judah, saying, Tamar thy daughter in law hath played the harlot; and also, behold, she is with child by whoredom.

And Judah said, Bring her forth, and [q]let

XXXIX.

And Joseph was brought down to Egypt; and [a]Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh, captain of the guard, an Egyptian, bought him of the hand of the [b]Ishmeelites, which had brought him down thither. And [c]the LORD was with Joseph, and he was a prosperous man; and he was in the house of his master the Egyptian. And his master saw that the 3
LORD was with him, and that the LORD [d]made all that he did to prosper in his hand. And Joseph [e]found grace in his 4 sight, and he served him: and he made him overseer over his house, and all that he had he put into his hand. And it 5 came to pass from the time that he had made him overseer in his house, and over all that he had, that the LORD blessed the Egyptian's house [f]for Joseph's sake; and the blessing of the LORD was upon all that he had in the house, and in the field. And he left all that he had 6 in Joseph's hand; and he knew not ought he had, save the bread which he did eat.
And Joseph [g]was a goodly person, and 7 well favoured. And it came to pass after these things, that his master's wife cast her eyes upon Joseph; and she said, Lie with me. But he refused, and said unto 8
his master's wife, Behold, my master wotteth not what is with me in the house, and [h]he hath committed all that he hath to my hand; there is none greater in this 9 house than I; neither hath he [i]kept back any thing from me but thee, because thou art his wife: how then can I do this great wickedness, and [k]sin against God? And it came to pass, as she spake 10 to Joseph day by day, that he hearkened not unto her, to lie by her, or to be with her. And it came to pass about this 11 time, that Joseph went into the house to do his business; and there was none of the men of the house there within. And 12
she caught him by his garment, saying, Lie with me: and he left his garment in her hand, and fled, and got him out.
And it came to pass, when she saw that 13
he had left his garment in her hand, and was fled forth, that she called unto the 14 men of her house, and spake unto them, saying, See, he hath brought in a Hebrew unto us to mock us; he came in unto me to lie with me, and I cried with a [t]loud voice: and it came to pass, when 15
he heard that I lifted up my voice and cried, that he left his garment with me, and fled, and got him out. And she laid 16 up his garment by her, until his lord came home. And she spake unto him 17
according to these words, saying, The Hebrew servant, which thou hast brought unto us, came in unto me to mock me:
and it came to pass, as I lift up my 18 voice and cried, that he left his garment with me, and fled out. And it came to 19 pass, when his master heard the words of his wife, which she spake unto him, saying, After this manner did thy servant to me; that his wrath was kindled. And 20 Joseph's master took him, and [l]put him into the [m]prison, a place where the king's prisoners were bound: and he was there in the [m]prison. But [n]the LORD was 21 with Joseph, and [t]shewed him mercy, and [o]gave him favour in the sight of the keeper of the prison. And the keeper 22 of the prison [p]committed to Joseph's hand all the prisoners that were in the prison; and whatsoever they did there, 23
he was the doer of it. The keeper of the prison looked not to any thing that was under his hand; because [q]the LORD was with him, and that which he did, the LORD made it to prosper.

XL.

And it came to pass after these things, 1
that the [a]butler of the king of Egypt and his baker had offended their lord the king of Egypt. And Pharaoh was wroth 2 against two of his [b]officers, against the chief of the butlers, and against the chief of the bakers. [c]And he put them in 3 ward in the house of the [d]captain of the guard, into the prison, the place where Joseph was bound. And the captain of 4
the guard [e]charged Joseph with them, and he served them: and they continued a season in ward. And they dreamed a 5 dream both of them, each man his dream in one night, each man according to the interpretation of his dream, the butler and the baker of the king of Egypt, which were bound in the prison. And Joseph came in unto them in the morning, and looked upon them, and behold, they were sad. And he asked Pharaoh's officers that were with him in the ward of his lord's house, saying, Wherefore [f]look ye so sadly to day? And they said unto him, [f]We have dreamed a dream, and there is no interpreter of it. And Joseph said unto them, [g]Do not interpretations belong to God? tell me them, I pray you. And the chief butler told his dream to Joseph, and said to him, In my dream, behold, a vine was before me; and in the vine were three branches: and it was as though it budded, and her blossoms shot forth; and the clusters thereof brought forth ripe grapes: and Pharaoh's cup was in my hand: and I took the grapes, and pressed them into Pharaoh's cup, and I gave the cup into Pharaoh's hand. And Joseph said unto him, [h]This is the interpretation of it: The three branches [i]are three days: yet within three days shall Pharaoh [k][l]lift up thine head, and restore thee unto thy place: and thou shalt deliver Pharaoh's cup into his hand, after the former manner when thou wast his butler. But [l]think on me when it shall be well with thee, and [l]shew kindness, I pray thee, unto me, and make mention of me unto Pharaoh, and bring me out of this house: for indeed I was stolen away out of the land of the Hebrews: [m]and here also have I done nothing that they should put me into the dungeon. When the chief baker saw that the interpretation was good, he said unto Joseph, I also was in my dream, and behold, I had three [t]white baskets on my head: and in the uppermost basket there was of all manner of [t]bakemeats for Pharaoh; and the birds did eat them out of the basket upon my head. And Joseph answered and said, [n]This is the interpretation thereof: The three baskets are three days: [o]yet within three days shall Pharaoh [l][l]lift up thy head from off thee, and shall hang thee on a tree; and the birds shall eat thy flesh from off thee. And it came to pass the third day, which was Pharaoh's [p]birthday, that he made a feast unto all his servants: and he [q][l]lifted up the head of the chief butler and of the chief baker among his servants. And he [r]restored the chief butler unto his butlership again; and [s]he gave the cup into Pharaoh's hand: but he [t]hanged the chief baker: as Joseph had interpreted to them. Yet did not the chief butler remember Joseph, but forgat him.

And it came to pass at the end of [a]two full years, that Pharaoh dreamed: and behold, he stood by the river. And behold, there came up out of the river seven well favoured kine and fatfleshed; and they fed in a [b]meadow. And behold, seven other kine came up after them out of the river, ill favoured and leanfleshed; and stood by the other kine upon the brink of the river. And the ill favoured and leanfleshed kine did eat up the seven well favoured and fat kine. So Pharaoh awoke. And he slept and dreamed the second time: and behold, seven ears of corn came up upon one stalk, [l]rank and good. And behold, seven thin ears and blasted with the east wind sprang up after them. And the seven thin ears devoured the seven rank and full ears. And Pharaoh awoke, and behold, it was a dream. And it came to pass in the morning [c]that his spirit was troubled; and he sent and called for all [d]the magicians of Egypt, and all the wise men thereof: and Pharaoh told them his dream; but there was none that could interpret them unto Pharaoh. Then spake the chief butler unto Pharaoh, saying, I do remember my faults this day: Pharaoh was [e]wroth with his servants, and put me in ward in the [f]captain of the guard's house, both me and the chief baker: and [g]we dreamed a dream in one night, I and he; we dreamed each man according to the interpretation of his dream. And there was there with us a young man, a Hebrew, servant to the captain of the guard; and we told him, and he [h]interpreted to us our dreams; to each man according to his dream he did interpret. And it came to pass, [i]as he interpreted to us, so it was; me he restored unto mine office, and him he hanged.

Then [k]Pharaoh sent and called Joseph, and they [l][l]brought him hastily [m]out of the dungeon: and he shaved himself, and changed his raiment, and came in unto Pharaoh. And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, I have [g]dreamed a dream, and there is none that can interpret it: [n]and I have heard say of thee, that [l]thou canst understand a dream to interpret it. And Joseph answered Pharaoh, saying, [o]It is not in me: [p]God shall give Pharaoh an answer of peace.

And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, [q]In my dream, behold, I stood upon the bank of the river: and behold, there came up out of the river seven kine, fatfleshed and well favoured; and they fed in a meadow: and behold, seven other kine came up after them, poor and very ill favoured and leanfleshed, such as I never saw in all the land of Egypt for badness: and the lean and the ill favoured kine did eat up the first seven fat kine: and when they had [†]eaten them up, it could not be known that they had [†]eaten them; but they were still ill favoured, as at the beginning. So I awoke. And I saw in my dream, and behold, seven ears came up in one stalk, full and good: and behold, seven ears, [‖]withered, thin, and blasted with the east wind, sprung up after them: and the thin ears devoured the seven good ears: and [r]I told this unto the magicians; but there was none that could declare it to me. And Joseph said unto Pharaoh, The dream of Pharaoh is one: [s]God hath shewed Pharaoh what he is about to do. The seven good kine are seven years; and the seven good ears are seven years: the dream is one. And the seven thin and ill favoured kine that came up after them are seven years; and the seven empty ears blasted with the east wind shall be [t]seven years of famine. [u]This is the thing which I have spoken unto Pharaoh: [u]What God is about to do he sheweth unto Pharaoh. Behold, there come [x]seven years of great plenty throughout all the land of Egypt: and there shall [y]arise after them seven years of famine; and all the plenty shall be forgotten in the land of Egypt; and the famine [z]shall consume the land; and the plenty shall not be known in the land by reason of that famine following; for it shall be very [†]grievous. And for that the dream was doubled unto Pharaoh twice; it is because the [a]thing is [‖]established by God, and God will shortly bring it to pass. Now therefore let Pharaoh look out a man discreet and wise, and set him over the land of Egypt. Let Pharaoh do this, and let him appoint [‖]officers over the land, and take up the fifth part of the land of Egypt in the seven plenteous years. And [b]let them gather all the food of those good years that come, and lay up corn under the hand of Pharaoh, and let them keep food in the cities. And 21 they did so. And they said one to another, [n]We are verily guilty concerning our brother, in that we saw the anguish of his soul, when he besought us, and we would not hear; therefore is this 22 distress come upon us. And Reuben answered them, saying, °Spake I not unto you, saying, Do not sin against the child; and ye would not hear? therefore, 23 behold, also his blood is Prequired. which was in their hand into the house, and [n] bowed themselves to him to the earth. And he asked them of their [t] wel- 27 fare, and said, [t] Is your father well, the old man [o] of whom ye spake? Is he yet alive? And they answered, Thy servant 28
our father is in good health, he is yet alive. And they bowed down their heads, and made obeisance. And he lift up 29
his eyes, and saw his brother Benjamin, [p] his mother's son, and said, Is this your younger brother, [q] of whom ye spake unto me? And he said, God be gracious unto thee, my son. And Joseph made 30 haste; for [r] his bowels did yern upon his brother: and he sought where to weep;
and he entered into his chamber, and [s] wept there. And he washed his face, 31
and went out, and [t] refrained himself, and said, Set on bread. And they set 32 on for him by himself, and for them by themselves, and for the Egyptians, which did eat with him, by themselves: because the Egyptians might not eat bread with the Hebrews; for that is [u] an abomination unto the Egyptians. And they sat 33 before him, the firstborn according to his birthright, and the youngest according to his youth: and the men marvelled one at another. And he took and sent [x] mess- 34 es unto them from before him: but Benjamin's mess was [y] five times so much as any of theirs. And they drunk, and [t] were merry with him.

XLIV. And he commanded [t] the steward of his house, saying, Fill the men's sacks
with food, as much as they can carry,
and put every man's money in his sack's mouth. And put my cup, the silver cup, 2 in the sack's mouth of the youngest, and his corn money. And he did according to the word that Joseph had spoken.
As soon as the morning was light, the 3 men were sent away, they and their asses. And when they were gone out of 4
the city, and not yet far off, Joseph said unto his steward, Up, follow after the men; and when thou dost overtake them, say unto them, Wherefore have ye re- 5
warded evil for good? Is not this it in which my lord drinketh, and whereby indeed he [l] divineth? ye have done evil in so doing. And he overtook them, and 6
he spake unto them these same words.
7 And they said unto him, Wherefore saith my lord these words? God forbid that thy servants should do according to this 8 thing: behold, [a] the money, which we found in our sacks' mouths, we brought again unto thee out of the land of Canaan: how then should we steal out of 9 thy lord's house silver or gold? With whom*soever* of thy servants it be found, [b] both let him die, and we also will be 10 my lord's bondmen. And he said, Now also let it be according unto your words:
he with whom it is found shall be my 11 servant; and ye shall be blameless. Then they speedily took down every man his sack to the ground, and opened every 12 man his sack. And he searched, and began at the eldest, and left at the youngest: and the cup was found in Ben-13 jamin's sack. Then they [c] rent their clothes, and laded every man his ass,
and returned to the city.
14 And Judah and his brethren came to Joseph's house; for he was yet there:
and they [d] fell before him on the ground.
15 And Joseph said unto them, What deed is this that ye have done? wot ye not that such a man as I can certainly [l] di-16 vine? And Judah said, What shall we say unto my lord? what shall we speak?
or how shall we clear ourselves? God hath found out the iniquity of thy servants: behold, [e] we are my lord's servants, both we, and he also with whom 17 the cup is found. And he said, God forbid that I should do so: but the man in whose hand the cup is found, he shall be my servant; and as for you, get you up 18 in peace unto your father. Then Judah came near unto him, and said, [f] O my lord, let thy servant, I pray thee, speak
a word in my lord's ears, and [g] let not thine anger burn against thy servant: for 19 thou art even as Pharaoh. My lord asked his servants, saying, Have ye a father, or 20 a brother? And we said unto my lord,
We have a father, an old man, and a child of his old age, [h] a little one; and his brother is dead, and he alone is left of his mother, and his father loveth him.
21 And thou saidst unto thy servants, [i] Bring him down unto me, that I may set mine 22 eyes upon him. And we said unto my lord, The lad cannot leave his father:
for if he should leave his father, [k] his fa-

thy servants, Except your youngest brother come down with you, ye shall see

XLVII. Then Joseph [a]came and told Pharaoh, and said, My father and my brethren, and their flocks, and their herds, and all that they have, are come out of the land of Canaan; and behold, they are in [b]the land of Goshen. And he took some of his brethren, even five men, and [c]presented them unto Pharaoh. And Pharaoh said unto his brethren, [d]What is your occupation? And they said unto Pharaoh, [e]Thy servants are shepherds, both we, and also our fathers. They said moreover unto Pharaoh, [f]For to sojourn in the land are we come; for thy servants have no pasture for their flocks; for the famine is sore in the land of Canaan: now therefore, we pray thee, let thy servants [g]dwell in the land of Goshen. And Pharaoh spake unto Joseph, saying, Thy father and thy brethren are come unto thee: [h]the land of Egypt is before thee; [i]in the best of the land make thy father and brethren to dwell; [k]in the land of Goshen let them dwell: and if thou knowest any man of activity amongst them, then make them rulers over my cattle. And Joseph brought in Jacob his father, and set him before Pharaoh: and Jacob blessed Pharaoh. And Pharaoh said unto Jacob, [†]How old art thou? And Jacob said unto Pharaoh, The days of the years of my [l]pilgrimage are an hundred and thirty years: few and evil have the days of the years of my life been, and [m]have not attained unto the days of the years of the life of my fathers in the days of their pilgrimage. And Jacob [n]blessed Pharaoh, and went out from before Pharaoh. And Joseph placed his father and his brethren, and gave them a possession in the land of Egypt, in the best of the land, in the land of [o]Rameses, [p]as Pharaoh had commanded. And Joseph [q]nourished his father, and his brethren, and all his father's household, with bread, [l†]according to their families.

And there was no bread in all the land; for the famine was very sore, so that the land of Egypt and all the land of Canaan fainted by reason of the famine. [r]And Joseph gathered up all the money that was found in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, for the corn which they bought: and Joseph brought the money into Pharaoh's house.

And when money failed in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, all the Egyptians came unto Joseph, and said, Give us bread: for [s]why should we die in thy presence? for the money faileth. And Joseph said, Give your cattle; and I will give you for your cattle, if money fail. And they brought their cattle unto Joseph: and Joseph gave them bread in exchange for horses, and for the flocks, and for the cattle of the herds, and for the asses: and he [†]fed them with bread for all their cattle for that year. When that year was ended, they came unto him the second year, and said unto him, We will not hide it from my lord, how that our money is spent; my lord also had our herds of cattle; there is not ought left in the sight of my lord, but our bodies, and our lands: wherefore shall we die before thine eyes, both we and our land? buy us and our land for bread, and we and our land will be servants unto Pharaoh: and give us seed, that we may live, and not die, that the land be not desolate.

And Joseph bought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh; for the Egyptians sold every man his field, because the famine prevailed over them: so the land became Pharaoh's. And as for the people, he removed them to cities from one end of the borders of Egypt even to the other end thereof. [t]Only the land of the [l]priests bought he not; for the priests had a portion assigned them of Pharaoh, and did eat their portion which Pharaoh gave them: wherefore they sold not their lands. Then Joseph said unto the people, Behold, I have bought you this day and your land for Pharaoh: lo, here is seed for you, and ye shall sow the land.

And it shall come to pass in the increase, that you shall give the fifth part unto Pharaoh, and four parts shall be your own, for seed of the field, and for your food, and for them of your households, and for food for your little ones.

And they said, Thou hast saved our lives: [u]let us find grace in the sight of my lord, and we will be Pharaoh's servants. And Joseph made it a law over the land of Egypt unto this day, that Pharaoh should have the fifth part; except the land of the [l]priests only, which became not Pharaoh's.

XLVIII. B.C. 1689 Heb. 1808? Gr.

And it came to pass after these things, that one told Joseph, Behold, thy father is sick: and he took with him his two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim. And one told 2 Jacob, and said, Behold, thy son Joseph cometh unto thee: and Israel strengthened himself, and sat upon the bed. And Jacob said unto Joseph, a God Al- 3 mighty appeared unto me at b Luz in the land of Canaan, and blessed me, and said unto me, Behold, I will make 4 thee fruitful, and multiply thee, and I will make of thee a multitude of people; and will give this land to thy seed after thee c for an everlasting possession. And 5 now thy d two sons, Ephraim and Manasseh, which were born unto thee in the land of Egypt before I came unto thee into Egypt, e are mine; as Reuben and Simeon, they shall be mine. And 6 thy issue, which thou begettest after them, shall be thine, and shall be called after the name of their brethren in their inheritance. And as for me, when I 7 came from Padan, f Rachel died by me in the land of Canaan in the way, when yet there was g but a little way to come unto Ephrath: and I buried her there in the way of Ephrath; the same is Bethlehem. And Israel beheld Joseph's sons, 8 and said, Who are these? And Joseph 9 said unto his father, h They are my sons, whom God hath given me in this p'lace. And he said, Bring them, I pray thee, unto me, and i I will bless them. Now 10 k the eyes of Israel were † dim for age, so that he could not see. And he brought them near unto him; and l he kissed them, and embraced them. And Israel 11 said unto Joseph, I had not thought to see thy face: and lo, God hath shewed 12 me also thy seed. And Joseph brought them out m from between his knees, and he bowed himself with his face to the 13 earth. And Joseph took them both, Ephraim in his right hand toward Israel's left hand, and Manasseh in his left hand towards Israel's right hand, and 14 brought them near unto him. And Israel stretched out his right hand, and laid it upon Ephraim's head, who was the younger, and his left hand upon Manasseh's head, n guiding his hands wittingly; for Manasseh was the firstborn. 15 And he blessed Joseph, and said, God, o before whom my fathers Abraham and Isaac did walk, the God which fed me 16 all my life long unto this day, p the Angel which q redeemed me from all evil, bless the lads; and let r my name be named on them, and the name of my fathers Abraham and Isaac; and let them † grow into a multitude in the midst 17 of the earth. And when Joseph saw that his father laid his right hand upon the head of Ephraim, it ‖ displeased him: and he held up his father's hand, to remove it from Ephraim's head unto Ma- 18 nasseh's head. And Joseph said unto his father, Not so, my father: for this is the firstborn; put thy right hand upon 19 his head. And his father refused, and said, s I know it, my son, I know it: he also shall become a people, and he also shall be great: but truly t his younger brother shall be greater than he, and his seed shall become a † multitude of 20 nations. And he blessed them that day, saying, u In thee shall Israel bless, saying, God make thee as Ephraim and as Manasseh: and he set Ephraim before 21 Manasseh. And Israel said unto Joseph, Behold, I die: but x God shall be with you, and bring you again unto the 22 land of your fathers. Moreover I have given to y thee one portion above thy brethren, which I took out of the hand of the Amorite with my sword and with my bow.

Sarah his wife; [a]there they buried Isaac and Rebekah his wife; and there I buried Leah. The purchase of the field 32 and of the cave that is therein was from the children of Heth. And when Jacob 33 had made an end of commanding his sons, he gathered up his feet into the bed, and yielded up the ghost, and [b]was gathered unto his people.

L. And Joseph [a]fell upon his father's face, and wept upon him, and kissed him. And Joseph commanded his ser- 2 vants the physicians to [b]embalm his father: and the physicians embalmed Israel. And forty days were fulfilled for 3 him; for so are fulfilled the days of those which are embalmed: and the Egyptians [f]mourned for him [c]threescore and ten days. And when the days of his mourn- 4 ing were past, Joseph spake unto the house of Pharaoh, saying, [d]If now I have found grace in your eyes, speak, I pray you, in the ears of Pharaoh, saying, My 5 father made me swear, saying, Lo, I die: in my grave [e]which I have digged for me in the land of Canaan, there shalt thou bury me. Now therefore let me go up, I pray thee, and bury my father, and I will come again. And Pharaoh said, 6 Go up, and bury thy father, according as he made thee swear. And Joseph 7 went up to bury his father: and with him went up all the servants of Pharaoh, the elders of his house, and all the elders of the land of Egypt, and all the house of 8 Joseph, and his brethren, and his father's house: only their little ones, and their flocks, and their herds, they left [f]in the land of Goshen. And there went up 9 with him both chariots and horsemen: and it was a very great company. And 10 they came to the threshingfloor of Atad, which is beyond Jordan, and there they mourned with a great and very sore lamentation: and he made a mourning for his father seven days. And when 11 the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, saw the mourning in the floor of Atad, they said, This is a grievous mourning to the Egyptians: wherefore the name of it was called [l]Abel-mizraim, which is beyond Jordan. And his sons 12 did unto him according as he commanded them: for [g]his sons carried him into 13 the land of Canaan, and buried him in the cave of the field of Machpelah, which Abraham [h]bought with the field for a possession of a buryingplace of Ephron the Hittite, before Mamre. And Joseph 14 returned into Egypt, he, and his brethren, and all that went up with him to bury his father, after he had buried his father.

And when Joseph's brethren saw that 15 their father was dead, they said, Joseph will peradventure [i]hate us, and will certainly requite us all the evil which we did unto him. And they [t]sent a mes- 16 senger unto Joseph, saying, Thy father did command before he died, saying, So 17 shall ye say unto Joseph, Forgive, I pray thee now, the trespass of thy brethren, and their sin; for they did unto thee evil: and now, we pray thee, forgive the trespass of the servants of [k]the God of thy father. And Joseph wept when they 18 spake unto him. And his brethren also went and fell down before his face; and they said, Behold, we be thy servants. And Joseph said unto them, Fear not: 19 20 [l]for am I in the place of God? But as for you, ye thought evil against me; but [m]God meant it unto good, to bring to pass, as it is this day, to save much peo- 21 ple alive. Now therefore fear ye not: [n]I will nourish you and your little ones. And he comforted them, and spake [t]kindly unto them.

And Joseph dwelt in Egypt, he, and 22 his father's house: and Joseph lived an 23 hundred and ten years. And Joseph saw Ephraim's children of the third generation: [o]the children also of Machir the son of Manasseh were [t]brought up upon 24 Joseph's knees. And Joseph said unto his brethren, I die: and [p]God will surely visit you, and bring you out of this land unto the land [q]which he sware to Abra- 25 ham, to Isaac, and to Jacob. And [r]Joseph took an oath of the children of Israel, saying, God will surely visit you, and ye shall carry up my bones from 26 hence. So Joseph died, being an hundred and ten years old: and they [s]embalmed him, and he was put in a coffin in Egypt.

THE SECOND BOOK OF MOSES,

CALLED

EXODUS.

I.

NOW [a]these are the names of the children of Israel, which came into Egypt; every man and his household came with Jacob. Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah, Issachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin, Dan, and Naphtali, Gad, and Asher. And all the souls that came out of the [†]loins of Jacob were [b]seventy souls: for Joseph was in Egypt already. And [c]Joseph died, and all his brethren, and all that generation.

[d]And the children of Israel were fruitful, and increased abundantly, and multiplied, and waxed exceeding mighty; and the land was filled with them. Now there arose up a new king over Egypt, [e]which knew not Joseph. And he said unto his people, Behold, [f]the people of the children of Israel are moe and mightier than we: [g]come on, let us [h]deal wisely with them; lest they multiply, and it come to pass, that, when there falleth out any war, they join also unto our enemies, and fight against us, and so get them up out of the land. Therefore they did set over them [i]taskmasters to afflict them with their [k]burdens. And they built for Pharaoh [l]treasure cities, Pithom and Raamses. [†]But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and [m]grew. And they [n]were grieved because of the children of Israel. And the Egyptians made the children of Israel to serve with rigour: and they made their lives bitter with hard bondage, in morter, and in brick, and in all manner of service in the field: all their service, wherein they made them serve, was with rigour.

And the king of Egypt spake to the Hebrew midwives, of which the name of the one was Shiphrah, and the name of the other Puah: and he said, When ye do the office of a midwife to the Hebrew women, and see them upon the stools; if it be a son, then ye shall kill him: but if it be a daughter, then she shall live. But the midwives [o]feared God, and did not [p]as the king of Egypt commanded them, but saved the men children alive. And the king of Egypt called for the midwives, and said unto them, Why have ye done this thing, and have saved the men children alive? And the midwives said unto Pharaoh, Because the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women; for they are lively, and are delivered ere the midwives come in unto them. [q]Therefore God dealt well with the midwives: and the people multiplied, and waxed very mighty. And it came to pass, because the midwives feared God, [r]that he made them houses. And Pharaoh charged all his people, saying, [s]Every son that is born ye shall cast into the river, and every daughter ye shall save alive.

II.

And there went [a]a man of the house of Levi, and took to wife a daughter of Levi. And the woman conceived, and bare a son: and [b]when she saw him that he was a goodly child, she hid him three months. And when she could not longer hide him, she took for him an ark [c]of bulrushes, and daubed it with slime and with pitch, and put the child therein; and she laid it in [d]the flags by the river's brink. And [e]his sister stood afar off, to wit what would be done to him. And the [f]daughter of Pharaoh came down to wash herself at the river; and her maidens walked along by the river's side; and when she saw the ark among the flags, she sent her maid to fetch it. And when she had opened it, she saw the child: and behold, the babe wept. And she had compassion on him, and said, This is one of the Hebrews' children. Then said his sister to Pharaoh's 7 daughter, Shall I go and call to thee a nurse of the Hebrew women, that she may nurse the child for thee? And Pha- 8 raoh's daughter said to her, Go. And the maid went and called the child's mother. And Pharaoh's daughter said unto 9 her, Take this child away, and nurse it for me, and I will give thee thy wages. And the woman took the child, and nursed it. And the child grew, and she 10 brought him unto Pharaoh's daughter, and he became [g]her son. And she called his name [i]Moses: and she said, Because I drew him out of the water.

And it came to pass in those days, 11
[h]when Moses was grown, that he went out unto his brethren, and looked on their [i]burdens: and he spied an Egyptian smiting a Hebrew, one of his brethren. And he looked this way and that way, 12 and when he saw that there was no man, he slew the Egyptian, and hid him in the sand. And [k]when he went out the 13 second day, behold, two men of the Hebrews strove together: and he said to him that did the wrong, Wherefore smitest thou thy fellow? And he said, Who 14 made thee [l]a prince and a judge over us? intendest thou to kill me, as thou killedst the Egyptian? And Moses feared, and said, Surely this thing is known. Now when Pharaoh heard this thing, he 15 sought to slay Moses. But [l]Moses fled from the face of Pharaoh, and dwelt in the land of Midian: and he sat down by [m]a well. Now the [l]priest of Midian had 16 seven daughters: [n]and they came and [o]drew water, and filled the [p]troughs to water their father's flock. And the shep- 17 herds came and drove them away: but Moses stood up and helped them, and [q]watered their flock. And when they 18 came to [r]Reuel their father, he said, How is it that you are come so soon to day? And they said, An Egyptian de- 19 livered us out of the hand of the shepherds, and also drew water enough for us, and watered the flock. And he said 20 unto his daughters, And where is he? why is it that ye have left the man? call him, that he may [s]eat bread. And Mo- 21 ses was content to dwell with the man: and he gave Moses [t]Zipporah his daughter. And she bare him a son, and he 22 called his name [l]Gershom: for he said, I have been a stranger in a strange land.

23 And it came to pass [u]in process of time, that the king of Egypt died: and the children of Israel [x]sighed by reason of the bondage, and they cried, and [y]their cry came up unto God by reason 24 of the bondage. And God [z]heard their groaning, and God [a]remembered his covenant with [b]Abraham, with Isaac, and 25 with [b]Jacob. And God [c]looked upon the children of Israel, and God [f][d]had respect unto them.

2 of God, even to Horeb. And [c]the angel (Heb.).
of the LORD appeared unto him in a flame of fire out of the midst of [d]a bush: and he looked, and behold, the bush burned with fire, and the bush was not 3 consumed. And Moses said, I will now turn aside, and see this great sight, why
4 the bush is not burnt. And when the LORD saw that he turned aside to see, God called unto him out of the midst of the bush, and said, Moses, Moses. And 5 he said, Here am I. And he said, Draw not nigh hither: [e]put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou
6 standest is holy ground. Moreover he said, [f]I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. And Moses hid his face; for [g]he was afraid to look
7 upon God. And the LORD said, [h]I have surely seen the affliction of my people which are in Egypt, and have heard their [i]cry by reason of their taskmasters; for I
8 [k]know their sorrows; and [k]I am come down to [l]deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that land [m]unto a good land and a large, unto a land [n]flowing with milk and honey; unto the place of [o]the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites,
9 and the Jebusites. Now therefore, behold, [p]the cry of the children of Israel is come unto me: and I have also seen the oppression wherewith the Egyptians op-
10 press them. Come now therefore, and I will send thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring forth my people the chil-
11 dren of Israel out of Egypt. And Moses said unto God, [q]Who am I, that I should go unto Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt?

IV.

1 And Moses answered and said, But behold, they will not believe me, nor hearken unto my voice: for they will say, The LORD hath not appeared unto 2 thee. And the LORD said unto him, What is that in thine hand? And he 3 said, aA rod. And he said, Cast it on the ground. And he cast it on the ground, and it became a serpent; and 4 Moses fled from before it. And the LORD said unto Moses, Put forth thine hand, and take it by the tail. And he put forth his hand, and caught it, and it 5 became a rod in his hand: that they may bbelieve that cthe LORD God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath ap- 6 peared unto thee. And the LORD said furthermore unto him, Put now thine hand into thy bosom. And he put his hand into his bosom: and when he took it out, behold, his hand was leprous das 7 snow. And he said, Put thine hand into thy bosom again. And he put his hand into his bosom again; and plucked it out of his bosom, and behold, eit was 8 turned again as his other flesh. And it shall come to pass, if they will not believe thee, neither hearken to the voice of the first sign, that they will believe 9 the voice of the latter sign. And it shall come to pass, if they will not believe also these two signs, neither hearken unto thy voice, that thou shalt take of the water of the river, and pour it upon the dry land: and fthe water which thou takest out of the river tshall become 10 blood upon the dry land. And Moses said unto the LORD, O my Lord, I am not teloquent, neither theretofore, nor since thou hast spoken unto thy servant: but gI am slow of speech, and of a slow 11 tongue. And the LORD said unto him, Who hath made man's mouth? or who maketh the dumb, or deaf, or the seeing, or the blind? have not I the LORD? 12 Now therefore go, and I will be hwith thy mouth, and teach thee what thou 13 shalt say. And he said, O my Lord, send, I pray thee, by the hand i*of him* 14 whom thou lwilt send. And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Moses, and he said, Is not Aaron the Levite thy brother? I know that he can speak well. And also, behold, he cometh forth to meet thee: and when he seeth thee, 15 he will be glad in his heart. spokesman unto the people: and he shall be, even he shall be to thee instead of a mouth, and [m]thou shalt be to him instead of God. And thou shalt take [n]this rod in thine hand, wherewith thou shalt do signs. And Moses went and returned to [t]Jethro his father in law, and said unto him, Let me go, I pray thee, and return unto my brethren which are in Egypt, and see whether they be yet alive. And Jethro said to Moses, Go in peace. And the LORD said unto Moses in Midian, Go, return into Egypt: for [o]all the men are dead which sought thy life. And Moses took his wife and his sons, and set them upon an ass, and he returned to the land of Egypt: and Moses took [p]the rod of God in his hand. And the LORD said unto Moses, When thou goest to return into Egypt, see that thou do all those [q]wonders before Pharaoh, which I have put in thine hand: but [r]I will harden his heart, that he shall not let the people go. And thou shalt say unto Pharaoh, Thus saith the LORD, [s]Israel is my son, [t]even my firstborn: and I say unto thee, Let my son go, that he may serve me: and if thou refuse to let him go, behold, [u]I will slay thy son, even thy firstborn.

And it came to pass by the way [x]in the inn, that the LORD [y]met him, and sought to kill him. Then Zipporah took [l]a sharp stone, and cut off the foreskin of her son, and [t]cast it at his feet, and said, Surely a bloody husband art thou to me. So he [z]let him go: then she said, A bloody husband thou art, because of the circumcision. And the LORD said to Aaron, Go into the wilderness [a]to meet Moses. And he went, and met him in [b]the mount of God, and kissed him. And Moses [c]told Aaron all the words of the LORD who had sent him, and all the [d]signs which he had commanded him. And Moses and Aaron [e]went and gathered together all the elders of the children of Israel: [f]and Aaron spake all the words which the LORD had spoken unto Moses, and did the signs in the sight of the people. And the people [g]believed: and when they heard that the LORD had [h]visited the children of Israel, and that he [i]had looked upon their affliction, then [k]they bowed their heads and worshipped.

V. And afterward Moses and Aaron went in, and told Pharaoh, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Let my people go, that they may hold [a]a feast unto me in the wilderness. And Pharaoh said, [b]Who is the LORD, that I should obey his voice to let Israel go? I know not the LORD, neither will I let Israel go. And they said, [c]The God of the Hebrews hath met with us: let us go, we pray thee, three days' journey into the desert, and sacrifice unto the LORD our God; lest [d]he fall upon us with pestilence, or with the sword. And the king of Egypt said unto them, Wherefore do ye, Moses and Aaron, let the people from their works? get you unto your [e]burdens. And Pharaoh said, Behold, the people of the land now are many, and you make them rest from their [e]burdens. And Pharaoh commanded the same day the [f]taskmasters of the people, and [g]their officers, saying, Ye shall no more give the people straw to make brick, as [h]heretofore: let them go and gather straw for themselves. And the tale of the bricks, which they did make [h]heretofore, you shall lay upon them; you shall not diminish ought thereof: for they be idle; therefore they cry, saying, Let us go and sacrifice to our God. [l]Let there more work be laid upon the men, that they may labour therein; and let them not regard vain words. And the taskmasters of the people went out, and their officers, and they spake to the people, saying, Thus saith Pharaoh, I will not give you straw. Go ye, get you straw where you can find it: yet not ought of your work shall be diminished. So the people were scattered abroad throughout all the land of Egypt to gather stubble instead of straw. And the taskmasters hasted them, saying, Fulfil your works, [t]your daily tasks, as when there was straw. And the officers of the children of Israel, which Pharaoh's taskmasters had set over them, were beaten, and demanded, Wherefore have ye not fulfilled your task in making brick both yesterday and to day, as [i]heretofore? Then the officers of the children of Israel came and cried unto Pharaoh, saying, Wherefore dealest thou thus with thy servants? There is no straw given unto thy servants, and they say to us, Make brick: and behold, thy servants are beaten; but the fault is in thine own people. But he said, Ye are idle, ye are idle: therefore ye say, Let us go and do sacrifice to the LORD. Go therefore now, and work; for there shall no straw be given you, yet shall ye deliver the tale of bricks. And the officers of the children of Israel did see that they were in evil case, after it was said, Ye shall not minish ought from your bricks of [k]your daily task. And 20 they met Moses and Aaron, who stood in the way, as they came forth from Pharaoh: [l]and they said unto them, The 21 LORD look upon you, and judge; because you have made our savour [t]to be abhorred in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his servants, to put a sword in their hand to slay us.

And Moses returned unto the LORD, 22 and said, Lord, wherefore hast thou so evil entreated this people? why is it that thou hast sent me? For since I 23 came to Pharaoh to speak in thy name, he hath done evil to this people; [t]neither hast thou delivered thy people at all. Then the LORD said unto Moses, Now shalt thou see what I will do to Pharaoh: for [a]with a strong hand shall he let them go, and with a strong hand [b]shall he drive them out of his land.

And God spake unto Moses, and said 2 unto him, I am [||]the LORD: and I ap- 3 peared unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, by the name of [c]God Almighty, but by my name [d]JEHOVAH was I not known to them. [e]And I 4 have also established my covenant with them, [f]to give them the land of Canaan, the land of their pilgrimage, wherein they were strangers. And [g]I have also 5 heard the groaning of the children of Israel, whom the Egyptians keep in bondage; and I have remembered my covenant. Wherefore say unto the chil- 6 dren of Israel, [h]I am the LORD, and [i]I will bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians, and I will rid you out of their bondage, and I will [k]redeem you with a stretched out arm, and with great judgments: and I will 7 [l]take you to me for a people, and [m]I will be to you a God: and ye shall know that I am the LORD your God, which bringeth you out [n]from under the burdens of the Egyptians. And I will bring 8 you in unto the land, concerning the which I did [o]swear to give it to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob; and I will give it you for an heritage: I am the LORD. And Moses spake so unto the 9 children of Israel: [p]but they hearkened not unto Moses for [t]anguish of spirit, and for cruel bondage.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, say- 10 ing, Go in, speak unto Pharaoh king of 11 Egypt, that he let the children of Israel go out of his land. And Moses spake 12 before the LORD, saying, Behold, the children of Israel have [q]not hearkened unto me; how then shall Pharaoh hear me, [r]who am of uncircumcised lips? And the LORD spake unto Moses and 13 unto Aaron, and gave them a charge unto the children of Israel, and unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

And it came to pass on the day when 28
the LORD spake unto Moses in the land of Egypt, that the LORD spake unto 29
Moses, saying, [n]I am the LORD: [o]speak thou unto Pharaoh king of Egypt all that I say unto thee. And Moses said 30 before the LORD, Behold, [p]I am of uncircumcised lips, and how shall Pharaoh hearken unto me? And the LORD said unto Moses, See, I have made thee [a]a god to Pharaoh: and Aaron thy brother shall be [b]thy prophet. Thou [c]shalt speak 2
all that I command thee: and Aaron thy brother shall speak unto Pharaoh, that he send the children of Israel out of his land. And [d]I will harden Pharaoh's 3 heart, and [e]multiply [f]my signs and [e]my wonders in the land of Egypt. But 4
Pharaoh shall not hearken unto you,
[g]that I may lay my hand upon Egypt,
and bring forth mine armies, and my people the children of Israel, out of the land of Egypt [g]by great judgments.
And the Egyptians [h]shall know that I 5
am the LORD, when I stretch forth mine hand upon Egypt, and bring out the children of Israel from among them.
And Moses and Aaron did as the LORD 6 commanded them, so did they. And 7
Moses was [i]fourscore years old, and Aaron fourscore and three years old,
when they spake unto Pharaoh.

And the LORD spake unto Moses and 8
unto Aaron, saying, When Pharaoh shall 9 speak unto you, saying, [k]Shew a miracle
for you: then thou shalt say unto Aaron,
Take thy rod, and cast it before Pharaoh, and it shall become a [l]serpent.
And Moses and Aaron went in unto 10
Pharaoh, and they did so as the LORD
had commanded: and Aaron cast down his rod before Pharaoh, and before his servants, and it became a serpent. Then 11
Pharaoh also called [m]the wise men and [n]the sorcerers: now [m]the magicians of Egypt, they also did in like manner with their enchantments. For they cast down 12 every man his rod, and they became serpents: but Aaron's rod swallowed up their rods. And [o]he hardened Pharaoh's 13 heart, that he hearkened not unto them;
as the LORD had said.

And the LORD said unto Moses, Pha- 14
raoh's heart is hardened, he refuseth to let the people go. Get thee unto Pha- 15
raoh in the morning; lo, he goeth out unto the water; and thou shalt stand by the river's brink against he come; and [p]the rod which was turned to a serpent shalt thou take in thine hand. And 16
thou shalt say unto him, [q]The LORD God of the Hebrews hath sent me unto thee, saying, Let my people go, [r]that they may serve me in the wilderness:
and behold, [s]hitherto thou wouldest not hear. Thus saith the LORD, In this 17
[s]thou shalt know that I am the LORD:
behold, I will smite with the rod that is in mine hand upon the waters which are in the river, and they shall be turned [t]to blood. And the fish that is in the river 18 shall die, and the river shall stink; and the Egyptians shall [u]lothe to drink of the water of the river. And the LORD 19
spake unto Moses, Say unto Aaron, Take thy rod, and [x]stretch out thine hand upon the waters of Egypt, upon their streams, upon their rivers, and upon their ponds, and upon all their [†]pools
of water, that they may become blood;
and that there may be blood throughout all the land of Egypt, both in vessels of wood, and in vessels of stone. And Mo- 20 ses and Aaron did so, as the LORD commanded; and he [y]lift up the rod, and smote the waters that were in the river,
in the sight of Pharaoh, and in the sight of his servants; and all the [z]waters that were in the river were turned to blood.
And the fish that was in the river died; 21
and the river stunk, and the Egyptians [a]could not drink of the water of the river; and there was blood throughout all the land of Egypt. [b]And the magi- 22
cians of Egypt did so with their en-chantments: and [c]Pharaoh's heart was hardened, neither did he hearken unto them; [d]as the Lord had said. And 23
Pharaoh turned and went into his house,
neither did he set his heart to this also.
And all the Egyptians digged round 24
about the river for water to drink; for they could not drink of the water of the river. And seven days were fulfilled, 25 after that the LORD had smitten the river.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, Go VIII.
unto Pharaoh, and say unto him, Thus saith the LORD, Let my people go, [a]that they may serve me. And if thou [b]refuse 2 to let them go, behold, I will smite all thy borders with [c]frogs: and the river 3 shall bring forth frogs abundantly, which shall go up and come into thine house,
and into [d]thy bedchamber, and upon thy bed, and into the house of thy servants,
and upon thy people, and into thine
ovens, and into thy [‖]kneadingtroughs:

20 And the LORD said unto Moses, [r]Rise [r] ch. 7. 15. & 9. 13. up early in the morning, and stand be-water; and say unto him, Thus saith the

IX. Then the LORD said unto Moses, [a]Go [a] ch. 8. 1, 2. in unto Pharaoh, and tell him, Thus saith [b]the LORD God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may serve me. For if thou refuse to let them go, and wilt hold them still, behold, the [c]hand of the LORD is upon thy cattle which is in the field, upon the horses, upon the asses, upon the camels, upon the oxen, and upon the sheep: there shall be a very grievous murrain. And [d]the LORD shall sever between the cattle of Israel and the cattle of Egypt: and there shall nothing die of all that is the children's of Israel. And the LORD appointed a set time, saying, To morrow the LORD shall do this thing in the land. And the LORD did that thing on the morrow, and [e]all the cattle of Egypt died: but of the cattle of the children of Israel died not one. And Pharaoh sent, and behold, there was not one of the cattle of the Israelites dead. And [f]the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, and he did not let the people go.

And the LORD said unto Moses and unto Aaron, Take to you handfuls of ashes of the furnace, and let Moses sprinkle it towards the heaven in the sight of Pharaoh. And it shall become small dust in all the land of Egypt, and shall be [g]a boil breaking forth with blains upon man, and upon beast, throughout all the land of Egypt. And they took ashes of the furnace, and stood before Pharaoh; and Moses sprinkled it [h]up toward heaven; and it became a boil breaking forth with blains upon man, and upon beast. And the [i]magicians could not stand before Moses because of the boils; for the boil was upon the magicians, and upon all the Egyptians. [k]And the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh, and he hearkened not unto them; as the LORD had spoken unto Moses.

And the LORD said unto Moses, [l]Rise up early in the morning, and stand before Pharaoh, and say unto him, Thus saith [m]the LORD God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may serve me. For I will at this time send all my plagues upon thine heart, and upon thy servants, and upon thy people; [n]that thou mayest know that there is none like me in all the earth. For now I will stretch out my hand, that I may smite thee and thy people with pestilence; and thou shalt be cut off from the earth. And in very deed for [o]this cause have I [p]raised thee up, for to shew in thee my power; and that my name may be declared throughout all the earth. As yet exaltest thou thyself against my people, that thou wilt not let them go? Behold, to morrow about this time I will cause it to rain a very grievous hail, such as hath not been in Egypt since the foundation thereof even until now. Send therefore now, and gather thy cattle, and all that thou hast in the field; for upon every man and beast which shall be found in the field, and shall not be brought home, the hail shall come down upon them, and they shall die. He that feared the word of the LORD amongst the servants of Pharaoh made his servants and his cattle flee into the houses: and he that [t]regarded not the word of the LORD left his servants and his cattle in the field. And the LORD said unto Moses, Stretch forth thine hand toward heaven, that there may be [p]hail in all the land of Egypt, upon man, and upon beast, and upon every herb of the field, throughout the land of Egypt. And Moses stretched forth his rod toward heaven: and [q]the LORD sent thunder and hail, and the fire ran along upon the ground; and the LORD rained hail upon the land of Egypt. So there was hail, and [r]fire mingled with the hail, very grievous, such as there was none like it in all the land of Egypt since it became a nation. And the hail smote throughout all the land of Egypt all that was in the field, both man and beast; and the hail [s]smote every herb of the field, and [s]brake every tree of the field. [t]Only in the land of Goshen, where the children of Israel were, was there no hail. And Pharaoh sent, and called for Moses and Aaron, and said unto them, [u]I have sinned this time: [x]the LORD is righteous, and I and my people are wicked. [y]Intreat the LORD (for it is enough) that there be no more [f]mighty thunderings and hail; and I will let you go, and ye shall stay no longer. And Moses said unto him, As soon as I am gone out of the city, I will [z]spread abroad my hands unto the LORD; and the thunder shall cease, neither shall there be any more hail; that thou mayest know how that the [a]earth is the LORD'S. But as for thee and thy servants, I know that ye will not yet fear the LORD God. And the flax and the barley was smitten: [b]for the barley was in the ear, and the flax was boiled.

But the wheat and the rye were not smitten: for they were [f]not grown up. And Moses went out of the city from Pharaoh, and [c]spread abroad his hands unto the LORD: and the thunders and hail ceased, and the rain was not poured upon the earth. And when Pharaoh saw that the rain and the hail and the thunders were ceased, he sinned yet more, and hardened his heart, [d]he and his servants. And [e]the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, neither would he let the children of Israel go; as the LORD had spoken [f]by Moses.

X. And the LORD said unto Moses, Go in unto Pharaoh: [a]for I have hardened his heart, and the heart of his servants, that I might shew these my signs before him: and that [b]thou mayest tell in the ears of thy son, and of thy son's son, what things [c]I have wrought in Egypt, and my signs which I have done amongst them; that ye may know how that I am the LORD. And Moses and Aaron came in unto Pharaoh, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD God of the Hebrews, How long wilt thou refuse to humble thyself before me? let my people go, that they may serve me. Else, if thou refuse to let my people go, behold, to morrow will I bring the [d]locusts into thy coast: and they shall cover the [f]face of the earth, that one cannot be able to see the earth: and [e]they shall eat the residue of that which is escaped which remaineth unto you from the hail, and shall eat every tree which groweth for you out of the field: and they [f]shall fill thy houses, and the houses of all thy servants, and the houses of all the Egyptians; which neither thy fathers, nor thy fathers' fathers have seen, since the day that they were upon the earth unto this day. And he turned himself, and went out from Pharaoh. And Pharaoh's servants said unto him, How long shall this man be [g]a snare unto us? let the men go, that they may serve the LORD their God: knowest thou not yet that Egypt is destroyed? And Moses and Aaron were brought again unto Pharaoh: and he said unto them, Go, serve the LORD your God: but [f]who are they that shall go? And Moses said, We will go with our young and with our old, with our sons and with our daughters, with our flocks and with our herds will we go; for [h]we must hold a feast unto the LORD. And he said unto them, Let the LORD be so with you, as I will let you go, and your little ones: look to it; for evil is before you. Not so: go now ye that are men, and serve the LORD; for that you did desire. And they were driven out from Pharaoh's presence. And the LORD said unto Moses, [i]Stretch out thine hand over the land of Egypt for the locusts, that they may come up upon the land of Egypt, and [k]eat every herb of the land, even all that the hail hath left. And Moses stretched forth his rod over the land of Egypt, and the LORD brought an east wind upon the land all that day, and all that night; and when it was morning, the east wind brought the locusts. And [l]the locusts went up over all the land of Egypt, and rested in all the coasts of Egypt: very grievous were they; [m]before them there were no such locusts as they, neither after them shall be such. For they covered the [n]face of the whole earth, so that the land was darkened; and they [o]did eat every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees which the hail had left: and there remained not any green thing in the trees, or in the herbs of the field, through all the land of Egypt. Then Pharaoh [f]called for Moses and Aaron in haste; and he said, [p]I have sinned against the LORD your God, and against you. Now therefore forgive, I pray thee, my sin only this once, and [q]intreat the LORD your God, that he may take away from me this death only. And he [r]went out from Pharaoh, and intreated the LORD. And the LORD turned a mighty strong west wind, which took away the locusts, and [f]cast them [s]into the Red sea; there remained not one locust in all the coasts of Egypt. But the LORD [t]hardened Pharaoh's heart, so that he would not let the children of Israel go. And the LORD said unto Moses, [u]Stretch out thine hand toward heaven, that there may be darkness over the land of Egypt, [f]even darkness which may be felt. And Moses stretched forth his hand toward heaven; and there was a [x]thick darkness in all the land of Egypt three days: they saw not one another, neither rose any from his place for three days: [y]but all the children of Israel had light in their dwellings. And Pharaoh called unto Moses, and [z]said, Go ye, serve the LORD; only let your flocks and your herds be stayed: let your [a]little ones also go with you. And Moses said,

XI.

(And the LORD said unto Moses, Yet will I bring [a]one plague more upon Pharaoh, and upon Egypt; afterwards he will let you go hence: [b]when he let you go, he shall surely thrust you out hence altogether. Speak now in the 2 ears of the people, and let every man [c]borrow of his neighbour, and every woman of her neighbour, jewels of silver, and jewels of gold. [d]And the LORD 3 gave the people favour in the sight of the Egyptians. Moreover the man [e]Moses was very great in the land of Egypt, in the sight of Pharaoh's servants, and in the sight of the people.) And Moses 4 said, Thus saith the LORD, [f]About midnight will I go out into the midst of Egypt: and all the firstborn in the land 5 of Egypt shall die, from the firstborn of Pharaoh that sitteth upon his throne, even unto the firstborn of the maidservant [g]that is behind the mill; and all the firstborn of beasts. [h]And there shall be 6
a great cry throughout all the land of Egypt, such as there was none like it, nor shall be like it any more. [i]But 7 against any of the children of Israel [k]shall not a dog move his tongue, against man or beast: that ye may know how that the LORD doth put a difference between the Egyptians and Israel. And 8 [l]all these thy servants shall come down unto me, and bow down themselves unto me, saying, Get thee out, and all the people [f]that follow thee: and after that I will go out. And he went out from Pharaoh in [f]a great anger. And the LORD 9 said unto Moses, [m]Pharaoh shall not hearken unto you; that [n]my wonders may be multiplied in the land of Egypt. And 10
Moses and Aaron did all these wonders before Pharaoh: [o]and the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart, so that he would not let the children of Israel go out of his land.

And the LORD spake unto Moses and XII.
Aaron in the land of Egypt, saying,
2 [a]This month shall be unto you the beginning of months: it shall be the first
3 month of the year to you. Speak ye unto all the congregation of Israel, saying, In the tenth day of this month they shall take to them every man a [l]lamb, according to the house of their fathers, a
4 [l]lamb for a house: and if the household be too little for the lamb, let him and his neighbour next unto his house take it according to the number of the souls; every man according to his eating shall
5 make your count for the lamb. Your lamb shall be [b]without blemish, a male [f]of the first year: ye shall take it out
6 from the sheep, or from the goats: and ye shall keep it up until the [c]fourteenth day of the same month: and the whole assembly of the congregation of Israel
7 shall kill it [f]in the evening. And they shall take of the blood, and strike it on the two side posts and on the upper door post of the houses, wherein they
8 shall eat it. And they shall eat the flesh in [q]that night, roast with fire, and [d]unleavened bread; and with bitter herbs
9 they shall eat it. Eat not of it raw, nor [e]sodden at all with water, but roast with fire; his head with his legs, and with the

11 morning ye shall burn with fire. And thus shall ye eat it; with your loins girded, your shoes on your feet, and your staff in your hand; and ye shall eat it in haste; [h]it is the LORD's passover.
12 For I [i]will pass through the land of Egypt [q]this night, and will smite all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, both man and beast; and against all the [l]gods of Egypt I will execute judgment: [j]I am
13 the LORD. And the blood shall be to you for a token upon the houses where you are: and when I see the blood, I will pass over you, and the plague shall not be upon you [f]to destroy you, when I

XIV. And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, 2
[a] that they turn and encamp before Pi-hahiroth, between [b] Migdol and the sea, over against Baal-zephon: before it shall ye encamp by the sea. For Pharaoh 3 will say of the children of Israel, They are [c] entangled in the land, the wilderness hath shut them in. And [d] I will harden 4 Pharaoh's heart, that he shall follow after them; and I [e] will be honoured upon Pharaoh, and upon all his host; [f] that the Egyptians may know that I am the LORD. And they did so. And it was 5 told the king of Egypt that the people fled: and [g] the heart of Pharaoh and of his servants was turned against the people, and they said, Why have we done this, that we have let Israel go from serving us? And he made ready his 6 chariot, and took his people with him: and he took [h] six hundred chosen chariots, and all the chariots of Egypt, and 7 captains over every one of them. And 8
the LORD [i] hardened the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he pursued after the children of Israel: and [k] the children of Israel went out with a high hand. But the [l] Egyptians pursued after them 9
(all the horses and chariots of Pharaoh, and his horsemen, and his army) and overtook them encamping by the sea, beside Pi-hahiroth, before Baal-zephon.

And when Pharaoh drew nigh, the 10 children of Israel lift up their eyes, and behold, the Egyptians marched after them; and they were sore afraid: and the children of Israel [m] cried out unto the LORD. [n] And they said unto Moses, 11
[o] Because there were no graves in Egypt, hast thou taken us away to die in the wilderness? wherefore hast thou dealt thus with us, to carry us forth out of Egypt? [p] Is not this the word that we 12
did tell thee in Egypt, saying, Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians? For it had been better for us to serve the Egyptians, than that we should die in the wilderness. And Moses said unto 13
the people, [q] Fear ye not, stand still, and see the salvation of the LORD, which he will shew to you to day: [‖] for the Egyptians whom ye have seen to day, ye shall see them again no more for ever. [r] The 14
LORD shall fight for you, and ye shall [s] hold your peace. And the LORD said 15 unto Moses, Wherefore criest thou unto me? speak unto the children of Israel, that they go forward: but [t] lift thou up 16
thy rod, and stretch out thine hand over the sea, and divide it: and the children of Israel shall go on dry ground through 17 the midst of the sea. And I, behold, I will [u] harden the hearts of the Egyptians, and they shall follow them: and I will [x] get me honour upon Pharaoh, and upon all his host, upon his chariots, and upon 18 his horsemen. And the Egyptians [y] shall know that I am the LORD, when I have gotten me honour upon Pharaoh, upon his chariots, and upon his horsemen.
19 And [z] the angel of God, which went before the camp of Israel, removed and went behind them; and the pillar of the cloud went from before their face, and
20 stood behind them: and it came between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel; and it was a cloud and darkness to them, but it gave light by night to these: so that the one came not near the other all the night.

21 And Moses [a] stretched out his hand over the sea; and the LORD caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind all that night, and [b] made the sea [c] dry land,
22 and the waters were [d] divided. And [e] the children of Israel went into the midst of the sea upon the dry ground: and the waters were a wall unto them on 23 their right hand, and on their left. And the Egyptians pursued, and went in after them to the midst of the sea, even all Pharaoh's horses, his chariots, and his
24 horsemen. And it came to pass, that in [f] the morning watch the LORD looked unto the host of the Egyptians through the pillar of fire and of the cloud, and
25 troubled the host of the Egyptians, and took off their chariot wheels, [‖] that they drave them heavily: so that the Egyptians said, Let us flee from the face of Israel; for the LORD [g] fighteth for them
26 against the Egyptians. And the LORD said unto Moses, [h] Stretch out thine hand over the sea, that the waters may come again upon the Egyptians, upon their 27 chariots, and upon their horsemen. [i] And Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea, and the sea [k] returned to his strength when the morning appeared; and the Egyptians fled against it; [l] and the LORD [†] overthrew the Egyptians in the midst of 28 the sea. And [m] the waters returned, and covered the chariots, and the horsemen, and all the host of Pharaoh that came into the sea after them; there remained 29 not so much as [n] one of them. But [o] the children of Israel walked upon dry land in the midst of the sea; and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand, and on their left. Thus the LORD 30 [p] saved Israel that day out of the hand of the Egyptians; and Israel saw the Egyptians dead upon the sea shore. And Israel saw that great [t] work which 31

the LORD did upon the Egyptians: and the people feared the LORD, and [q] believed the LORD, and his servant Moses.

XV. Then sang [a] Moses and the children of Israel this song unto the LORD, and spake, saying,

I will [b] sing unto the LORD, for he hath triumphed gloriously:
The horse and his rider hath he thrown into the sea.
The LORD is my strength and [c] song, 2
And he is become my [d] salvation:
He is my God, and I will prepare him a habitation;
My [e] father's God, and I [f] will exalt him.
The LORD is a man of [g] war: 3
[h] The LORD is his name.
[i] Pharaoh's chariots and his host hath 4
he cast into the sea:
His chosen [k] captains also are drowned in the Red sea.
The depths [l] have covered them: 5
[m] They sank into the bottom as a stone.
[n] Thy right hand, O LORD, is become 6
glorious in power:
Thy right hand, O LORD, hath dashed in pieces the enemy.
And in the greatness of thine [o] excel- 7
lency thou hast overthrown them that rose up against thee:
Thou sentest forth thy wrath, which consumed them [p] as stubble.
And [q] with the blast of thy nostrils 8
the waters were gathered together, [r] The floods stood upright as a heap,
And the depths were congealed in the heart of the sea.
The enemy said, [s] I will pursue, I will 9 overtake,
I will [t] divide the spoil; my lust shall be satisfied upon them;
I will draw my sword, my hand shall [u] destroy them.
Thou didst blow with thy wind, [u] the 10
sea covered them:
They sank as lead in the mighty waters.
[x] Who is like unto thee, O LORD, a- 11
mong the [y] gods?
Who is like thee, glorious in holiness,
Fearful in praises, [z] doing wonders?
Thou stretchedst out [z] thy right hand, 12
The earth swallowed them.
Thou in thy mercy hast [a] led forth the 13
people which [b] thou hast redeemed:
Thou hast [c] guided them in thy strength unto thy holy [d] habitation.
[e] The people shall hear, and be afraid: 14
[f] Sorrow shall take hold on the inhabitants of Palestina.
Then [g] the dukes of Edom [h] shall be 15
amazed;
The mighty men [i] of Moab, trembling shall take hold upon them;
All the inhabitants of Canaan shall [k] melt away.
[l] Fear and [m] dread shall fall upon them; 16
By the greatness of thine arm they shall be as still [n] as a stone;
Till thy people pass over, O LORD,
Till the people pass over, which [o] thou hast purchased.
Thou shalt bring them in, and [p] plant 17
them in the mountain of thine inheritance,
In the place, O LORD, which thou hast made for thee to dwell in,
In the [q] Sanctuary, O Lord, which thy hands have established.
[r] The LORD shall reign for ever and ever. 18
For the [s] horse of Pharaoh went in 19
with his chariots and with his horsemen into the sea, and [t] the LORD brought again the waters of the sea upon them; but the children of Israel went on dry land in the midst of the sea. And 20
Miriam [u] the prophetess, [w] the sister of Aaron, [x] took a timbrel in her hand; and all the women went out after her with timbrels and [z] with dances. And 21
Miriam [a] answered them,
[b] Sing ye to the LORD, for he hath triumphed gloriously;
The horse and his rider hath he thrown into the sea.
So Moses brought Israel from the 22
Red sea, and they went out into the wilderness of [c] Shur; and they went three days in the wilderness, and found no water. And when they came to Marah, 23 they could not drink of the waters of Marah, for they were bitter: therefore the name of it was called [‖] Marah. And 24 the people [d] murmured against Moses, saying, What shall we drink? And he [e] cried unto the LORD; and the LORD 25
shewed him [f] a tree, [g] which when he had cast into the waters, the waters were made sweet: there he [h] made for them a diligently hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, and wilt do that which is right in his sight, and wilt give ear to his commandments, and keep all his statutes, I will put none of these [l]diseases upon thee, which I have brought upon the Egyptians: for I am the LORD [m]that healeth thee. [n]And they came to Elim, 27 where were twelve wells of water, and threescore and ten palm trees: and they encamped there by the waters.

XVI. And they [a]took their journey from Elim, and all the congregation of the children of Israel came unto the wilderness of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month after their departing out of the land of Egypt. And the whole congre- 2 gation of the children of Israel [b]murmured against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness: and the children of Israel 3 said unto them, Would to God we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, [c]when we sat by the flesh pots, and when we did eat bread to the full; for ye have brought us forth into this wilderness, to kill this whole assembly with hunger. Then said the 4 LORD unto Moses, Behold, I will rain [d]bread from heaven for you; and the people shall go out and gather [f]a certain rate every day, that I may [e]prove them, whether they will walk in my law, or no. And it shall come to pass, that 5 on the sixth day they shall prepare that which they bring in; and [f]it shall be twice as much as they gather daily. And Moses and Aaron said unto all the 6 children of Israel, [g]At even, [h]then ye shall know that the LORD hath brought you out from the land of Egypt: and in 7 the morning, then ye shall see [i]the glory of the LORD; for that he heareth your murmurings against the LORD: and [k]what are we, that ye murmur against us? And Moses said, This shall be, when 8 the LORD shall give you in the evening flesh to eat, and in the morning bread to the full; for that the LORD heareth your murmurings which ye murmur against him: and what are we? your murmurings are not against us, but [l]against the LORD. And Moses [m]spake unto Aaron, 9 Say unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, [n]Come near before the LORD: for he hath heard your murmurings. And it came to pass, as Aaron 10 spake unto the whole congregation of the children of Israel, that they looked toward the wilderness, and behold, the glory of the LORD [o]appeared in the 11 cloud. And the LORD spake unto Mo- 12 ses, saying, [p]I have heard the murmurings of the children of Israel: speak unto them, saying, [q]At even ye shall eat flesh, and [r]in the morning ye shall be filled with bread; and [s]ye shall know 13 that I am the LORD your God. And it came to pass, that at even [t]the quails came up, and covered the camp: and in the morning [u]the dew lay round about 14 the host. And when the dew that lay was gone up, behold, upon the face of the wilderness there lay [u]a small round thing, as small as the hoar frost on the 15 ground. And when the children of Israel saw it, they said one to another, [l]It is manna: for they wist not what it was. And Moses said unto them, [x]This is the bread which the LORD hath given 16 you to eat. This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, Gather of it every man [y]according to his eating, [z]an omer [f]for every man, according to the number of your [f]persons; take ye every man for them which are in his tents. 17 And the children of Israel did so, and 18 gathered, some more, some less. And when they did mete it with an omer, [a]he that gathered much had nothing over, and he that gathered little had no lack; they gathered every 19 man [b]according to his eating. And Moses said, Let no man leave of it till the 20 morning. Notwithstanding they hearkened not unto Moses; but some of them left of it until the morning, and it bred worms, and stank: and Moses was wroth 21 with them. And they gathered it every morning, every man [b]according to his eating: and when the sun waxed hot, it 22 melted. And it came to pass, that on the sixth day they gathered twice as much bread, two omers for one man: and all the rulers of the congregation 23 came and told Moses. And he said unto them, This is that which the LORD hath said, To morrow is [c]the rest of the holy sabbath unto the LORD: bake that which you will bake to day, and seethe that ye will seethe; and that which remaineth over lay up for you to be kept 24 until the morning. And they laid it up till the morning, as Moses bade: and it did not [d]stink, neither was there any 25 worm therein. And Moses said, Eat that to day; for to day is a sabbath unto the LORD: to day ye shall not find it in the field. Six days ye shall gather it; 26

but on the seventh day, which is the sabbath, in it there shall be none. And 27
it came to pass, that there went out
some of the people on the seventh day
for to gather, and they found none.
And the LORD said unto Moses, How 28
long refuse ye to keep my commandments and my laws? See, for that the 29
LORD hath given you the sabbath, therefore he giveth you on the sixth day the bread of two days; abide ye every man [e] in his place, let no man go out of his place on the seventh day. So the peo- 30
ple rested on the seventh day. And the 31
house of Israel called the name thereof [f] Manna: and [g] it was like coriander seed,
white; and the taste of it was like wafers made with honey. And Moses said, 32
This is the thing which the LORD com-mandeth, Fill an omer of it to be kept for your generations; that they may see the bread wherewith I have fed you in the wilderness, when I brought you forth from the land of Egypt. And Moses 33 said unto Aaron, [h] Take a pot, and put an omer full of manna therein, and lay it up before the LORD, to be kept for your generations. As the LORD com- 34 manded Moses, so Aaron laid it up [i] before the Testimony, to be kept. And 35
the children of Israel did eat manna [k] forty years, [l] until they came to a land inhabited; they did eat manna, until they came unto the borders of the land of Canaan. Now an omer is [m] the tenth 36

XVII.

And [a] all the congregation of the children of Israel journeyed from the wilderness of Sin, after their journeys, according to the commandment of the LORD, and pitched in Rephidim: and there was no water for the people to drink. [b] Wherefore the people did chide 2 with Moses, and said, Give us water that we may drink. And Moses said unto them, Why chide you with me? wherefore do ye [c] tempt the LORD? And the 3 people thirsted there for water; and the people [d] murmured against Moses, and said, Wherefore is this that thou hast brought us up out of Egypt, to kill us and our children and our cattle with thirst? And Moses [e] cried unto the 4 LORD, saying, What shall I do unto this people? they be almost ready to [f] stone me. And the LORD said unto 5 Moses, Go on before the people, and take with thee of the elders of Israel;
and thy rod, wherewith [g] thou smotest
[h] the river, take in thine hand, and go.
6 [i] Behold, I will stand before thee there upon the rock in Horeb; and thou shalt smite the rock, and there shall come water out of it, that the people may drink. And Moses did so in the sight 7 of the elders of Israel. And he called the name of the place [k] [l] Massah, and [l] Meribah, because of the chiding of the children of Israel, and because they tempted the LORD, saying, Is the LORD amongst us, or not?

8 [l] Then came Amalek, and fought with 9 Israel in Rephidim. And Moses said unto [m] Joshua, Choose us out men, and go out, fight with Amalek: to morrow I will stand on the top of the hill with [n] the 10 rod of God in mine hand. So Joshua did as Moses had said to him, and fought with Amalek: and Moses, Aaron, and 11 Hur went up to the top of the hill. And it came to pass, when Moses held up his hand, that Israel prevailed: and when he let down his hand, Amalek prevailed.
12 But Moses' hands were heavy; and they took a stone, and put it under him, and he sat thereon; and Aaron and Hur stayed up his hands, the one on the one side, and the other on the other side;
and his hands were steady until the going 13 down of the sun. And Joshua discomfited Amalek and his people with the 14 edge of the sword. And the LORD said unto Moses, [o] Write this for a memorial in a book, and rehearse it in the ears of Joshua: for [p] I will utterly put out the remembrance of Amalek from under 15 heaven. And Moses built an altar, and called the name of it [l] Jehovah-nissi:
16 for he said, [l] Because [r] the LORD hath sworn that the LORD will have war with Amalek from generation to generation.

ness, where he encamped at [f]the mount of God: and he said unto Moses, I thy 6
father in law Jethro am come unto thee, and thy wife, and her two sons with her.
And Moses [g]went out to meet his father 7
in law, and did obeisance, and [h]kissed him; and they asked each other of their [i]welfare; and they came into the tent.
And Moses told his father in law all that 8
the LORD had done unto Pharaoh and to the Egyptians for Israel's sake, and all the travail that had [i]come upon them by the way, and how the LORD delivered them. And Jethro [j]rejoiced for all the 9 goodness which the LORD had done to Israel, whom he had delivered out of the hand of the Egyptians. And Jethro said, 10 [k]Blessed be the LORD, who hath delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of Pharaoh, who hath delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians. Now I 11 know that the LORD is [l]greater than all gods: [m]for in the thing wherein they [n]dealt proudly he was above them. And 12
Jethro, Moses' father in law, took a burnt offering and sacrifices for God: and Aaron came, and all the elders of Israel, to eat bread with Moses' father in law [o]before God.

And it came to pass on the morrow, 13 that Moses sat to judge the people: and the people stood by Moses from the morning unto the evening. And when 14
Moses' father in law saw all that he did to the people, he said, What is this thing that thou doest to the people? why sittest thou thyself alone, and all the people stand by thee from morning unto even? And Moses said unto his father 15 in law, Because [p]the people come unto me to inquire of God: when they have 16 [q]a matter, they come unto me; and I judge between [t]one and another, and I do [r]make them know the statutes of God, and his laws. And Moses' father 17
in law said unto him, The thing that thou doest is not good. [t]Thou wilt surely 18 wear away, both thou, and this people that is with thee: for this thing is too heavy for thee; [s]thou art not able to perform it thyself alone. Hearken now un- 19 to my voice, I will give thee counsel, and [t]God shall be with thee: be thou [u]for the people to God-ward, that thou mayest [x]bring the causes unto God: and 20
thou shalt [y]teach them ordinances and laws, and shalt shew them [z]the way wherein they must walk, and [a]the work that they must do. Moreover thou shalt 21 provide out of all the people [b]able men, such as [c]fear God, [d]men of truth, [e]hating covetousness; and place such over them, to be rulers of thousands, and rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens: and let them judge the people [f]at 22
all seasons: [g]and it shall be, that every great matter they shall bring unto thee, but every small matter they shall judge: so shall it be easier for thyself, and they shall bear [h]the burden with thee. If thou 23 shalt do this thing, and God command thee so, then thou shalt be [i]able to endure, and all this people shall also go to [k]their place in peace. So Moses hark- 24
ened to the voice of his father in law, and did all that he had said. And [l]Moses 25 chose able men out of all Israel, and made them heads over the people, rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens. And they judged
the people [m]at all seasons: the hard causes 26
they brought unto Moses, but every small matter they judged themselves.
And Moses let his father in law depart; 27
and [n]he went his way into his own land.

In the third month, when the children 19 of Israel were gone forth out of the land of Egypt, the same day [a]came they into the wilderness of Sinai. For they were 2 departed from [b]Rephidim, and were come to the desert of Sinai, and had pitched in the wilderness; and there Israel [c]camped before [c]the mount. And 3 [d]Moses went up unto God, and the LORD [e]called unto him out of the mountain, saying, Thus shalt thou say to the house of Jacob, and tell the children of Israel; 4
[f]Ye have seen what I did unto the Egyptians, and how [g]I bare you on eagles' wings, and brought you unto myself.
Now [h]therefore, if ye will obey my voice 5 indeed, and keep my covenant, then ye shall be a [i]peculiar treasure unto me above all people: for [k]all the earth is mine: and ye shall be unto me a [l]king- 6 dom of priests, and a [m]holy nation. These are the words which thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel. And 7
Moses came and called for the elders of the people, and laid before their faces all these words which the LORD commanded him. And [n]all the people answered 8 together, and said, All that the LORD hath spoken we will do. And Moses returned the words of the people unto the LORD.
And the LORD said unto Moses, Lo, I 9
come unto thee [o]in a thick cloud, [p]that the people may hear when I speak with thee, and [q]believe thee for ever. And Moses told the words of the people unto the LORD.

10 And the LORD said unto Moses, Go unto the people, and [r]sanctify them to day and to morrow, and let them [s]wash their clothes, and be ready against the 11 third day: for the third day the LORD [t]will come down in the sight of all the people upon mount Sinai. And thou 12 shalt set bounds unto the people round about, saying, Take heed to yourselves, that ye go not up into the mount, or touch the border of it: [u]whosoever toucheth the mount shall be surely put to death: there shall not a hand touch it, but he shall surely be stoned, or shot through; whether it be beast or man, it shall not live: when the [x]trumpet soundeth long, they shall come up to the mount. And 14 Moses [y]went down from the mount unto the people, and sanctified the people; and they washed their clothes. And he 15 said unto the people, [z]Be ready against the third day: [a]come not at your wives. And it came to pass on the third day in 16 the morning, that there were [b]thunders and lightnings, and a [c]thick cloud upon the mount, and the [d]voice of the trumpet exceeding loud; so that all the people that was in the camp [e]trembled. And [f]Moses brought forth the people 17 out of the camp to meet with God; and they stood at the nether part of the mount. And mount Sinai [g]was altogether on a smoke, because the LORD 18 descended upon it [h]in fire: [i]and the smoke thereof ascended as the smoke of a furnace, and [k]the whole mount quaked greatly. And [l]when the voice 19 of the trumpet sounded long, and waxed louder and louder, Moses spake, and [m]God answered him by a voice. And the LORD came down upon mount Sinai, on the top of the mount: and the LORD called Moses up to the top of the mount; and Moses went up. And the LORD 21 said unto Moses, Go down, [t]charge the people, lest they break through unto the LORD [n]to gaze, and many of them perish. And let the priests also, which come 22 near to the LORD, [o]sanctify themselves, lest the LORD [p]break forth upon them. And Moses said unto the LORD, The 23 people cannot come up to mount Sinai: for thou [t]chargedst us, saying, [q]Set bounds about the mount, and sanctify 24 it. And the LORD said unto him, Away, get thee down, and thou shalt come up, thou, and Aaron with thee: but let not the priests and the people break through to come up unto the LORD, lest he break 25 forth upon them. So Moses went down unto the people, and spake unto them.

XX. 1 [a]And [b]God spake all these words, 2 saying, [c]I am the LORD thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of [†]bondage. 3 [d]Thou shalt have no other gods before 4 me. Thou shalt not make unto thee any [e]graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is 5 in the water under the earth: [f]thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the LORD thy God am [g]a jealous God, [h]visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate 6 me; and [i]shewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my com- 7 mandments. [k]Thou shalt not take the name of the LORD thy God in vain; for the LORD will not hold him guiltless 8 that taketh his name in vain. [l]Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy. 9 [m]Six days shalt thou labour, and do all 10 thy work: but the seventh day is the sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, [n]nor thy stranger that is within 11 thy gates: for [o]in six days the LORD made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the LORD blessed the 12 sabbath day, and hallowed it. [p]Honour thy father and thy mother: [q]that thy days may be long upon the land which the LORD thy God 13 giveth thee. [r]Thou shalt not kill. 14 [s]Thou shalt not commit adultery. 15 [t]Thou shalt not steal. [u]Thou shalt 16 not bear false witness against thy 17 neighbour. [w]Thou shalt not covet [x]thy neighbour's house, [y]thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's.

If he came in [h]by himself, he shall go out by himself: if he were married, then his wife shall go out with him. If his master have given him a wife, and she have born him sons or daughters; the wife and her children shall be her master's, and he shall go out by himself. [c]And if the servant [i]shall plainly say, I love my master, my wife, and my children; I will not go out free: then his master shall bring him unto the [d]judges; he shall also bring him to the door, or unto the door post; and his master shall [e]bore his ear through with an awl; and he shall serve him for ever. And if a man [f]sell his daughter to be a maidservant, she shall not go out [g]as the menservants do. If she [k]please not her master, who hath betrothed her to himself, then shall he let her be redeemed: to sell her unto a strange nation he shall have no power, seeing he hath dealt deceitfully with her. And if he have betrothed her unto his son, he shall deal with her after the manner of daughters. If he take him another wife; her food, her raiment, [h]and her duty of marriage, shall he not diminish. And if he do not these three unto her, then shall she go out free without money.

[h] 1 Cor. 7. 3, 5.

[i]He that smiteth a man, so that he die, shall be surely put to death. And [k]if a man lie not in wait, but God deliver him into his hand; then [l]I will appoint thee a place whither he shall flee. But if a man come [m]presumptuously upon his neighbour, to slay him with guile; [n]thou shalt take him from mine altar, that he may die. And he that smiteth his father, or his mother, shall be surely put to death. And [o]he that stealeth a man, and [p]selleth him, or if he be [q]found in his hand, he shall surely be put to death. And [r]he that [s]curseth his father, or his mother, shall surely be put to death. And if men strive together, and one smite [t]another with a stone, or with his fist, and he die not, but keepeth his bed: if he rise again, and walk abroad [u]upon his staff, then shall he that smote him be quit: only he shall pay for [x]the loss of his time, and shall cause him to be thoroughly healed. And if a man smite his servant, or his maid, with a rod, and he die under his hand; he shall be surely [y]punished. Notwithstanding, if he continue a day or [z]two, he shall not be punished: for [a]he is his money. If men strive, and hurt a woman with child, so that her fruit depart from her, and yet no mischief follow: he shall be surely punished, according as the woman's husband will lay upon him; and he shall [b]pay as [c]the judges determine. And if any mischief follow, then thou shalt give [d]life for life, [e]eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot, burning for burning, [f]wound for wound, stripe for stripe. And if a man smite the eye of his servant, or the eye of his maid, that it perish; he shall let him go free for his eye's sake. And if he smite out his manservant's tooth, or his maidservant's tooth; he shall let him go free for his tooth's sake.

But if the ox were wont to push with 29

XXII.

If a man shall steal an ox, or a restore five oxen for an ox, and [a]four sheep for a sheep. If a thief be found 2 [b]breaking up, and be smitten that he

him. If the sun be risen upon him, 3
there shall be blood shed for him; for he should make full restitution; if he have nothing, then he shall be [d]sold for his theft. If the theft be certainly [e]found 4 in his hand alive, whether it be ox, or ass, or sheep; he shall [f]restore double.

If a man shall cause a field or vine- 5 yard to be eaten, and shall put in his beast, and shall feed in another man's field; of the best of his own field, and of the best of his own vineyard, shall he make restitution. If fire break out, and 6 catch in thorns, so that the stacks of corn, or the standing corn, or the field,
be consumed therewith; he that kindled the fire shall surely make restitution. If 7
a man shall deliver unto his neighbour
money or stuff to keep, and it be stolen out of the man's house; [g]if the thief be found, let him pay double. If the thief 8 be not found, then the master of the house shall be brought unto the [h]judges,
to see whether he have put his hand un-

lengeth to be his, the cause of both parties shall come before [i]the judges; [i] ver. 8.
and whom [i]the judges shall condemn,
he shall pay double unto his neighbour.

away, no man seeing it: then shall an 11

both, that he hath not put his hand unto his neighbour's goods; and the owner of it shall accept thereof, and he shall not make it good. And [l]if it be 12 stolen from him, he shall make restitution unto the owner thereof. If it be 13 [l]torn in pieces, then let him bring it for

But if the owner thereof be with it, he 15
shall not make it good: if it be a hired thing, it came for his hire.

And [m]if a man entice a maid that is 16

unto me, that I will hear; for I am [c]gracious.

Thou shalt not [d]revile the ‖gods, nor 28
curse the ruler of thy people. Thou 29 shalt not delay to offer the first of †thy ripe fruits, and of thy †liquors: [e]the firstborn of thy sons shalt thou give unto me. [f]Likewise shalt thou do with 30 thine oxen, and with thy sheep: [g]seven days it shall be with his dam; on the eighth day thou shalt give it me. And 31
ye shall be [h]holy men unto me: [k]neither shall ye eat any flesh that is torn of beasts in the field; ye shall cast it to the dogs.

Thou [a]shalt not ‖raise a false report:
put not thine hand with the wicked to be an [b]unrighteous witness. [c]Thou shalt 2
not follow a multitude to do evil; neither shalt thou †speak in a cause to decline after many to wrest [d]judgment:
neither shalt thou [e]countenance a poor 3
man in his cause. [f]If thou meet thine 4 enemy's ox or his ass going astray, thou shalt surely bring it back to him again.
If thou see the ass of him that hateth 5 thee lying under his burden, ‖and would-est forbear to help him, thou shalt surely help with him. [g]Thou shalt not wrest 6
the judgment of thy poor in his cause.
[h]Keep thee far from a false matter; 7
[i]and the innocent and righteous slay thou not: for [k]I will not justify the wicked. And [l]thou shalt take no gift: 8 for the gift blindeth †the wise, and perverteth the words of the righteous. Also 9 [m]thou shalt not oppress a stranger: for ye know the †heart of a stranger, seeing ye were strangers in the land of Egypt.

And [n]six years thou shalt sow thy 10
land, and shalt gather in the fruits thereof: but the seventh year thou shalt let 11
it rest and lie still; that the poor of thy people may eat: and what they leave the beasts of the field shall eat. In like manner thou shalt deal with thy vineyard, and with thy ‖oliveyard. [o]Six 12 days thou shalt do thy work, and on the seventh day thou shalt rest: that thine ox and thine ass may rest, and the son of thy handmaid, and the stranger, may be refreshed. And in all things 13
that I have said unto you be [p]circum-spect: and [q]make no mention of the name of other gods, neither let it be heard out of thy mouth.

[r]Three [s]times thou shalt keep a feast 14
unto me in the year. [t]Thou shalt keep 15
the feast of unleavened bread: thou shalt eat unleavened bread seven days,
as I commanded thee, in the time appointed of the month Abib; for in it thou camest out from Egypt: [u]and none shall appear before me empty: [x]and 16
the feast of harvest, the firstfruits of thy labours, which thou hast sown in the field: and [y]the feast of ingathering, which is in the end of the year, when thou hast gathered in thy labours out of the field.
Three times in the year all thy males 17
shall appear before the Lord GOD.
[z]Thou shalt not offer the blood of my 18 sacrifice with leavened bread; neither shall the fat of my ‖sacrifice remain until the morning. [a]The first of the first- 19 fruits of thy land thou shalt bring into the house of the LORD thy God. [b]Thou shalt not seethe a kid in his mother's milk.

[c]Behold, I send an Angel before 20 thee, to keep thee in the way, and to bring thee into the place which I have prepared. Beware of him, and obey his 21 voice, [d]provoke him not; for he will [e]not pardon your transgressions: for my name is in him. But if thou shalt indeed 22
obey his voice, and do all that I speak;
then [f]I will be an enemy unto thine enemies, and ‖an adversary unto thine adversaries. [g]For mine Angel shall go 23
before thee, and [h]bring thee in unto the Amorites, and the Hittites, and the Pe-rizzites, and the Canaanites, the Hi-vites, and the Jebusites: and I will cut them off. Thou shalt not [i]bow down 24
to their gods, nor serve them, [k]nor do after their works: [l]but thou shalt utterly overthrow them, and quite break down
[m]their images. And ye shall [n]serve the 25
LORD your God, and [o]he shall bless thy bread, and thy water; and [p]I will take sickness away from the midst of thee.
[q]There shall nothing cast their young, 26
nor be barren, in thy land: the number of thy days I will [r]fulfil. I will send 27 [s]my fear before thee, and will [t]destroy
all the people to whom thou shalt come,
and I will make all thine enemies turn their †backs unto thee. And [u]I will 28 send hornets before thee, which shall drive out the Hivite, the Canaanite, and the Hittite, from before thee. [w]I will 29

And he said unto Moses, Come up unto the LORD, thou, and Aaron, [a]Nadab, and Abihu, [b]and seventy of the elders of Israel; and worship ye afar off. And Moses [c]alone shall come near the 2 LORD: but they shall not come nigh; neither shall the people go up with him. And Moses came and told the people 3 all the words of the LORD, and all the judgments: and all the people answered with one voice, and said, [d]All the words which the LORD hath said will we do. And Moses [e]wrote all the words of the 4 LORD, and rose up early in the morning, and builded an altar under the hill, and twelve [f]pillars, according to the twelve tribes of Israel. And he sent young 5 men of the children of Israel, which offered burnt offerings, and sacrificed [g]peace offerings of oxen unto the LORD. And Moses [h]took half of the blood, and 6 put it in basons; and half of the blood he sprinkled on the altar. And he [h]took the book of the covenant, and read in the audience of the people: and they said, [i]All that the LORD hath said will we do, and be obedient. [k]And Mo- 8 ses took the blood, and sprinkled it on the people, and said, Behold the blood of the covenant, which the LORD hath made with you concerning all these words. Then [l]went 9 up Moses, and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel: and 10 they [m]saw the God of Israel: and there was under his feet as it were a paved work of a [n]sapphire stone, and as it were the body of heaven in his [o]clearness. And upon [p]the nobles of the children 11 of Israel he [q]laid not his hand: also they saw God, and did [r]eat and drink.

[d]And thou shalt take the garments, and put upon Aaron the coat, and the robe of the ephod, and the ephod, and the breastplate, and gird him with [e]the curious girdle of the ephod: [f]and thou shalt put the mitre upon his head, and put the holy crown upon the mitre. Then shalt thou take [g]the anointing oil, and pour it upon his head, and anoint him. And [h]thou shalt bring his sons, and put coats upon them. And thou shalt gird them with [i]girdles, Aaron and his sons, and [j]put the bonnets on them: and [k]the priest's office shall be theirs for a perpetual statute: and thou shalt [l]consecrate Aaron and his sons. And thou shalt cause a bullock to be brought before the tabernacle of the congregation: and [l]Aaron and his sons shall put their hands upon the head of the bullock. And thou shalt kill the bullock before the LORD, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. And thou [m]shalt take of the blood of the bullock, and put it upon [n]the horns of the altar with thy finger, and pour all the blood beside the bottom of the altar. And thou shalt take all [o]the fat that covereth the inwards, and [p]the caul that is above the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and burn them upon the altar. But the flesh of the bullock, and his skin, and his dung, shalt thou burn with fire [p]without the camp: it is a sin offering. [q]Thou shalt also take one ram; and Aaron and his sons shall [r]put their hands upon the head of the ram. And thou shalt slay the ram, and thou shalt take his blood, and sprinkle it round about upon the altar. And thou shalt cut the ram in pieces, and wash the inwards of him, and his legs, and put them [||]unto his pieces, and [||]unto his head. And thou shalt burn the whole ram upon the altar: it is a burnt offering unto the LORD: it is a [s]sweet savour, an offering made by fire unto the LORD. [t]And thou shalt take the other ram; and Aaron and his sons shall [u]put their hands upon the head of the ram. Then shalt thou kill the ram, and take of his blood, and put it upon the tip of the right ear of Aaron, and upon the tip of the right ear of his sons, and upon the thumb of their right hand, and upon the great toe of their right foot, and sprinkle the blood upon the altar round about. And thou shalt take of the blood that is upon the altar, and of [w]the anointing oil, and sprinkle it upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his sons, and upon the garments of his sons with him: and he shall be hallowed, and his garments, and his sons, and his sons' garments with him. Also thou shalt take of the ram the fat and the rump, and [x]the fat that covereth the inwards, and the [x]caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and the right shoulder; for it is a ram of [y]consecration: [z]and one loaf of bread, and one cake of oiled bread, and one wafer out of the basket of the unleavened bread that is before the LORD: and thou shalt [a]put all in the hands of Aaron, and in the hands of his sons; and shalt [||]wave them for a wave offering before the LORD. [b]And thou shalt receive them of their hands, and burn them upon the altar for a burnt offering, for a sweet savour before the LORD: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD. And thou shalt take the breast of the ram of Aaron's consecrations, and wave it for a wave offering before the LORD: and it shall be thy part. And thou shalt sanctify [c]the breast of the wave offering, and the shoulder of the [d]heave offering, which is waved, and which is heaved up, of the ram of the consecration, even of that which is for Aaron, and of that which is for his sons: and it shall be Aaron's and his sons' [e]by a statute for ever from the children of Israel: for it is a heave offering: and it shall be a heave offering from the children of Israel of the sacrifice of their peace offerings, even their heave offering unto the LORD. And the holy garments of Aaron shall be his sons' after him, [f]to be anointed therein, and to be [g]consecrated in them. And [h]that son that is priest in his stead shall put them on

And thou 16 shalt take the atonement money of the children of Israel, and [q]shalt appoint it for the service of the tabernacle of the congregation; that it may be [r]a memorial unto the children of Israel before the LORD, to make an atonement for your souls.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, say- 17 ing, [s]Thou shalt also make a laver of 18 brass, and his foot also of brass, to wash withal: and thou shalt [t]put it between the tabernacle of the congregation and the altar, and thou shalt put water therein. For Aaron and his sons [u]shall wash 19 their hands and their feet thereat: when 20 they go into the tabernacle of the congregation, they shall wash with water, that they die not; or when they come near to the altar to minister, to burn offering made by fire unto the LORD: so 21 they shall wash their hands and their feet, that they die not: and [w]it shall be a statute for ever to them, even to him and to his seed throughout their generations.

Moreover the LORD spake unto Moses, 22 saying, Take thou also unto thee [x]principal spices, of pure [y]myrrh five hundred 23 shekels, and of sweet [z]cinnamon half so much, even two hundred and fifty shekels, and of sweet [a]calamus two hundred and fifty shekels, and of [a]cassia five hundred 24 shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary, and of oil olive a [b]hin: and thou shalt 25 make it an oil of holy ointment, an ointment compound after the art of the ‖apothecary: it shall be [c]a holy anointing oil. [d]And thou shalt anoint the taber- 26 nacle of the congregation therewith, and the ark of the Testimony, and the table 27 and all his vessels, and the candlestick and his vessels, and the altar of incense, and the altar of burnt offering with all 28 his vessels, and the laver and his foot. And thou shalt sanctify them, that they 29 may be most holy: [e]whatsoever toucheth them shall be holy. [f]And thou shalt 30 anoint Aaron and his sons, and consecrate them, that they may minister unto me in the priest's office. And thou shalt 31 speak unto the children of Israel, saying, This shall be a holy anointing oil unto me throughout your generations. Upon 32 man's flesh shall it not be poured, neither shall ye make any other like it, after the composition of it: [g]it is holy, and it shall be holy unto you. [h]Whosoever 33 compoundeth any like it, or whosoever putteth any of it upon a stranger, [i]shall even be cut off from his people.

And the LORD said unto Moses, [k]Take 34 unto thee sweet spices, stacte, and onycha, and galbanum; these sweet spices with pure frankincense: of each shall there be a like weight: and thou shalt 35 make it a perfume, a confection [l]after the art of the apothecary, [t]tempered together, pure and holy: and thou shalt 36 beat some of it very small, and put of it before the Testimony in the tabernacle of the congregation, [m]where I will meet with thee: [n]it shall be unto you most 37 holy. And as for the perfume which thou shalt make, [o]you shall not make to yourselves according to the composition thereof: it shall be unto thee holy for 38 the LORD. [p]Whosoever shall make like unto that, to smell thereto, shall even be cut off from his people.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, say- XXXI. 2 ing, See, I have called by name [a]Bezaleel the son of Uri, the son of [b]Hur, of 3 the tribe of Judah: and I have [c]filled him with the spirit of God, in wisdom, and in understanding, and in knowledge, 4 and in all manner of workmanship, to devise cunning works, to work in gold, 5 and in silver, and in brass, and in cutting of stones, to set them, and in carving of timber, to work in all manner of 6 workmanship. And I, behold, I have given with him [d]Aholiab, the son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan: and in the hearts of all that are [e]wise hearted I have put wisdom, that they may make 7 all that I have commanded thee; [f]the tabernacle of the congregation, and [g]the ark of the Testimony, and [h]the mercy seat that is thereupon, and all the [t]furniture of the tabernacle, and [i]the table 8 and his [t]furniture, and [k]the pure candlestick with all his [t]furniture, and [l]the 9 altar of incense, and [m]the altar of burnt offering with all his [t]furniture, and [n]the 10 laver and his foot, and [o]the clothes of service, and the holy garments for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, 11 to minister in the priest's office, [p]and the anointing oil, and [q]sweet incense for the holy place: according to all that I have commanded thee shall they do.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, 12 13 saying, Speak thou also unto the children of Israel, saying, [r]Verily my sabbaths ye shall keep: for it is a sign between me and you throughout your generations; that ye may know that I am the LORD that doth sanctify you. Ye 14 shall keep the sabbath therefore; for it is holy unto you: every one that defileth it [s] shall surely be put to death: for [s]whosoever doeth any work therein, that soul

shall be cut off from amongst his people.
[t] Six days may work be done; but in the 15 [u] seventh is the sabbath of rest, [t]holy to the LORD: whosoever doeth any work in the sabbath day, he shall surely be put to death. Wherefore the children of 16 Israel shall keep the sabbath, to observe the sabbath throughout their generations, for a perpetual covenant. It is [x]a sign 17 between me and the children of Israel
for ever: for [y]in six days the LORD made heaven and earth, and on the seventh day he rested, and was refreshed. And he 18 gave unto Moses, when he had made an end of communing with him upon mount Sinai, [z]two tables of Testimony, tables
of stone, written with the finger of God.

XXXII. And when the people saw that Moses [a] delayed to come down out of the mount,
the people gathered themselves together
unto Aaron, and said unto him, [b]Up, make us gods, which shall [c]go before us; for as for this Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him. And Aaron said unto 2 them, Break off the [d]golden earrings, which are in the ears of your wives, of your sons, and of your daughters, and bring them unto me. And all the people 3 brake off the golden earrings which were
in their ears, and brought them unto Aaron. [c]And he received them at their 4
hand, and fashioned it with a graving
tool, after he had made it a [e]molten calf:
and they said, These be thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt. And when Aaron saw it, 5
he built an altar before it; and Aaron made [f]proclamation, and said, To morrow is a feast to the LORD. And they 6 rose up early on the morrow, and offered burnt offerings, and brought peace offerings; and the [g]people sat down to eat and to drink, and rose up to [h]play.

And the LORD said unto Moses, [i]Go, 7
get thee down; for thy people, which thou broughtest out of the land of Egypt, [j]have corrupted themselves: they have turned 8
aside quickly out of the way which [k]I commanded them: they have made them
a molten calf, and have worshipped it,
and have sacrificed thereunto, and said,

[i] These be thy gods, O Israel, which have brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.
9 And the LORD said unto Moses, [m]I have seen this people, and behold, it is a stiff-10 necked people: now therefore [n]let me alone, that [o]my wrath may wax hot against them, and that I may consume
them: and [p]I will make of thee a 11 great nation. [q]And Moses besought [r]the LORD his God, and said, LORD, why doth thy wrath wax hot against thy people, which thou hast brought forth out of the land of Egypt with great power, and with 12 a mighty hand? [r]Wherefore should the Egyptians speak, and say, For mischief did he bring them out, to slay them in the mountains, and to consume them from the face of the earth? Turn from thy fierce wrath, and [s]repent of this evil 13 against thy people. Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, thy servants, to whom thou [t]swarest by thine own self,
and saidst unto them, [u]I will multiply your seed as the stars of heaven, and all this land that I have spoken of will I give unto your seed, and they shall in-14 herit it for ever. And the LORD [w]repented of the evil which he thought to do unto his people.
15 And [x]Moses turned, and went down from the mount, and the two tables of the Testimony were in his hand: the tables were written on both their sides;
on the one side and on the other were 16 they written. And the [y]tables were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God, graven upon the 17 tables. And when [z]Joshua heard the noise of the people as they shouted,
he said unto Moses, There is a noise 18 of war in the camp. And he said, It is not the voice of them that [a]shout for mastery, neither is it the voice of them that [a]cry for [†]being overcome: but the noise of them that [a]sing do I hear.
19 And it came to pass, as soon as he came nigh unto the camp, that [b]he saw the calf, and the dancing: and Moses' anger waxed hot, and he cast the tables out of his hands, and brake them beneath the 20 mount. And he took the calf which they had made, and burnt it in the fire,
and ground it to powder, and strawed it
upon the water, and made the children 21 of Israel drink of it. And Moses said unto Aaron, [c]What did this people unto thee, that thou hast brought so great a 22 sin upon them? And Aaron said, Let not the anger of my lord wax hot: [d]thou knowest the people, that they are set on mischief. For they said unto me, [e]Make us gods, which shall go before us: for as for this Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him. And I said unto them, [f]Whosoever hath any gold, let them break it off. So they gave it me: then I cast it into the fire, and there came out this calf. And when Moses saw that the people were naked; (for Aaron [g]had made them naked unto their shame amongst [†]their enemies:) then Moses stood in the gate of the camp, and said, Who is on the LORD'S side? let him come unto me. And all the sons of Levi gathered themselves together unto him. And he said unto them, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Put every man his sword by his side, and go in and out from gate to gate throughout the camp, and [h]slay every man his brother, and every man his companion, and every man his neighbour. And the children of Levi did according to the word of Moses: and there fell of the people that day about three thousand men. [‖i]For Moses had said, [†]Consecrate yourselves to day to the LORD, even every man upon his son, and upon his brother; that he may bestow upon you a blessing this day.

And it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses said unto the people, [k]Ye have sinned a great sin: and now I will go up unto the LORD; [l]peradventure I shall [m]make an atonement for your sin. And Moses [n]returned unto the LORD, and said, Oh, this people have sinned a great sin, and have [o]made them gods of gold. Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin[p]; and if not, [q]blot me, I pray thee, [r]out of thy book which thou hast written. And the LORD said unto Moses, [s]Whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book. Therefore now go, lead the people unto the place of which I have spoken unto thee: [t]behold, mine Angel shall go before thee: nevertheless in the day when I visit, I will visit their sin upon them. And the LORD plagued the people, because they made the calf, which Aaron made.

XXXIII.

And the LORD said unto Moses, Depart, and go up hence, thou [a]and the people which thou hast brought up out of the land of Egypt, unto the land which I sware unto Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, saying, [b]Unto thy seed will I give it: and I will send [c]an angel before thee; [d]and I will drive out the Canaanite, the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite: [e]unto a land flowing with milk and honey: [f]for I will not go up in the midst of thee; for thou art a [g]stiffnecked people: lest [h]I consume thee in the way. And when the people heard these evil tidings, [i]they mourned: [k]and no man did put on him his ornaments. For the LORD had said unto Moses, Say unto the children of Israel, [l]Ye are a stiffnecked people: I will come up into the midst of thee in [m]a moment, and [n]consume thee: therefore now put off thy ornaments from thee, that I may know what to do unto thee. And the children of Israel stript themselves of their ornaments by the mount Horeb.

And Moses took the tabernacle, and pitched it without the camp, afar off from the camp, [o]and called it the Tabernacle of the Congregation. And it came to pass, that every one which [p]sought the LORD went out unto the tabernacle of the Congregation, which was without the camp. And it came to pass, when Moses went out unto the tabernacle, that all the people rose up, and stood every man [q]at his tent door, and looked after Moses, until he was gone into the tabernacle. And it came to pass, as Moses entered into the tabernacle, the [r]cloudy pillar descended, and stood at the door of the tabernacle, and the LORD [r]talked with Moses. And all the people saw the cloudy pillar stand at the tabernacle door: and all the people rose up and [s]worshipped, every man in his tent door. And [t]the LORD spake unto Moses face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend. And he turned again into the camp: but [u]his servant Joshua, the son of Nun, a young man, departed not out of the tabernacle.

And Moses said unto the LORD, See, [x]thou sayest unto me, Bring up this people: and thou hast not let me know whom thou wilt send with me. Yet thou hast said, [y]I know thee by name, and thou hast also found grace in my sight. Now therefore, I pray thee, [z]if I have found grace in thy sight, [a]shew me now thy way, that I may know thee, that I may find grace in thy sight: and consider that this nation is [b]thy people. And he said, [c]My presence shall go with thee, and I will give thee [d]rest. And he said unto him, [e]If thy presence go not wherein shall it be known here that I and thy people have found grace in thy sight? [f]is it not in that thou goest with us? so [g]shall we be separated, I and thy people, from all the people that are upon the face of the earth. And the 17

LORD said unto Moses, I will do this thing also that thou hast spoken: for [h]thou hast found grace in my sight, and [i]I know thee by name. And he said, I 18 beseech thee, shew me [k]thy glory. And 19
he said, I will make all [l]my goodness

XXXIV. And the LORD said unto Moses, [a]Hew thee two tables of stone like unto the first: [b]and I will write upon these tables the words that were in the first tables, [c]which thou brakest. And be 2 ready in the morning, and come up in the morning unto mount Sinai, and present thyself there to me [d]in the top of the mount. And no man shall [e]come 3 up with thee, neither let any man be seen throughout all the mount; neither let the flocks nor herds feed before that mount. And he hewed two tables of 4 stone like unto the first; and Moses rose up early in the morning, and went up unto mount Sinai, as the LORD had commanded him, and took in his hand the two tables of stone. And the LORD de- 5 scended in the cloud, and stood with him there, and [f]proclaimed the name of the LORD. And the LORD passed by 6 before him, and proclaimed, [g]The LORD,
The LORD God, merciful and [h]gracious, longsuffering, and abundant in [i]goodness

all your men children appear before the Lord GOD, the God of Israel. For I 24 will [u]cast out the nations before thee,
and [x]enlarge thy borders: [y]neither shall

shalt go up to appear before the LORD
thy God thrice in the year. [z]Thou shalt 25

thy land thou shalt bring unto the house of the LORD thy God. [c]Thou shalt not seethe a kid in his mother's milk. And 27
the LORD said unto Moses, Write thou these words: for after the tenor of these words [d]I have made a covenant with thee and with Israel. [e]And he was 28
there with the LORD forty days and forty nights; he did neither eat bread, nor drink water. And [f]he wrote upon the tables the words of the covenant, the ten [t]commandments.

And it came to pass, when Moses 29
came down from mount Sinai with the [g]two tables of Testimony in Moses' hand,
when he came down from the mount,
that Moses wist not that the skin of his face [h]shone while he talked with him.
And when Aaron and all the children of 30 Israel saw Moses, behold, the skin of his face shone; and they were afraid to come nigh him. And Moses called unto 31 them; and Aaron and all the rulers of the congregation returned unto him: and Moses talked with them. And after- 32 ward all the children of Israel came nigh: and [i]he gave them in commandment all that the LORD had spoken with him in mount Sinai. And till Moses 33 had done speaking with them, he put [k]a vail on his face. But [l]when Moses went 34
in before the LORD to speak with him,
he took the vail off, until he came out.
And he came out, and spake unto the children of Israel that which he was commanded. And the children of Israel 35 saw the face of Moses, that the skin of Moses' face shone: and Moses put the vail upon his face again, until he went in to speak with him.

And Moses gathered all the congregation of the children of Israel together,

that ye should do them. [b]Six days shall 2

the LORD. And every man, [d]with whom 23
was found [e]blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine linen, and goats' hair, and red skins of rams, and badgers' skins, brought them. Every one that did offer 24 an offering of silver and brass brought the LORD'S offering: and every man, with whom was found shittim wood for any work of the service, brought it.
And all the women that were [f]wise 25 hearted did spin with their hands, and brought that which they had [g]spun, both
of blue, and of purple, and of scarlet,
and of fine linen. And all the women 26
[h]whose heart stirred them up in wisdom
[g]spun goats' hair. And [i]the rulers 27 brought [k]onyx stones, and stones to be set, for the ephod, and for the breast-plate; [l]and [m]spice, and oil for the light, 28
and for the anointing oil, and for the sweet incense. The children of Israel 29
brought a [n]willing offering unto the LORD,
every man and woman, whose heart made them willing to bring for all manner of work, which the LORD had commanded to be made by the hand of Moses.

And Moses said unto the children of 30 Israel, See, [o]the LORD hath called by name Bezaleel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah; and he 31 hath filled him with the spirit of God, in wisdom, in understanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship; and to devise curious works, to 32
work in gold, and in silver, and in brass,
and in the cutting of stones, to set them, 33
and in carving of wood, to make any manner of cunning work. And he hath 34 put in his heart that he may teach, both
he, and Aholiab, the son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan. Them hath he 35 [p]filled with wisdom of heart, to work all manner of work, of the engraver, and of the cunning workman, and [q]of the em-broiderer, in blue, and in purple, in scarlet, and in fine linen, and [r]of the weaver, even of them that do any work, and of those that devise cunning work.

XXXVI. Then wrought Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every [a]wise hearted man, in whom the LORD put wisdom and understanding to know how to work all manner of work for the service of the sanctuary,
according to all that the LORD had commanded. And Moses called Bezaleel 2 and Aholiab, and every wise hearted man,
in whose heart the LORD had put wisdom, even every one [b]whose heart stirred him up to come unto the work to

3 do it: and they received of Moses all
[c]the offering, which the children of Israel
had brought for the work of the service of the sanctuary, to make it withal. And they brought yet unto him [d]free offerings 4 every morning. And all the wise men, that wrought all the work of the sanctuary, came every man from his work
5 which they made; and they spake unto Moses, saying, [e]The people bring much more than enough for the service of the work, which the LORD commanded to 6 make. And Moses gave commandment, and they caused it to be proclaimed
throughout the camp, saying, Let neither man nor woman make any more work for the offering of the sanctuary. So the people were restrained from bringing.
7 For the stuff they had was sufficient for all the work to make it, and too much.
8 [f]And every wise hearted man among them that wrought the work of the tabernacle made ten curtains of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and scarlet:
with cherubims of cunning work made 9 he them. The length of one curtain was twenty and eight cubits, and the breadth
of one curtain four cubits: the curtains 10 were all of one size. And he coupled the five curtains one unto another: and the other five curtains he coupled one 11 unto another. And he made loops of blue on the edge of one curtain from the selvedge in the coupling: likewise he made in the uttermost side of another
curtain, in the coupling of the second.
12 Fifty loops made he in one curtain, and fifty loops made he in the edge of the curtain which was in the coupling of the second: the loops held one curtain to 13 another. And he made fifty taches of gold, and coupled the curtains one unto another with the taches: so it became 14 one tabernacle. And he made curtains of goats' hair for the tent over the tabernacle: eleven curtains he made them.
15 The length of one curtain was thirty cubits, and four cubits was the breadth of one curtain: the eleven curtains were 16 of one size. And he coupled five curtains by themselves, and six curtains by 17 themselves. And he made fifty loops upon the uttermost edge of the curtain
in the coupling, and fifty loops made he upon the edge of the curtain which cou-18 pleth the second. And he made fifty taches of brass to couple the tent to-19 gether, that it might be one. And he made a covering for the tent of rams'

skins dyed red, and a covering of badgers' skins above that.
[g] And he made 20 boards for the tabernacle of shittim wood, standing up. The length of a board was 21 ten cubits, and the breadth of a board one cubit and a half. One board had 22 two tenons, [h] equally distant one from another: thus did he make for all the boards of the tabernacle. And he made 23 boards for the tabernacle; twenty boards for the south side southward: and forty 24 sockets of silver he made under the twenty boards; two sockets under one board for his two tenons, and two sockets under another board for his two tenons. And for the other side of the tabernacle, 25 which is toward the north corner, he made twenty boards, and their forty 26 sockets of silver; two sockets under one board, and two sockets under another board. And for the sides of the taber- 27 nacle westward he made six boards. And 28 two boards made he for the corners of the tabernacle in the two sides. And 29 they were [t] coupled beneath, and [t] coupled together at the head thereof, to one ring: thus he did to both of them in both the corners. And there were eight 30 boards; and their sockets were sixteen sockets of silver, [t] under every board two sockets. And he made bars [i] of shittim 31 wood; five for the boards of the one side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the 32 boards of the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the tabernacle for the sides westward. And he 33 made the middle bar to shoot through the boards from the one end to the other. And he overlaid the boards with gold, and 34 made their rings of gold to be places for the bars, and overlaid the bars with gold.
[k] And he made a vail of blue, and pur- 35 ple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen: with cherubims made he it of cunning work. And he made thereunto four pil- 36 lars of shittim wood, and overlaid them with gold: their hooks were of gold; and he cast for them four sockets of silver. And he made a hanging for the taber- 37 nacle door of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen, [t] of needlework; and the five pillars of it with their 38 hooks: and he overlaid their [l] chapiters and their [l] fillets with gold: but their five sockets were of brass.

XXXVII. And Bezaleel made [a] the ark of shittim wood: two cubits and a half was the length of it, and a cubit and a half the breadth of it, and a cubit and a half the height of it: and he overlaid it with pure 2 gold within and without, and made a crown of gold to it round about. And 3 he cast for it four rings of gold, to be set by the four corners of it; even two rings upon the one side of it, and two rings 4 upon the other side of it. And he made staves of shittim wood, and overlaid them 5 with gold. And he put the staves into the rings by the sides of the ark, to 6 bear the ark. And he made the [b] mercy seat of pure gold: two cubits and a half was the length thereof, and one cubit 7 and a half the breadth thereof. And he made two cherubims of gold, beaten out of one piece made he them, [l] on the two 8 ends of the mercy seat; one cherub [l] on the end on this side, and another cherub [l] on the other end on that side: [b] out of the mercy seat made he the cherubims 9 on the two ends thereof. And the cherubims spread out their wings on high, and covered with their wings over the mercy seat, with their faces one to another; even to the mercy seatward were the faces of the cherubims.
[c] And he made the table of shittim 10 wood: two cubits was the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof: 11 and he overlaid it with pure gold, and made thereunto a crown of gold round 12 about. Also he made thereunto a border of a handbreadth round about; and made a crown of gold for the border 13 thereof round about. And he cast for it four rings of gold, and put the rings upon the four corners that were in the four 14 feet thereof. Over against the border were the rings, the places for the staves 15 to bear the table. And he made the staves of shittim wood, and overlaid them 16 with gold, to bear the table. And he made the vessels which were upon the table, his dishes, and his spoons, and his bowls, and his covers [l] to cover withal, of pure gold.
17 [d] And he made the candlestick of pure gold: of beaten work made he the candlestick; his shaft, and his branch, his bowls, his knops, and his flowers, were of the 18 same: and six branches going out of the sides thereof; three branches of the candlestick out of the one side thereof, and three branches of the candlestick out of 19 the other side thereof: three bowls made after the fashion of almonds in one branch, a knop and a flower; and three bowls made like almonds in another

And [a] he made the altar of burnt offering of shittim wood: five cubits was the length thereof, and five cubits the breadth thereof; it was foursquare; and three cubits the height thereof. And he made 2 the horns thereof on the four corners of it; the horns thereof were of the same: and he overlaid it with brass. And he 3 made all the vessels of the altar, the pots, and the shovels, and the basons, and the fleshhooks, and the firepans: all the vessels thereof made he of brass. And he made for the altar a brasen 4 grate of network under the compass thereof beneath unto the midst of it. And he 5 cast four rings for the four ends of the grate of brass, to be places for the staves. And he made the staves of shittim wood, 6 and overlaid them with brass. And he 7 put the staves into the rings on the sides of the altar, to bear it withal; he made the altar hollow with boards. And the silver of them that were numbered of the congregation was an hundred talents, and a thousand seven hundred and threescore and fifteen shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary: [l]a bekah for [†]every man, that is, half a shekel, after the shekel of the sanctuary, for every one that went to be numbered, from twenty years old and upward, for [m]six hundred thousand and three thousand and five hundred and fifty men. And of the hundred talents of silver were cast [n]the sockets of the sanctuary, and the sockets of the vail; an hundred sockets of the hundred talents, a talent for a socket. And of the thousand seven hundred seventy and five shekels he made hooks for the pillars, and overlaid their chapiters, and filleted them. And the brass of the offering was seventy talents, and two thousand and four hundred shekels. And therewith he made [o]the sockets to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and [p]the brasen altar, and the brasen grate for it, and all the vessels of the altar, and [q]the sockets of the court round about, and [r]the sockets of the court gate, and all [s]the pins of the tabernacle, and all the pins of the court round about.

XXXIX. And of [a]the blue, and purple, and scarlet, they made [b]clothes of service, to do service in the holy place, and made the holy garments for Aaron; [c]as the LORD commanded Moses. [d]And he made the ephod of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen. And they [e]did beat the gold into thin plates, and cut it into [f]wires, to work it in the blue, and in the purple, and in the scarlet, and in the fine linen, with cunning work. They made shoulderpieces for it, to couple it together: by the two edges was it coupled together. And the curious girdle of his ephod, that was upon it, was of the same, according to the work thereof; of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen; as the LORD commanded Moses. And they wrought onyx stones inclosed in ouches of gold, graven as signets are graven, with the names of the children of Israel. And he put them on the shoulders of the ephod, that they should be stones for a memorial to the children of Israel; [g]as the LORD commanded Moses. And he made the breastplate of cunning work, like the work of the ephod; of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen. It was foursquare; they made the breastplate double: a span was the length thereof, and a span the breadth thereof, being doubled. And they set in it four rows of stones: the first row was a [t]sardius, a topaz, and a carbuncle: this was the first row. And the second row, an emerald, a sapphire, and a diamond. And the third row, a ligure, an agate, and an amethyst. And the fourth row, a beryl, an onyx, and a jasper: they were inclosed in ouches of gold in their inclosings. And the stones were according to the names of the children of Israel, twelve, according to their names, like the engravings of a signet, every one with his name, according to the twelve tribes. And they made upon the breastplate chains at the ends, of wreathen work of pure gold. And they made two ouches of gold, and two gold rings; and put the two rings in the two ends of the breastplate. And they put the two wreathen chains of gold in the two rings on the ends of the breastplate. And the two ends of the two wreathen chains they fastened in the two ouches, and put them on the shoulder pieces of the ephod, before it. And they made two rings of gold, and put them on the two ends of the breastplate, upon the border of it, which was on the side of the ephod inward. And they made two other golden rings, and put them on the two sides of the ephod underneath, toward the forepart of it, over against the other coupling thereof, above the curious girdle of the ephod. And they did bind the breastplate by his rings unto the rings of the ephod with a lace of blue, that it might be above the curious girdle of the ephod, and that the breastplate might not be loosed from the ephod; [h]as the LORD commanded Moses. And he made the robe of the ephod of woven work, all of blue. And there was a hole in the midst of the robe, as the hole of an habergeon, with a band round about the hole, that it should not rend. the hem of the robe to minister in; [i]as the LORD commanded Moses. [k]And they made coats of fine linen of woven work for Aaron, and for his sons, and a mitre of fine linen, and goodly bonnets of fine linen, and linen breeches of fine twined linen, and a girdle of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and scarlet, of needlework; as the LORD commanded Moses. [l]And they made the plate of the holy crown of pure gold, and wrote upon it a writing, like to the engravings of a signet, HOLINESS TO THE LORD. And they tied unto it a lace of blue, to fasten it on high upon the mitre; as the LORD commanded Moses.

Thus was all the work of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation finished: and the children of Israel did [m]according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so did they. And they brought the tabernacle unto Moses, the tent, and all his furniture, his taches, his boards, his bars, and his pillars, and his sockets, and the covering of rams' skins dyed red, and the covering of badgers' skins, and [n]the vail of the covering, the ark of the Testimony, and the staves thereof, and the mercy seat, the table, and all the vessels thereof, and the shewbread, [o]the pure candlestick, with the lamps thereof, even with the lamps to be set in order, and all the vessels thereof, and the oil for light, and [p]the golden altar, and the anointing oil, and [t]the sweet incense, and [q]the hanging for the tabernacle door, the brasen altar, and his grate of brass, his staves, and all his vessels, the laver and his foot, [r]the hangings of the court, his pillars, and his sockets, and [s]the hanging for the court gate, [t]his cords, and his pins, and all the vessels of the service of the tabernacle, for the tent of the congregation, the clothes of service to do service in the holy place, and the holy garments for Aaron the priest, and his sons' garments, to minister in the priest's office. According to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so [u]the children of Israel made all the work. And Moses did look upon all the work, and behold, they had done it as the LORD had commanded, even so had they done it: and Moses [x]blessed them.

XL.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, On the first day of the [a]first month shalt thou [b]set up the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation. And thou shalt put therein the ark of the Testimony, and [c]cover the ark with the vail. And [d]thou shalt bring in the table, and set in order [t]the things that are to be set in order upon it; [e]and thou shalt bring in the candlestick, and light the lamps thereof. [f]And thou shalt set the altar of gold for the incense before the ark of the Testimony, and put the hanging of the door to the tabernacle. [g]And thou shalt set the altar of the burnt offering before the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation. And [h]thou shalt set the laver between the tent of the congregation and the altar, and shalt put water therein. And thou shalt set up the court round about, and hang up the hanging at the court gate. And thou shalt take the anointing oil, and [i]anoint the tabernacle, and all that is therein, and shalt hallow it, and all the vessels thereof: and it shall be holy. And thou shalt anoint [k]the altar of the burnt offering, and all his vessels, and sanctify the altar: and it shall be an altar [t]most holy. And thou shalt anoint [k]the laver and his foot, and sanctify it. [l]And thou shalt bring Aaron and his sons unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and wash them with water. And thou shalt put upon Aaron the holy garments, [m]and anoint him, and sanctify him; that he may minister unto me in the priest's office. And thou shalt bring his sons, and clothe them with coats: and thou shalt anoint them, as thou didst anoint their father, that they may minister unto me in the priest's office: for their anointing shall surely be [n]an everlasting priesthood throughout their generations. Thus did Moses: according to all that the LORD commanded him, so did he.

And it came to pass in the first month in the second year, on the first day of the month, that the [o]tabernacle was reared up. And Moses reared up the tabernacle, and fastened his sockets, and set up the boards thereof, and put in the bars thereof, and reared up his pillars. And he spread abroad the tent over the tabernacle, and put the covering of the tent above upon it; as the LORD commanded Moses. And he took and put [p]the Testimony into the ark, and set the staves on the ark, and put the mercy seat above upon the ark: and he brought the ark into the tabernacle,

[r]And he put the table in the tent of the congregation, upon the side of the tabernacle northward, without the vail. [s]And he set the bread in order upon it before the LORD; as the LORD had commanded Moses. [t]And he put the candlestick in the tent of the congregation, over against the table, on the side of the tabernacle southward. And [u]he lighted the lamps before the LORD; as the LORD commanded Moses. [x]And he put the golden altar in the tent of the congregation before the vail: and he burnt [y]sweet incense thereon; as the LORD commanded Moses. [z]And he set up the hanging at the door of the tabernacle. [a]And he put the altar of burnt offering by the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation, and offered upon it the burnt offering and [b]the meat offering; as the LORD commanded Moses. [c]And he set the laver between the tent of the congregation and the altar, and put water there, to wash withal. And Moses and Aaron and his sons washed their hands and their feet thereat: when they went into the tent of the congregation, and when they came near unto the altar, they washed; [d]as the LORD commanded Moses. [e]And he reared up the court round about the tabernacle and the altar, and set up the hanging of the court gate. So Moses finished the work.

Then [f]a cloud covered the tent of the congregation, and [g]the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle. And Moses [g]was not able to enter into the tent of the congregation, because the cloud abode thereon, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle. [h]And when the cloud was taken up from over the tabernacle, the children of Israel [i]went onward in all their journeys: but [i]if the cloud were not taken up, then they journeyed not till the day that it was taken up. For the cloud of the LORD was upon the tabernacle by day, and fire was on it by night, in the sight of all the house of Israel, throughout all their journeys.

LEVITICUS.

I. B. C. 1490 Heb. 1609? Gr.

AND the LORD [a] called unto Moses, and spake unto him [b] out of the tabernacle of the congregation, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, [c] If any man of you bring an offering unto the LORD, ye shall bring your offering of the cattle, even of the herd, and of the flock. If his offering be a burnt sacrifice of the herd, let him offer a male [d] without blemish: he shall offer it of his own voluntary will at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the LORD. [e] And he shall put his hand upon the head of the burnt offering; and it shall be [f] accepted for him [g] to make atonement for him. And he shall kill the bullock before the LORD: and the priests, Aaron's sons, shall bring the blood, [h] and sprinkle the blood round about upon the altar that is by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. And he shall [h] flay the burnt offering, and cut it into his [i] pieces. And the sons of Aaron the priest shall put fire upon the altar, and [j] lay the wood in order upon the fire: and the priests, Aaron's sons, shall lay [i] the parts, the head, and [k] the fat, in order upon the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar: but [l] his inwards and his legs shall he wash in water: and the priest shall burn all on the altar, to be a burnt sacrifice, [m] an offering made by fire, of a [n] sweet savour unto the LORD. And if his offering be of the flocks, namely, of the sheep, or of the goats, for a burnt sacrifice; he shall bring it a male without blemish. [o] And he shall kill it on the side of the altar northward before the LORD: and the priests, Aaron's sons, shall sprinkle his blood round about upon the altar. And he shall cut it into his [i] pieces, with his head and his fat: and the priest shall lay them in order on the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar: but he shall wash the inwards and the legs with water: and the priest shall bring it all, and burn it upon the altar: it is a burnt sacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD. And if the burnt sacrifice for his offering to the LORD be of fowls, then he shall bring his offering of [p] turtledoves, or of young pigeons. And the priest shall bring it unto the altar, and [q] wring off his head, and burn it on the altar; and the blood thereof shall be wrung out at the side of the altar: and he shall pluck away his crop with [r] his feathers, and cast it [s] beside the altar on the east part, by the place of the ashes: and he shall cleave it with the wings thereof, but [t] shall not divide it asunder: and the priest shall burn it upon the altar, upon the wood that is upon the fire: [u] it is a burnt sacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

II. And when any will offer [a] a meat offering unto the LORD, his offering shall be of fine flour; and he shall pour oil upon it, and put frankincense thereon: and he shall bring it to Aaron's sons the priests: and he shall take thereout his handful of the flour thereof, and of the oil thereof, with all the frankincense thereof; and the priest shall burn [b] the memorial of it upon the altar, to be an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD: and [c] the remnant of the meat offering shall be Aaron's and his sons': it is a thing [d] most holy of the offerings of the LORD made by fire. And if thou bring an oblation of a meat offering baken in the oven, it shall be [e] unleavened cakes of fine flour mingled with oil, or unleavened wafers anointed with

And he shall offer the second for a burnt offering, according to the [‖]manner: [o]and the priest shall make an atonement for him for his sin which he had sinned, and it shall 11 be forgiven him. But if he be not able to bring two turtledoves, or two young pigeons, then he that sinned shall bring for his offering [p]the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a sin offering; [p]he shall put no oil upon it, neither shall he put any frankincense thereon: 12 for it is a sin offering. VI. And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, If a soul sin, and [a]commit a trespass against the LORD, and [b]lie unto his neighbour in that [c]which was delivered him to keep, or [‖]in [†]fellowship, or in a thing taken away by violence, or hath [d]deceived his neighbour; or [e]have found that which was lost, and lieth concerning it, and [f]sweareth falsely; in any of all these that a man doeth, sinning therein: then it shall be, because he hath sinned, and is guilty, that he shall restore that which he took violently away, or the thing which he hath deceitfully gotten, or that which was delivered him to keep, or the lost thing which he found, or all that about which he hath sworn falsely; he shall even [g]restore it in the principal, and shall add the fifth part more thereto, and give it unto him to whom it appertaineth, [‖†]in the day of his trespass offering. And he shall bring his trespass offering unto the LORD, [h]a ram without blemish out of the flock, with thy estimation, for a trespass offering, unto the priest: [i]and the priest shall make an atonement for him before the LORD: and it shall be forgiven him for any thing of all that he hath done in trespassing therein.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Command Aaron and his sons, saying, This is the law of the burnt offering: It is the burnt offering, [l]because of the burning upon the altar all night unto the morning, and the fire of the altar shall be burning in it. And the priest shall put on his linen garment, and his [k]linen breeches shall he put upon his flesh, and take up the ashes which the fire hath consumed with the burnt offering on the altar, and he shall put them [l]besides the altar. And [m]he shall put off his garments, and put on other garments, and carry forth the ashes [n]without the camp unto a clean place. And the fire upon the altar shall be burning in it; it shall not be put out: and the priest shall burn wood on it every morning, and lay the burnt offering in order upon it; and he shall burn thereon [o]the fat of the peace offerings.

The fire shall ever be burning upon the altar; it shall never go out.

And this is the law of the meat offering: the sons of Aaron shall offer it before the LORD, before the altar. And he shall take of it his handful, of the flour of the meat offering, and of the oil thereof, and all the frankincense which is upon the meat offering, and shall burn it upon the altar for a sweet savour, even the [q]memorial of it, unto the LORD. And [r]the remainder thereof shall Aaron and his sons eat: with unleavened bread shall it be eaten [s]in the holy place; in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation they shall eat it. [t]It shall not be baken with leaven. [u]I have given it unto them for their portion of my offerings made by fire; [x]it is most holy, as is the sin offering, and as the trespass offering. [y]All the males among the children of Aaron shall eat of it. [z]It shall be a statute for ever in your generations concerning the offerings of the LORD made by fire: [a]every one that toucheth them shall be holy.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [b]This is the offering of Aaron and of his sons, which they shall offer unto the LORD in the day when he is anointed; the tenth part of an [c]ephah of fine flour for a meat offering perpetual, half of it in the morning, and half thereof at night. [d]In a pan it shall be made with oil; and when it is baken, thou shalt bring it in: and the baken pieces of the meat offering shalt thou offer for a sweet savour unto the LORD. And the priest of his sons that is anointed in his stead shall offer it: it is a statute for ever unto the LORD; [e]it shall be wholly burnt. For every meat offering for the priest shall be wholly burnt: it shall not be eaten.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto Aaron and to his sons, saying, [f]This is the law of the sin offering: [g]In the place where the burnt offering is killed shall the sin offering be killed before the LORD: [h]it is most holy. [i]The priest that offereth it for sin shall eat it: [k]in the holy place shall it be eaten, in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation. [n]All the males among the priests shall eat thereof: [o]it is most holy. [p]And no sin offering, whereof any of the blood is brought into the tabernacle of the congregation to reconcile withal in the holy place, shall be eaten: it shall be burnt in the fire.

VII. Likewise [a]this is the law of the trespass offering: [b]it is most holy. [c]In the place where they kill the burnt offering shall they kill the trespass offering: and the blood thereof shall he sprinkle round about upon the altar. And he shall offer of it [d]all the fat thereof; the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is by the flanks, and the caul that is above the liver, with the kidneys, it shall he take away: and the priest shall burn them upon the altar for an offering made by fire unto the LORD: it is a trespass offering. [e]Every male among the priests shall eat thereof: it shall be eaten in the holy place: [f]it is most holy. As the sin offering is, so is [g]the trespass offering: there is one law for them: the priest that maketh atonement therewith shall have it. And the priest that offereth any man's burnt offering, even the priest shall have to himself the skin of the burnt offering which he hath offered. And [h]all the meat offering that is baken in the oven, and all that is dressed [i]in the fryingpan, and [k]in the pan, shall be the priest's that offereth it. And every meat offering, mingled with oil, and dry, shall all the sons of Aaron have, one as much as another.

And [j]this is the law of the sacrifice of peace offerings, which he shall offer unto the LORD. If he offer it for a thanksgiving, then he shall offer with the sacrifice of thanksgiving [k]unleavened cakes mingled with oil, and unleavened wafers anointed with oil, and cakes mingled with oil, of fine flour, [l]fried. Besides the cakes, he shall offer for his offering [m]leavened bread with the sacrifice of thanksgiving of his peace offerings. And of it he shall offer one out of the whole oblation for a heave offering unto the LORD, [n]and it shall be the priest's that sprinkleth the blood of the peace offerings. And the flesh of the sacrifice of his peace offerings [o]for thanksgiving shall be eaten the same day that it is offered; he shall not leave any of it until the morning. But [p]if the sacrifice of his offering be a vow, or a voluntary offering, it shall be eaten the same day that he offereth his sacrifice: and on the morrow also the remainder of it shall be eaten: but the remainder of the flesh of the sacrifice on the third day shall be burnt with fire. And if any of the flesh of the sacrifice of his peace offerings be eaten at all on the third day, it shall not be accepted, neither [q]shall it be imputed unto him that offereth it: it shall be an [r]abomination, and the soul that eateth of it shall bear his iniquity. And the flesh that toucheth any unclean thing shall not be eaten; it shall be burnt with fire: and as for the flesh, all that be clean shall eat thereof. But the soul that eateth of the flesh of the sacrifice of peace offerings, that pertain unto the LORD, [s]having his uncleanness upon him, even that soul [t]shall be cut off from his people. Moreover the soul that shall touch any unclean thing, as [u]the uncleanness of man, or any [w]unclean beast, or any [x]abominable unclean thing, and eat of the flesh of the sacrifice of peace offerings, which pertain unto the LORD, even that soul [y]shall be cut off from his people.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, [z]Ye shall eat no manner fat, of ox, or of sheep, or of goat. And the fat of the [f]beast that dieth of itself, and the fat of that which is torn with beasts, may be used in any other use: but ye shall in no wise eat of it. For whosoever eateth the fat of the beast, of which men offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, even the soul that eateth it shall be cut off from his people. [a]Moreover ye shall eat no manner of blood, whether it be of fowl or of beast, in any of your dwellings. Whatsoever soul it be that eateth any manner of blood, even that soul shall be cut off from his people.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, [b]He that offereth the sacrifice of his peace offerings unto the LORD shall bring his oblation unto the LORD of the sacrifice of his peace offerings. [c]His own hands shall bring the offerings of

And Aaron [b]lift up his hand to- 22 wards the people, and [c]blessed them, and came down from offering of the sin offering, and the burnt offering, and peace offerings. And Moses and Aaron went 23 into the tabernacle of the congregation, and came out, and blessed the people: [d]and the glory of the LORD appeared unto all the people. And [e]there came 24 a fire out from before the LORD, and consumed upon the altar the burnt offering and the fat: which when all the people saw, [f]they shouted, and [g]fell on their faces.

And [a]Nadab and Abihu, the sons of Aaron, [b]took either of them his censer, and put fire therein, and put incense thereon, and offered [c]strange fire before the LORD, which he commanded them not. And there [d]went out fire from the 2 LORD, and devoured them, and they died before the LORD. Then Moses said un- 3 to Aaron, This is it that the LORD spake, saying, I will be sanctified in them [e]that come nigh me, and before all the people I will be [f]glorified. [g]And Aaron held his peace. And Moses called Mi- 4 shael and Elzaphan, the sons of [h]Uzziel the uncle of Aaron, and said unto them, Come near, carry your [i]brethren from before the sanctuary out of the camp. So they went near, and carried them in 5 their coats out of the camp; as Moses had said. And Moses said unto Aaron, 6 and unto Eleazar and unto Ithamar his sons, [k]Uncover not your heads, neither rend your clothes; lest you die, and lest [l]wrath come upon all the people: but let your brethren, the whole house of Israel, bewail the burning which the LORD hath kindled. [m]And ye shall not 7 go out from the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, lest you die: [n]for the anointing oil of the LORD is upon you. And they did according to the word of Moses.

And the LORD spake unto Aaron, say- 8 9 ing, [o]Do not drink wine nor strong drink, thou, nor thy sons with thee, when ye go into the tabernacle of the congregation, lest ye die: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your gene- 10 rations: and that ye may [p]put difference between holy and unholy, and between 11 unclean and clean; [q]and that ye may teach the children of Israel all the statutes which the LORD hath spoken unto them by the hand of Moses.

And Moses spake unto Aaron, and 12 unto Eleazar and unto Ithamar his sons that were left, Take [r]the meat offering that remaineth of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and eat it without leaven [s]beside the altar: for [t]it 13 is most holy: and ye shall eat it in the holy place, because it is thy due, and thy sons' due, of the sacrifices of the LORD made by fire: for [u]so I am com- 14 manded. And [x]the wave breast and heave shoulder shall ye eat in a clean place; thou, and thy sons, and thy daughters with thee: for they be thy due, and thy sons' due, which are given out of the sacrifices of peace offerings of the 15 children of Israel. The heave shoulder and the wave breast shall they bring with the offerings made by fire of the fat, to wave it for a wave offering before the LORD; and it shall be thine, and thy sons' with thee, by a statute for ever; as the LORD hath commanded.

And Moses diligently sought [y]the 16 goat of the sin offering, and behold, it was burnt: and he was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar the sons of Aaron which 17 were left alive, saying, [z]Wherefore have ye not eaten the sin offering in the holy place, seeing it is most holy, and God hath given it you to bear the iniquity of the congregation, to make atonement for 18 them before the LORD? Behold, [a]the blood of it was not brought in [b]within the holy place: ye should indeed have eaten it in the holy place, [c]as I com- 19 manded. And Aaron said unto Moses, Behold, [d]this day have they offered their sin offering and their burnt offering before the LORD; and such things have befallen me: and if I had eaten the sin offering to day, should it have been ac- 20 cepted in the sight of the LORD? And when Moses heard that, he was content.

But if the priest look 21 on it, and behold, there be no white hairs therein, and if it be not lower than the skin, but be somewhat dark; then the priest shall shut him up seven days: and 22 if it spread much abroad in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a plague. But if the bright 23 spot stay in his place, and spread not, it is a burning boil; and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

Or if there be any flesh, in the skin 24 whereof there is [h]a hot burning, and the quick flesh that burneth have a white bright spot, [h]somewhat reddish, or white; then the priest shall look upon it: and 25 behold, if the hair in the bright spot be turned white, and it be in sight deeper than the skin; it is a leprosy broken out of the burning: wherefore the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leprosy. But if the priest look on it, 26 and behold, there be no white hair in the bright spot, and it be no lower than the other skin, but be somewhat dark; then the priest shall shut him up seven days: and the priest shall look upon him the 27 seventh day: and if it be spread much abroad in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leprosy. And if the bright spot stay 28 [i]in his place, and spread not in the skin, [i] ver. 23. but it be somewhat dark; it is a rising of the burning, and the priest shall pronounce him clean: for it is an inflammation of the burning.

29 If a man or woman hath a plague 30 upon the head or the beard; then the priest shall see the plague: and behold, if it be in sight deeper than the skin; and there be in it a yellow thin hair; then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a dry scall, even a leprosy upon the 31 head or beard. And if the priest look on the plague of the scall, and behold, it be not in sight deeper than the skin, and that there is no black hair in it; then the priest shall shut up him that hath 32 the plague of the scall seven days: and in the seventh day the priest shall look on the plague: and behold, if the scall spread not, and there be in it no yellow hair, and the scall be not in sight deeper 33 than the skin; he shall be shaven, but the scall shall he not shave; and the priest shall shut up him that hath the 34 scall seven days more: and in the seventh day the priest shall look on the scall: and behold, if the scall be not spread in the skin, nor be in sight deeper than the skin; then the priest shall pronounce him clean: and [k]he shall wash [k] ver. 6. 35 his clothes, and be clean. But if the scall spread much in the skin after his 36 cleansing; then the priest shall look on him: and behold, if the scall be spread in the skin, the priest shall not seek for 37 yellow hair: he is unclean. But if the scall be in his sight at a stay, and that there is black hair grown up therein; the scall is healed, he is clean: and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

38 If a man also or a woman have in the skin of their flesh bright spots, even 39 white bright spots; then the priest shall look: and behold, if the bright spots in the skin of their flesh be darkish white; it is a freckled spot that groweth in the 40 skin: he is clean. And if there be in the bald head, or bald forehead, a white reddish sore; it is a leprosy sprung up in his 43 bald head, or his bald forehead. Then the priest shall look upon it: and behold, if the rising of the sore be white reddish in his bald head, or in his bald forehead, as the leprosy appeareth in the skin of the flesh; he is a leprous man, he is unclean: the priest shall pronounce him utterly unclean, his plague is in his head. And the leper in whom the plague is, [l]his clothes shall be rent, and his head bare, and he shall [m]put a covering upon his upper lip, and shall cry, [n]Unclean, unclean. All the days wherein the plague shall be in him he shall be defiled; he is unclean: he shall dwell alone; [o]without the camp shall his habitation be.

The garment also that the plague of leprosy is in, whether it be a woollen garment, or a linen garment; whether it be in the warp, or woof; of linen, or of woollen; whether in a skin, or in any [t]thing made of skin; and if the plague be [p]greenish or reddish in the garment, or in the skin, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any [t]thing of skin; it is a plague of leprosy, and shall be shewed unto the priest: and the priest shall look upon the plague, and shut up it that hath the plague seven days: and he shall look on the plague on the seventh day: if the plague be spread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in a skin, or in any work that is made of skin; the plague is [q]a fretting leprosy; it is unclean. He shall therefore burn that garment, whether warp or woof, in woollen or in linen, or any thing of skin, wherein the plague is: for it is a fretting leprosy; it shall be burnt in the fire. And if the priest shall look, and behold, the plague be not spread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of skin; then the priest shall command that they wash the thing wherein the plague is, and he shall shut it up seven days more: and the priest shall look on the plague, after that it is washed: and behold, if the plague have not changed his colour, and the plague be not spread; it is unclean; thou shalt burn it in the fire; it is fret inward, [t]whether it be bare within or without. And if the priest look, and behold, the plague be somewhat dark after the washing of it; then he shall rend it out of the garment, or out of the skin, or out of the warp, or out of the woof: and if it appear still in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of skin; it is a spreading plague: thou shalt burn that wherein the plague is with fire. And the garment, either warp, or woof, or whatsoever thing of skin it be, which thou shalt wash, if the plague be departed from them, then it shall be washed the second time, and shall be clean. This is the law of the plague of leprosy in a garment of woollen or linen, either in the warp, or woof, or any thing of skins, to pronounce it clean, or to pronounce it unclean.

But the goat, on which the lot fell to be the scapegoat, shall be presented alive before the LORD, to make an atonement with him, and to let him go for a scapegoat into the wilderness. 11 And Aaron shall bring [k] the bullock of the sin offering, which is for himself, and shall make an atonement for himself, and for his house, and shall kill the bullock of the sin offering which is for 12 himself: and he shall take [l] a censer full of burning coals of fire from off the altar before the LORD, and his hands full of [m] sweet incense beaten small, and bring 13 it within the vail: [n] and he shall put the incense upon the fire before the LORD, that the cloud of the incense may cover the [o] mercy seat that is upon the Testi- 14 mony, that he die not: and [p] he shall take of the blood of the bullock, and [q] sprinkle it with his finger upon the

they may bring them unto the LORD, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, unto the priest, and offer them [d]for peace offerings unto the LORD. And the priest [d]shall sprinkle the blood upon the altar of the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and burn the fat [e]for a sweet savour unto the LORD. And they shall no more offer their sacrifices [f]unto devils, after whom they [g]have gone a whoring. This shall be a statute for ever unto them throughout their generations. And thou shalt say unto them, Whatsoever man there be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers which sojourn among you, [h]that offereth a burnt offering or sacrifice, and [i]bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer it unto the LORD; even that man shall be cut off from among his people.

And whatsoever man there be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn among you, [k]that eateth any manner of blood; I will even [l]set my face against that soul that eateth blood, and will cut him off from among his people. [m]For the life of the flesh is in the blood: and I have given it to you upon the altar [n]to make an atonement for your souls: for [o]it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul. But if he wash them not, nor bathe his flesh; then [z]he shall bear his iniquity.

[b]After the doings of the land of Egypt, wherein ye dwelt, shall ye not do: and [c]after the doings of the land of Canaan, whither I bring you, shall ye not do: neither shall ye walk in their [d]ordinances. [e]Ye shall do my judgments, and keep mine ordinances, to walk therein: I am the LORD your God. uncover her nakedness, as long as she is put apart for her uncleanness. Moreover [q]thou shalt not lie carnally with thy neighbour's wife, to defile thyself with her. And thou shalt not let any of thy seed [r]pass through the fire to [s]Molech, neither shalt thou [t]profane the name of thy God: I am the LORD. [u]Thou shalt not lie with mankind, as with womankind: it is abomination. [x]Neither shalt thou lie with any beast to defile thyself therewith: neither shall any woman stand before a beast to lie down thereto: it is [y]confusion. [z]Defile not you yourselves in any of these things: [a]for in all these the nations are defiled which I cast out before you: and [b]the land is defiled: therefore I do [c]visit the iniquity thereof upon it, and the land itself [d]vomiteth out her inhabitants. [e]Ye shall therefore keep my statutes and my judgments, and shall not commit any of these abominations; neither any of your own nation, nor any stranger that sojourneth among you: (for all these abominations have the men of the land done, which were before you, and the land is defiled;) that [f]the land spue not you out also, when ye defile it, as it spued out the nations that were before you. For whosoever shall commit any of these abominations, even the souls that commit them [g]shall be cut off from among their people. [h]Therefore ye shall keep mine ordinance, [i]that ye commit not any one of these abominable customs, which were committed before you, and that ye [k]defile not yourselves therein: [l]I am the LORD your God.

XIX. And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say unto them, [a]Ye shall be holy: for I the LORD your God am holy. [b]Ye shall fear every man his mother, and his father, and [c]keep my sabbaths: I am the LORD your God. Turn ye not unto [d]idols, [e]nor make to yourselves molten gods: I am the LORD your God.

And [f]if ye offer a sacrifice of peace offerings unto the LORD, ye shall offer it [g]at your own will. It shall be eaten the same day ye offer it, and on the morrow: and if ought remain until the third day, it shall be burnt in the fire. And if it be eaten at all on the third day, it is [h]abominable; it shall not be accepted. Therefore every one that eateth it [i]shall bear his iniquity, because he hath profaned the hallowed thing of the LORD: and [k]that soul shall be cut off from among his people.

And [l]when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harvest. And thou shalt not glean thy vineyard, neither shalt thou gather every grape of thy vineyard; thou shalt leave them for the poor and stranger: I am the LORD your God. [m]Ye shall not steal, [n]neither deal falsely, neither lie one to another. And ye shall not [o]swear by my name falsely, [p]neither shalt thou profane the name of thy God: I am the LORD. Thou shalt not [q]defraud thy neighbour, neither rob him: [r]the wages of him that is hired shall not abide with thee all night until the morning. Thou shalt not [s]curse the deaf, [t]nor put a stumblingblock before the blind, but shalt [u]fear thy God: I am the LORD. [w]Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment: thou shalt not respect the person of the poor, nor honour the person of the mighty: but in righteousness shalt thou judge thy neighbour. [x]Thou shalt not go up and down as a talebearer among thy people: neither shalt thou [y]stand against the blood of thy neighbour: I am the LORD. [z]Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thine heart: [a]thou shalt in any wise rebuke thy neighbour, and not suffer sin upon him. [b]Thou shalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people, but [c]thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself: I am the LORD.

Ye shall keep my statutes. Thou shalt not let thy cattle gender with a diverse kind: [d]thou shalt not sow thy field with mingled seed: [e]neither shall a garment mingled of linen and woollen come upon thee. And whosoever lieth carnally with a woman that is a bondmaid, [ll]betrothed to a husband, and not at all redeemed, nor freedom given her; [ll]she shall be scourged, they shall not be put to death, because she was not free. And if the people of the land do any ways hide their eyes from the man, when he giveth of his seed unto Molech, and [g]kill him not: 5 then I will set my face against that man, and against his family, and [d]will cut him off, and all that [h]go a whoring after him, to commit whoredom with Molech, from 6 among their people. And the LORD said unto Moses, Speak unto the priests the sons of Aaron, and say unto them, [a]There shall none be defiled for the dead among his people: but for his kin, that is near unto him, that is, for his mother, and for his father, and for his son, and for his daughter, and for his brother, and for his sister a virgin, that is nigh unto him, which hath had no husband; for her may he be defiled. But [t]he shall not defile himself, being a chief man among his people, to profane himself. [b]They shall not make baldness upon their head, neither shall they shave off the corner of their beard, nor make any cuttings in their flesh. They shall be holy unto their God, and [c]not profane the name of their God: for the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and [d]the bread of their God, they do offer: therefore they shall be holy. [e]They shall not take a wife that is a whore, or profane; neither shall they take a woman [f]put away from her husband: for he is holy unto his God. Thou shalt sanctify him therefore; for he offereth the bread of thy God: he shall be holy unto thee: for [g]I the LORD, which sanctify you, am holy. And the daughter of any priest, if she profane herself by playing the whore, she profaneth her father: [h]she shall be burnt with fire.

[i]And he that is [k]the high priest among his brethren, upon whose head the anointing oil was poured, and [i]that is consecrated to put on the garments, [l]shall not uncover his head, nor rend his clothes; neither shall he [m]go in to any dead body, nor defile himself for his father, or for his mother; [n]neither shall he go out of the sanctuary, nor profane the sanctuary of his God; for [o]the crown of the anointing oil of his God is upon him: I am the LORD. And [p]he shall take a wife in her virginity. A widow, or a divorced woman, or profane, or a harlot, these shall he not take: but he shall take a virgin of his own people to wife. Neither shall he profane his seed among his people: for [q]I the LORD do sanctify him.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto Aaron, saying, Whosoever he be of thy seed in their generations that hath any blemish, let him not [r]approach to offer the [l]bread of his God. For whatsoever man he be that hath a blemish, he shall not approach: a [s]blind man, or a lame, or he that hath a flat nose, or any thing [t]superfluous, or a man that is brokenfooted, or brokenhanded, or crookbackt, or [l]a dwarf, or that hath a blemish in his eye, or be [u]scurvy, or [u]scabbed, or [x]hath his stones broken; no man that hath a blemish, of the seed of Aaron the priest, shall come nigh to [y]offer the offerings of the LORD made by fire: he hath a blemish; he shall not come nigh to offer the bread of his God. nigh unto the altar, because he hath a blemish; that [b]he profane not my sanctuaries: for [c]I the LORD do sanctify them. And Moses told it unto Aaron, and to his sons, and unto all the children of Israel.

XXII. And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto Aaron and to his sons, that they [a]separate themselves from the holy things of the children of Israel, and that they [b]profane not my holy name in those things which they [c]hallow unto me: I am the LORD. Say unto them, Whosoever he be of all your seed among your generations, that goeth unto the holy things which the children of Israel hallow unto the LORD, [d]having his uncleanness upon him, [e]that soul shall be cut off from my presence: I am the LORD. What man soever of the seed of Aaron is a leper, or hath a [f]running issue; he shall not eat of the holy things, [f]until he be clean. And [g]whoso toucheth any thing that is unclean by the dead, or [h]a man whose seed goeth from him; or [i]whosoever toucheth any creeping thing, whereby he may be made unclean, or [k]a man of whom he may take uncleanness, whatsoever uncleanness he hath; the soul which hath touched any such shall be unclean until even, and shall not eat of the holy things, unless he [l]wash his flesh with water. And when the sun is down, he shall be clean, and shall afterward eat of the holy things; because [m]it is his food. [n]That which dieth of itself, or is torn with beasts, he shall not eat to defile himself therewith: I am the LORD. They shall therefore keep mine ordinance, [o]lest they bear sin for it, and die therefore, if they profane it: I the LORD do sanctify them.

[p]There shall no stranger eat of the holy thing: a sojourner of the priest's, or a hired servant, shall not eat of the holy thing. But if the priest buy any soul [t]with his money, he shall eat of it, and he that is born in his house: [q]they shall eat of his meat. If the priest's daughter also be married unto [t]a stranger, she may not eat of an [q]offering of the holy things. But if the priest's daughter be a widow, or divorced, and have no child, and is [r]returned unto her father's house, [s]as in her youth, she shall eat of her father's meat: but there shall no stranger eat thereof. [t]And if a man eat of the holy thing unwittingly, then he shall put the fifth part thereof unto it, and shall give it unto the priest with the holy thing.

And [u]they shall not profane the holy things of the children of Israel, which they offer unto the LORD; or [‖]suffer them [x]to bear the iniquity of trespass, when they eat their holy things: for I the LORD do sanctify them.

And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto Aaron, and to his sons, and unto all the children of Israel, and say unto them, [y]Whatsoever he be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers in Israel, that will offer his oblation for all his vows, and for all his freewill offerings, which they will offer unto the LORD for a burnt offering; [z]ye shall offer at your own will a male without blemish, of the beeves, of the sheep, or of the goats. [a]But whatsoever hath a blemish, that shall ye not offer: for it shall not be acceptable for you. And [b]whosoever offereth a sacrifice of peace offerings unto the LORD [c]to accomplish his vow, or a freewill offering in beeves or [‖]sheep, it shall be perfect to be accepted; there shall be no blemish therein. [d]Blind, or broken, or maimed, or having a wen, or [e]scurvy, or [e]scabbed, ye shall not offer these unto the LORD, nor make [f]an offering by fire of them upon the altar unto the LORD. Either a bullock or a [‖]lamb that hath any thing [g]superfluous or lacking in his parts, that mayest thou offer for a freewill offering; but for a vow it shall not be accepted. Ye shall not offer unto the LORD that which is bruised, or crushed, or broken, or cut; neither shall you make any offering thereof in your land. Neither from a stranger's hand shall ye offer [h]the bread of your God of any of these; because their [i]corruption is in them, and blemishes be in them: they shall not be accepted for you.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [k]When a bullock, or a sheep, or a goat, is brought forth, then it shall be seven days under the dam; and from the eighth day and thenceforth it shall be accepted for an offering made by fire unto the LORD. And whether it be cow or [‖]ewe, ye shall not kill it [l]and her young both in one day. And when ye will [m]offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving unto the LORD, offer it at your own will. On the same day it shall be eaten up; ye shall leave [n]none of it until the morrow: I am the LORD.

[o]Therefore shall ye keep my commandments, and do them: I am the LORD. [p]Neither shall ye profane my holy name; but [q]I will be hallowed among the children of Israel: I am the LORD which [r]hallow you, [s]that brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, Concerning [a]the feasts of the LORD, which ye shall [b]proclaim to be [c]holy convocations, even these are my feasts.

[d]Six days shall work be done: but the seventh day is the sabbath of rest, a [c]holy convocation; ye shall do no work therein: it is the sabbath of the LORD in all your dwellings.

These are the feasts of the LORD, even [c]holy convocations, which ye shall [b]proclaim in their seasons. [e]In the fourteenth day of the first month at even is the LORD's passover. And on the fifteenth day of the same month is the feast of unleavened bread unto the LORD: seven days ye must eat unleavened bread. [f]In the first day ye shall have a holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work therein. But ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD seven days: in the seventh day is a holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work therein.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, [g]When ye be come into the land which I give unto you, and shall reap the harvest thereof, then ye shall bring a [h]sheaf of the firstfruits of your harvest unto the priest: and he shall [h]wave the sheaf before the LORD, [i]to be accepted for you: on the morrow after the sabbath the priest shall wave it. And ye shall offer that day when ye wave the sheaf a he lamb without blemish of the first year for a burnt offering unto the LORD. [j]And the meat offering thereof shall be two tenth deals of fine flour mingled with oil, an offering made by fire unto the LORD for a sweet savour: and the drink offering thereof shall be of wine, the fourth part of a hin. And ye shall eat neither bread, nor [k]parched corn, nor [k]green ears, until the selfsame day that ye have brought an offering unto your God: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations in all your dwellings.

And [l]ye shall count unto you from the morrow after the sabbath, from the day that ye brought the sheaf of the wave offering; seven sabbaths shall be complete: even unto the morrow after the seventh sabbath shall ye number [m]fifty days; and ye shall offer [n]a new meat offering unto the LORD. Ye shall bring out of your habitations two wave loaves of two tenth deals: they shall be of fine flour; they shall be baken with leaven; they are [o]the firstfruits unto the LORD. And ye shall offer with the bread seven lambs without blemish of the first year, and one young bullock, and two rams: they shall be for a burnt offering unto the LORD, with their meat offering, and their drink offerings, even an offering made by fire, of sweet savour unto the LORD. Then ye shall sacrifice [p]one kid of the goats for a sin offering, and two lambs of the first year for a sacrifice of [q]peace offerings. And the priest shall wave them with the bread of the first fruits for [r]a wave offering before the LORD, with the two lambs: [s]they shall be holy to the LORD for the priest. And ye shall proclaim on the selfsame day, that it may be a holy convocation unto you: ye shall do no servile work therein: it shall be a statute for ever in all your dwellings throughout your generations. And [t]when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not make clean riddance of the corners of thy field when thou reapest, neither shalt thou gather any gleaning of thy harvest: thou shalt leave them unto the poor, and to the stranger: I am the LORD your God.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, In the [u]seventh month, in the first day of the month, shall ye have a sabbath, [x]a memorial of blowing of trumpets, a holy convocation. Ye shall do no servile work therein: but ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [y]Also on the tenth day of this seventh month there shall be a day of atonement: it shall be a holy convocation unto you; and ye shall afflict your souls, and offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD. And ye shall do no work in that same day: for it is a day of atonement, to make an atonement for you before the LORD your God. For whatsoever soul it be that shall not be afflicted in that same day, [z]he shall be cut off from among his people. And whatsoever soul it be that doeth any work in that same day, [a]the same soul will I destroy from among his people.

Ye shall do no manner of work: it shall 31
be a statute for ever throughout your generations in all your dwellings. It 32 shall be unto you a sabbath of rest, and ye shall afflict your souls: in the ninth day of the month at even, from even unto even, shall ye [t]celebrate your sabbath.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, 33
saying, Speak unto the children of Is- 34
rael, saying, [b]The fifteenth day of this seventh month shall be the feast of tabernacles for seven days unto the LORD.
On the first day shall be a holy convo- 35
cation: ye shall do no servile work there-
in. Seven days ye shall offer an offer- 36
ing made by fire unto the LORD: [c]on the eighth day shall be a holy convocation unto you; and ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD: it is a [t][d]solemn assembly; and ye shall do no servile work therein. [d]These are the 37
feasts of the LORD, which ye shall [d]proclaim to be holy convocations, to offer
an offering made by fire unto the LORD,
a burnt offering, and a meat offering, a sacrifice, and drink offerings, [e]every thing
upon his day: [f]beside the sabbaths of the 38 LORD, and beside your gifts, and beside all your vows, and beside all your free-will offerings, which ye give unto the LORD. Also in the fifteenth day of the 39 seventh month, when ye have [g]gathered in the fruit of the land, ye shall keep a feast unto the LORD seven days: on the first day shall be a sabbath, and on the eighth day shall be a sabbath. And [h]ye 40 shall take you on the first day the [t]boughs of goodly trees, branches [h]of palm trees, and the boughs [h]of thick trees, and willows of the brook; [i]and ye shall rejoice before the LORD your God
seven days. [k]And ye shall keep it a 41 feast unto the LORD seven days in the year. It shall be a statute for ever in your generations: ye shall celebrate it in the seventh month. [l]Ye shall dwell 42
in booths seven days; all that are Israelites born shall dwell in booths:
[m]that your generations may know that 43
I made the children of Israel to dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God. And Moses [n]declared unto the 44 children of Israel the feasts of the LORD.

XXIV.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, 2
saying, [a]Command the children of Israel, that they bring unto thee pure oil olive beaten for the light, [t]to cause the 3 lamps to burn continually. Without the vail of the Testimony, in the tabernacle
of the congregation, shall Aaron order it from the evening unto the morning before the LORD continually: it shall be a statute for ever in your generations.
4 He shall order the lamps upon [b]the pure candlestick before the LORD continually.

5 And thou shalt take fine flour, and
bake twelve [c]cakes thereof: two tenth 6 deals shall be in one cake. And thou shalt set them in two [d]rows, six on a row, [e]upon the pure table before the LORD.
7 And thou shalt put pure frankincense upon each row, that it may be on the bread for a memorial, even an offering 8 made by fire unto the LORD. [f]Every sabbath he shall set it in order before the LORD continually, being taken from the children of Israel by an everlasting 9 covenant. And [g]it shall be Aaron's and his sons'; [h]and they shall eat it in the holy place: for it is most holy unto him of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, by a perpetual statute.

10 And the son of an Israelitish woman, whose father was an Egyptian, went out among the children of Israel: and this son of the Israelitish woman and a man of Israel strove together in the camp;
11 and the Israelitish woman's son blas-phemed the name [i]of the LORD, and [j]cursed. And they [k]brought him unto Moses: (and his mother's name was Shelomith, the daughter of Dibri, of the 12 tribe of Dan:) and they [l]put him in ward, [t][m]that the mind of the LORD might 13 be shewed them. And the LORD spake 14 unto Moses, saying, Bring forth him that hath cursed without the camp; and let
all that heard him [n]lay their hands upon his head, and let all the congrega-15 tion stone him. And thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel, saying, Whosoever curseth his God [o]shall bear his 16 sin. And he that [p]blasphemeth the name of the LORD, he shall surely be put to death, and all the congregation shall certainly stone him: as well the stranger, as he that is born in the land,
when he [p]blasphemeth the name of the 17 LORD, shall be put to death. [q]And he that [t]killeth any man shall surely be 18 put to death. [r]And he that [t]killeth a beast shall make it good; [t]beast for 19 beast. And if a man cause a blemish

in his neighbour; as [s]he hath done, so shall it be done to him; breach for breach, eye for eye, tooth for tooth: as he hath caused a blemish in a man, so shall it be done to him again. [t]And he that killeth a beast, he shall restore it: [u]and he that killeth a man, he shall be put to death. Ye shall have [x]one manner of law, as well for the stranger, as for one of your own country: for I am the LORD your God. And Moses spake to the children of Israel, [y]that they should bring forth him that had cursed out of the camp, and stone him with stones. And the children of Israel did as the LORD commanded Moses.

XXV. And the LORD spake unto Moses in mount Sinai, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land which I give you, then shall the land [f]keep [a]a sabbath unto the LORD. Six years thou shalt sow thy field, and six years thou shalt prune thy vineyard, and gather in the fruit thereof; but in the seventh year shall be a sabbath of rest unto the land, a sabbath for the LORD: thou shalt neither sow thy field, nor prune thy vineyard. [b]That which groweth of its own accord of thy harvest thou shalt not reap, neither gather the grapes [†]of thy vine undressed: for it is a year of rest unto the land. And the sabbath of the land shall be meat for you; for thee, and for thy servant, and for thy maid, and for thy hired servant, and for thy stranger that sojourneth with thee, and for thy cattle, and for the beast that are in thy land, shall all the increase thereof be meat.

And thou shalt number seven sabbaths of years unto thee, seven times seven years; and the space of the seven sabbaths of years shall be unto thee forty and nine years. Then shalt thou cause the trumpet [†]of the jubile to sound on the tenth day of the seventh month, [c]in the day of atonement shall ye make the trumpet sound throughout all your land. And ye shall hallow the fiftieth year, and proclaim [d]liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof: it shall be a jubile unto you; [e]and ye shall return every man unto his possession, and ye shall return every man unto his family. A jubile shall that fiftieth year be unto you: [f]ye shall not sow, neither reap that which groweth of itself in it, nor gather the grapes in it [f]of thy vine undressed. For it is the jubile; it shall be holy unto you: [g]ye shall eat the increase thereof out of the field. [h]In the year of this jubile ye shall return every man unto his possession. And if thou sell ought unto thy neighbour, or buyest ought of thy neighbour's hand, ye shall not [i]oppress one another: [k]according to the number of years after the jubile thou shalt buy of thy neighbour, and according unto the number of years of the fruits he shall sell unto thee: according to the multitude of years thou shalt increase the price thereof, and according to the fewness of years thou shalt diminish the price of it: for according to the number of the years of the fruits doth he sell unto thee. Ye shall not therefore [l]oppress one another; [m]but thou shalt fear thy God: for I am the LORD your God.

[n]Wherefore ye shall do my statutes, and keep my judgments, and do them; [o]and ye shall dwell in the land in safety. And the land shall yield her fruit, and [p]ye shall eat your fill, and dwell therein in safety. And if ye shall say, [q]What shall we eat the seventh year? behold, [r]we shall not sow, nor gather in our increase: then I will [s]command my blessing upon you in the sixth year, and it shall bring forth fruit for three years. [t]And ye shall sow the eighth year, and eat yet of [u]old fruit until the ninth year; until her fruits come in ye shall eat of the old store.

The land shall not be sold [‖]for ever: for [x]the land is mine; for ye were [y]strangers and sojourners with me. And in all the land of your possession ye shall grant a redemption for the land. If thy brother be waxen poor, and hath sold away some of his possession, and if [z]any of his kin come to redeem it, [a]then shall he redeem that which his brother sold. And if the man have none to redeem it, and [†]himself be able to redeem it; then [b]let him count the years of the sale thereof, and restore the overplus unto the man to whom he sold it; that he may return unto his possession. But if he be not able to restore it to him, then that which is sold shall remain in the hand of him that hath bought it until the year of jubile: and in the jubile it shall go out, and he shall return unto his possession. And if a man sell a dwelling house in a walled city, then he

Notwithstanding [d]the cities of the Le- 32 vites, and the houses of the cities of their possession, may the Levites redeem at any time. And if [‖]a man purchase 33 of the Levites, then the house that was sold, and the city of his possession, [e]shall go out in the year of jubile: for the houses of the cities of the Levites are their possession among the children of Israel. But the field [f]of the suburbs of 34 their cities may not be sold; for it is their perpetual possession.

And if thy brother be waxen poor, 35 and [†]fallen in decay with thee; then thou shalt [†g]relieve him: yea, though he be a stranger, or a sojourner; that he may live with thee. [h]Take thou no 36 usury of him, or increase: but [i]fear thy God; that thy brother may live with thee. Thou shalt not give him thy money 37 upon usury, nor lend him thy victuals for increase. [k]I am the LORD your God, 38 which brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, to give you the land of Canaan, and to be your God.

And [l]if thy brother that dwelleth by 39 thee be waxen poor, and be sold unto thee; thou shalt not [†]compel him to serve as a bondservant: but as a hired 40 servant, and as a sojourner, he shall be with thee, and shall serve thee unto the year of jubile: and then shall he depart 41 from thee, [m]both he and his children with him, and shall return unto [n]his own family, and [n]unto the possession of his fathers shall he return. For they 42 are [o]my servants, which I brought forth out of the land of Egypt: they shall not be sold [†]as bondmen. [p]Thou shalt not 43 rule over him [q]with rigour; but [r]shalt fear thy God. Both thy bondmen, and 44 thy bondmaids, which thou shalt have, shall be of the heathen that are round about you; of them shall ye buy bondmen and bondmaids. Moreover of the 45 children of the strangers that do sojourn among you, of them shall ye buy, and of their families that are with you, which they begat in your land: and they shall 46 be your possession. And [s]ye shall take them as an inheritance for your children after you, to inherit them for a possession; [†]they shall be your bondmen for ever: but over your brethren the children of Israel, [t]ye shall not rule one over another with rigour.

And if a sojourner or stranger [†]wax 47 rich by thee, and [u]thy brother that dwelleth by him wax poor, and sell himself unto the stranger or sojourner by thee, or to the stock of the stranger's 48 family: after that he is sold he may be redeemed again; one of his brethren 49 may [x]redeem him: either his uncle, or his uncle's son, may redeem him, or any [y]that is nigh of kin unto him of his family may redeem him; or if [z]he be 50 able, he may redeem himself. And he shall reckon with him that bought him from the year that he was sold to him unto the year of jubile: and the price of his sale shall be according unto the number of years, [a]according to the time of a hired servant shall it be with him. 51 If there be yet many years behind, [b]according unto them he shall give again the price of his redemption out of the 52 money that he was bought for. And if there remain but few years unto the year of jubile, then he shall count with him, and according unto his years shall he give him again the price of his redemption. 53 And as a yearly hired servant shall he be with him: and the other shall not rule [c]with rigour over him in 54 thy sight. And if he be not redeemed [‖]in these years, then he shall go out in the year of jubile, [d]both he, and his chil- 55 dren with him. For [e]unto me the children of Israel are servants; they are my servants whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

Ye shall make you no [a]idols nor XXVI.
[b]graven image, neither rear you up a [‖]standing image, neither shall ye set up any [‖]image of stone in your land, to bow down unto it: for I am the LORD 2 your God. [c]Ye shall keep my sabbaths, and reverence my sanctuary: I am the LORD.

3 [d]If ye walk in my statutes, and keep 4 my commandments, and do them; then I will give you [e]rain in due season, [f]and land of your enemies shall eat you up.

And they that are left of you [q] shall pine 39
away in their iniquity in your enemies' lands; and also in the iniquities of their fathers shall they pine away with them.
If they shall [r] confess their iniquity, and 40
the iniquity of their fathers, with [s] their trespass which they trespassed against me, and that also they have walked contrary unto me; and that I also have 41 walked contrary unto them, and have brought them into the land of their enemies; if then their [t] uncircumcised hearts be [u] humbled, and they then accept of [w] the punishment of their iniquity: then 42
will I [x] remember my covenant with Jacob, and also my covenant with Isaac,
and also my covenant with Abraham will I remember; and I will remember the land. [y] The land also shall be left 43
of them, and shall enjoy her sabbaths,
while she lieth desolate without them:
and they shall accept of [w] the punishment of their iniquity: because, even because they [z] despised my judgments, and because their soul abhorred my statutes.
And yet for all that, when they be in 44
the land of their enemies, [a] I will not cast them away, neither will I abhor them, to destroy them utterly, and to [b] break my covenant with them: for I am the LORD their God. But I will 45 for their sakes remember the covenant of their ancestors, [c] whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt [d] in the sight of the heathen, that I might be their God: I am the LORD. [e] These 46
are the statutes and judgments and laws, which the LORD made between him and the children of Israel [f] in mount Sinai by the hand of Moses.

XXVII.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, 2
saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When a man [a] shall make a singular vow, the persons shall be for the LORD by [b] thy estimation. And thy estimation shall be, 3 of the male from twenty years old even unto sixty years old, even thy estimation shall be fifty shekels of silver, [c] after the shekel of the sanctuary. And if it 4 be a female, then thy estimation shall be thirty shekels. And if it be from five 5 years old even unto twenty years old,
then thy estimation shall be of the male twenty shekels, and for the female ten 6 shekels. And if it be from a month old even unto five years old, then thy estimation shall be of the male five shekels
of silver, and for the female thy estima-7 tion shall be three shekels of silver. And if it be from sixty years old and above;
if it be a male, then thy estimation shall be fifteen shekels, and for the female 8 ten shekels. But if he be poorer than thy estimation, then he shall present himself before the priest, and the priest shall value him; [d] according to [e] his ability that vowed shall the priest value him.
9 And if it be a beast, whereof men
bring an offering unto the LORD, all that any man giveth of such unto the 10 LORD shall be holy. He shall not alter it, nor change it, a good for a bad, or a bad for a good: and if he shall at all change beast for beast, then it and the 11 exchange thereof shall be holy. And if it be any unclean beast, of which they do not offer a sacrifice unto the LORD,
then he shall present the beast before 12 the priest: and the priest shall value it,
whether it be good or bad: [f] as thou valuest it, who art the priest, so shall it 13 be. [f] But if he will at all redeem it, then he shall add a fifth part thereof
unto thy estimation.
14 And when a man shall sanctify his house to be holy unto the LORD, then the priest shall estimate it, whether it be good or bad: as the priest shall estimate 15 it, so shall it stand. [g] And if he that sanctified it will redeem his house, then he shall add the fifth part of the money of thy estimation unto it, and it shall be 16 his. And if a man shall sanctify unto the LORD some part of a field of his possession, then thy estimation shall be according to the seed thereof: [h] a homer of barley seed shall be valued at fifty 17 shekels of silver. If he sanctify his field from the year of jubile, according to thy 18 estimation it shall stand. But if he sanc-tify his field after the jubile, then the priest shall [h] reckon unto him the money
according to the years that remain, even unto the year of the jubile, and it shall 19 be abated from thy estimation. [i] And if he that sanctified the field will in any wise redeem it, then he shall add the fifth part of the money of thy estimation unto it, and it shall be assured to him.

And if he will not redeem the field, or 20
if he have sold the field to another man,
it shall not be redeemed any more. But 21 [k] the field, [k]when it goeth out in the jubile, shall be holy unto the LORD, as a field [l]devoted; [m]the possession thereof shall be the priest's. And if a man sanc- 22 tify unto the LORD a field which he hath bought, which is not of the fields of [n]his possession; [o]then the priest shall reckon 23
unto him [p]the worth of thy estimation, even unto the year of the jubile: and he shall give thine estimation in that day,
as a holy thing unto the LORD. [q]In 24
the year of the jubile the field shall return unto him of whom it was bought,
even to him to whom the possession of the land did belong. And all thy esti- 25
mations shall be according to [r]the she-kel of the sanctuary: [s]twenty gerahs shall be the shekel.

Only [t]the [†]firstling of the beasts, which 26
should be the LORD'S firstling, no man shall sanctify it; whether it be ox, or sheep: it is the LORD'S. And if it be of 27
an unclean beast, then he shall redeem
it according to thine estimation, [u]and it be not redeemed, then it shall be sold

according to thy estimation. [x]Notwith- 28

shall devote unto the LORD of all that he hath, both of man and beast, and of the field of his possession, shall be sold or redeemed: every devoted thing is most holy unto the LORD. [y]None de- 29

shall be redeemed; but shall surely be put to death.

it and the change thereof shall be holy;

I.
B.C. 1490
Heb. 1609? Gr.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses [a]in the wilderness of Sinai, [b]in the tabernacle of the congregation, on the first day of the second month, in the second year after they were come out of the land of Egypt, saying, [c]Take ye the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel, after their families, by the house of their fathers, with the number of their names, every male by [d]their polls; from twenty years old and upward, all that are able to go forth to war in Israel: thou and Aaron shall number them by their armies. And with you there shall be a man of every tribe; every one head of the house of his fathers.

And these are the names of the men that shall stand with you: of the tribe of Reuben; Elizur the son of Shedeur. Of Simeon; Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai. Of Judah; [e]Nahshon the son of Amminadab. Of Issachar; Nethaneel the son of Zuar. Of Zebulun; Eliab the son of Helon. Of the children of Joseph: of Ephraim; Elishama the son of Ammihud: of Manasseh; Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur. Of Benjamin; Abidan the son of Gideoni. Of Dan; Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai. Of Asher; Pagiel the son of Ocran. Of Gad; Eliasaph the son of [f]Deuel. Of Naphtali; Ahira the son of Enan. These were the [g]renowned of the congregation, [h]princes of the tribes of their fathers, [i]heads of thousands in Israel. And Moses and Aaron took these men which [j]are expressed by their names: and they assembled all the congregation together on the first day of the second month, and they declared their pedigrees after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, by their polls. As the LORD commanded Moses, so he numbered them in the wilderness of Sinai.

And the children of Reuben, Israel's eldest son, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Reuben, were forty and six thousand and five hundred. Of the children of Simeon, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, those that were numbered of them, according to the number of the names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Simeon, were fifty and nine thousand and three hundred. Of the children of Gad, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Gad, were forty and five thousand six hundred and fifty. Of the children of Judah, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Judah, were threescore and fourteen thousand and six hundred. Of the children of Issachar, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their

Of the children of Dan, by their gene- 38 rations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; those that were numbered 39 of them, even of the tribe of Dan, were threescore and two thousand and seven hundred. Of the children of Asher, by 40 their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; those that were num- 41 bered of them, even of the tribe of Asher, were forty and one thousand and five hundred. Of the children of Naphtali, 42 throughout their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all 43 that were able to go forth to war; those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Naphtali, were fifty and three 44 thousand and four hundred. [i]These are those that were numbered, which Moses and Aaron numbered, and the princes of Israel, being twelve men: each one was for the house of his fathers. 45 So were all those that were numbered of the children of Israel, by the house of their fathers, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go 46 forth to war in Israel; even all they that were numbered were [j]six hundred thousand and three thousand and five hundred and fifty.

47 But [k]the Levites after the tribe of their fathers were not numbered among 48 them. For the LORD had spoken unto 49 Moses, saying, Only thou shalt not number the tribe of Levi, neither take the sum of them among the children of Is- 50 rael: [l]but thou shalt appoint the Levites over the tabernacle of Testimony, and over all the vessels thereof, and over all things that belong to it: they shall bear the tabernacle, and all the vessels thereof; and they shall minister unto it, [m]and shall encamp round about the taberna- 51 cle. [n]And when the tabernacle setteth forward, the Levites shall take it down: and when the tabernacle is to be pitched, the Levites shall set it up: [o]and the stranger that cometh nigh shall be put 52 to death. And the children of Israel shall pitch their tents, every man by his own camp, and [p]every man by his own 53 standard, throughout their hosts. [q]But the Levites shall pitch round about the tabernacle of Testimony, that there be no [r]wrath upon the congregation of the children of Israel: and the Levites [s]shall keep the charge of the tabernacle of 54 Testimony. And the children of Israel did according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so did they.

II. And the LORD spake unto Moses and 2 unto Aaron, saying, [a]Every man of the children of Israel shall pitch by his own standard, with the ensign of their father's house: [t][b]far off about the tabernacle of the congregation shall they pitch.

3 And on the east side toward the rising of the sun shall they of the standard of the camp of Judah pitch throughout their armies: and [c]Nahshon the son of

These also are the generations of Aaron and Moses in the day that the LORD spake with Moses in mount Sinai. III.

Eleazar, and Ithamar. These are the 3
[b] names of the sons of Aaron, [b]the priests
which were anointed, [f]whom he consecrated to minister in the priest's office.
[c]And Nadab and Abihu died before the 4
LORD, when they offered strange fire before the LORD, in the wilderness of Sinai, and they had no children: and Eleazar and Ithamar ministered in the priest's office in the sight of Aaron their father.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, 5
saying, [d]Bring the tribe of Levi near, 6 and present them before Aaron the priest, that they may minister unto him.
And they shall keep his charge, and the 7
charge of the whole congregation before the tabernacle of the congregation, [e]to do the service of the tabernacle. And 8
they shall keep all the instruments of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the charge of the children of Israel, [e]to do the service of the tabernacle. And 9
[f]thou shalt give the Levites unto Aaron and to his sons: they are wholly given unto him out of the children of Israel.
And thou shalt appoint Aaron and his 10 sons, [g]and they shall wait on their priest's office: [h]and the stranger that cometh nigh shall be put to death. And 11
the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,
And I, behold, [i]I have taken the Le- 12
vites from among the children of Israel
instead of all the firstborn that openeth
the matrix among the children of Israel:
therefore the Levites shall be mine;
because [k]all the firstborn are mine; [l]for 13
on the day that I smote all the firstborn
in the land of Egypt I hallowed unto me all the firstborn in Israel, both man and beast: mine they shall be: I am the LORD.

And the LORD spake unto Moses in 14
the wilderness of Sinai, saying, Number 15
the children of Levi after the house of their fathers, by their families: [m]every male from a month old and upward shalt thou number them. And Moses 16 numbered them according to the [f]word of the LORD, as he was commanded.
[n]And these were the sons of Levi by 17 their names; Gershon, and Kohath, and Merari. And these are the names of 18
the sons of Gershon by their families;
[o]Libni, and [o]Shimei. And the sons of 19
Kohath by their families; [p]Amram, and [p]Izehar, Hebron, and Uzziel. And the 20 sons of Merari by their families; [q]Mahli, and Mushi. These are the families of the Levites according to the house of their fathers.

Of Gershon was the family of the 21
Libnites, and the family of the Shimites:
these are the families of the Gershonites.
Those that were numbered of them, ac- 22
cording to the number of all the males,
from a month old and upward, even those that were numbered of them were seven thousand and five hundred. [r]The 23
families of the Gershonites shall pitch behind the tabernacle westward. And 24
the chief of the house of the father of the Gershonites shall be Eliasaph the son of Lael. And [s]the charge of the 25 sons of Gershon in the tabernacle of the congregation shall be [t]the tabernacle,
and [u]the tent, [x]the covering thereof,
and [y]the hanging for the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and [z]the 26
hangings of the court, and [a]the curtain
for the door of the court, which is by the tabernacle, and by the altar round about, and [b]the cords of it for all the service thereof.

[c]And of Kohath was the family of 27
the Amramites, and the family of the [c]Izeharites, and the family of the Hebronites, and the family of the Uzzielites: these are the families of the Ko-hathites. In the number of all the 28
males, from a month old and upward,
were eight thousand and six hundred,
keeping the charge of the sanctuary.
The families of the sons of Kohath shall 29
pitch [d]on the side of the tabernacle southward. And the chief of the house 30 of the father of the families of the Ko-hathites shall be [e]Elizaphan the son of Uzziel. And their charge shall be [f]the 31 ark, and [g]the table, and [h]the candlestick,
and [i]the altars, and the vessels of the sanctuary wherewith they minister, and [k]the hanging, and all the service thereof.
And Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest 32
shall be chief over the chief of the Levites, and have the oversight of them
that keep the charge of the sanctuary.

Of Merari was the family of the Mah- 33
lites, and the family of the Mushites:
these are the families of Merari. And 34
those that were numbered of them, according to the number of all the males,
from a month old and upward, were six thousand and two hundred. And the 35 chief of the house of the father of the families of Merari was Zuriel the son of Abihail: these shall pitch on the side of the tabernacle northwards. And [f]under 36

All that were numbered of the Levites, which Moses and Aaron numbered at the commandment of the LORD, throughout their families, all the males from a month old and upward, were [u]twenty and two thousand.

And the LORD said unto Moses, Number all the firstborn of the males of the children of Israel from a month old and upward, and take the number of their names. [x]And thou shalt take the Levites for me (I am the LORD) instead of all the firstborn among the children of Israel; and the cattle of the Levites instead of all the firstlings among the cattle of the children of Israel. And Moses numbered, as the LORD commanded him, all the firstborn among the children of Israel. And all the firstborn males by the number of names, from a month old and upward, of those that were numbered of them, were twenty and two thousand two hundred and threescore and thirteen. And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [y]Take the Levites instead of all the firstborn among the children of Israel, and the cattle of the Levites instead of their cattle; and the Levites shall be mine: I am the LORD. And for those that are to be [z]redeemed of the two hundred and threescore and thirteen of the firstborn of the children of Israel, [a]which are more than the Levites; thou shalt even take [b]five shekels apiece [c]by the poll, after the shekel of the sanctuary shalt thou take them: ([d]the shekel is twenty gerahs:) and thou shalt give the money, wherewith the odd number of them is to be redeemed, unto Aaron and to his sons. And Moses took the redemption money of them that were over and above them that were redeemed by the Levites: of the firstborn of the children of Israel took he the money; [e]a thousand three hundred and threescore and five shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary: and Moses [f]gave the money of them that were redeemed unto Aaron and to his sons, according to the word of the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moses.

IV. And the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying, Take the sum of the sons of Kohath from among the sons of Levi, after their families, by the house of their fathers, [a]from thirty years old and upward even until fifty years old, all that enter into the host, to do the work in the tabernacle of the congregation. This shall be the service of the sons of Kohath in the tabernacle of the congregation, about [b]the most holy things: and when the camp setteth forward, Aaron shall come, and his sons, and they shall take down [c]the covering vail, and cover the [d]ark of Testimony with it: and shall put thereon [e]the covering of badgers' skins, and shall spread over it a cloth wholly of blue, and shall put in [f]the staves thereof. And upon the [g]table of shewbread they shall spread a cloth of blue, and put thereon the dishes, and the spoons, and the bowls, and covers to [l]cover withal: and the continual bread shall be thereon: and they shall spread upon them a cloth of scarlet, and cover the same with a covering of badgers' skins, and shall put in [h]the staves thereof. And they shall take a cloth of blue, and cover the [i]candlestick of the light, [i]and his lamps, and his tongs, and his snuffdishes, and all the oil vessels thereof, wherewith they minister unto it: and they shall put it and all the vessels thereof within a covering of badgers' skins, and shall put it upon a bar. And upon [k]the golden altar they shall spread a cloth of blue, and cover it with a covering of badgers' skins, and shall put to [k]the staves thereof: and they shall take all the instruments of ministry, wherewith they minister in the sanctuary, and put them in a cloth of blue, and cover them with a covering of badgers' skins, and shall put them on a bar: and they shall take away the ashes from [l]the altar, and spread a purple cloth thereon: and they shall put upon it all the vessels thereof, wherewith they minister about it, even [l]the censers, the fleshhooks, and the shovels, and the [l]basons, all the vessels of the

And when Aaron and 15 his sons have made an end of covering the sanctuary, and all the vessels of the sanctuary, as the camp is to set forward; after that, [m]the sons of Kohath shall come to bear it: [n]but they shall not touch any holy thing, lest they die. These things are the burden of the sons of Kohath in the tabernacle of the congregation. And to the office of Eleazar 16 the son of Aaron the priest pertaineth [o]the oil for the light, and the [p]sweet incense, and [q]the daily meat offering, and the [r]anointing oil, and the oversight of all the tabernacle, and of all that therein is, in the sanctuary, and in the vessels thereof. And the LORD spake 17 unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying, Cut ye not off the tribe of the families 18 of the Kohathites from among the Levites: but thus do unto them, that they 19 may live, and not die, when they approach unto [s]the most holy things: Aaron and his sons shall go in, and appoint them every one to his service and to his burden: [t]but they shall not go in 20 to see when [u]the holy things are covered, lest they die.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, 21 saying, Take also the sum of the sons 22 of Gershon, throughout the houses of their fathers, by their families; from 23 thirty years old and upward until fifty years old shalt thou number them; all that enter in [l]to perform the service, to do the work in the tabernacle of the congregation. This is the service of 24 the families of the Gershonites, to serve, and for [l]burdens: and [x]they shall bear 25 [y]the curtains of the tabernacle, and the tabernacle of the congregation, [z]his covering, and [z]the covering of the badgers' skins that is above upon it, and the hanging for the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the 25 hangings of the court, and the hanging for the door of the gate of the court, which is by the tabernacle and by the altar round about, and their cords, and all the instruments of their service, and all that is made for them: so shall they serve. At the [t]appointment of Aaron 27 and his sons shall be all the service of the sons of the Gershonites, in all their burdens, and in all their service: and ye shall appoint unto them in charge all their burdens. This is the service of 28 the families of the sons of Gershon in the tabernacle of the congregation: and their charge shall be under the hand of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest.

29 As for the sons of Merari, thou shalt number them after their families, by the 30 house of their fathers; from thirty years old and upward even unto fifty years old shalt thou number them, every one that entereth into the [t]service, to do the work of the tabernacle of the congrega- 31 tion. And [a]this is the charge of their burden, according to all their service in the tabernacle of the congregation; the boards of the tabernacle, and the bars thereof, and the pillars thereof, and 32 sockets thereof, and the pillars of the court round about, and their sockets, and their pins, and their cords, with all their instruments, and with all their service: and by name ye shall [b]reckon the instruments of the charge of their bur- 33 den. [d]These were they that were numbered of the families of the Kohathites, all that might do service in the tabernacle of the congregation, which Moses and Aaron did number according to the commandment of 38 the LORD by the hand of Moses. Thus shalt thou separate the Levites from among the children of Israel: and the Levites shall be 15 [n]mine. And after that shall the Levites go in to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation: and thou shalt cleanse them, and offer them for 16 an offering. of the children of Israel are mine, both man and beast: on the day that I smote every firstborn in the land of Egypt, I sanctified them for myself. And I have 18 taken the Levites for all the firstborn of the children of Israel. And [q]I have 19 given the Levites as [†]a gift to Aaron and to his sons from among the children of Israel, to do the service of the children of Israel in the tabernacle of the congregation, and to make an atonement for the children of Israel: [r]that there be no plague among the children of Israel, when the children of Israel come nigh unto the sanctuary. And 20 Moses, and Aaron, and all the congregation of the children of Israel, did to the Levites according unto all that the LORD commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so did the children of Israel unto them. And the Levites [s]were pu- 21 rified, and they washed their clothes; and Aaron offered them as an offering before the LORD; and Aaron made an atonement for them to cleanse them. And after that went the Levites in to 22 do their service in the tabernacle of the congregation before Aaron, and before his sons: as the LORD had commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so did they unto them.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, 23 saying, This is it that belongeth unto the 24 Levites: [t]from twenty and five years old and upward they shall go in [†]to wait upon the service of the tabernacle of the congregation: and from the age of 25 fifty years they shall [†]cease waiting upon the service thereof, and shall serve no more: but shall minister with their 26 brethren in the tabernacle of the congregation, [u]to keep the charge, and shall do no service. Thus shalt thou do unto the Levites touching their charge.

IX. And the LORD spake unto Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, [a]in the first month of the second year after they were come out of the land of Egypt, saying, Let the children of Israel also 2 keep [b]the passover at his appointed season. In the fourteenth day of this 3 month, [†]at even, ye shall keep it in his appointed season: according to all the rites of it, and according to all the ceremonies thereof, shall ye keep it. And 4 Moses spake unto the children of Israel, that they should keep the passover. And 5 they kept the passover on the fourteenth day of the first month at even in the wilderness of Sinai: according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so did the children of Israel.

6 And there were certain men, who were [c]defiled by the dead body of a man, that they could not keep the passover on that day: [d]and they came before Moses and before Aaron on that day: 7 and those men said unto him, We are defiled by the dead body of a man: wherefore are we kept back, that we may not offer an offering of the LORD in his appointed season among the chil- 8 dren of Israel? And Moses said unto them, Stand still, and [e]I will hear what the LORD will command concerning you.

9 And the LORD spake unto Moses, say- 10 ing, Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If any man of you or of your posterity shall be unclean by reason of a dead body, or be in a journey afar off, yet he shall keep the passover unto the 11 LORD. [f]The fourteenth day of the second month at even they shall keep it, and [g]eat it with unleavened bread and 12 bitter herbs. [h]They shall leave none of it unto the morning, [i]nor break any bone of it: [k]according to all the ordinances of the passover they shall keep 13 it. But the man that is clean, and is not in a journey, and forbeareth to keep the passover, even the same soul [l]shall be cut off from among his people: because he [m]brought not the offering of the LORD in his appointed season, that 14 man shall [n]bear his sin. And if a stranger shall sojourn among you, and will keep the passover unto the LORD; according to the ordinance of the passover, and according to the manner thereof, so shall he do: [o]ye shall have one ordinance, both for the stranger, and for him that was born in the land.

15 And [p]on the day that the tabernacle was reared up, the cloud covered the tabernacle, namely, the tent of the Testimony: and [q]at even there was upon the tabernacle as it were the appearance 16 of fire, until the morning. So it was alway: the cloud covered it by day, and 17 the appearance of fire by night. And when the cloud [r]was taken up from the tabernacle, then after that the children of Israel journeyed: and in the place where the cloud abode, there the chil- 18 dren of Israel pitched their tents. And 2 the people cried unto Moses; and when Moses [d]prayed unto the LORD, the fire [w]was quenched. And he called the 3 name of the place [x]Taberah: because the fire of the LORD burnt among them.

And the [e]mixt multitude that was 4 among them [y]fell a lusting: and the children of Israel also [y]wept again, and said, [z]Who shall give us flesh to eat?

5 [g]We remember the fish, which we did eat in Egypt freely; the cucumbers, and the melons, and the leeks, and the 6 onions, and the garlick: but now our soul is dried away: there is nothing at all, beside this manna, before our eyes. 7 And [h]the manna was as coriander seed, and the [i]colour thereof as the colour of 8 [j]bdellium. And the people [k]went about, and gathered it, and ground it in mills, or beat it in a mortar, and baked it in pans, and made cakes of it: and the taste of it was as the taste of [l]fresh oil. 9 And [m]when the dew fell upon the camp in the night, the manna fell upon it. 10 Then Moses heard the people weep throughout their families, every man in the door of his tent: and the anger of the LORD was kindled greatly; Moses 11 also [n]was displeased. [o]And Moses said unto the LORD, Wherefore hast thou afflicted thy servant? and wherefore have I not found favour in thy sight, that thou layest the burden of all this people 12 upon me? Have I conceived all this people? have I begotten them, that thou shouldest say unto me, [p]Carry them in thy bosom, as a [q]nursing father beareth the sucking child, unto the land which thou [r]swarest unto their fathers? 13 [s]Whence should I have flesh to give unto all this people? for they weep unto me, saying, Give us flesh, that we may 14 eat. [t]I am not able to bear all this people alone, because it is too heavy 15 for me. And if thou deal thus with me, [u]kill me, I pray thee, out of hand, if I have found favour in thy sight; and let me not [x]see my wretchedness.

16 And the LORD said unto Moses, Gather unto me [y]seventy men of the elders of Israel, whom thou knowest to be the elders of the people, and [z]officers over them; and bring them unto the tabernacle of the congregation, that they may 17 stand there with thee. And I will [a]come down and talk with thee there: and [b]I will take of the spirit which is upon thee, and will put it upon them; and they shall bear [c]the burden of the people with thee, that thou bear it not 18 thyself alone. And say thou unto the people, [d]Sanctify yourselves against to morrow, and ye shall eat flesh: for you have wept in the ears of the LORD, saying, Who shall give us flesh to eat? [e]for it was well with us in Egypt: therefore the LORD will give you flesh, and 19 ye shall eat. Ye shall not eat one day,

[t] whole month, [f] until it come out at your nostrils, and it be loathsome unto you: because that ye have despised the LORD which is among you, and have wept before him, saying, [g] Why came we forth out of Egypt? And Moses said, [h] The 21 people, amongst whom I am, are six hundred thousand footmen; and thou hast said, I will give them flesh, that they may eat a whole month. Shall the 22 flocks and the herds be slain for them, to [i] suffice them? or shall all the fish of the sea be gathered together for them, to [i] suffice them? And the LORD said 23 unto Moses, [k] Is the LORD's hand waxed short? thou shalt see now whether [l] my word shall come to pass unto thee or not. And Moses went out, and told 24 the people the words of the LORD, and [m] gathered the seventy men of the elders of the people, and set them round about the tabernacle. And the LORD [n] came 25 down in a cloud, and spake unto him, and [n] took of the spirit that was upon him, and gave it unto the seventy elders: and it came to pass, that when the spirit rested upon them, they prophesied, and did not cease. But there remained 26
two of the men in the camp, the name of the one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad: and the spirit rested upon them; and they were of them that were written, but [o] went not out unto the tabernacle: and they prophesied in the camp. And there ran a young man, 27 and told Moses, and said, Eldad and Medad do prophesy in the camp. And 28 [p] Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of Moses, one [q] of his young men, answered and said, My lord Moses, [r] forbid them. And Moses said unto him, Enviest thou 29 for my sake? [s] would God that all the LORD's people were prophets, and that the LORD would put his spirit upon them! And Moses gat him into the 30 camp, he and the elders of Israel.

And there went forth a [t] wind from 31
the LORD, and brought quails from the sea, and let them fall by the camp, [t] as it were a day's journey on this side, and [t] as it were a day's journey on the other side, round about the camp, and as it were two cubits high upon the face of the earth. And the people stood up all 32
that day, and all that night, and all the next day, and they gathered the quails: he that gathered least gathered ten [u] homers: and they spread them all abroad for themselves round about the camp.
And while the [x] flesh was yet between 33 their teeth, ere it was chewed, the wrath of the LORD was kindled against the people, and the LORD smote the people with a very great plague. And he called 34
the name of that place [l] Kibroth-hattaavah: because there they buried the people that lusted. [y] And the people 35 journeyed from Kibroth-hattaavah unto Hazeroth; and [t] abode at Hazeroth.

the face of the earth.) [d] And the LORD spake suddenly unto Moses, and unto Aaron, and unto Miriam, Come out ye three unto the tabernacle of the congre- 5 gation. And they three came out. [e] And the LORD came down in the pillar of the cloud, and stood in the door of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam: 6 and they both came forth. And he said, Hear now my words: If there be a prophet among you, I the LORD will make myself known unto him [f] in a vision, and will speak unto him [g] in a dream. 7 afraid to speak against [o] my servant Moses? And the anger of the LORD was kindled against them; and he departed. 10

And the cloud departed from off the tabernacle; and [p] behold, Miriam became [q] leprous, white as snow: and Aaron looked upon Miriam, and behold, she 11 was leprous. And Aaron said unto Moses, Alas, my lord, I beseech thee, [r] lay not the sin upon us, wherein we have done foolishly, and wherein we have 12

XIII. And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [a]Send thou men, that they may search the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Israel: of every tribe of their fathers shall ye send a man, every one a ruler among them. And Moses by the commandment of the LORD sent them [b]from the wilderness of Paran: all those men were heads of the children of Israel. And these were their names: of the tribe of Reuben, Shammua the son of Zaccur. Of the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat the son of Hori. [c]Of the tribe of Judah, [d]Caleb the son of Jephunneh. Of the tribe of Issachar, Igal the son of Joseph. Of the tribe of Ephraim, [e]Oshea the son of Nun. Of the tribe of Benjamin, Palti the son of Raphu. Of the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel the son of Sodi. Of the tribe of Joseph, namely, of the tribe of Manasseh, Gaddi the son of Susi. Of the tribe of Dan, Ammiel the son of Gemalli. Of the tribe of Asher, Sethur the son of Michael. Of the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi the son of Vophsi. Of the tribe of Gad, Geuel the son of Machi. These are the names of the men which Moses sent to spy out the land. And Moses called [f]Oshea the son of Nun, Jehoshua. And Moses sent them to spy out the land of Canaan, and said unto them, Get you up this way [g]southward, and go up into [h]the mountain: and see the land, what it is; and the people that dwelleth therein, whether they be strong or weak, few or many; and what the land is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad; and what cities they be that they dwell in, whether in tents, or in strong holds; and what the land is, whether it be [i]fat or lean, whether there be wood therein, or not. And [k]be ye of good courage, and bring of the fruit of the land. Now the time was the time of the first ripe grapes. So they went up, and searched the land [l]from the wilderness of Zin unto [m]Rehob, [n]as men come to Hamath. And they ascended by the south, and came unto Hebron; where [o]Ahiman, Sheshai, and Talmai, the children of Anak, were. (Now [p]Hebron was built seven years before [q]Zoan in Egypt.) And [r]they came unto the ‖brook of Eshcol, and cut down from thence a branch with one cluster of grapes, and they bare it between two upon a [s]staff; and they brought of the pomegranates, and of the figs. The place was called the ‖brook ‖Eshcol, because of the cluster of grapes which the children of Israel cut down from thence. And they returned from searching of the land after forty days.

And they went and came to Moses, and to Aaron, and to all the congregation of the children of Israel, unto the wilderness of Paran, to [t]Kadesh; and brought back word unto them, and unto all the congregation, and shewed them the fruit of the land. And they told him, and said, We came unto the land whither thou sentest us, and surely it floweth with [u]milk and honey; [x]and this is the fruit of it. Nevertheless [y]the people be strong that dwell in the land, and the cities are [y]walled, and very great: and moreover we saw the children of Anak there. [z]The Amalekites dwell in the land of the south: and the Hittites, and the Jebusites, and the Amorites, dwell in the mountains: and [a]the Canaanites dwell by the sea, and by the coast of Jordan. And [b]Caleb stilled the people before Moses, and said, Let us go up at once, and possess it; for we are well able to overcome it. [c]But the men that went up with him said, We be not able to go up against the people; for they are stronger than we. And they brought up [d]an evil report of the land which they had searched unto the children of Israel, saying, The land, through which we have gone to search it, is a land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof; and [e]all the people that we saw in it are [f]men of a great stature. And there we saw [f]the giants, the sons of Anak, which come of [f]the giants: and we were in our own sight as [g]grasshoppers, and so we were in their sight.

And all the congregation [a]lifted up their voice, and cried; and [b]the people wept that night. And all the children of Israel [c]murmured against Moses and against Aaron: and the whole congregation said unto them, Would God that the LORD was not [z]able to bring this people into the land which he sware unto them, therefore he hath slain them in the wilderness. And now, I beseech 17 thee, let the power of my Lord be great, according as thou hast spoken, saying,

18 The LORD is [a]longsuffering, and of great mercy, forgiving iniquity and transgression, and by no means clearing the guilty, [b]visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth

24 it: but my servant [l]Caleb, because he had another spirit with him, and [m]hath followed me fully, him will I bring into the land whereinto he went; and his
25 seed shall possess it. (Now [n]the Amalekites and [n]the Canaanites dwelt in the valley.) To morrow turn you, and [o]get you into the wilderness by the way of the Red sea.

28 which they murmur against me. Say unto them, [q]As truly as I live, saith the LORD, [r]as ye have spoken in mine

30 against me, doubtless ye shall not come into the land, concerning which I [t]sware to make you dwell therein, [t]save Caleb the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua the 31 son of Nun. [u]But your little ones, which ye said should be a prey, them will I bring in, and they shall know the 32 land which [x]ye have despised. But as for you, [y]your carcases, they shall fall 33 in this wilderness. And your children shall [l][z]wander in the wilderness [a]forty years, and [b]bear your whoredoms, until your carcases be wasted in the wilder-

your iniquities, even forty years, and ye shall know my ‖breach of promise. [f] I 35 the LORD have said, I will surely do it unto all [g] this evil congregation, that are gathered together against me: in this wilderness they shall be consumed, and there they shall die. [h] And the men, 36 which Moses sent to search the land, who returned, and made all the congregation to murmur against him, by bringing up a slander upon the land, even 37 those men that did bring up the evil report upon the land, [i] died by the plague before the LORD. [k] But Joshua 38 the son of Nun, and Caleb the son of Jephunneh, which were of the men that went to search the land, lived still. And 39 Moses told these sayings unto all the children of Israel: and the people [l] mourned greatly.

And they rose up early in the morn- 40 ing, and gat them up into the top of the mountain, saying, Lo, [m] we be here, and will go up unto the place which the LORD hath promised: for we have sinned. And Moses said, Wherefore now 41 do ye [n] transgress the commandment of the LORD? but it shall not prosper. [o] Go not up, for the LORD is not among 42 you; that ye be not smitten before your enemies. For [p] the Amalekites and the 43 Canaanites are there before you, and ye shall fall by the sword: because ye are turned away from the LORD, therefore the LORD will not be with you. [q] But 44 they presumed to go up unto the hill top: nevertheless [r] the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and Moses, departed not out of the camp. Then [s] the Amalekites 45 came down, and the Canaanites which dwelt in that hill, and smote them, and discomfited them, even unto [t] Hormah.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [a] Speak unto the children of Is- 2 rael, and say unto them, When ye be come into the land of your habitations, which I give unto you, and [b] will make 3 an offering by fire unto the LORD, a burnt offering, or a sacrifice in [†] performing [c] a vow, or in a freewill offering, or [d] in your solemn feasts, to make a [e] sweet savour unto the LORD, of the herd, or of the flock: then [f] shall he that 4 offereth his offering unto the LORD bring [g] a meat offering of a tenth deal of flour mingled [h] with the fourth part of a hin of oil. [i] And the fourth part of a hin of 5 wine for a drink offering shalt thou prepare with the burnt offering or sacrifice, for one lamb. [k] Or for a ram, thou 6 shalt prepare for a meat offering two tenth deals of flour mingled with the third part of a hin of oil. And for a 7 drink offering thou shalt offer the third part of a hin of wine, for a sweet savour unto the LORD. And when thou pre- 8 parest a bullock for a burnt offering, or for a sacrifice in performing a vow, or peace offerings unto the LORD: then 9 [l] shall he bring [m] with a bullock a meat offering of three tenth deals of flour mingled with half a hin of oil. And 10 thou shalt bring for a drink offering half a hin of wine, for an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD. [n] Thus shall it be done for one bullock, 11 or for one ram, or for a lamb, or a kid. According to the number that ye shall 12 prepare, so shall ye do to every one according to their number. All that are 13 born of the country shall do these things after this manner, in offering an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD. And if a stranger sojourn with 14 you, or whosoever be among you in your generations, and will offer an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD; as ye do, so he shall do. [o] One 15 ordinance shall be both for you of the congregation, and also for the stranger that sojourneth with you, [p] an ordinance for ever in your generations: as ye are, so shall the stranger be before the LORD. One law and one manner shall be for 16 you, and for the stranger that sojourneth with you.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, 17 saying, [q] Speak unto the children of Is- 18 rael, and say unto them, When ye come into the land whither I bring you, then 19 it shall be, that when ye eat of [r] the bread of the land, ye shall offer up a heave offering unto the LORD. [s] Ye 20 shall offer up a cake of [t] the first of your dough for a heave offering: as ye do [u] the heave offering of the threshingfloor, so shall ye heave it. Of [t] the first of your 21 dough ye shall give unto the LORD a heave offering in your generations. shall be, if ought be committed by ignorance [f]without the knowledge of the congregation, that all the congregation shall offer one young bullock for a burnt offering, for a sweet savour unto the LORD, [x]with his meat offering, and his drink offering, according to the [‖]manner, and [y]one kid of the goats for a sin offering. [z]And the priest shall make 25 an atonement for all the congregation of the children of Israel, and it shall be forgiven them; for it is ignorance: and they shall bring their offering, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD, and their sin offering before the LORD, for their ignorance: and it shall be forgiven all 26 the congregation of the children of Israel, and the stranger that sojourneth among them; seeing all the people were in ignorance. And [a]if any soul sin 27 through ignorance, then he shall bring a she goat of the first year for a sin offering. [b]And the priest shall make an 28 atonement for the soul that sinneth ignorantly, when he sinneth by ignorance before the LORD, to make an atonement for him; and it shall be forgiven him. [c]You shall have one law for him that 29 [†]sinneth through ignorance, both for him that is born amongst the children of Israel, and for the stranger that sojourneth among them. [d]But the soul that 30 doeth ought [†]presumptuously, whether he be born in the land, or a stranger, the same [e]reproacheth the LORD; and [f]that soul shall be cut off from among his people. Because he hath [g]despised the 31 word of the LORD, and hath broken his commandment, that soul shall utterly be cut off; his iniquity shall be upon him.

And while the children of Israel were 32 in the wilderness, they found a man that [h]gathered sticks upon the sabbath day. And they that found him gather- 33 ing sticks brought him unto Moses and Aaron, and unto all the congregation. And they put him [i]in ward, because it 34 was not declared what should be done to him. And the LORD said unto Mo- 35 ses, [j]The man shall be surely put to death: all the congregation shall [k]stone him with stones without the camp. And 36 all the congregation brought him without the camp, and stoned him with stones, and he died; as the LORD commanded Moses.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, 37 saying, Speak unto the children of Is- 38 rael, and bid them [l]that they make them fringes in the borders of their garments throughout their generations, and that they put upon the fringe of the borders 39 a ribband of blue: and it shall be unto you for a fringe, that ye may look upon it, and remember all the commandments of the LORD, and do them; and that ye [m]seek not after your own heart and your own eyes, after which ye use [n]to go a 40 whoring: that ye may remember, and do all my commandments, and be [o]holy 41 unto your God. I am the LORD your God, [p]which brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD your God.

Now [a]Korah, the son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, and [b]Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, and On, the son of Peleth, sons of Reu- 2 ben, took men: and they rose up before Moses, with certain of the children of Israel, two hundred and fifty princes of the assembly, [b]famous in the congrega- 3 tion, men of renown: and [c]they gathered themselves together against Moses and against Aaron, and said unto them, [†] Ye take too much upon you, seeing [d]all the congregation are holy, every one of them, [e]and the LORD is among them: wherefore then lift you up yourselves above the congregation of the 4 LORD? And when Moses heard it, [f]he 5 fell upon his face: and he spake unto Korah and unto all his company, saying, Even to morrow the LORD will shew who are his, and who is [g]holy; and will cause him to come near unto him: even him whom he hath [h]chosen will he cause to [i]come near unto him. 6 This do; Take you [j]censers, Korah, and 7 all his company; and put fire therein, and put incense in them before the LORD to morrow: and it shall be that the man whom the LORD doth choose, he shall be holy: ye take too much upon 8 you, ye sons of Levi. And Moses said unto Korah, Hear, I pray you, ye sons 9 of Levi: seemeth it but [k]a small thing unto you, that the God of Israel hath [l]separated you from the congregation of Israel, to bring you near to himself to do the service of the tabernacle of the LORD, and to stand before the congre- 10 gation to minister unto them? And he hath brought thee near to him, and all thy brethren the sons of Levi with thee: 11 and seek ye the priesthood also? For which cause both thou and all thy company are gathered together against the LORD: [m]and what is Aaron, that ye murmur against him? And Moses sent 12 to call Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab: which said, We will not come up:

[n]is it a small thing that thou hast brought 13 us up out of a land [o]that floweth with milk and honey, to kill us in the wilderness, except thou [p]make thyself altogether a prince over us? Moreover thou 14 hast not brought us into a land [o]that floweth with milk and honey, or given us inheritance of fields and vineyards: wilt thou [t]put out the eyes of these men? we will not come up. And Mo- 15 ses was very wroth, and said unto the LORD, [q]Respect not thou their offering: [r]I have not taken one ass from them, neither have I hurt one of them. And 16 Moses said unto Korah, Be thou and all thy company [s]before the LORD, thou, and they, and Aaron, to morrow: and 17 [t]take every man his censer, and put incense in them, and bring ye before the LORD every man his censer, two hundred and fifty censers; thou also, and Aaron, each of you his censer. And 18 they took every man his censer, and put fire in them, and laid incense thereon, and stood in the door of the tabernacle of the congregation with Moses and Aaron. And Korah gathered all 19 the congregation against them unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and [u]the glory of the LORD appeared unto all the congregation. And 20 the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying, [x]Separate yourselves from 21 among this congregation, that I may consume them [y]in a moment. And 22 they [z]fell upon their faces, and said, O God, [a]the God of the spirits of all flesh, shall one man sin, and wilt thou be wroth with all the congregation? And 23 the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the congregation, saying, 24 Get you up from about the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram. And 25 Moses rose up and went unto Dathan and Abiram; and the elders of Israel followed him. And he spake unto the 26 congregation, saying, [b]Depart, I pray you, from the tents of these wicked men, and touch nothing of theirs, lest ye [c]be consumed in all their sins. So 27 they gat up from the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram, on every side: and Dathan and Abiram came out, and [d]stood in the door of their tents, and their wives, and their sons, and their 28 little children. And Moses said, [c]Hereby ye shall know that the LORD hath sent me to do all these works; for I have not done them [e]of mine own mind. 29 If these men die [f]the common death of all men, or if they be [f]visited after the visitation of all men; then the LORD hath not sent me. But if the LORD 30 [f]make a new thing, and [g]the earth open her mouth, and swallow them up, with all that appertain unto them, and they [h]go down quick into the pit; then ye shall understand that these men [i]have 31 provoked the LORD. [j]And it came to pass, as he had made an end of speaking all these words, that the ground clave asunder that was under them: 32 and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up, and their houses, and [k]all the men that appertained unto 33 Korah, and all their goods. They, and all that appertained to them, went down alive into the pit, and the earth closed upon them: and they perished from a- 34 mong the congregation. And all Israel that were round about them fled at the cry of them: for they said, Lest the earth 35 swallow us up also. And there [l]came out a fire from the LORD, and consumed the two hundred and fifty men that offered incense.

36 And the LORD spake unto Moses, 37 saying, Speak unto [m]Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, that he take up the censers out of the burning, and scatter thou the fire yonder; for they are hal- 38 lowed. The censers of these [n]sinners against their own souls, let them make them [p]broad plates for a covering of the altar: for they offered them before the LORD, therefore they are hallowed: [o]and they shall be a sign unto the children of 39 Israel. And Eleazar the priest took the brasen censers, wherewith they that were burnt had offered; and [p]they were made broad plates for a covering of the 40 altar: to be a memorial unto the children of Israel, [q]that no stranger, which is not of the seed of Aaron, come near to offer incense before the LORD; that he be not as Korah, and as his company: as the LORD said to him by the hand of Moses.

41 But on the morrow all the congregation of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and against Aaron, saying, Ye have killed the people of the LORD. 42 And it came to pass, when the congregation was gathered against Moses and against Aaron, that they looked toward the tabernacle of the congregation: and behold, [r]the cloud covered it, and [s]the glory of the LORD appeared. And Moses and Aaron came before the tabernacle of the congregation. And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [t]Get you up from among this congregation, that I [u]may consume them [u]as in a moment. And they fell upon their faces. And Moses said unto Aaron, Take a censer, and put fire therein from off the altar, and put on incense, and go quickly unto the congregation, and make an atonement for them: [x]for there is wrath gone out from the LORD; the plague is begun. And Aaron took as Moses commanded, and ran into the midst of the congregation; and behold, the plague was begun among the people: and he put on incense, and made an atonement for the people. And he stood between the dead and the living; and [y]the plague was stayed. Now they that died in the plague were fourteen thousand and seven hundred, [z]beside them that died about the matter of Korah. And Aaron returned unto Moses unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and the plague was stayed.

XVII. And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, and take of every one of them a rod according to the house of their fathers, of all their princes according to the house of their fathers twelve rods: write thou every man's name upon his rod. And thou shalt write Aaron's name upon the rod of Levi: for one rod shall be for the head of the house of their fathers. And thou shalt lay them up in the tabernacle of the congregation before the Testimony, [a]where I will meet with you. And it shall come to pass, that the man's rod, [b]whom I shall choose, shall blossom: and I will make to cease from me the murmurings of the children of Israel, [c]whereby they murmur against you. And Moses spake unto the children of Israel, and every one of their princes gave him [f]a rod apiece, for each prince one, according to their fathers' houses, even twelve rods: and the rod of Aaron was among their rods. And Moses laid up the rods before the LORD in [d]the tabernacle of Witness. And it came to pass, that on the morrow Moses went into the tabernacle of Witness; and behold, the rod of Aaron for the house of Levi was budded, and brought forth buds, and bloomed blossoms, and yielded almonds. And Moses brought out all the rods from before the LORD unto all the children of Israel: and they looked, and took every man his rod. And the LORD said unto Moses, Bring [e]Aaron's rod again before the Testimony, [f]to be kept [g]for a token against the [i]rebels; [h]and thou shalt quite take away their murmurings from me, that they die not. And Moses did so: as the LORD commanded him, so did he. And the children of Israel spake unto Moses, saying, Behold, we die, we perish, we all perish. [i]Whosoever cometh any thing near unto the tabernacle of the LORD shall die: shall we be consumed with dying?

And the LORD said unto Aaron, [a]Thou XVIII. and thy sons and thy father's house with thee shall [b]bear the iniquity of the sanctuary: and thou and thy sons with thee shall bear the iniquity of your priesthood. And thy brethren also of the tribe of Levi, the tribe of thy father, bring thou with thee, that they may be [c]joined unto thee, and [d]minister unto thee: but [e]thou and thy sons with thee shall minister before the tabernacle of Witness. And they shall keep thy charge, and [f]the charge of all the tabernacle: [g]only they shall not come nigh the vessels of the sanctuary and the altar, [h]that neither they, nor you also, die. And they shall be joined unto thee, and keep the charge of the tabernacle of the congregation, for all the service of the tabernacle: [i]and a stranger shall not come nigh unto you. And ye shall [k]keep the charge of the sanctuary, and the charge of the altar: [l]that there be no wrath any more upon the children of Israel. And I, behold, I have [m]taken your brethren the Levites from among the children of Israel: [n]to you they are given as a gift for the LORD, to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation. Therefore thou and thy sons with thee [o]shall keep your priest's office for every thing of the altar, and [p]within the vail; and ye shall serve: I have given your priest's office unto you as a service of gift: and the stranger that cometh nigh shall be put to death. And the LORD spake unto Aaron, Behold, [q]I also have given thee the charge of mine heave offerings of all the hallowed things of the children of Israel; unto thee have I given them [r]by reason of the anoint-

ing, and to thy sons, [s]by an ordinance for ever. This shall be thine of [t]the most holy things, reserved from the fire: every oblation of theirs, every [u]meat offering of theirs, and every [v]sin offering of theirs, and every [w]trespass offering of theirs, which they shall render unto me, shall be [t]most holy for thee and for thy sons. [x]In the most holy place shalt thou eat it; every male shall eat it: it shall be holy unto thee. And this is thine; [y]the heave offering of their gift, with all the wave offerings of the children of Israel: I have given them unto [z]thee, and to thy sons and to thy daughters with thee, by a statute for ever: [a]every one that is clean in thy house shall eat of it. [b]All the [†]best of the oil, and all the [†]best of the wine, and of the wheat, [c]the firstfruits of them which they shall offer unto the LORD, them have I given thee. And whatsoever is first ripe in the land, [d]which they shall bring unto the LORD, shall be thine; [e]every one that is clean in thine house shall eat of it. [f]Every thing devoted in Israel shall be thine. [g]Every thing that openeth the matrix in all flesh, which they bring unto the LORD, whether it be of men or beasts, shall be thine: nevertheless [h]the firstborn of man shalt thou surely redeem, and the firstling of unclean beasts shalt thou redeem. And those that are to be redeemed from a month old shalt thou redeem, [i]according to thine estimation, for the money of [i]five shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary, [k]which is twenty gerahs. [l]But the firstling of a cow, or the firstling of a sheep, or the firstling of a goat, thou shalt not redeem; they are holy: [m]thou shalt sprinkle their blood upon the altar, and shalt burn their fat for an offering made by fire, for a sweet savour unto the LORD. And the flesh of them shall be thine, as the [n]wave breast and as the right shoulder are thine. [o]All the heave offerings of the holy things, which the children of Israel offer unto the LORD, have I given thee, and thy sons and thy daughters with thee, by a statute for ever: [p]it is a covenant of salt for ever before the LORD unto thee and to thy seed with thee.

And the LORD spake unto Aaron, Thou shalt have no inheritance in their land, neither shalt thou have any part among them: [q]I am thy part and thine inheritance among the children of Israel.

And behold, [r]I have given the children of Levi all the tenth in Israel for an inheritance, for their service which they serve, even [s]the service of the tabernacle of the congregation. [t]Neither must the children of Israel henceforth come nigh the tabernacle of the congregation, [u]lest they bear sin, [†]and die. But the Levites [w]shall do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation, and [x]they shall bear their iniquity: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations, that among the children of Israel they have no inheritance. But the tithes of the children of Israel, which [y]they offer as a heave offering unto the LORD, I have given to the Levites to inherit: therefore I have said unto them, [z]Among the children of Israel they shall have no inheritance.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Thus speak unto the Levites, and say unto them, When ye take of the children of Israel the tithes which I have given you from them for your inheritance, then ye shall offer up a heave offering of it for the LORD, even [a]a tenth part of the tithe. [b]And this your heave offering shall be reckoned unto you, as though it were the corn of the threshingfloor, and as the fulness of the winepress. Thus you also shall offer a heave offering unto the LORD of all your tithes, which ye receive of the children of Israel; and ye shall give thereof the LORD's heave offering to Aaron the priest. Out of all your gifts ye shall offer every heave offering of the LORD, of all the [†]best thereof, even the hallowed part thereof out of it. Therefore thou shalt say unto them, When ye have heaved the [†]best thereof from it, [c]then it shall be counted unto the Levites as the increase of the threshingfloor, and as the increase of the winepress. And ye shall eat it in every place, ye and your households: for it is [d]your reward for your service in the tabernacle of the congregation. And ye shall [e]bear no sin by reason of it, when ye have heaved from it the best of it: neither shall ye [f]pollute the holy things of the children of Israel, lest ye die.

Then the priest [f] shall wash his clothes, and he shall bathe his flesh in water, and afterward he shall come into the camp, and the priest shall be unclean until the even. But the man that shall be unclean, and shall not purify himself, [x] that soul shall be cut off from among the congregation, because he hath defiled the sanctuary of the LORD: the water of separation hath not been sprinkled upon him; he is unclean. And it shall be a perpetual statute unto them, that he that sprinkleth the water of separation shall wash his clothes; and he that toucheth the water of separation shall be unclean until even. And [y] whatsoever the unclean person toucheth shall be unclean; and the soul that toucheth it shall be unclean until even.

XX. Then came the children of Israel, even the whole congregation, [a] into the desert of Zin in the first month: and the people abode in Kadesh; and [b] Miriam died there, and was buried there. [c] And there was no water for the congregation: [d] and they gathered themselves together against Moses and against Aaron. And the people [e] chode with Moses, and spake, saying, Would God that we had died [f] when our brethren died before the LORD! And [g] why have ye brought up the congregation of the LORD into this wilderness, that we and our cattle should die there? And wherefore have ye made us to come up out of Egypt, to bring us in unto this evil place? it is no place of seed, or of figs, or vines, or of pomegranates; neither is there any water to drink. And Moses and Aaron went from the presence of the assembly unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and [h] they fell upon their faces: and [i] the glory of the LORD appeared unto them. And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [k] Take the rod, and gather thou the assembly together, thou, and Aaron thy brother, and speak ye unto the rock before their eyes; and it shall give forth his water, and [l] thou shalt bring forth to them water out of the rock: so thou shalt give the congregation and their beasts drink. And Moses took 9 [m] the rod [m]from before the LORD, as he commanded him. And Moses and Aaron gathered the congregation together 10 before the rock, and he said unto them, [n]Hear now, ye rebels; must we fetch 11 you water out of this rock? And Moses lift up his hand, and with his rod he smote the rock twice: and [o]the water came out abundantly, and the congregation drank, and their beasts also. And 12

the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron, Because [p]ye believed me not, to [q]sanctify me in the eyes of the children of Israel, therefore ye shall not bring this congregation into the land which I have given them. [r]This is the water of [l]Meribah; because the children of Israel 13
strove with the LORD, and he was sanctified in them.

[s]And Moses sent messengers from Kadesh unto [t]the king of Edom, Thus saith 14
[u]thy brother Israel, Thou knowest all the travail that hath [t]befallen us: [v]how 15
our fathers went down into Egypt, [w]and we have dwelt in Egypt a long time; [x]and the Egyptians vexed us, and our fathers: and [y]when we cried unto the 16
LORD, he heard our voice, and [z]sent an angel, and hath brought us forth out of Egypt: and behold, we are in Kadesh, a city in the uttermost of thy border: [a]let 17
us pass, I pray thee, through thy country: we will not pass through the fields, or through the vineyards, neither will we drink of the water of the wells: we will go by the king's high way, we will not turn to the right hand nor to the left, until we have passed thy borders. And 18
Edom said unto him, Thou shalt not pass by me, lest I come out against thee with the sword. And the children of 19
Israel said unto him, We will go by [b]the high way: and if I and my cattle drink of thy water, [c]then I will pay for it: I will only, without doing any thing else, go through on my feet. And he said, 20
Thou shalt not go through. And Edom came out against him with much people, and with a strong hand. Thus Edom 21
[d]refused to give Israel passage through his border: wherefore Israel [e]turned away from him.

And the children of Israel, even the 22 whole congregation, journeyed from [f]Kadesh, and came unto [g]mount Hor. And 23
the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron in mount Hor, by the coast of the land
24 of Edom, saying, Aaron shall be [h]gathered unto his people: for he shall not enter into the land which I have given unto the children of Israel, because [i]ye rebelled against my [t]word at the water
25 of Meribah. Take Aaron and Eleazar his son, and bring them up unto mount 26 Hor: and strip Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his son: and Aaron shall be gathered [k]unto his people,
27 and shall die there. And Moses did as the LORD commanded: and they went up into mount Hor in the sight of all
28 the congregation. [l]And Moses stripped Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his son; and Aaron died there [m]in the top of the mount: and Moses and Eleazar came down from the 29 mount. And when all the congregation saw that Aaron was dead, they mourned for Aaron [n]thirty days, even all the house of Israel.

And when [a]king Arad the Canaanite, XXI.
which dwelt in the south, heard tell that Israel came [b]by the way of the spies; then he fought against Israel, and took
2 some of them prisoners. [c]And Israel vowed a vow unto the LORD, and said, If thou wilt indeed deliver this people into my hand, then [d]I will utterly de-
3 stroy their cities. And the LORD hearkened to the voice of Israel, and delivered up the Canaanites; and they utterly destroyed them and their cities: and he called the name of the place [l]Hormah.

4 And [e]they journeyed from mount Hor by the way of the Red sea, to [f]compass the land of Edom: and the soul of the people was much [l]discouraged because
5 of the way. And the people [g]spake against God, and against Moses, [h]Wherefore have ye brought us up out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? for there is no bread, neither is there any water; and
6 [i]our soul loatheth this light bread. And the LORD sent [k]fiery serpents among the people, and [l]they bit the people; and
7 much people of Israel died. [m]Therefore the people came to Moses, and said, We have sinned, for [n]we have spoken against the LORD, and against thee; [o]pray unto the LORD, that he take away the serpents from us. And Moses [o]prayed for 8 the people. And the LORD said unto Moses, Make thee a fiery serpent, and set it upon a pole: and it shall come to pass, that every one that is bitten, when 9 he looketh upon it, shall live. And Moses made [p]a serpent of brass, and field. And Balak the son of Zippor was king of the Moabites at that time. [e]He sent messengers therefore unto Balaam the son of Beor to [f]Pethor, which is by the river of the land of the children of his people, to call him, saying, Behold, there is a people come out from Egypt: behold, they cover the [†]face of the earth, and they abide over against me: come now therefore, I pray thee, [g]curse me this people; for they are too mighty for me: peradventure I shall prevail, that we may smite them, and that I may drive them out of the land: for I wot that he whom thou blessest is blessed, and he whom thou cursest is cursed. And the elders of Moab and the elders of Midian departed with [h]the rewards of divination in their hand; and they came unto Balaam, and spake unto him the words of Balak. And he said unto them, [i]Lodge here this night, and I will bring you word again, as the LORD shall speak unto me: and the princes of Moab abode with Balaam. [k]And God came unto Balaam, and said, What men are these with thee? And Balaam said unto God, Balak the son of Zippor, king of Moab, hath sent unto me, saying, Behold, there is a people come out of Egypt, which covereth the face of the earth: come now, curse me them; peradventure [†]I shall be able to overcome them, and drive them out. And God said unto Balaam, Thou shalt not go with them; thou shalt not curse the people: for [l]they are blessed. And Balaam rose up in the morning, and said unto the princes of Balak, Get you into your land: for the LORD refuseth to give me leave to go with you. And the princes of Moab rose up, and they went unto Balak, and said, Balaam refuseth to come with us. And Balak sent yet again princes, more, and more honourable than they. And they came to Balaam, and said to him, Thus saith Balak the son of Zippor, [†]Let nothing, I pray thee, hinder thee from coming unto me: for I will promote thee unto very great honour, and I will do whatsoever thou sayest unto me: [m]come therefore, I pray thee, curse me this people. And Balaam answered and said unto the servants of Balak, [n]If Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, [o]I cannot go beyond the word of the LORD my God, to do less or more. Now therefore, I pray you, [p]tarry ye also here this night, that I may know what the LORD will say unto me more. [q]And God came unto Balaam at night, and said unto him, If the men come to call thee, rise up, and go with them; but [r]yet the word which I shall say unto thee, that shalt thou do. And Balaam rose up in the morning, and saddled his [s]ass, and went with the princes of Moab. And God's anger was kindled because he went: [t]and the angel of the LORD stood in the way for an adversary against him. Now he was riding upon his ass, and his two servants were with him. And the ass saw the angel of the LORD standing in the way, and his sword drawn in his hand: and the ass turned aside out of the way, and went into the field: and Balaam smote the ass, to turn her into the way. But the angel of the LORD stood in a path of the vineyards, a wall being on this side, and a wall on that side. And when the ass saw the angel of the LORD, she thrust herself unto the wall, and crusht Balaam's foot against the wall: and he smote her again. And the angel of the LORD went further, and stood in a narrow place, where was no way to turn either to the right hand or to the left. And when the ass saw the angel of the LORD, she fell down under Balaam: and Balaam's anger was kindled, and he smote the ass with a staff. And the LORD [u]opened the mouth of the ass, and she said unto Balaam, What have I done unto thee, that thou hast smitten me these three [x]times? And Balaam said unto the ass, Because thou hast mocked me: I would there were a sword in mine hand, for now would I kill thee. And the ass said unto Balaam, Am not I thine ass, [†]upon which thou hast ridden [‖]ever since I was thine unto this day? was I ever wont to do so unto thee? And he said, Nay. Then the LORD [y]opened the eyes of Balaam, and he saw the angel of the LORD standing in the way, and his sword drawn in his hand: and he [z]bowed down his head, and [‖]fell flat on his face. And the angel of the LORD said unto him, Wherefore hast thou smitten thine ass these three [x]times? behold, I went out [†]to withstand thee, because thy way [a]is perverse before me: and the ass saw me, and turned from me these three [x]times: unless she had turned from me, surely now also I had slain thee, and saved her alive. And the angel 35 of the LORD said unto Balaam, Go with the men: [c] but only the word that I shall speak unto thee, that thou shalt speak. So Balaam went with the princes of Balak. And when Balak heard that Bala- 36 am was come, he went out to meet him unto a city of Moab, which is [d] in the border of Arnon, which is in the utmost coast. And Balak said unto Balaam, 37 Did I not earnestly send unto thee to call thee? wherefore camest thou not unto me? am I not able indeed [e] to promote thee to honour? And Balaam said 38 unto Balak, Lo, I am come unto thee: have I now any power at all to say any thing? [f] the word that God putteth in my mouth, that shall I speak. And Balaam 39 went with Balak, and they came unto [‖] Kirjath-huzoth. And Balak offered 40 oxen and sheep, and sent to Balaam, and to the princes that were with him. XXIV.

And when Balaam saw that it pleased the LORD to bless Israel, he went not, as at [a]other times, [f]to seek for enchantments, but he set his face toward the wilderness.
And Balaam lift up his eyes, and he saw Israel [b]abiding in his tents according to their tribes; and [c]the spirit of God came upon him.
And he took up his parable, and said,
[d]Balaam the son of Beor hath said,
And the man [f]whose eyes are open hath said:
He hath said, which heard the words of God,
Which saw the vision of the Almighty,
[e]Falling into a trance, but having his eyes open:
How goodly are thy tents, O Jacob,
And thy tabernacles, O Israel!
As the valleys are they spread forth,
As gardens by the river side,
[f]As the trees of lign aloes [g]which the LORD hath planted,
And as cedar trees beside the waters.
He shall pour the water out of his buckets,
And his seed shall be [h]in many waters,
And his king shall be higher than [i]Agag,
And his [k]kingdom shall be exalted.
[l]God brought him forth out of Egypt;
He hath as it were the strength of an unicorn:
He shall [m]eat up the nations his enemies,
And shall [n]break their bones,
And [o]pierce them through with his arrows.
[p]He couched, he lay down as a lion,
And as a great lion: who shall stir him up?
[q]Blessed is he that blesseth thee,
And cursed is he that curseth thee.
And Balak's anger was kindled against Balaam, and he [r]smote his hands together: and Balak said unto Balaam, [s]I called thee to curse mine enemies, and behold, thou hast altogether blessed them these three times.
Therefore now flee thou to thy place: [t]I thought to promote thee unto great honour; but lo, the LORD hath kept thee back from honour.
And Balaam said unto Balak, Spake I not also to thy messengers which thou sentest unto me, saying, [u]If Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, I cannot go beyond the commandment of the LORD, to do either good or bad [w]of mine own mind; but what the LORD saith, that will I speak?
And now behold, I go unto my people: come therefore, and [x]I will advertise thee what this people shall do to thy people [y]in the latter days.
[z]And he took up his parable, and said,
[a]Balaam the son of Beor hath said,
And the man whose eyes are open hath said:
[a]He hath said, which heard the words of God,
And knew the knowledge of the most High,
Which saw the vision of the Almighty,
Falling into a trance, but having his eyes open:
[b]I shall see him, but not now:
I shall [b]behold him, but not nigh:
There [c]shall come [d]a Star out of Jacob,
And [e]a Sceptre shall rise out of Israel,
And shall [f]smite the corners of Moab,

And shall destroy him that remaineth of the city.

20 And when he looked on Amalek, he took up his parable, and said,
Amalek was ‖the first of the nations;
But his latter end ‖shall be that he perish for ever.

21 And he looked on [h]the Kenites, and took up his parable, and said,
Strong is thy dwelling place,
And thou puttest thy nest in a rock.

22 Nevertheless [†]the Kenite shall be wasted,
‖Until Asshur shall carry thee away captive.

23 And he took up his parable, and said,
Alas, who shall live when God doeth this!

24 And ships shall come from the coast of [i]Chittim,
And shall afflict Asshur, and shall afflict [k]Eber,
And he also [l]shall perish for ever.

25 And Balaam rose up, and went and [m]returned to his place: and Balak also went his way.

XXV.

1 And Israel abode in [a]Shittim, and [b]the people begun to commit whoredom with the daughters of Moab. 2 [c]And they [d]called [*]the people unto the sacrifices of their gods: and the people did eat, and bowed down to their gods. 3 And Israel [e]joined himself unto [f]Baal-peor: and the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel. 4 And the LORD said unto Moses, [g]Take all the heads of the people, and hang them up before the LORD against the sun, [h]that the fierce anger of the LORD may be turned away from Israel. 5 And Moses said unto [i]the judges of Israel, [k]Slay ye every one his men that were joined unto [f]Baal-peor. 6 And behold, one of the children of Israel came and brought unto his brethren a Midianitish woman in the sight of Moses, and in the sight of all the congregation of the children of Israel, who were [l]weeping before the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. 7 And [m]when Phinehas, [n]the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, saw it, he rose up from amongst the congregation, and took a javelin in his hand; 8 and he went after the man of Israel into the tent, and thrust both of them through, the man of Israel, and the woman through her belly. So [o]the plague was stayed 9 from the children of Israel. And [p]those that died in the plague were twenty and four thousand.

10 And the LORD spake unto Moses, 11 saying, Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, [q]hath turned my wrath away from the children of Israel, while he was zealous [†]for my sake among them, that I consumed not the children of Israel in [r]my jealousy. 12 Wherefore say, [s]Behold, I give unto him 13 my covenant of peace: and he shall have it, and [t]his seed after him, even the covenant of [u]an everlasting priesthood; because he was zealous for his God, and made an atonement for the children of Israel. 14 Now the name of the Israelite that was slain, even that was slain with the Midianitish woman, was Zimri, the son of Salu, a prince of a [†]chief house among the Simeonites. 15 And the name of the Midianitish woman that was slain was Cozbi, the daughter of [x]Zur; he was head over a people, and of a chief house in Midian.

16 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, 17 [y]Vex the Midianites, and smite 18 them: for they vex you with their [z]wiles, wherewith they have beguiled you in the matter of [a]Peor, and in the matter of Cozbi, the daughter of a prince of Midian, their sister, which was slain in the day of the plague for [a]Peor's sake.

XXVI.

1 And it came to pass after the plague, that the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, 2 saying, [a]Take the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel, [b]from twenty years old and upward, throughout their fathers' house, all that are able 3 to go to war in Israel. And Moses and Eleazar the priest spake with them [c]in the plains of Moab by Jordan near Jericho, saying, 4 [d]Take the sum of the people, from twenty years old and upward; as the LORD [e]commanded Moses and the children of Israel, which went forth out of the land of Egypt.

Ye shall offer these beside the burnt offering in the morning, which is for a continual burnt offering. After this manner ye shall offer [r]daily, throughout the seven days, the meat of the sacrifice made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD: it shall be offered beside the continual burnt offering, and his drink offering. And [s]on the seventh day ye shall have a holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work.

Also [t]in the day of the firstfruits, when ye bring a new meat offering unto the LORD, after your weeks be out, ye shall have a holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work: but ye shall offer the burnt offering for a sweet savour unto the LORD; [u]two young bullocks, one ram, seven lambs of the first year; and their meat offering of flour mingled with oil, three tenth deals unto one bullock, two tenth deals unto one ram, a several tenth deal unto one lamb, throughout the seven lambs; and [x]one kid of the goats, to make an atonement for you. Ye shall offer them besides the continual burnt offering, and his meat offering, ([y]they shall be unto you without blemish) and their drink offerings.

XXIX. And in the seventh month, on the first day of the month, ye shall have a holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work: [a]it is a day of blowing the trumpets unto you. And ye shall offer a burnt offering for a sweet savour unto the LORD; one young bullock, one ram, and seven lambs of the first year without blemish: and their meat offering shall be of flour mingled with oil, three tenth deals for a bullock, and two tenth deals for a ram, and one tenth deal for one lamb, throughout the seven lambs: and one kid of the goats for a sin offering, to make an atonement for you: beside [b]the burnt offering of the month, and his meat offering, and [c]the daily burnt offering, and his meat offering, and their drink offerings, according unto their manner, for a sweet savour, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD.

And [d]ye shall have on the tenth day of this seventh month a holy convocation; and ye shall [e]afflict your souls: ye shall not do any work therein: but ye shall offer a burnt offering unto the LORD for a sweet savour; one young bullock, one ram, and seven lambs of the first year; [f]they shall be unto you without blemish: and their meat offering shall be of flour mingled with oil, three tenth deals to a bullock, and two tenth deals to one ram, a several tenth deal for one lamb, throughout the seven lambs: [g]one kid of the goats for a sin offering; beside [h]the sin offering of atonement, and the continual burnt offering, and the meat offering of it, and their drink offerings.

2 the LORD hath commanded. [b]If a man vow a vow unto the LORD, or [c]swear an oath to bind his soul with a bond; he shall not [†]break his word, he shall [d]do 3 according to all that proceedeth out of his mouth. If a woman also vow a vow unto the LORD, and bind herself by a bond, being in her father's house 4 in her youth; and her father hear her vow, and her bond wherewith she hath bound her soul, and her father shall hold his peace at her: then all her vows shall stand, and every bond wherewith she hath bound her soul shall 5 stand. But if her father disallow her in the day that he heareth; not any of her vows, or of her bonds wherewith she hath bound her soul, shall stand: and the LORD shall forgive her, because 6 her father disallowed her. And if she had at all a husband, when [†]she vowed, or uttered ought out of her lips, where- 7 with she bound her soul; and her husband heard it, and held his peace at her in the day that he heard it: then her vows shall stand, and her bonds wherewith she bound her soul shall 8 stand. But if her husband disallow her on the day that he heard it; then he shall make her vow which she vowed, and that which she uttered with her lips, wherewith she bound her soul, of none effect: and the LORD shall forgive her. 9 But every vow of a widow, and of her that is divorced, wherewith they have bound their souls, shall stand against 10 her. And if she vowed in her husband's house, or bound her soul by a 11 bond with an oath; and her husband heard it, and held his peace at her, and disallowed her not: then all her vows shall stand, and every bond wherewith she bound her soul shall stand. 12 But if her husband hath utterly made them void on the day he heard them; then whatsoever proceeded out of her lips concerning her vows, or concerning the bond of her soul, shall not stand: her husband hath made them void; and 13 the LORD shall forgive her. Every vow, and every binding oath to afflict the soul, her husband may establish it, or 14 her husband may make it void. But if her husband altogether hold his peace at her from day to day; then he establisheth all her vows, or all her bonds, which are upon her: he confirmeth them, because he held his peace at her in the 15 day that he heard them. But if he shall XXXI. And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, [a]Avenge the children of Israel of the 2 Midianites: afterward shalt thou [b]be gathered unto thy people. And Moses 3 spake unto the people, saying, Arm some of yourselves unto the war, and let them go against the Midianites, and avenge the LORD of Midian. [†]Of every tribe a 4 thousand, throughout all the tribes of Israel, shall ye send to the war. So 5 there were delivered out of the thousands of Israel, a thousand of every tribe, twelve thousand [c]armed for war. And 6 Moses sent them to the war, a thousand of every tribe, them and Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, to the war, with the holy instruments, and [d]the trumpets to blow in his hand. And 7 they warred against the Midianites, as the LORD commanded Moses; and [e]they slew all the males. And they slew the 8 kings of Midian, beside the rest of them that were slain; namely, [f]Evi, and Rekem, and [g]Zur, and Hur, and Reba, five kings of Midian: [h]Balaam also the son of Beor they slew with the sword. And 9 the children of Israel took all the women of Midian captives, and their little ones, and took the spoil of all their cattle, and all their flocks, and all [i]their goods. And 10 they burnt all their cities wherein they dwelt, and all their goodly castles, with fire. And [j]they took all the spoil, and 11 all the prey, both of men and of beasts. And they brought the captives, and the 12 prey, and the spoil, unto Moses, and Eleazar the priest, and unto the congregation of the children of Israel, unto the camp at [k]the plains of Moab, which are by Jordan near Jericho.

And Moses was wroth with 14 the [m]officers of the host, with the captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, which came from the [†]battle. And Moses said unto them, 15 Have ye saved [n]all the women alive? Behold, [o]these caused the children of Is- 16 rael, through the [p]counsel of Balaam, to commit trespass against the LORD in the matter of [q]Peor, and there was [r]a plague among the congregation of the 17 LORD. Now therefore [s]kill every male among the little ones, and kill every woman that hath known man by lying 18 with [†]him. But all the women children, that have not known a man by lying with him, keep alive for yourselves. 19 And [t]do ye abide without the camp seven days: whosoever hath killed any person, and [u]whosoever hath touched any slain, [v]purify both yourselves and your captives on the third day, and on the 20 seventh day. And [v]purify all your raiment, and all [†]that is made of skins, and all work of goats' hair, and all things made 21 of wood. 15 anger of the LORD toward Israel. For if ye [p]turn away from after him, he will yet again leave them in the wilderness;

and ye shall destroy all this people.
And they came near unto him, and 16
said, We will build sheepfolds here for our cattle, and cities for our little ones:
[q] but [q]we ourselves will go ready [r]armed 17
before the children of Israel, until we have brought them unto their place: and our little ones shall dwell in the fenced cities because of the inhabitants of the land. [s]We will not return unto our 18 houses, until the children of Israel have inherited every man his inheritance.
For we will not inherit with them on 19
yonder side Jordan, or forward; [t]because our inheritance is fallen to us on this side Jordan eastward. And [u]Moses said 20 unto them, If ye will do this thing, if ye will go armed before the LORD to war, and will go all of you [w]armed over Jor- 21
dan before the LORD, until he hath [x]driven out his enemies from before him, and the land be subdued before 22
the LORD: then afterward ye shall return, and be guiltless before the LORD, and before Israel; and this land shall be your possession before the LORD.
But if ye will not do so, behold, ye 23 have sinned against the LORD: and be sure [y]your sin will find you out. [z]Build 24
ye cities for your little ones, and folds for your sheep; and do that which hath proceeded out of your mouth. And the 25 children of Gad and the children of Reuben spake unto Moses, saying, Thy servants will do as my lord commandeth.
Our little ones, our wives, our flocks, 26
and all our cattle, shall be there in the cities of Gilead: but thy servants will 27
pass over, every man [a]armed for war,
before the LORD to battle, as my lord saith. So concerning them Moses com- 28 manded Eleazar the priest, and [b]Joshua the son of Nun, and the chief fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel:
and Moses said unto them, If the chil- 29
dren of Gad and the children of Reuben will pass with you over Jordan, every man armed to battle, before the LORD,
and the land shall be subdued before you; then ye shall give them the land of Gilead for a possession: but if they 30 will not pass over with you armed, they shall have possessions among you in the land of Canaan. And the children of 31 Gad and the children of Reuben answered, saying, As the LORD hath said unto thy servants, so will we do. We 32 will pass over armed before the LORD
into the land of Canaan, that the possession of our inheritance on this side 33 Jordan may be ours. And [c]Moses gave unto them, even to the children of Gad,
and to the children of Reuben, and unto half the tribe of Manasseh the son of Joseph, [d]the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, and the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, the land, with the cities thereof in the coasts, even the cities of the country round about.
34 And the children of Gad built [e]Di-35 bon, and [e]Ataroth, and [f]Aroer, and Atroth, Shophan, and [†]Jaazer, and Jog-36 behah, and [‖]Beth-nimrah, and Beth-haran, [g]fenced cities: and folds for 37 sheep. And the children of Reuben built [h]Heshbon, and [i]Elealeh, and Kir-38 jathaim, and [i]Nebo, and Baal-[j]meon, ([k]their names being changed,) and Shib-mah: and [†]gave other names unto the 39 cities which they builded. And the children of [l]Machir the son of Manasseh went to Gilead, and took it, and dispossessed the Amorite which was in 40 it. And Moses [m]gave Gilead unto Machir the son of Manasseh; and he 41 dwelt therein. And [n]Jair the son of Manasseh went and took the small towns thereof, and called them [o]Ha-42 voth-jair. And Nobah went and took Kenath, and the [p]villages thereof, and called it Nobah, after his own name.

These are the journeys of the children of Israel, which went forth out of the land of Egypt with their armies
under the hand of Moses and Aaron.
2 And Moses wrote their goings out according to their journeys by the commandment of the LORD: and these are their journeys according to their goings
3 out. And they [a]departed from Rameses in [b]the first month, on the fifteenth day of the first month; on the morrow after the passover the children of Israel went out [c]with a high hand in the sight of 4 all the Egyptians. For the Egyptians buried all their firstborn, [d]which the LORD had smitten among them: [e]upon their gods also the LORD executed judg-5 ments. And the children of Israel removed from Rameses, and pitched in 6 [f]Succoth. And they departed from Suc-coth, and pitched in [g]Etham, which is 7 in the edge of the wilderness. And they removed from Etham, and turned again
unto [h]Pi-hahiroth, which is before [h]Baal-

XXXIV. And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Command the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into [a]the land of Canaan; (this is the land that shall fall unto you for an inheritance, even the land of Canaan with the coasts thereof:) then [b]your south quarter shall be from the wilderness of Zin along by the coast of Edom, and your south border shall be the outmost coast of [c]the salt sea eastward: and your border shall turn from the south [d]to the ascent of Akrabbim, and pass on to Zin: and the going forth thereof shall be from the south [e]to Kadesh-barnea, and shall go on to [f]Hazar-addar, and pass on to Azmon: and the border shall fetch a compass from Azmon [g]unto the river of Egypt, and the goings out of it shall be at the sea. And as for the western border, you shall even have the great sea for a border: this shall be your west border. And this shall be your north border: from the great sea you shall point out for you [h]mount Hor: from mount Hor ye shall point out your border [i]unto the entrance of Hamath; and the goings forth of the border shall be to [k]Zedad: and the border shall go on to Ziphron, and the goings out of it shall be at [l]Hazar-enan: this shall be your north border. And ye shall point out your east border from Hazar-enan to Shepham: and the coast shall go down from Shepham [m]to Riblah, on the east side of Ain; and the border shall descend, and shall reach unto the [†]side of the sea [n]of Chinnereth eastward: and the border shall go down to Jordan, and the goings out of it shall be at [o]the salt sea: this shall be your land with the coasts thereof round about. And Moses commanded the children of Israel, saying, [p]This is the land which ye shall inherit by lot, which the LORD commanded to give unto the nine tribes, and to the half tribe: [q]for the tribe of the children of Reuben according to the house of their fathers, and the tribe of the children of Gad according to the house of their fathers, have received their inheritance; and half the tribe of Manasseh have received their inheritance: the two tribes and the half tribe have received their inheritance on this side Jordan near Jericho eastward, toward the sunrising.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, These are the names of the men which shall divide the land unto you: [r]Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun. And ye shall take one [s]prince of every tribe, to divide the land by inheritance. And the names of the men are these: Of the tribe of Judah, Caleb the son of Jephunneh. And of the tribe of the children of Simeon, Shemuel the son of Ammihud. Of the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad the son of Chislon. And the prince of the tribe of the children of Dan, Bukki the son of Jogli. The prince of the children of Joseph, for the tribe of the children of Manasseh, Hanniel the son of Ephod. And the prince of the tribe of the children of Ephraim, Kemuel the son of Shiphtan. And the prince of the tribe of the children of Zebulun, Elizaphan the son of Parnach. And the prince of the tribe of the children of Issachar, Paltiel the son of Azzan. And the prince of the tribe of the children of Asher, Ahihud the son of Shelomi. And the prince of the tribe of the children of Naphtali, Pedahel the son of Ammihud. These are they whom the LORD commanded to divide the inheritance unto the children of Israel in the land of Canaan.

XXXV. And the LORD spake unto Moses in [a]the plains of Moab by Jordan near Jericho, saying, [b]Command the children of Israel, that they give unto the Levites of the inheritance of their possession cities to dwell in; and ye shall give also unto the Levites [c]suburbs for the cities round about them. And the cities shall they have to dwell in; and the [c]suburbs of them shall be for their cattle, and for their goods, and for all their beasts. And the [c]suburbs of the cities, which ye shall give unto the Levites, shall reach from the wall of the city and outward a thousand cubits round about. And ye shall measure from without the city on the east side two thousand cubits, and on the south side two thousand cubits, and on the west side two thousand cubits, and on the north side two thousand cubits; and the city shall be in the midst: this shall be to them the [c]suburbs of the cities. And among the cities which ye shall give unto the Levites there shall be [d]six cities for refuge, which ye shall appoint for the manslayer, that he may flee thither: and [†]to them ye shall add forty and two cities. So all the cities which ye shall give to the Levites shall be

25 judgments: and the congregation shall deliver the slayer out of the hand of the revenger of blood, and the congregation shall restore him to the city of his refuge, whither he was fled: and he shall abide in it unto the death of [t]the high priest, [u]which was anointed with the 26 holy oil. But if the slayer shall at any time come without the border of the city of his refuge, whither he was fled;
27 and the revenger of blood find him without the borders of the city of his refuge, and the revenger of blood kill the slayer; [†]he shall not be guilty of 28 blood: because he should have remained in the city of his refuge until the death of the high priest: but after the death of the high priest the slayer shall return into the land of his possession.
29 So these things shall be for [w]a statute of judgment unto you throughout your ge-
30 nerations in all your dwellings. Whoso killeth any person, the murderer shall be put to death by the [x]mouth of witnesses: but one witness shall not testify against any person to cause him to die.
31 Moreover ye shall take no satisfaction for the life of a murderer, which is [†]guilty of death: but he shall be surely 32 put to death. And ye shall take no satisfaction for him that is fled to the city of his refuge, that he should come again to dwell in the land, until the 33 death of the priest. So ye shall not [y]pollute the land wherein ye are: for blood [y]it defileth the land: and [†]the land cannot be cleansed of the blood that is shed therein, but [z]by the blood of him that 34 shed it. [a]Defile not therefore the land which ye shall inhabit, wherein I dwell: for [b]I the LORD dwell among the children of Israel.

[c] ch. 27. 1. Josh. 17. 3, 4. was commanded by the LORD to give the inheritance of Zelophehad our brothe children of Israel shall be, then shall their inheritance be put unto the inheritance of the tribe † whereunto they are received: so shall their inheritance [d] be taken away from the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers. And Moses 5 commanded the children of Israel according to the word of the LORD, saying, The tribe of the sons of Joseph [f] hath said well. This is the thing which 6 the LORD doth command concerning the daughters of Zelophehad, saying, Let them † marry to whom they think best; [g] only to the family of the tribe of their father shall they † marry. So shall not 7

that possesseth an inheritance in any tribe of the children of Israel, shall be wife unto one of the family of the tribe of her father, that the children of Israel may enjoy every man the inheritance 9 of his fathers. Neither shall the inheritance remove from one tribe to another tribe; but every one of the tribes of the children of Israel shall keep him-
10 self to his own inheritance. Even as the LORD commanded Moses, so did 11 the daughters of Zelophehad: [k] for Mahlah, Tirzah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad, were married unto their father's brothers'
12 sons: and they were married † into the families of the sons of Manasseh the son of Joseph, and their inheritance remained in the tribe of the family of 13 their father. These are the commandments and the judgments, which the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses unto the children of Israel [l] in the plains of Moab by Jordan near Jericho.

THE FIFTH BOOK OF MOSES,

DEUTERONOMY.

I.

THESE be the words which Moses spake unto all Israel on this side Jordan in the wilderness, in the plain over against ‖the Red sea, between [a]Paran, and Tophel, and Laban, and [b]Hazeroth, and Dizahab. (There are eleven days' journey from Horeb by the way of mount Seir unto [c]Kadesh-barnea.) And it came to pass [d]in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the first day of the month, that Moses spake unto the children of Israel, according unto all that the LORD had given him in commandment unto them; after he had slain [e]Sihon the king of the Amorites, which dwelt in [e]Heshbon, and [f]Og the king of Bashan, which dwelt at Astaroth in [f]Edrei: on this side Jordan, in the land of Moab, began Moses to declare this law, saying,

The LORD our God spake unto us in Horeb, saying, [g]Ye have dwelt long enough in this mount: turn you, and take your journey, and go to the mount of the Amorites, and unto †all the places nigh thereunto, in the plain, in the hills, and in the vale, and in the south, and by the sea side, to the land of the Canaanites, and unto Lebanon, unto the great river, the river Euphrates. Behold, I have †set the land before you: go in and possess the land which the LORD sware unto your fathers, [h]Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give unto them and to their seed after them.

And [i]I spake unto you at that time, saying, I am not able to bear you myself alone: the LORD your God hath multiplied you, and behold, [k]you are this day as the stars of heaven for multitude. (‖The LORD God of your fathers make you a thousand times so many moe as ye are, and bless you, as he hath promised you!) [m]How can I myself alone bear your [n]cumbrance, and your burden, and your strife? [o]†Take ye wise men, and understanding, and known among your tribes, and I will make them rulers over you. And ye answered me, and said, The thing which thou hast spoken is good for us to do. So I took the chief of your tribes, wise men, and known, [p]and †made them heads over you, captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, and captains over fifties, and captains over tens, and [q]officers among your tribes. And I charged your judges at that time, saying, Hear the causes between your brethren, and [r]judge righteously between every man and his brother, and the stranger that is with him. [s]Ye shall not †respect persons in judgment; but you shall hear the small as well as the great; you shall not be afraid of the face of man; for ‖the judgment is God's: and the cause that is too hard for you, [u]bring it unto me, and I will hear it. And I commanded you at that time all the things which ye should do.

And when we departed from Horeb, [x]we went through all that great and terrible wilderness, which you saw by the way of the mountain of the Amorites, as the LORD our God commanded us; and [y]we came to Kadesh-barnea. And I said unto you, Ye are come unto the mountain of the Amorites, which the LORD our God doth give unto us. Behold, the LORD thy God hath set the land before thee: go up and possess it, as the LORD God of thy fathers hath said unto thee; fear not, neither [z]be discouraged. And ye came near unto me every one of you, and said, We will send men before us, and they shall search us out the land, and bring us word again by what way we must go up, and into what cities we shall come. And the saying pleased me well: and 23 [a]I took twelve men of you, one of a tribe: and [b]they turned and went up 24 into the mountain, and came unto [c]the valley of Eshcol, and searched it out. And they took of the fruit of the land 25 in their hands, and brought it down unto us, and brought us word again, and said, It is a good land which the LORD our God doth give us. Notwith- 26 standing ye would not go up, but [d]rebelled against the commandment of the LORD your God: and [e]ye murmured in 27 your tents, and said, Because the LORD [f]hated us, he hath brought us forth out of the land of Egypt, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us. Whither shall we go up? [g]our brethren 28 have [†]discouraged our heart, saying, [h]The people is greater and taller than we; the cities are great and walled up to heaven; and moreover we have seen the sons of the [i]Anakims there. Then 29 I said unto you, Dread not, neither be afraid of them. The LORD your God 30 which goeth before you, [j]he shall fight for you, according to all that he did for you in Egypt before your eyes; and in 31 the wilderness, where thou hast seen how that the LORD thy God [k]bare thee, as a man doth bear his son, in all the way that ye went, until ye came into this place. Yet in this thing [l]ye did 32 not believe the LORD your God, [m]who 33 went in the way before you, [n]to search you out a place to pitch your tents in, in fire by night, to shew you by what way ye should go, and in a cloud by day. And the LORD heard the voice 34 of your words, and was wroth, [o]and sware, saying, [p]Surely there shall not 35 one of these men of this evil generation see that good land, which I sware to give unto your fathers, [q]save Caleb the 36 son of Jephunneh, he shall see it, and to him will I give the land that he hath trodden upon, and to his children, because he hath [†]wholly followed the LORD. Also the LORD [r]was angry with 37 me for your sakes, saying, Thou also shalt not go in thither. But [s]Joshua 38 the son of Nun, [t]which standeth before thee, he shall go in thither: [u]encourage him: for he shall cause Israel to inherit it. Moreover [w]your little ones, which 39 ye said should be a prey, and your children, which in that day [x]had no knowledge between good and evil, they shall go in thither, and unto them will I give 40 it, and they shall possess it. But as for you, [y]turn ye, and take your journey into the wilderness by the way of the 41 Red sea. Then ye answered and said unto me, [z]We have sinned against the LORD, we will go up and fight, according to all that the LORD our God commanded us. And when ye had girded on every man his weapons of war, ye 42 were ready to go up into the hill. And the LORD said unto me, Say unto them, [a]Go not up, neither fight; for I am not among you; lest ye be smitten before 43 your enemies. So I spake unto you; and you would not hear, but [b]rebelled against the commandment of the LORD, and [†]went presumptuously up into the 44 hill. And [c]the Amorites, which dwelt in that mountain, came out against you, and chased you, [d]as bees do, and destroyed you in Seir, even unto Hormah. 45 And ye returned and wept before the LORD; but the LORD would not hearken to your voice, nor give ear unto you. 46 So [e]ye abode in Kadesh many days, according unto the days that ye abode there.

h Elath, and from i Ezion-gaber, we turned and passed by the way of the wilderness of Moab. And the LORD said 9 unto me, k Distress not the Moabites, neither l contend with them in battle: for I will not give thee of their land for a possession; because I have given j Ar unto k the children of Lot for a possession. (l The Emims dwelt therein in 10 times past, a people great, and many, and tall, as m the Anakims; which also 11 were accounted n giants, as the Anakims; but the Moabites call them Emims. o The Horims also dwelt in Seir before- 12 time; but the children of Esau t succeeded them, when they had destroyed them from before them, and dwelt in their u stead; as p Israel did unto the land of his possession, which the LORD gave unto them.) Now rise up, q said I, and 13 get you over the u brook Zered. And we went over the u brook Zered. And 14 the space in which we came from r Kadesh-barnea, until we were come over the u brook Zered, was thirty and eight years; s until all the generation of the men of war were wasted out from among the host, as the LORD sware unto them. For indeed the hand of the 15 LORD was against them, to destroy them from among the host, until they were consumed.

So it came to pass, when all the men 16 of war were consumed and dead from among the people, that the LORD spake 17 unto me, saying, Thou art to pass over 18 through Ar, the coast of Moab, this day: and when thou comest nigh over against 19 the children of Ammon, distress them not, nor e meddle with them: for I will not give thee of the land of the children of Ammon any possession; because I have given it unto t the children of Lot for a possession. This day will I begin to put e the dread of thee and the fear of thee upon the nations that are under the whole heaven, who shall hear report of thee, and shall tremble, and be in anguish because of thee.

26 And I sent messengers out of the wilderness of Kedemoth unto Sihon king of Heshbon f with words of peace, say- 27 ing, g Let me pass through thy land: I will go along by the high way, I will neither turn unto the right hand nor to 28 the left. h Thou shalt sell me meat for money, that I may eat; and give me water for money, that I may drink: only 29 I will pass through on my feet; (i as the children of Esau which dwell in Seir, and the Moabites which dwell in Ar, did unto me;) until I shall pass over Jordan into the land which the LORD 30 our God giveth us. But k Sihon king of Heshbon would not let us pass by him: for the LORD thy God l hardened his spirit, and made his heart obstinate, that he might deliver him into thy hand, 31 as appeareth this day. And the LORD said unto me, Behold, I have begun to give Sihon and his land before thee: m begin to possess, that thou mayest 32 inherit his land. Then Sihon came out against us, he and all his people, to 33 fight n at Jahaz. And o the LORD our God delivered him before us; and p we smote him, and his sons, and all his 34 people. a Num. 21. 33, &c. ch. 29. 7.

Bashan came out against us, he and all his people, to battle [b]at Edrei. And 2
the LORD said unto me, Fear him not: for I will deliver him, and all his people, and his land, into thy hand; and thou shalt do unto him as thou didst unto [c]Sihon king of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heshbon. So the LORD our 3 God delivered into our hands Og also, the king of Bashan, and all his people: [d]and we smote him until none was left to him remaining. And we took all his 4 cities at that time, there was not a city which we took not from them, three-score cities, [e]all the region of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Bashan. All 5 these cities were fenced with high walls, gates, and bars; beside [f]unwalled towns a great many. And we [g]utterly de- 6 stroyed them, as we did unto Sihon king [h]of Heshbon, utterly destroying [i]the men, women, and children, of every city. But all the cattle, and the spoil 7 of the cities, we took for a prey to ourselves. And we took at that time out 8 of the hand of the two kings of the Amorites the land that was on this side Jordan, from the river of Arnon unto mount Hermon; (which [j]Hermon the 9 Sidonians call [k]Sirion; and the Amorites call it [l]Shenir;) all the cities of 10
[m]the plain, and all Gilead, and all Bashan, unto [n]Salchah and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan. For 11 only Og king of Bashan remained of the remnant of [o]giants; behold, his bedstead was a bedstead of iron; is it not in [p]Rabbath of the children of Ammon? nine cubits was the length thereof, and four cubits the breadth of it, after the cubit [q]of a man. And this land, which 12
we possessed at that time, [r]from Aroer, which is by the river Arnon, and half mount Gilead, and [s]the cities thereof, gave I unto the Reubenites and to the Gadites. And [t]the rest of Gilead, and 13
all Bashan, being the kingdom of Og, gave I unto the half tribe of Manasseh; [u]all the region of Argob, with all Bashan, which was called the land of [x]giants. [y]Jair the son of Manasseh 14 took all the country of Argob unto the coasts of [z]Geshuri and Maachathi; and called them after his own name, Bashan-[y]havoth-jair, unto this day. [a]And I 15 gave Gilead unto Machir. And unto 16
the Reubenites [b]and unto the Gadites I gave from Gilead even unto the river Arnon, half the valley, and the border,

And I commanded you at that time, saying, The LORD your God hath given you this land to possess it: ye shall pass over [g]armed before your brethren the children 19 of Israel, all that are [i]meet for the war. But your wives, and your little ones, and your cattle, (for [h]I know that ye have much cattle,) shall abide in your cities which 20
I have given you; until [i]the LORD have given rest unto your brethren, as well as unto you, and until they also possess the land which the LORD your God hath given them beyond Jordan: and then shall ye return every man unto his pos- 21 session, which I have given you. And I commanded [k]Joshua at that time, saying, Thine eyes have seen all that the LORD your God hath done unto these two kings: so shall the LORD do unto all the kingdoms whither thou passest. 22
Ye shall not fear them: for [l]the LORD 23
your God he shall fight for you. And I besought the LORD at that time, saying, 24
O Lord GOD, thou hast begun to shew thy servant [m]thy greatness, and thy mighty hand: for [n]what God is there in heaven or in earth, that can do according to thy works, and according to thy 25 might? I pray thee, let me go over, and see [o]the good land that is beyond Jordan, that goodly mountain, and [p]Lebanon. But the LORD [q]was wroth with 26 me for your sakes, and would not hear me: and the LORD said unto me, [r]Let it suffice thee; speak no more unto me 27
of this matter. [s]Get thee up into the top of [l]Pisgah, and lift up thine eyes westward, and northward, and southward, and eastward, and behold it with thine eyes: for thou shalt not go over 28
this Jordan. But [t]charge Joshua, and [u]encourage him, [w]and strengthen him: for [u]he shall go over before this people, and he shall cause them to inherit the 29 land which thou shalt see. So we abode in [x]the valley over against Beth-peor.

Now therefore hearken, O Israel, unto [a]the statutes and unto the judgments, which I teach you, for to do them, that ye may live, and go in and possess the land which the LORD God of your fathers 2 giveth you. [b]Ye shall not add unto the word which I command you, neither shall you diminish ought from it, that ye may keep the commandments of the LORD your God which I command you.

3 Your eyes have seen what the LORD did because of [c]Baal-peor: for all the men that followed Baal-peor, the LORD thy God hath destroyed them from among you.
4 But ye that did cleave unto the LORD your God are alive every one of you this day.
5 Behold, I have taught you statutes and judgments, even as the LORD my God commanded me, that ye should do so in the land whither ye go to possess it.
6 Keep therefore and do them; for this is [d]your wisdom and your understanding in the sight of the nations, which shall hear all these statutes, and say, [e]Surely this great nation is a wise and understanding people.
7 For [f]what nation is there so great, who hath [g]God so nigh unto them, as the LORD our God is in all things that we call upon him for?
8 And what nation is there so great, that hath statutes and judgments so righteous as all this law, which I set before you this day?
9 Only take heed to thyself, and [h]keep thy soul diligently, lest thou forget the things which thine eyes have seen, and lest they depart from thy heart all the days of thy life: but [i]teach them thy sons, and thy sons' sons;
10 specially [k]the day that thou stoodest before the LORD thy God in Horeb, when the LORD said unto me, Gather me the people together, and I will make them hear my words, that they may learn to fear me all the days that they shall live upon the earth, and that they may teach their children.
11 And ye came near and stood under the mountain; and the [l]mountain burnt with fire unto the [t]midst of heaven, with darkness, clouds, and thick darkness.
12 [m]And the LORD spake unto you out of the midst of the fire: [n]ye heard the voice of the words, but saw no similitude; [o]only ye heard a voice.
13 [p]And he declared unto you his covenant, which he commanded you to perform, even ten [q]commandments; and [r]he wrote them upon two tables of stone.
14 And [s]the LORD commanded me at that time to teach you statutes and judgments, that ye might do them in the land whither ye go over to possess it.
15 [t]Take ye therefore good heed unto [t]yourselves; for ye saw no manner of [u]similitude on the day that the LORD spake unto you in Horeb out of the midst of 16 the fire: lest ye corrupt yourselves, and [x]make you a graven image, the similitude of any [y]figure, [z]the likeness of male
17 or female, the [z]likeness of any beast that is on the earth, the [z]likeness of any
18 winged fowl that flieth in the air, the [z]likeness of any thing that creepeth on the ground, the [z]likeness of any fish that
19 is in the waters beneath the earth: and lest thou lift up thine eyes unto heaven, and when thou seest [a]the sun, and the moon, and the stars, even [b]all the host of heaven, [c]shouldest be driven to worship them, and serve them, which the LORD thy God hath [‖]divided unto all
20 nations under the whole heaven. But the LORD hath taken you, and brought you forth [d]out of the iron furnace, even out of Egypt, to be unto him a people
21 [e]of inheritance, as ye are this day.
Furthermore [f]the LORD was angry with me for your sakes, and sware that I should not go over Jordan, and that I should not go in unto that good land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an
22 inheritance: but [g]I must die in this land, [h]I must not go over Jordan: but ye shall go over, and possess [i]that good
23 land. [k]Take heed unto yourselves, [k]lest ye forget the covenant of the LORD your God, which he made with you, [l]and make you a graven image, or the likeness of any thing, which the LORD thy 24 God hath forbidden thee. For [m]the LORD thy God is a consuming fire, even [n]a jealous God.
25 When thou shalt beget children, and children's children, and ye shall have remained long in the land, and [o]shall corrupt yourselves, and make a graven image, or the likeness of any thing, and [p]shall do evil in the sight of the LORD thy God, [p]to provoke him
26 to anger: [q]I call heaven and earth to witness against you this day, that ye shall soon utterly perish from off the land whereunto you go over Jordan to possess it; ye shall not prolong your days upon 27 it, but shall utterly be destroyed. And the LORD [r]shall scatter you among the nations, and ye shall be left [s]few in number among the heathen, whither the 28 LORD shall lead you. And [t]there ye shall serve gods, the work of men's hands, wood and stone, [u]which neither 29 see, nor hear, nor eat, nor smell.
[w]But if from thence thou shalt seek the LORD thy God, thou shalt find him, if thou seek him with all thy heart and with all 30 thy soul. When thou art in tribulation, and all these things [t]are come upon thee, [x]even in the latter days, if thou [y]turn to the LORD thy God, and shalt be obedient unto his voice; (for the LORD thy 31 God is [z]a merciful God;) he will not forsake thee, neither destroy thee, nor forget the covenant of thy fathers which he sware unto them. For [a]ask now of 32 the days that are past, which were before thee, since the day that God created man upon the earth, and ask [b]from the one side of heaven unto the other, whether there hath been any such thing as this great thing is, or hath been heard like it? [c]Did ever people hear the voice of 33 God speaking out of the midst of the fire, as thou hast heard, and live? Or 34 hath God assayed to go and take him a nation from the midst of another nation, [d]by temptations, [e]by signs, and [e]by wonders, and by war, and [f]by a mighty hand, and [g]by a stretched out arm, and [h]by great terrors, according to all that the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes? Unto thee it 35 was shewed, that thou mightest know that the LORD he is God; [i]there is none else besides him. [k]Out of heaven he 36 made thee to hear his voice, that he might instruct thee: and upon earth he shewed thee his great fire; and thou heardest his words out of the midst of the fire. And because [l]he loved thy 37 fathers, therefore he chose their seed after them, and brought thee out in his sight with his mighty power out of Egypt; [m]to drive out nations from be- 38 fore thee greater and mightier than thou art, to bring thee in, to give thee their land for an inheritance, as it is this day. Know therefore this day, and 39 consider it in thine heart, that [n]the LORD he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: [o]there is none else. [p]Thou shalt keep therefore his statutes, 40 and his commandments, which I command thee this day, [q]that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee, and that thou mayest prolong thy days upon the earth, which the LORD thy God giveth thee, for ever.

Then Moses [r]severed three cities on 41 this side Jordan toward the sunrising; that the slayer might flee thither, which 42 should kill his neighbour [s]unawares, and hated him not [t]in times past; and that fleeing unto one of these cities he might live: namely, [u]Bezer in the wilderness, 43 in [w]the plain country, of the Reubenites; and Ramoth in Gilead, of the Gadites; and Golan in Bashan, of the Manassites.

44 And this is the law which Moses set
45 before the children of Israel: these are the testimonies, and the statutes, and the judgments, which Moses spake unto the children of Israel, after they came 46 forth out of Egypt, on this side Jordan, [x]in the valley over against Beth-peor, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heshbon, whom Moses and the children of Israel [y]smote, after they were come forth out of E-
47 gypt: and they possessed his land, and the land [z]of Og king of Bashan, two kings of the Amorites, which were on this
48 side Jordan toward the sunrising; [a]from Aroer, which is by the bank of the river Arnon, even unto mount [b]Sion, which 49 is [b]Hermon, and all the plain on this side Jordan eastward, even unto [b]the sea of the plain, under the [c]springs of Pisgah.

And Moses called all Israel, and said V. unto them, Hear, O Israel, the statutes and judgments which I speak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them,
2 and [t]keep, and do them. [a]The LORD our God made a covenant with us in 3 Horeb. The LORD [b]made not this covenant with our fathers, but with us, even us, who are all of us here alive this day.
4 The LORD talked with you [c]face to face in the mount out of the midst of the fire,
5 ([d]I stood between the LORD and you at that time, to shew you the word of the LORD: for [e]ye were afraid by reason of the fire, and went not up into the mount;) saying,
6 [f]I am the LORD thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the 7 house of [t]bondage. Thou shalt have 8 none other gods before me. Thou shalt not make thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the waters beneath the earth:

upon the posts of thy house, and on thy gates. And it shall be, when the LORD 10 thy God shall have brought thee into the land which he sware unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give thee great and goodly cities, [n] which thou buildedst not, and houses 11 full of all good things, which thou filledst not, and wells digged, which thou diggedst not, vineyards and olive trees, [o] which thou plantedst not; [o] when thou shalt have eaten and be full; then be- 12 ware lest thou forget the LORD, which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the house of [t] bondage. Thou shalt [p] fear the LORD thy 13 God, and serve him, and [q] shalt swear by his name. Ye shall not [r] go after 14 other gods, [s] of the gods of the people which are round about you; (for [t] the 15 LORD thy God is a jealous God among you) [u] lest the anger of the LORD thy God be kindled against thee, and destroy thee from off the face of the earth. [x] Ye 16 shall not tempt the LORD your God, [y] as ye tempted him in Massah. You shall [z] diligently keep the command- 17 ments of the LORD your God, and his testimonies, and his statutes, which he hath commanded thee. And thou shalt 18 do that which is right and good in the sight of the LORD: [a] that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayest go in and possess the good land which the LORD sware unto thy fathers, [b] to cast 19 out all thine enemies from before thee, as the LORD hath spoken. And [c] when 20 thy son asketh thee [t] in time to come, saying, What mean the testimonies, and the statutes, and the judgments, which the LORD our God hath commanded you? then thou shalt say unto thy son, 21 We were Pharaoh's bondmen in Egypt; and the LORD brought us out of Egypt [d] with a mighty hand: [e] and the LORD 22 shewed signs and wonders, great and [f] sore, upon Egypt, upon Pharaoh, and upon all his household, before our eyes: and he brought us out from thence, that 23 he might bring us in, to give us the land which he sware unto our fathers. And the LORD commanded us to do all 24 these statutes, [f] to fear the LORD our God, [g] for our good always, that [h] he might preserve us alive, as it is at this day. And [i] it shall be our righteousness, 25 if we observe to do all these commandments before the LORD our God, as he hath commanded us.

When the [a] LORD thy God shall bring VII. thee into the land whither thou goest to possess it, and hath cast out many nations before thee, [b] the Hittites, and the Girgashites, and the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites, seven nations 2 [c] greater and mightier than thou; and when the LORD thy God shall [d] deliver them before thee; thou shalt smite them, and [e] utterly destroy them; [f] thou shalt make no covenant with them, nor shew 3 mercy unto them: [g] neither shalt thou make marriages with them; thy daughter thou shalt not give unto his son, nor his 4 daughter shalt thou take unto thy son. For they will turn away thy son from following me, that they may serve other gods: [h] so will the anger of the LORD be kindled against you, and destroy thee 5 suddenly. But thus shall ye deal with them; ye shall [i] destroy their altars, and break down their [t] images, and cut down [i] their groves, and burn their graven im- 6 ages with fire. [k] For thou art a holy people unto the LORD thy God: the LORD thy God hath chosen thee to be a [l] special people unto himself, above all people that are upon the face of the 7 earth. The LORD did not set his love upon you, nor choose you, because ye were moe in number than any people; for ye were [m] the fewest of all people: 8 but [n] because the LORD loved you, and because he would keep [o] the oath which he had sworn unto your fathers, hath the LORD brought you out [p] with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the house of bondmen, from the hand of 9 Pharaoh king of Egypt. Know therefore that the LORD thy God, he is God, [q] the faithful God, [r] which keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love him and keep his commandments to a 10 thousand generations; and [s] repayeth them that hate him to their face, to destroy them: [t] he will not be slack to him that hateth him, he will repay him to 11 his face. Thou shalt therefore keep the commandments, and the statutes, and the judgments, which I command thee 12 this day, to do them. [u] Wherefore it shall come to pass, [t] if ye hearken to these judgments, and keep, and do them, that the LORD thy God shall keep unto thee [x] the covenant and the mercy which 13 he sware unto thy fathers: and he will [y] love thee, and bless thee, and multiply thee: [z] he will also bless the fruit of thy

IX. Hear, O Israel: Thou art to [a]pass over Jordan this day, to go in to possess nations [b]greater and mightier than thyself, cities great and [c]fenced up to heaven, a people great and tall, [d]the chil- 2 dren of the Anakims, whom thou knowest, and of whom thou hast heard say, Who can stand before the children of Anak! Understand therefore this day, 3 that the LORD thy God is he which [e]goeth over before thee; as a [f]consuming fire [g]he shall destroy them, and he shall bring them down before thy face: [h]so shalt thou drive them out, and destroy them quickly, as the LORD hath said unto thee. [i]Speak not thou in thine 4

Understand therefore, that the LORD thy 6

and forget not, how thou provokedst the LORD thy God to wrath in the wilderness: [o]from the day that thou didst depart out of the land of Egypt, until ye came unto this place, ye have been re-8 bellious against the LORD. Also [p]in Horeb ye provoked the LORD to wrath, so that the LORD was angry with you to 9 have destroyed you. [q]When I was gone up into the mount to receive the tables of stone, even the tables of the covenant which the LORD made with you, then I abode in the mount [r]forty days and forty nights, I neither did eat bread nor drink
10 water: [s]and the LORD delivered unto me two tables of stone written with the finger of God; and on them was written according to all the words, which the LORD spake with you in the mount out of the midst of the fire [t]in the day of the 11 assembly. And it came to pass at the end of forty days and forty nights, that the LORD gave me the two tables of stone, even the tables of the covenant.
12 And the LORD said unto me, [u]Arise, get thee down quickly from hence; for thy people which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt have corrupted themselves; they are [x]quickly turned aside out of the way which I commanded them; they 13 have made them a molten image. Furthermore [y]the LORD spake unto me, saying, I have seen this people, and be-
14 hold, [z]it is a stiffnecked people: [a]let me alone, that I may destroy them, and [b]blot out their name from under heaven: [c]and I will make of thee a nation
15 mightier and greater than they. [d]So I turned and came down from the mount, and [e]the mount burned with fire: and the two tables of the covenant were in 16 my two hands. And [f]I looked, and behold, ye had sinned against the LORD your God, and had made you a molten calf: ye had turned aside quickly out of the way which the LORD had command-
17 ed you. And I took the two tables, and cast them out of my two hands, and 18 brake them before your eyes. And I [g]fell down before the LORD, [h]as at the first, forty days and forty nights: I did neither eat bread, nor drink water, because of all your sins which ye sinned, [i]in doing wickedly in the sight of the 19 LORD, to provoke him to anger. For I was afraid of the anger and hot displeasure, where*with* the LORD was wroth against you to destroy you. [j]But the 20 LORD hearkened unto me at that time also. And the LORD was very angry with Aaron to have destroyed him: and I prayed for Aaron also the same time.

Therefore shall ye keep all the commandments which I command you this day, that ye may [k] be strong, and go in and possess the land, whither ye go to possess it; and [l] that ye may prolong your days in the land, [m] which the LORD sware unto your fathers to give unto them and to their seed, [n] a land that floweth with milk and honey. For the land, whither thou goest in to possess it, is not as the land of Egypt, from whence ye came out, where thou sowedst thy seed, and [o] wateredst it with thy foot, as a garden of herbs: [p] but the land, whither ye go to possess it, is a land of hills and valleys, and drinketh water of the rain of heaven: a land which the LORD thy God [t] careth for: [q] the eyes of the LORD thy God are always upon it, from the beginning of the year even unto the end of the year. And it shall come to pass, if you shall hearken diligently unto my commandments which I command you this day, [r] to love the LORD your God, and to serve him with all your heart and with all your soul, that [s] I will give you the rain of your land in his due season, [t] the first rain and the latter rain, that thou mayest gather in thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oil. [u] And I will [t] send grass in thy fields for thy cattle, that thou mayest [x] eat and be full. Take heed to yourselves, that your heart be not [y] deceived, and ye turn aside, and [z] serve other gods, and worship them; and then [a] the LORD's wrath be kindled against you, and he [b] shut up the heaven, that there be no rain, and that [c] the land yield not her fruit; and lest [d] ye perish quickly from off the good land which the LORD giveth you. Therefore [e] shall ye lay up these my words in your heart and in your soul, and [f] bind them for a sign upon your hand, that they may be as frontlets between your eyes. [g] And ye shall teach them your children, speaking of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, when thou liest down, and when thou risest up. [h] And thou shalt write them upon the door posts of thine house, and upon thy gates: that [i] your days may be multiplied, and the days of your children, in the land which the LORD sware unto your fathers to give them, [k] as the days of heaven upon the earth. For if [l] ye shall diligently keep all these commandments which I command you, to do them, to love the LORD your God, to walk in all his ways, and [m] to cleave unto him; then will the LORD [n] drive out all these nations from before you, and ye shall [o] possess greater nations and mightier than yourselves. [p] Every place whereon the soles of your feet shall tread shall be yours: [q] from the wilderness and Lebanon, from the river, the river Euphrates, even unto [r] the uttermost sea shall your coast be. [s] There shall no man be able to stand before you: for the LORD your God shall lay [t] the fear of you and the dread of you upon all the land that ye shall tread upon, [u] as he hath said unto you.

If there arise among you a prophet, or a [a]dreamer of dreams, [b]and giveth thee a sign or a wonder, and [c]the sign or the wonder come to pass, whereof he spake unto thee, saying, Let us go after other gods, which thou hast not known, and let us serve them; thou shalt not hearken unto the words of that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams: for the LORD your God [d]proveth you, to know whether you love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul. Ye shall [e]walk after the LORD your God, and fear him, and keep his commandments, and obey his voice, and you shall serve him, and [f]cleave unto him. And [g]that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams, shall be put to death; because he hath [t]spoken to turn you away from the LORD your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed you out of the house of bondage, to [s]thrust thee out of the way which the LORD thy God commanded thee to walk in. [h]So shalt thou put the evil away from the midst of thee. [i]If thy brother, the son of thy mother, or thy son, or thy daughter, or [j]the wife of thy bosom, or thy friend, [k]which is as thine own soul, entice thee secretly, saying, Let us go and serve other gods, which thou hast not known, thou, nor thy fathers; namely, [l]of the gods of the people which are round about you, nigh unto thee, or far off from thee, from the one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth; thou shalt [m]not consent unto him, nor hearken unto him; neither [n]shall thine eye pity him, neither shalt thou spare, neither shalt thou conceal him: but thou shalt surely kill him; [o]thine hand shall be first upon him to put him to death, and afterwards the hand of all the people. [p]And thou shalt stone him with stones, that he die; because he hath sought to [s]thrust thee away from the LORD thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of [t]bondage. And [q]all Israel shall hear, and fear, and shall do no more any such wickedness as this is among you. [r]If thou shalt hear say in one of thy cities, which the LORD thy God hath given thee to dwell there, saying, Certain men, [l]the children of Belial, are gone out from among you, and have [s]withdrawn the inhabitants of their city, saying, Let us go and serve other gods, which ye have not known; then shalt thou inquire, and make search, and ask [t]diligently; and behold, if it be truth, and the thing certain, that such abomination is wrought among you; thou shalt surely smite the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, [u]destroying it utterly, and all that is therein, and the cattle thereof, with the edge of the sword. And thou shalt gather all the spoil of it into the midst of the street thereof, and shalt [x]burn with fire the city, and all the spoil thereof every whit, for the LORD thy God: and it shall be [y]a heap for ever; it shall not be built again. an inheritance to possess it: only [d]if thou carefully hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all these commandments which I command thee this day. For the LORD thy God blesseth thee, as he promised thee: and [e]thou shalt lend unto many nations, but thou shalt not borrow; and [f]thou shalt reign over many nations, but they shall not reign over thee. If there be among you a poor man of one of thy brethren within any of the gates in thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, thou shalt not [g]harden thy heart, nor shut thine hand from thy poor brother: [h]but thou shalt open thine hand wide unto him, and shalt surely lend him sufficient for his need, in that which he wanteth. Beware that there be not a [i]thought in thy [i]wicked heart, saying, The seventh year, the year of release, is at hand; and thine [i]eye be evil against thy poor brother, and thou givest him nought; and [k]he cry unto the LORD against thee, and [l]it be sin unto thee. Thou shalt surely give him, and [m]thine heart shall not be grieved when thou givest unto him: because that [n]for this thing the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all thy works, and in all [o]that thou puttest thine hand unto. For [p]the poor shall never cease out of the land: therefore I command thee, saying, [q]Thou shalt open thine hand wide unto thy brother, to thy poor, and to thy needy, in thy land.

And [r]if thy brother, a Hebrew man, or a Hebrew woman, be sold unto thee, and serve thee six years; then in the seventh year thou shalt let him go free from thee. And when thou sendest him out free from thee, thou shalt not let him go away empty: thou shalt furnish him liberally out of thy flock, and out of thy floor, and out of thy winepress: of that where*with* the LORD thy God hath [s]blessed thee thou shalt give unto him. And [t]thou shalt remember that thou wast a bondman in the land of Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee: therefore I command thee this thing to day. And it shall be, [u]if he say unto thee, I will not go away from thee; because he loveth thee and thine house, because he is well with thee; then thou shalt take an aul, and thrust it through his ear unto the door, and he shall be thy servant for ever. And also unto thy maidservant thou shalt do likewise. It shall not seem hard unto thee, when thou sendest him away free from thee; for he hath been worth a double [w]hired servant to thee, in serving thee six years: and the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all that thou doest.

[x]All the firstling males that come of thy herd and of thy flock thou shalt sanctify unto the LORD thy God: [y]thou shalt do no work with the firstling of thy bullock, nor shear the firstling of thy sheep. [z]Thou shalt eat it before the LORD thy God year by year in the place which the LORD shall choose, thou and thy household. [a]And if there be any blemish therein, as if it be lame, or blind, or have any ill blemish, thou shalt not sacrifice it unto the LORD thy God. Thou shalt eat it within thy gates: [b]the unclean and the clean person shall eat it alike, as the roebuck, and as the hart. [c]Only thou shalt not eat the blood thereof; thou shalt pour it upon the ground as water.

XVI.

Observe the [a]month of Abib, and keep the passover unto the LORD thy God: for [b]in the month of Abib the LORD thy God brought thee forth out of Egypt by night. Thou shalt therefore sacrifice the passover unto the LORD thy God, of the flock and [c]the herd, [d]in the place which the LORD shall choose to place his name there. Thou shalt eat no leavened bread with it; seven days shalt thou eat unleavened bread therewith, even the bread of affliction; for thou camest forth out of the land of Egypt in [e]haste: that thou mayest remember the day when thou camest forth out of the land of Egypt all the days of thy life. [f]And there shall be no leavened bread seen with thee in all thy coast seven days; neither shall there any thing of the flesh, which thou sacrificedst the first day at even, [g]remain all night until the morning. Thou mayest not [h]sacrifice the passover within any of the gates, which the LORD thy God giveth thee: but at the place which the LORD thy God shall choose to place his name in, there thou shalt sacrifice the passover [h]at even, at the going down of the sun, at the season that thou camest forth out of Egypt. And thou shalt [i]roast and eat it in the place which the LORD thy God shall choose: and thou shalt turn in the morning, and go unto thy tents. [b] Thou shalt not wrest judgment; [c] thou shalt not respect persons, [d] neither take a gift: for a gift doth blind the eyes of the wise, and pervert the [l] words of the righteous. [f] That which is altogether just shalt thou follow, that thou mayest live, and inherit the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

Thou shalt not plant thee [e] a grove of any trees near unto the altar of the LORD thy God, which thou [e] shalt make thee. Neither shalt thou set thee up any [l] image; which the LORD thy God hateth.

Thou [a] shalt not sacrifice unto the LORD thy God any bullock, or [l] sheep, wherein is blemish, or any evil favouredness: for that is an abomination unto the LORD thy God.

[b] If there be found among you, within any of thy gates which the LORD thy God giveth thee, man or woman, that hath wrought wickedness in the sight of the LORD thy God, [c] in transgressing his covenant, and hath gone and served other gods, and worshipped them, either [d] the sun, or moon, or any of the host of heaven, [e] which I have not commanded; and it be told thee, and thou hast heard of it, and inquired [f] diligently, and behold, it is true, and the thing certain, that such abomination is wrought in Israel: then shalt thou bring forth that man or that woman, which have committed that wicked thing, unto thy gates, even that man or that woman, and [g] shalt stone them with stones, till they die. [h] At the mouth of two witnesses, or three witnesses, shall he that is worthy of death be put to death; but at the mouth of one witness he shall not be put to death. [i] The hands of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death, and afterward the hands of all the people. So [k] thou shalt put the evil away from among you.

[l] If there arise a matter too hard for thee in judgment, [l] between blood and blood, between plea and plea, and between stroke and stroke, being matters of controversy within thy gates: then shalt thou arise, and get thee up [m] into the place which the LORD thy God shall choose; and thou shalt come unto [l] the priests the Levites, and unto [l] the judge that shall be in those days, and inquire; [n] and they shall shew thee the sentence of judgment: and thou shalt do according to the sentence, which they of that place which the LORD shall choose shall shew thee; and thou shalt observe to do according to all that they inform thee: according to the sentence of the law which they shall teach thee, and according to the judgment which they shall tell thee, thou shalt do: thou shalt not decline from the sentence which they shall shew thee, to the right hand, nor to the left. sumptuously, [t]and will not hearken unto the priest [p]that standeth to minister there before the LORD thy God, or unto the judge, even that man shall die: and [q]thou shalt put away the evil from Israel. And all the people [r]shall hear, and fear, and do no more presumptuously.

When thou art come unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, and shalt possess it, and shalt dwell therein, and shalt say, [s]I will set a king over me, like as all the nations that are about me; thou shalt in any wise set him king over thee, [t]whom the LORD thy God shall choose: one [u]from among thy brethren shalt thou set king over thee: thou mayest not set a stranger over thee, which is not thy brother. But he shall not multiply [x]horses to himself, nor cause the people [y]to return to Egypt, to the end that he should multiply horses: forasmuch as the LORD hath said unto you, [z]Ye shall henceforth return no more that way. Neither [a]shall he multiply wives to himself, that his heart turn not away: neither shall he greatly multiply to himself silver and gold. [b]And it shall be, when he sitteth upon the throne of his kingdom, that he shall write him a copy of this law in a book out of that which is [c]before [d]the priests the Levites: and [e]it shall be with him, and he shall read therein all the days of his life: that [f]he may learn to fear the LORD his God, to keep all the words of this law and these statutes, to do them: that his heart be not lifted up above his brethren, and that he [g]turn not aside from the commandment, to the right hand, or to the left: [h]to the end that he may prolong his days in his kingdom, he, and his children, in the midst of Israel.

XVIII.

The priests the Levites, and all the tribe of Levi, [a]shall have no part nor inheritance with Israel: they [b]shall eat the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and his inheritance. Therefore shall they have no inheritance among their brethren: the LORD is their inheritance, as he hath said unto them. And this shall be the priest's due from the people, from them that offer a sacrifice, whether it be ox or sheep; and [c]they shall give unto the priest the shoulder, and the two cheeks, and the maw. [d]The firstfruit also of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thy oil, and the first of the fleece of thy sheep, shalt thou give him. For the LORD thy God hath chosen him out of all thy tribes, [e]to stand to minister in the name of the LORD, him and his sons for ever. And if a Levite come from any of thy gates out of all Israel, [f]where he sojourned, and come [g]with all the desire of his mind [h]unto the place which the LORD shall choose; then he [e]shall minister in the name of the LORD his God, [i]as all his brethren the Levites do, [e]which stand there before the LORD. They shall have like [k]portions to eat, beside [l]that which cometh of the sale of his patrimony.

When thou art come into the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, [l]thou shalt not learn to do after the abominations of those nations. There shall not be found among you any one [m]that maketh his son or his daughter to pass through the fire, or [n]that useth divination, or [o]an observer of times, or [p]an enchanter, or [q]a witch, or [r]a charmer, or a consulter with [s]familiar spirits, or [s]a wizard, or [t]a necromancer. For all that do these things are an abomination unto the LORD: and [u]because of these abominations the LORD thy God doth drive them out from before thee. Thou shalt be [‖]perfect with the LORD thy God. For these nations, which thou shalt [‖]possess, hearkened unto [o]observers of times, and unto [n]diviners: but as for thee, the LORD thy God hath not suffered thee so to do.

[w]The LORD thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet from the midst of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him ye shall hearken; according to all that thou desiredst of the LORD thy God in Horeb [x]in the day of the assembly, saying, [y]Let me not hear again the voice of the LORD my God, neither let me see this great fire any more, that I die not. And the LORD said unto me, [z]They have well spoken that which they have spoken. [a]I will raise them up a Prophet from among their brethren, like unto thee, and [b]will put my words in his mouth; and [c]he shall speak unto them all that I shall command him. [d]And it shall come to pass, that whosoever will not hearken unto my words which he shall speak in my name, I will require it of him. But the prophet, which [e]shall presume [f]to speak a word in my name, which I have not commanded him to speak, or [g]that shall thy elders and thy judges shall come forth, and they shall measure unto the cities which are round about him that is slain: and it shall be, that the city which 3

every controversy and every stroke be tried: and all the elders of that city, that are next unto the slain man, [c]shall wash their hands over the heifer that is 7

XXVII. 1 And Moses with the elders of Israel commanded the people, saying, Keep all the commandments which I command you this day. 2 And it shall be on the day [a]when you shall pass over Jordan unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, that thou shalt set thee up great stones, and plaister them with plaister: 3 [b]and thou shalt write upon them all the words of this law, when thou art passed over, that thou mayest go in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, [c]a land [that] floweth with milk and honey; as the LORD God of thy fathers hath promised thee. 4 Therefore it shall be when ye be gone over Jordan, that ye shall set up these stones, which I command you this day, [d]in mount Ebal, and thou shalt plaister them with plaister. 5 And there shalt thou build an altar unto the LORD thy God, an altar of stones: [e]thou shalt not lift up any iron tool upon them. 6 Thou shalt build the altar of the LORD thy God of [e]whole stones: and thou shalt offer burnt offerings thereon unto the LORD thy God: 7 and thou shalt offer peace offerings, and shalt eat there, and rejoice before the LORD thy God. 8 And thou shalt write upon the stones all the words of this law very plainly.

XXVIII. And it shall come to pass, [a] if thou shalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe and to do all his commandments which I command thee this day, that the LORD thy God will set thee on [b] high above all nations of the earth: and all these blessings shall come on thee, and [c] overtake thee, if thou shalt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God. Blessed shalt thou be in the city, and blessed shalt thou be [d] in the field. Blessed shall be [e] the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, [e] the increase of thy kine, and the flocks of thy sheep. Blessed shall be thy [f] basket and thy [l] store. Blessed shalt thou be [g] when thou comest in, and blessed shalt thou be when thou goest out. The LORD [h] shall cause thine enemies that rise up against thee to be smitten before thy face: they shall come out against thee one way, and flee before thee seven ways. The LORD shall [i] command the blessing upon thee in thy [l] storehouses, and in all that thou [k] settest thine hand unto; and he shall bless thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee. [l] The LORD shall establish thee a holy people unto himself, as he hath sworn unto thee, if thou shalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, and walk in his ways. And all people of the earth shall see that thou art [m] called by the name of the LORD; and they shall be [n] afraid of thee. And [o] the LORD shall make thee plenteous [l] in goods, in the fruit of thy [t] body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, in the land which the LORD sware unto thy fathers to give thee. The LORD shall open unto thee his good treasure, the heaven [p] to give the rain unto thy land in his season, and [q] to bless all the work of thine hand: and [r] thou shalt lend unto many nations, and thou shalt not borrow. And the LORD shall make thee [s] the head, and not the tail; and thou shalt be above only, and thou shalt not be beneath; if that thou hearken unto the commandments of the LORD thy God, which I command thee this day, to observe and to do them: [t] and thou shalt not go aside from any of the words which I command thee this day, to the right hand, or to the left, to go after other gods to serve them.

But it shall come to pass, [u] if thou wilt not hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all his commandments and his statutes which I command thee this day; that all these curses shall come upon thee, and [w] overtake thee: cursed shalt thou be [x] in the city, and cursed shalt thou be in the field. Cursed shall be thy basket and thy store. Cursed shall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy land, the increase of thy kine, and the flocks of thy sheep. Cursed shalt thou be when thou comest in, and cursed shalt thou be when thou goest out. The LORD [y] shall send upon thee cursing, [z] vexation, and [a] rebuke, in all [b] that thou settest thine hand unto [l] for to do, until thou be destroyed, and until thou perish quickly; because of the wickedness of thy doings, whereby thou hast forsaken me. The LORD shall make [c] the pestilence cleave unto thee, until he have consumed thee from off the land, whither thou goest to possess it. The LORD shall smite thee with [d] a consumption, and with [d] a fever, and with an inflammation, and with an extreme burning, and with the [l] sword, and with [e] blasting, and with [e] mildew; and they shall pursue thee until thou perish. And [f] thy heaven that is over thy head shall be brass, and the earth that is under thee shall be iron. The LORD shall make the rain of thy land powder and dust: from heaven shall it come down upon thee, until thou be destroyed. The LORD will smite thee with [k]the botch of Egypt, and with [l]the emerods, and with [m]the scab, and with the itch, whereof thou canst not be healed. The LORD shall smite thee with [n]madness, and blindness, and [o]astonishment of heart: and thou shalt [p]grope at noondays, as the blind gropeth in darkness, and thou shalt not prosper in thy ways: and thou shalt be only oppressed and spoiled evermore, and no man shall save thee. Thine ox shall be slain before thine eyes, and thou shalt not eat thereof: thine ass shall be violently taken away from before thy face, and [t]shall not be restored to thee: thy sheep shall be given unto thine enemies, and thou shalt have none to rescue them. The fruit of thy land, and all thy labours, shall a nation which thou knowest not eat up; [u]and thou shalt be only oppressed and crushed alway: so that thou shalt be mad [v]for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see. The LORD shall smite thee in the knees, and in the legs, with a sore [w]botch that cannot be healed, from the sole of thy foot unto the top of thy head. The LORD shall [x]bring thee, and thy king which thou shalt set over thee, unto a nation which neither thou nor thy fathers have known; and [y]there shalt thou serve other gods, wood and stone. And thou shalt become [z]an astonishment, [a]a proverb, and [z]a byword, among all nations whither the LORD shall lead thee. [b]Thou shalt carry much seed out into the field, and shalt gather but little in; for [c]the locust shall consume it. Thou shalt plant vineyards, and dress them, but shalt neither drink of the wine, nor gather the grapes; for the worms shall eat them. Thou shalt have olive trees throughout all thy coasts, but thou shalt not anoint thyself with the oil; for thine olive shall cast his fruit. Thou shalt beget sons and daughters, but [t]thou shalt not enjoy them; for [d]they shall go into captivity. All thy trees and fruit of thy land shall the locust [l]consume. [e]The stranger that is within thee shall get up above thee very high; and thou shalt come down very low. [f]He shall lend to thee, and thou shalt not lend to him: [e]he shall be the head, and thou shalt be the tail. Moreover [g]all these curses shall come upon thee, and shall pursue thee, and overtake thee, till thou be destroyed; because thou hearkenedst not unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep his commandments and his statutes which he commanded thee: and they shall be upon thee [h]for a sign and for a wonder, and upon thy seed for ever. Because thou servedst not the LORD thy God with joyfulness, and with [i]gladness of heart, [k]for the abundance of all things; therefore shalt thou serve thine enemies which the LORD shall send against thee, in hunger, and in thirst, and in nakedness, and in want of all things: and he [l]shall put a yoke of iron upon thy neck, until he have destroyed thee. standeth here with us this day before the LORD our God, [s]and also with him that is not here with us this day: (for ye 16 know how we have dwelt in the land of Egypt; and how we came through the nations which ye passed by; and ye 17 have seen their abominations, and their [t]idols, wood and stone, silver and gold, which were among them:) lest there 18 should be among you man, or woman, or family, or tribe, whose heart turneth away this day from the LORD our God, to go and serve the gods of these nations; [t]lest there should be among you a root that beareth [u]gall and [v]wormwood; and it come to pass, when he 19 heareth the words of this curse, that he bless himself in his heart, saying, I shall have peace, though I walk in the [w]imagination of mine heart, [x]to add [y]drunkenness to thirst: the LORD will not spare 20 him, but then [z]the anger of the LORD and [z]his jealousy shall smoke against that man, and all the curses that are written in this book shall lie upon him, and the LORD [a]shall blot out his name from under heaven. And the LORD 21 shall separate him unto evil out of all the tribes of Israel, according to all the curses of the covenant that [b]are written in this book of the law: so that the ge- 22 neration to come of your children that shall rise up after you, and the stranger that shall come from a far land, [c]shall say, when they see the plagues of that land, and the sicknesses [d]which the LORD hath laid upon it; and that the 23 whole land thereof is brimstone, and [e]salt, and burning, that it is not sown, nor beareth, nor any grass groweth therein, [f]like the overthrow of Sodom, and Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboim, which the LORD overthrew in his anger, and in his wrath: even all nations [g]shall say, 24 [h]Wherefore hath the LORD done thus unto this land? what meaneth [i]the heat of this great anger? Then men shall say, 25 Because they have forsaken the covenant of the LORD God of their fathers, which he made with them when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt: for they went and served other 26 gods, and worshipped them, gods whom they knew not, and [k]whom he had not [l]given unto them: and the anger of the 27 LORD was kindled against this land, to bring upon it all the curses that are written in this book: and the LORD [m]rooted 28 them out of their land in anger, and in wrath, and in great indignation, and cast them into another land, as it is this day. 29 The secret things belong unto the LORD our God: but those things which are revealed belong unto us and to our children for ever, that we may do all the words of this law.

XXX. And [a]it shall come to pass, when [b]all these things are come upon thee, the blessing and the curse, which I have set before thee, and [c]thou shalt call them to mind among all the nations, whither the 2 LORD thy God hath driven thee, and shalt [d]return unto the LORD thy God, and shalt obey his voice according to all that I command thee this day, thou and thy children, with all thine heart, and 3 with all thy soul; that then the LORD thy God [e]will turn thy captivity, and have compassion upon thee, and will return and [f]gather thee from all the nations, whither the LORD thy God hath scatter- 4 ed thee. [g]If any of thine be driven out unto the outmost parts of heaven, from thence will the LORD thy God gather thee, and from thence will he fetch thee: 5 and the LORD thy God will bring thee into the land which thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt possess it; and he will [h]do thee good, and multiply thee 6 above thy fathers. And [i]the LORD thy God will circumcise thine heart, and the heart of thy seed, to love the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all 7 thy soul, that thou mayest live. And the LORD thy God will put all these curses upon thine enemies, and on them that hate thee, which persecuted thee. 8 And thou shalt return and obey the voice of the LORD, and do all his commandments which I command thee this 9 day. [j]And the LORD thy God will make thee plenteous in every work of thine hand, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy land, for good: for the LORD will again [k]rejoice over thee for good, as he 10 rejoiced over thy fathers: if thou shalt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep his commandments and his statutes which are written in this book of the law, and if thou turn unto the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and 11 with all thy soul. For this commandment which I command thee this day, [l]it is not hidden from thee, neither is 12 it far off. hold, thy days approach that thou must die: call Joshua, and present yourselves
in the tabernacle of the congregation, that [c]I may give him a charge. And Moses and Joshua went, and presented themselves in the tabernacle of the con- 15 gregation. And [d]the LORD appeared in the tabernacle in a pillar of a cloud:
and the pillar of the cloud stood over 16 the door of the tabernacle. And the LORD said unto Moses, Behold, thou shalt [†]sleep with thy fathers; and this people will [e]rise up, and [f]go a whoring
after the gods of the strangers of the land, whither they go to be amongst them,
and will [g]forsake me, and [h]break my covenant which I have made with them.
17 Then my anger shall be kindled against them in that day, and [i]I will forsake them, and I will [k]hide my face from them, and they shall be devoured, and many evils and troubles shall [†]befall

them; so that they will say in that day, Are not these evils come upon us, because [l]our God is not amongst us? And [m]I will surely hide my face in 18 that day for all the evils which they shall have wrought, in that they are turned unto other gods. Now there- 19 fore write ye this song for you, and teach it the children of Israel: put it in their mouths, that this song may be [n]a witness for me against the children of Israel. For when I shall have brought 20 them into the land which I sware unto their fathers, [o]that floweth with milk and honey; and they shall have eaten and filled themselves, and [p]waxen fat; [q]then will they turn unto other gods, and serve them, and [r]provoke me, and [h]break my covenant. And it shall come 21 to pass, [s]when many evils and troubles are befallen them, that this song shall testify [t]against them as a witness; for it shall not be forgotten out of the mouths of their seed: for [t]I know their [u]imagination which they [t]go about, even now, before I have brought them into the land which I sware. Moses therefore 22 wrote this song the same day, and taught it the children of Israel. [w]And he 23 gave Joshua the son of Nun a charge, and said, [x]Be strong and of a good courage: for thou shalt bring the children of Israel into the land which I sware unto them: and [y]I will be with thee.

And it came to pass, when Moses 24 had made an end of [z]writing the words of this law in a book, until they were finished, that Moses commanded the 25 Levites, [z]which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, saying, Take this 26 book of the law, [a]and put it in the side of the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, that it may be there [b]for a witness against thee. For I know thy 27 rebellion, and thy [c]stiff neck: behold, while I am yet alive with you this day, [d]ye have been rebellious against the LORD; and how much more after my death? Gather unto me all the elders 28 of your tribes, and your [e]officers, that I may speak these words in their ears, [f]and call heaven and earth to record against them. For I know that after 29 my death ye will utterly [g]corrupt yourselves, and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you; and evil will befall you [h]in the latter days; because ye will do evil in the sight of the LORD, [i]to provoke him to anger through 30 the work of your hands. And Moses spake in the ears of all the congregation of Israel the words of this song, until they were ended.

XXXII.

Give ear, [a]O ye heavens, and I will speak;
And hear, O earth, the words of my mouth.
2 [b]My doctrine [c]shall drop as the rain,
My speech shall distil as the dew,
As the small rain upon the tender herb,
And [d]as the showers upon the grass:
3 Because I will publish the name of the LORD:
Ascribe ye [e]greatness unto our God.
4 He is [f]the Rock, his work is perfect:

They are a [k]perverse and [k]crooked generation.
6 Do ye thus [l]requite the LORD,
O foolish people and unwise?
Is not he [m]thy Father that hath [n]bought thee?
Hath he not [o]made thee, and established thee?
7 Remember the days of old,
Consider the years of [t]many generations:
[p]Ask thy father, and he will shew thee;
Thy elders, and they will tell thee.
8 When the most High [q]divided to the nations their inheritance,
When he [r]separated the sons of Adam,
He set the bounds of the people to God;

To gods whom they knew not,
To new gods that came newly up,
Whom your fathers feared not.
Of the Rock that begat thee thou art 18
unmindful,
And hast [o]forgotten God that formed thee.
[p]And when the LORD saw it, he ‖abhorred them, 19
Because of the provoking of [q]his sons, and of his daughters.
And he said, [r]I will hide my face 20
from them,
I will see what their end shall be:
For they are a [s]very froward generation,
Children in whom is no faith.
[t]They have moved me to jealousy with 21
that which is not God;
They have provoked me to anger [u]with their vanities:
And [x]I will move them to jealousy with those which are not a people;
I will provoke them to anger with a foolish nation.
For [y]a fire is kindled in my anger, 22
And ‖shall burn unto the lowest hell,
And [z]‖shall consume the earth with her increase,
And set on fire [z]the foundations of the mountains.
I will heap mischiefs upon them; 23
[a]I will spend mine arrows upon them.
They shall be burnt with hunger, and 24
devoured with [†]burning heat,
And with bitter destruction:
I will also send [b]the teeth of beasts upon them,
With the poison [c]of serpents of the dust.
[d]The sword without, 25
And terror [†]within, shall [†]destroy
Both the young man and the virgin,
The suckling also with the man of gray hairs.
[e]I said, I would scatter them into 26
corners,
I would make the remembrance of them to cease from among men:
Were it not that I feared the wrath of 27
the enemy,
Lest their adversaries [f]should behave themselves strangely,
And lest they should [g]say, ‖Our hand is high,
And the LORD hath not done all this.
For they are a nation void of counsel, 28
[h]Neither is there any understanding in them.
[i]O that they were wise, that they understood this, 29
That they would consider [j]their latter end!
How should [k]one chase a thousand, 30
And two put ten thousand to flight,
Except their Rock [l]had sold them,
And the LORD had shut them up?
For [m]their rock is not as our Rock, 31
[n]Even our enemies themselves being judges.
For their vine ‖is of the vine of 32
[o]Sodom,
And of the fields of Gomorrah:
Their grapes are grapes of [p]gall,
Their clusters are bitter:
Their wine is [q]the poison of dragons, 33
And the cruel [p]venom of [r]asps.
Is not this laid up in store with me, 34
And [s]sealed up among my treasures?
[t]To me belongeth vengeance, and 35
recompence;
Their foot shall slide in due time:
For [u]the day of their calamity is at hand,
And the things that shall come upon them make haste.
[w]For the LORD shall judge his 36
people,
[x]And repent himself for his servants,
When he seeth that their [†]power is gone,
And [y]there is none shut up, or left.

Their rock in whom they trusted,
Which did eat the fat of their sacrifices, 38
And drank the wine of their drink offerings?
Let them rise up and help you,
And be [†]your protection.
See now that [a]I, even I, am he, 39
And there is no god with me:
[b]I kill, and I make alive;
[c]I wound, and I heal:
Neither is there any that can deliver out of my hand.
For [d]I lift up my hand to heaven, 40
And say, I live for ever.
If I whet my glittering [e]sword, 41
And mine hand take hold on judgment;
I will render vengeance to mine enemies,
And will reward them that hate me.
I will make mine arrows drunk with 42
blood,
And [f]my sword shall devour flesh;
And that with the blood of the slain and of the captives,
From the beginning of [g]revenges upon the enemy.
[‖h]Rejoice, O ye nations, with his 43
people:
For he will [i]avenge the blood of his servants,
And [k]will render vengeance to his adversaries,
And will be merciful unto his [l]land, and to his people.
And Moses came and spake all the 44 words of this song in the ears of the people, he and [‖]Hoshea the son of Nun. And Moses made an end of speaking all these words to all Israel: and he said unto them, [m]Set your hearts 46 unto all the words which I testify among you this day, which ye shall command your children to observe to do, all the words of this law. For it is not a vain 47 thing for you; [n]because it is your life: and through this thing ye shall prolong your days in the land, whither ye go over Jordan to possess it.
And the LORD spake unto Moses that 48
selfsame day, saying, Get thee up into 49
[o]this mountain Abarim, unto mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, that is over against Jericho; and behold the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Israel for a possession: and 50 die in the mount whither thou goest up, and [p]be gathered unto thy people; as [q]Aaron thy brother died in mount Hor,
51 and was gathered unto his people: [r]because ye trespassed against me among the children of Israel at the waters of [‖]Meribah-Kadesh, in the wilderness of Zin; because ye sanctified me not in the 52 midst of the children of Israel. [s]Yet thou shalt see the land before thee; but thou shalt not go thither unto the land which I give the children of Israel.

And this is [a]the blessing, wherewith XXXIII.
Moses [b]the man of God blessed the 2 children of Israel before his death. And he said,
[c]The LORD came from Sinai,
And rose up from Seir unto them;
He shined forth [d]from mount Paran,
And [e]he came with ten thousands of saints:
From his right hand went [†]a fiery law for them.
3 Yea, [f]he loved the people;
All his saints are in thy hand:
And they [g]sat down at thy feet;
Every one shall [h]receive of thy words.
4 [i]Moses commanded us a law,
[j]Even the inheritance of the congregation of Jacob.
5 And he was [k]king in [l]Jeshurun,
When the heads of the people
And the tribes of Israel were gathered together.
6 [m]Let Reuben live, and not die;
And let not his men be [n]few.
7 And this is [o]the blessing of Judah: and he said,
Hear, LORD, the voice of Judah,
And bring him unto his people:
Let his hands be sufficient for him;
And be thou a help to him from his enemies.
8 And of Levi he said,
[p]Let thy Thummim and thy Urim be with [q]thy holy one,
[r]Whom thou didst prove at Massah,
And with whom thou didst strive at the waters of Meribah;
9 Who said unto his father and to his mother, I have not [s]seen him;
[t]Neither did he acknowledge his brethren,
Nor knew his own children:
For they have observed thy word,
And kept thy covenant.
10 [‖u]They shall teach Jacob thy judgments,

I.

B.C. 1451 Heb. 1570? Gr.

NOW after the death of Moses the servant of the LORD it came to pass, that the LORD spake unto Joshua the son of Nun, Moses' [a]minister, saying, [b]Moses my servant is dead; now therefore arise, go over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give to them, even to the children of Israel. [c]Every place that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, that have I given unto you, [c]as I said unto Moses. [d]From the wilderness and [e]this Lebanon even unto the great river, the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and unto the great sea toward the going down of the sun, shall be your coast. [f]There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life: [g]as I was with Moses, so [h]I will be with thee: [i]I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee. [k]Be strong and of a good courage: for ‖unto this people shalt thou divide for an inheritance the land, which I sware unto their fathers to give them. Only [k]be thou strong and very courageous, that thou mayest observe to do according to all the law, [l]which Moses my servant commanded thee: [m]turn not from it to the right hand or to the left, that thou mayest ‖prosper whithersoever thou goest. This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth; but [n]thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein: for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt ‖have good success. Have not I commanded thee? [o]Be strong and of a good courage; [p]be not afraid, neither [q]be thou dismayed: for the LORD thy God is with thee [r]whithersoever thou goest.

Then Joshua commanded [s]the officers of the people, saying, Pass through the host, and command the people, saying, Prepare you victuals; for [t]within three days ye shall pass over this Jordan, to go in to possess the land, which the LORD your God giveth you to possess it.

And to the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to half the tribe of Manasseh, spake Joshua, saying, Remember the word which [u]Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, saying, The LORD your God hath given you rest, and hath given you this land. Your wives, your little ones, and your cattle, shall remain in the land which Moses gave you on this side Jordan; but ye shall pass before your brethren [†]armed, all the mighty men of valour, and help them; [u]until the LORD have given your brethren rest, as he hath given you, and they also have possessed the land which the LORD your God giveth them: [x]then ye shall return unto the land of your possession, and enjoy it, which Moses the LORD'S servant gave you on this side Jordan toward the sunrising. And they answered Joshua, saying, All that thou commandest us we will do, and whithersoever thou sendest us, we will go. According as we hearkened unto Moses in all things, so will we hearken unto thee: only the LORD thy God [y]be with thee, as he was with Moses. Whosoever he be that doth [z]rebel against thy commandment, and will not hearken unto thy words in all that thou commandest him, he shall be put to death: only [a]be strong and of a good courage.

II.

And Joshua the son of Nun ‖sent [a]out of Shittim two men to spy secretly, saying, Go view the land, even Jericho. And they went, and came into a [b]harlot's house, named [c]Rahab, and [†]lodged there. And it was told the king of Jericho, saying, Behold, there came men in hither to night of the children of Israel to search out the country. And the king of Jericho sent unto Rahab, saying, Bring forth the men that are come to thee, which are entered into thine house: for they be come to search out all the country.

4 And the woman took the two men, and hid them, and said thus, There came men unto me, but I wist not whence they were:
5 and it came to pass about the time of shutting of the gate, when it was dark, that the men went out: whither the men went I wot not: pursue after them quickly; for ye shall overtake them.
6 But she had brought them up to the roof of the house, and hid them with the stalks of flax, which she had laid in order upon the roof.
7 And the men pursued after them the way to Jordan unto the fords: and as soon as they which pursued after them were gone out, they shut the gate.
8 And before they were laid down, she came up unto them upon the roof;
9 and she said unto the men, I know that the LORD hath given you the land, and that your terror is fallen upon us, and that all the inhabitants of the land faint because of you.
10 For we have heard how the LORD dried up the water of the Red sea for you, when you came out of Egypt; and what you did unto the two kings of the Amorites, that were on the other side Jordan, Sihon and Og, whom ye utterly destroyed.
11 And as soon as we had heard these things, our hearts did melt, neither did there remain any more courage in any man, because of you: for the LORD your God, he is God in heaven above, and in earth beneath.
12 Now therefore, I pray you, swear unto me by the LORD, since I have shewed you kindness, that ye will also shew kindness unto my father's house, and give me a true token:
13 and that ye will save alive my father, and my mother, and my brethren, and my sisters, and all that they have, and deliver our lives from death.
14 And the men answered her, Our life for yours, if ye utter not this our business. And it shall be, when the LORD hath given us the land, that we will deal kindly and truly with thee.
15 Then she let them down by a cord through the window: for her house was upon the town wall, and she dwelt upon the wall.
16 And she said unto them, Get you to the mountain, lest the pursuers meet you; and hide yourselves there three days, until the pursuers be returned: and afterward may ye go your way.
17 And the men said unto her, We will be blameless of this thine oath which thou hast made us
18 swear. Behold, when we come into the land, thou shalt bind this line of scarlet thread in the window which thou didst let us down by: and thou shalt bring thy father, and thy mother, and thy brethren, and all thy father's household, 19 home unto thee. And it shall be, that whosoever shall go out of the doors of thy house into the street, his blood shall be upon his head, and we will be guiltless: and whosoever shall be with thee in the house, his blood shall be on our 20 head, if any hand be upon him. And if thou utter this our business, then we 21 will be quit of thine oath which thou hast made us to swear. And she said, According unto your words, so be it. And she sent them away, and they departed: and she bound the scarlet line
22 in the window. And they went, and came unto the mountain, and abode there three days, until the pursuers were returned: and the pursuers sought them throughout all the way, but found them
23 not. So the two men returned, and descended from the mountain, and passed over, and came to Joshua the son of Nun, and told him all things that befell
24 them: and they said unto Joshua, Truly the LORD hath delivered into our hands all the land; for even all the inhabitants of the country do faint because of us.

III. And Joshua rose early in the morning; and they removed from Shittim, and came to Jordan, he and all the children of Israel, and lodged there
2 before they passed over. And it came to pass after three days, that the officers went through the host;
3 and they commanded the people, saying, When ye see the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, and the priests the Levites bearing it, then ye shall remove
4 from your place, and go after it. Yet there shall be a space between you and it, about two thousand cubits by measure: come not near unto it, that ye may know the way by which ye must go: for ye have not passed this way
5 heretofore. And Joshua said unto the people, Sanctify yourselves: for to morrow the LORD will do wonders among 6 you. And Joshua spake unto the priests, saying, Take up the ark of the covenant, and pass over before the people. And they took up the ark of the covenant, and went before the people.

day will I begin to [h]magnify thee in the sight of all Israel, that they may know that, [i]as I was with Moses, so I will be with thee. And thou shalt command 8 [j]the priests that bear the ark of the covenant, saying, When ye are come to the brink of the water of Jordan, [k]ye shall stand still in Jordan. And Joshua 9 said unto the children of Israel, Come hither, and hear the words of the LORD your God. And Joshua said, Hereby 10 ye shall know that [l]the living God is among you, and that he will without fail [m]drive out from before you [n]the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Hivites, and the Perizzites, and the Girgashites, and the Amorites, and the Jebusites. Behold, the ark of the covenant, even [o]the 11 Lord of all the earth passeth over before you into Jordan. Now therefore [p]take 12 ye twelve men out of the tribes of Israel, [q]out of every tribe a man. And 13 it shall come to pass, [r]as soon as the soles of the feet of the priests that bear the ark of the LORD, [o]the Lord of all the earth, shall rest in the waters of Jordan, that the waters of Jordan shall be cut off from the waters that come down from above; and they [s]shall stand upon a heap.

And it came to pass, when the people 14 removed from their tents, to pass over Jordan, and the priests bearing the [t]ark of the covenant before the people; and 15 as they that bare the ark were come unto Jordan, and [u]the feet of the priests that bare the ark were dipped in the brim of the water, (for [x]Jordan overfloweth all his banks [y]all the time of harvest,) that 16 the waters which came down from above stood and rose up upon a heap very far, from the city Adam, that is beside [z]Zaretan: and those that came down [a]toward the sea of the plain, even [b]the salt sea, failed, and were cut off: and the people passed over right against Jericho. And the priests that bare the 17 ark of the covenant of the LORD stood firm on dry ground in the midst of Jordan, [c]and all the Israelites passed over on dry ground, until all the people were passed clean over Jordan.

IV. And it came to pass, when all the people were clean passed [a]over Jordan, that the LORD spake unto Joshua, saying, [b]Take you twelve men out of the 2 people, out of every tribe a man, and 3 command you them, saying, Take you hence out of the midst of Jordan, out of the place where [c]the priests' feet stood firm, [d]twelve stones, and ye shall carry them over with you, and leave them in [e]the lodging place, where you shall lodge 4 this night. Then Joshua called the twelve men, whom he had prepared of the children of Israel, out of every tribe 5 a man: and Joshua said unto them, Pass over before the ark of the LORD your God into the midst of Jordan, and take ye up every man of you a stone upon his shoulder, according unto the number of the tribes of the children of 6 Israel: that this may be a sign among you, that [f]when your children ask their fathers [t]in time to come, saying, What 7 mean you by these stones? then ye shall answer them, That [g]the waters of Jordan were cut off before the ark of the covenant of the LORD; when it passed over Jordan, the waters of Jordan were cut off: and these stones shall be for [h]a memorial unto the children 8 of Israel for ever. And the children of Israel did so as Joshua commanded, and took up twelve stones out of the midst of Jordan, as the LORD spake unto Joshua, according to the number of the tribes of the children of Israel, and carried them over with them unto the place where they lodged, and laid them down there. 9 And Joshua set up twelve stones in the midst of Jordan, [i]in the place where the feet of the priests which bare the ark of the covenant stood: and they are 10 there unto this day. For the priests which bare the ark stood in the midst of Jordan, until every thing was finished that the LORD commanded Joshua to speak unto the people, according to all that Moses commanded Joshua: and the 11 people hasted and passed over. And it came to pass, when all the people were clean passed over, that the ark of the LORD passed over, and the priests, in 12 the presence of the people. And the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh, passed over [k]armed before the children of Israel, [l]as Moses spake unto them: 13 about forty thousand [l]prepared for war passed over before the LORD unto battle, 14 to the plains of Jericho. On that day the LORD [m]magnified Joshua in the sight of all Israel; and they feared him, as they feared Moses, all the days of his life.

And Joshua the son of Nun called the priests, and said unto them, Take up the ark of the covenant, and let seven priests bear seven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD. And he said unto the people, Pass on, and compass the city, and let him that is armed pass on before the ark of the LORD. And it came to pass, when Joshua had spoken unto the people, that the seven priests bearing the seven trumpets of rams' horns passed on before the LORD, and blew with the trumpets: and the ark of the covenant of the LORD followed them. And the armed men went before the priests that blew with the trumpets, and the [†]rereward came after the ark, the priests going on, and blowing with the trumpets. And Joshua had commanded the people, saying, Ye shall not shout, nor [†]make any noise with your voice, neither shall any word proceed out of your mouth, until the day I bid you shout; then shall ye shout. So the ark of the LORD compassed the city, going about it once: and they came into the camp, and lodged in the camp. And Joshua rose early in the morning, and [g]the priests took up the ark of the LORD. And seven priests bearing seven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD went on continually, and blew with the trumpets: and the armed men went before them; but the rereward came after the ark of the LORD, the priests going on, and blowing with the trumpets. And the second day they compassed the city once, and returned into the camp: so they did six days. And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they rose early about the dawning of the day, and compassed the city after the same manner seven times: only on that day they compassed the city seven times. And it came to pass at the seventh time, when the priests blew with the trumpets, Joshua said unto the people, Shout; for Judah, took of the accursed thing: and the anger of the LORD was kindled against the children of Israel. And 2 Joshua sent men from Jericho to Ai, which is beside [b]Beth-aven, on the east side of [c]Beth-el, and spake unto them, saying, Go up and view the country. And the men went up and viewed Ai. And they returned to Joshua, and said 3 unto him, Let not all the people go up; but let [†]about two or three thousand men go up and smite Ai; and make not all the people to labour thither; for they are but few. So there went up thither 4 of the people about three thousand men: and [d]they fled before the men of Ai. And the men of Ai smote of 5 them about thirty and six men: for they chased them from before the gate even unto Shebarim, and smote them [‖]in the going down: wherefore [e]the hearts of the people melted, and became as water.

And Joshua [f]rent his clothes, and fell 6 to the earth upon his face before the ark of the LORD until the eventide, he and the elders of Israel, and [g]put dust upon their heads. And Joshua said, 7 Alas, O Lord GOD, [h]wherefore hast thou at all brought this people over Jordan, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us? would to God we had been content, and dwelt on the other side Jordan! O Lord, what shall 8 I say, when Israel turneth their [†]backs before their enemies! For the Canaan- 9 ites and all the inhabitants of the land shall hear of it, and shall environ us round, and [i]cut off our name from the earth: and [j]what wilt thou do unto thy great name? And the LORD said unto 10 Joshua, Get thee up; wherefore [†]liest thou thus upon thy face? Israel hath 11 sinned, and they have also [k]transgressed my covenant which I commanded them: for they have even taken of [l]the accursed thing, and have also stolen, and dissembled also, and they have put it even amongst their own stuff. [m]There- 12 fore the children of Israel could not stand before their enemies, but turned their [n]backs before their enemies, because they were [o]accursed: neither will I be with you any more, except ye destroy [o]the accursed from amongst you. Up, sanctify the people, and say, [p]Sanc- 13 tify yourselves against to morrow: for thus saith the LORD God of Israel, There is [o]an accursed thing in the midst of thee, O Israel: thou canst not stand before thine enemies, until ye take away [o]the accursed thing from among you. 14 In the morning therefore ye shall be brought according to your tribes: and it shall be, that the tribe which [q]the LORD taketh shall come according to the families thereof; and the family which the LORD shall take shall come by households; and the household which the LORD shall take shall come man by 15 man. [r]And it shall be, that he that is taken with the accursed thing shall be burnt with fire, he and all that he hath: because he hath [s]transgressed the covenant of the LORD, and because he hath wrought [‖]folly in Israel.

16 So Joshua rose up early in the morning, and brought Israel by their tribes; 17 and the tribe of Judah was taken: and he brought the family of Judah; and he took the family of [t]the Zarhites: and he brought the family of the Zarhites man 18 by man; and Zabdi was taken: and he brought his household man by man; and [u]Achan, the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zerah, of the tribe of 19 Judah, [v]was taken. And Joshua said unto Achan, My son, [w]give, I pray thee, glory to the LORD God of Israel, and [x]make confession unto him; and [y]tell me now what thou hast done; hide it 20 not from me. And Achan answered Joshua, and said, Indeed I have sinned against the LORD God of Israel, and 21 thus and thus have I done: when I saw among the spoils a goodly [z]Babylonish garment, and two hundred shekels of silver, and a [†]wedge of gold of fifty shekels weight, then I coveted them, and took them; and behold, they are hid in the earth in the midst of my 22 tent, and the silver under it. So Joshua sent messengers, and they ran unto the tent; and behold, it was hid in his tent, and the silver under it. 23 And they took them out of the midst of the tent, and brought them unto Joshua, and unto all the children of Israel, and [†]laid them out before the 24 LORD. And Joshua, and all Israel with him, took Achan the son of Zerah, and the silver, and the garment, and the wedge of gold, and his sons, and his daughters, and his oxen, and his asses, and his sheep, and his tent, and all that he had: and they brought them unto 25 [a]the valley of Achor. VIII. And the LORD said unto Joshua, [a]Fear not, neither be thou dismayed: take all the people of war with thee, and arise, go up to Ai: see, [b]I have given into thy hand the king of Ai, and his people, and his city, and his land: and thou shalt do to Ai and her [2] king as thou didst unto [c]Jericho and her king: only [d]the spoil thereof, and the cattle thereof, shall ye take for a prey unto yourselves: lay thee an ambush for the city behind it. So Joshua [3] arose, and all the people of war, to go up against Ai: and Joshua chose out thirty thousand mighty men of valour, and sent them away by night. And he [4] commanded them, saying, Behold, [e]ye shall lie in wait against the city, even behind the city: go not very far from the city, but be ye all ready: and I, [5] and all the people that are with me, will approach unto the city: and it shall come to pass, when they come out against us, as at the first, that [f]we will flee before them, (for they will come [6] out after us) till we have [†]drawn them from the city; for they will say, They flee before us, as at the first: therefore we will flee before them. Then ye shall [7] rise up from the ambush, and seize upon the city: for the LORD your God will deliver it into your hand. And it [8] shall be, when ye have taken the city, that ye shall set the city on fire: according to the commandment of the LORD shall ye do. [g]See, I have commanded you. Joshua therefore sent [9] them forth: and they went to lie in ambush, and abode between Beth-el and Ai, [h]on the west side of Ai: but Joshua lodged that night among the people. And Joshua rose up early in [10] the morning, and numbered the people, and went up, he and the elders of Israel, before the people to Ai. And all [11] the people, even the people of war that were with him, went up, and drew nigh, and came before the city, and pitched on the north side of Ai: now there was a valley between them and Ai. And [12] he took about five thousand men, and set them to lie in ambush between Beth-el and Ai, on the west side [‖]of the [‖] Or, of Ai. [13] city. And there was not a man left in Ai or Beth-el, that went not out after Israel: and they left the city open, and [18] pursued after Israel. And the LORD said unto Joshua, Stretch out the spear that is in thy hand toward Ai; for I will give it into thine hand. And Joshua stretched out the spear that he had in [19] his hand toward the city. And the ambush arose quickly out of their place, and they ran as soon as he had stretched out his hand: and they entered into the city, and took it, and hasted and set the [20] city on fire. And so it was, that all that fell that day, 25
both of men and women, were twelve thousand, even all the men of Ai. For 26 Joshua drew not his hand back, wherewith he stretched out the spear, until he had utterly destroyed all the inhabitants of Ai. Only the cattle and the spoil 27 of that city Israel took for a prey unto themselves, according unto the word of the LORD which he [n]commanded Joshua.
And Joshua burnt Ai, and made it [o]a 28

day. [p]And the king of Ai he hanged on 29
a tree until eventide: [q]and as soon as the sun was down, Joshua commanded that they should take his carcase down from the tree, and cast it at the entering of the gate of the city, and [r]raise there-

Then Joshua built an altar unto the 30
LORD God of Israel [s]in mount Ebal, as 31
Moses the servant of the LORD commanded the children of Israel, as it is written in the [t]book of the law of Moses,
an altar of whole stones, over which no man hath lift up any iron: and [u]they offered thereon burnt offerings unto the LORD, and sacrificed peace offerings.
And [w]he wrote there upon the stones a 32
copy of the law of Moses, which he wrote
in the presence of the children of Israel.
And all Israel, and their elders, and 33 [x]officers, and their judges, stood on this side the ark and on that side before the priests the Levites, [y]which bare the ark
of the covenant of the LORD, as well [z]the stranger, as he that was born among them; half of them over against mount Gerizim, and half of them over against mount Ebal; [a]as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded before, that they should bless the people of Israel.
And afterward [b]he read all the words of 34
the law, [c]the blessings and [d]cursings, according to all that is written in the book of the law. There was not a word 35 of all that Moses commanded, which Joshua read not before all the congregation of Israel, [e]with the women, and the little ones, and [f]the strangers that [†]were conversant among them.

the Hivite, and the Jebusite, heard there-

3 Israel, with one [†]accord. And when the inhabitants of [d]Gibeon [e]heard what Jo-

wine bottles, old, and rent, and bound

and all the bread of their provision was 6 dry and [f]mouldy. And they went to Joshua [g]unto the camp at Gilgal, and said unto him, and to the men of Israel,
We be come from a far country: now 7 therefore make ye a league with us. And the men of Israel said unto the [h]Hivites, Peradventure ye dwell among us; and [i]how shall we make a league with you?
8 And they said unto Joshua, [j]We are thy servants. And Joshua said unto them,
Who are ye? and from whence come ye?
9 And they said unto him, [k]From a very far country thy servants are come because of the name of the LORD thy God:
for we have [l]heard the fame of him, and 10 all that he did in Egypt, and all that he did to the two kings of the Amorites,
that were beyond Jordan, to Sihon king
of Heshbon, and to Og king of Bashan, 11 which was at [m]Ashtaroth. Wherefore our elders and all the inhabitants of our country spake to us, saying, Take victuals [†]with you for the journey, and go to meet them, and say unto them, We are your servants: therefore now make 12 ye a league with us. This our bread we took hot for our provision out of our houses on the day we came forth to go unto you; but now, behold, it is dry, and which we filled, were new; and behold,

And the children of Israel smote them not, because the princes of the congregation had sworn unto them by the LORD God of Israel. And all the congregation murmured against the princes. But all the princes said unto all the congregation, We have sworn unto them by the LORD God of Israel: now therefore we may not touch them. This we will do to them; we will even let them live, lest [r]wrath be upon us, [s]because of the oath which we sware unto them. And the princes said unto them, Let them live; but let them be [t]hewers of wood and drawers of water unto all the congregation; as the princes had [u]promised them. Now therefore ye are [y]cursed, and there shall [†]none of you be freed from being [y]bondmen, and [z]hewers of wood and drawers of water for the house of my God. And now, behold, we are [c]in thine hand: as it seemeth good and right unto thee to do unto us, do. And so did he unto them, and delivered them out of the hand of the children of Israel, that they slew them not. And Joshua [†]made them that day [d]hewers of wood and drawers of water for the congregation, and for the altar of the LORD, even unto this day, [e]in the place which he should choose.

X.

Now it came to pass, when Adoni-zedek king of Jerusalem had heard how Joshua had taken Ai, and had utterly destroyed it; [a]as he had done to Jericho and her king, so he had done to [b]Ai and her king; and [c]how the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace with Israel, and were among them; that they [d]feared greatly, because Gibeon was a great city, as one of the [†]royal cities, and because it was greater than Ai, and all the men thereof were mighty. Wherefore Adoni-zedek king of Jerusalem sent unto Hoham king of [e]Hebron, and unto Piram king of [f]Jarmuth, and unto Japhia king of [g]Lachish, and unto Debir king of [g]Eglon, saying, Come up unto me, and help me, that we may smite Gibeon: for it hath made peace with Joshua and with the children of Israel. Therefore the five kings of the Amorites, the king of Jerusalem, the king of [h]Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon, gathered themselves together, and went up, they and all their hosts, and encamped before Gibeon, and made war against it. And the men of Gibeon sent unto Joshua [i]to the camp to Gilgal, saying, Slack not thy hand from thy servants; come up to us quickly, and save us, and help us: for all the kings of the Amorites that dwell in the mountains are gathered together against us. So Joshua ascended from Gilgal, he, and [j]all the people of war with him, and all the mighty men of valour. And the LORD said unto Joshua, [k]Fear them not: for I have delivered them into thine hand; there shall not a man of them stand before thee. Joshua therefore came unto them suddenly, and went up from Gilgal all night. And the LORD [l]discomfited them before Israel, and slew them with a great slaughter at Gibeon, and chased them along the way that goeth up to [m]Beth-horon, and smote them to [n]Azekah, and unto [o]Makkedah. And it came to pass, as they fled from before Israel, and were in the going down to [m]Beth-horon, [p]that the LORD cast down great stones from heaven upon them unto Azekah, and they died: they were moe which died with hailstones than they whom the children of Israel slew with the sword.

Then spake Joshua to the LORD in the day when the LORD delivered up the Amorites before the children of Israel, and he said in the sight of Israel,

[q]Sun, [†]stand thou still upon Gibeon;
And thou, Moon, in the valley of [r]Ajalon.

And the sun stood still, and the moon stayed,
Until the people had avenged themselves upon their enemies.
Is not this written in the book of [‖]Jasher?
So the sun stood still in the midst of heaven,
And [s]hasted not to go down about a whole day.

And there was [t]no day like that before

Israel; and he smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the souls that were therein; he let none remain in it; but did unto the king thereof as he did unto 31 the king of Jericho. And Joshua passed from Libnah, and all Israel with him,
unto Lachish, and encamped against it, 32 and fought against it: and the LORD delivered Lachish into the hand of Israel, which took it on the second day, and smote it with the edge of the sword,
and all the souls that were therein, according to all that he had done to Lib-

up to help Lachish; and Joshua smote
him and his people, until he had left 34 him none remaining. And from Lachish Joshua passed unto Eglon, and all Israel with him; and they encamped

they took it on that day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the 36 he had done to Lachish. And Joshua went up from Eglon, and all Israel with

with the edge of the sword, and the

and all the souls that were therein; he kings: he left none remaining, but [k]ut-

nea even unto [m]Gaza, and all the country of [n]Goshen, even unto Gibeon. And 42 all these kings and their land did Joshua take at one time, [o]because the LORD God of Israel fought for Israel. [p]And 43 Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

XI. And it came to pass, when [a]Jabin king of [b]Hazor had heard those things, that [c]he sent to Jobab king of [d]Madon, and to the king of [e]Shimron, and to the king of [f]Achshaph, and to the kings that were on the 2 north of the mountains, and of the plains south of [g]Cinneroth, and in the valley, and in [h]the borders of Dor on the west, and to the Canaanite on the east and on 3 the west, and to the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and [i]the Jebusite in the mountains, and to [j]the Hivite under [k]Hermon in the land of [l]Mizpeh. And they went out, they and all 4 their hosts with them, much people, [m]even as the sand that is upon the sea shore in multitude, with horses and chariots very many. And when all these 5 kings were [t]met together, they came and pitched together at the waters of Merom, to fight against Israel.

And the LORD said unto Joshua, [n]Be 6 not afraid because of them: for to morrow about this time will I deliver them up all slain before Israel: thou shalt [o]hough their horses, and burn [p]their chariots with fire. So Joshua came, and 7 all the people of war with him, against them by the waters of Merom [q]suddenly; and they fell upon them. And the 8 LORD delivered them into the hand of Israel, who smote them, and chased them unto [ll]great Zidon, and unto [l]Misrephoth-maim, and unto the valley of [r]Mizpeh eastward; and they smote them, until they left them none remaining. And 9 Joshua did unto them [s]as the LORD bade him: he houghed their horses, and burnt their chariots with fire. And Joshua at 10 that time turned back, and took Hazor, and smote the king thereof with the sword: for Hazor beforetime was the head of all those kingdoms. And they 11 smote all the souls that were therein with the edge of the sword, utterly destroying them: there was not [t]any left to breathe: and he burnt Hazor with fire. And all 12 the cities of those kings, and all the kings of them, did Joshua take, and smote them with the edge of the sword, and he utterly destroyed them, [t]as Moses the servant of the LORD commanded. But 13 as for the cities that stood still [t]in their strength, Israel burned none of them, save Hazor only; that did Joshua burn. 14 And all the spoil of these cities, and the cattle, the children of Israel took for a prey unto themselves; but every man they smote with the edge of the sword, until they had destroyed them, neither 15 left they any to breathe. [u]As the LORD commanded Moses his servant, so [v]did Moses command Joshua, and [w]so did Joshua; [t]he left nothing undone of all 16 that the LORD commanded Moses. So Joshua took all that land, [x]the hills, and all the south country, [y]and all the land of Goshen, and the valley, and the plain, and [z]the mountain of Israel, and the 17 valley of the same; [a]even from [ll]the mount Halak, that goeth up to [b]Seir, even unto [c]Baal-gad in the valley of Lebanon under [d]mount Hermon: and all their kings he took, and smote them, and slew 18 them. Joshua made war [e]a long time 19 with all those kings. There was not a city that made peace with the children of Israel, save [f]the Hivites the inhabitants of Gibeon: all other they took in 20 battle. For [g]it was of the LORD to harden their hearts, that they should come against Israel in battle, that he might destroy them utterly, and that they might have no favour, but that he might destroy them, [h]as the LORD commanded 21 Moses. And at that time came Joshua, and cut off [i]the Anakims from the mountains, from [k]Hebron, from [l]Debir, from Anab, and from all the mountains of Judah, and from all the mountains of Israel: Joshua destroyed them utterly 22 with their cities. There was none of the Anakims left in the land of the children of Israel: only in [m]Gaza, in [n]Gath, and 23 in [o]Ashdod, there remained. So Joshua took the whole land, [p]according to all that the LORD said unto Moses; and [q]Joshua gave it for an inheritance unto Israel according to their [r]divisions by their tribes. [s]And the land rested from war.

XII. Now these are the kings of the land, which the children of Israel smote, and possessed their land on the other side Jordan toward the rising of the sun, [a]from the river Arnon [b]unto mount Hermon, and all the plain on the east: 2 [c]Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon, and ruled from [d]Aroer, which is upon the bank of the river of Arnon, and from the middle of the river, tribe of Manasseh, with whom the Reubenites and the Gadites have received their inheritance, [q]which Moses gave them, beyond Jordan eastward, even as Moses the servant of the LORD gave 9 them; [r]from Aroer, that is upon the bank of the river Arnon, and the city that is in the midst of the river, and all 10

[s]the plain of [t]Medeba unto [t]Dibon; and [u]all the cities of Sihon king of the Amorites, which reigned in Heshbon, unto the border of the children of Ammon; 11
and [w]Gilead, and the border of [x]the Geshurites and Maachathites, and all [y]mount Hermon, and all Bashan unto 12
[w]Salcah; all the kingdom of Og in Bashan, which reigned in [z]Ashtaroth and in Edrei, who remained of [a]the remnant of the giants: for these did Moses 13 smite, and cast them out. (Nevertheless the children of Israel expelled not [b]the Geshurites, nor the Maachathites: but the Geshurites and the Maachathites dwell among the Israelites until this 14 day.) [c]Only unto the tribe of Levi he gave none inheritance; the sacrifices of the LORD God of Israel made by fire are their inheritance, [d]as he said unto them.

And Moses gave unto the tribe of 15
the children of Reuben inheritance according to their families. And their 16 coast was [e]from Aroer, that is on the bank of the river Arnon, and the city that is in the midst of the river, and all [e]the plain by [e]Medeba; Heshbon, and 17
all her cities that are in [e]the plain; [e]Dibon, and [‖]Bamoth-baal, and Bethbaal-meon, and [f]Jahazah, and [g]Kede- 18 moth, and [g]Mephaath, and [h]Kirjathaim, 19 and [i]Sibmah, and Zareth-shahar in the mount of the valley, and [k]Beth-peor, 20
and [‖]Ashdoth-pisgah, and [l]Beth-jeshi-moth, and [m]all the cities of the plain, 21
and all the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, which reigned in Heshbon, [n]whom Moses smote [o]with the princes of Midian, Evi, and Rekem, and Zur, and Hur, and Reba, which were [p]dukes of Sihon, dwelling in the country.
[o]Balaam also the son of Beor, the 22
[‖]soothsayer, did the children of Israel slay with the sword among them that were slain by them. And the border of 23
the children of Reuben was Jordan, and the border thereof. This was the inheritance of the children of Reuben after their families, the cities and villages thereof.

And Moses gave inheritance unto the 24
tribe of Gad, even unto the children of Gad according to their families. And 25 their coast was [q]Jazer, and all the cities of Gilead, and [r]half the land of the children of Ammon, unto Aroer that is before [s]Rabbah; and from Heshbon 26
unto Ramath-[t]mizpeh, and Betonim;
and from [u]Mahanaim unto the border of [w]Debir; and in the valley, [x]Beth- 27
aram, and [y]Beth-nimrah, and [z]Succoth, and Zaphon, the rest of the kingdom of Sihon king of Heshbon, Jordan and his border, even unto the edge of the sea of [a]Cinnereth on the other side Jordan eastward. This is the inheritance of the 28 children of Gad after their families, the cities, and their villages.

And Moses gave inheritance unto the 29
half tribe of Manasseh: and this was the possession of the half tribe of the children of Manasseh by their families. And 30 their coast was from Mahanaim, all Bashan, all the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, and [b]all the towns of Jair,
which are in Bashan, threescore cities:
and half Gilead, and [c]Ashtaroth, and 31
Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan, were pertaining unto the children of Machir the son of Manasseh, even to the one half of the children of 32 [d]Machir by their families. These are the countries which Moses did distribute for inheritance [e]in the plains of Moab,
on the other side Jordan, by Jericho,
33 eastward. [f]But unto the tribe of Levi Moses gave not any inheritance: the LORD God of Israel was their inheritance, [g]as he said unto them. And these are the countries which the children of Israel inherited in the land of Canaan, [a]which Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel, distributed for inherit-2 ance to them. [b]By lot was their inheritance, as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses, for the nine tribes, 3 and for the half tribe. [c]For Moses had given the inheritance of two tribes and a half tribe on the other side Jordan:
but unto the Levites he gave none in-4 heritance among them. For [d]the children of Joseph were two tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim: therefore they gave no part unto the Levites in the land, save cities to dwell in, with their suburbs for their [e]cattle and for their 5 substance. [f]As the LORD commanded Moses, so the children of Israel did,
and they divided the land.

6 Then the children of Judah came unto Joshua in Gilgal: and Caleb the son of Jephunneh the [g]Kenezite said unto him, Thou knowest [h]the thing that the LORD said unto Moses [i]the man of God concerning me and thee 7 in Kadesh-barnea. Forty years old was
I when Moses the servant of the LORD
[j]sent me from Kadesh-barnea to espy
out the land; and I brought him word 8 again as it was in mine heart. Nevertheless [k]my brethren that went up with me [k]made the heart of the people melt:
but I wholly [l]followed the LORD my 9 God. And Moses sware on that day, saying, [m]Surely the land [n]whereon thy feet have trodden shall be thine inheritance, and thy children's for ever,
because thou hast [l]wholly followed the 10 LORD my God. And now behold, the LORD hath kept me alive, [o]as he said,
these forty and five years, even since
the LORD spake this word unto Moses, while the children of Israel [f]wandered in the wilderness: and now lo, I am this 11 day [p]fourscore and five years old. [q]As yet I am as strong this day as I was in the day that Moses sent me: as my strength was then, even so is my strength now, for war, both [r]to go out, and to come in. Now therefore give me this 12 mountain, whereof the LORD spake in that day; for thou heardest in that day how [s]the Anakims were there, and that the cities were great and fenced: if so be the LORD will be with me, then I shall be able to drive them out, as the LORD said. And Joshua [t]blessed him, 13 and [u]gave unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh Hebron for an inheritance. He- 14 bron therefore became the inheritance of Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite unto this day, because that he [x]wholly followed the LORD God of Israel. And [y]the name of Hebron before 15 was Kirjath-arba; which Arba was a great man among the Anakims. [z]And the land had rest from war.

XV. This then was the lot of the tribe of the children of Judah by their families; [a]even to the border of Edom, the [b]wilderness of Zin southward was the uttermost part of [c]the south coast. And their 2 south border was [a]from the shore of the salt sea, from the [†]bay that looketh southward: and it went out to the south 3 side to [‖]Maaleh-acrabbim, and passed along to Zin, and ascended up on the south side unto Kadesh-barnea, and passed along to Hezron, and went up to Adar, and fetched a compass to Karkaa: from thence it passed [d]toward 4 Azmon, and went out [d]unto the river of Egypt; and the goings out of that coast were at the sea: this shall be your south coast. And the east border was 5 the salt sea, even unto the end of Jordan. And their border in the north quarter was from the bay of the sea at the uttermost part of Jordan: and the border 6 went up to [e]Beth-hogla, and passed along by the north of Beth-[f]arabah; and the border went up [g]to the stone of Bohan the son of Reuben: and the border went 7 up toward [h]Debir from [i]the valley of Achor, and so northward, looking toward Gilgal, that is [g]before the going up to Adummim, which is on the south side of the river: and the border passed towards the waters of [g]En-shemesh, and the goings out thereof were at [j]En-rogel: and the border went up [k]by the valley 8 of the son of Hinnom unto the south side of the [l]Jebusite; the same is Jerusalem: and the border went up to the top of the mountain that lieth before [m]the valley of Hinnom westward, which is at the end of [m]the valley of the giants 9 northward: and the border was drawn from the top of the hill unto [n]the fountain of the water of Nephtoah, and went out to the cities of mount Ephron; and the border was drawn to [o]Baalah, which 10 is [p]Kirjath-jearim: and the border compassed from Baalah westward unto mount Seir, and passed along unto the side of mount Jearim, which is Chesalon, on the north side, and went down to [q]Beth-she- 11 mesh, and passed on to [r]Timnah: and the border went out unto the side of [s]Ekron northward: and the border was drawn to Shicron, and passed along to mount [t]Baalah, and went out unto Jabneel; and the goings out of the border 12 were at the sea. And the west border was [u]to the great sea, and the coast thereof. This is the coast of the children of Judah round about according to their families.

13 [w]And unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh he gave a part among the children of Judah, according to the commandment of the LORD to Joshua, even [t]the city of Arba the father of Anak, which 14 city is Hebron. And Caleb drove thence the three sons of Anak, [x]Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai, the children of 15 Anak. And he went up thence to the inhabitants of [y]Debir: and the name of 16 Debir before was Kirjath-sepher. [z]And Caleb said, He that smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and taketh it, to him will I give 17 Achsah my daughter to wife. And Othniel the [a]son of Kenaz, the brother of Caleb, took it: and he gave him Achsah 18 his daughter to wife. And it came to pass, as she came unto him, that she moved him to ask of her father a field: and [b]she lighted off her ass; and Caleb 19 said unto her, What wouldest thou? Who answered, Give me a [c]blessing; for thou hast given me a south land; [d]give me also springs of water. And he gave her the upper springs, and the nether springs.

20 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Judah according to their 21 families. And the uttermost cities of the tribe of the children of Judah toward the coast of Edom southward were [e]Kab- 22 zeel, and [f]Eder, and Jagur, and Kinah, 23 and Dimonah, and Adadah, and [g]Ke- 24 desh, and Hazor, and Ithnan, [h]Ziph, and 25 [i]Telem, and Bealoth, and Hazor, Hadattah, and Kerioth, and Hezron, which 26 is Hazor, Amam, and Shema, and [jkl]Mo- 27 ladah, and Hazar-gaddah, and Hesh- 28 mon, and [l]Beth-palet, and [jk]Hazar-shual, that lay [†]near [n]Ashdod, with their vilvillages, [o]Gaza with her [m]towns and her villages, unto [p]the river of Egypt, and [q]the great sea, and the border thereof.

inhabitants of Jerusalem, the children of Jebusites dwell with the children of Ju-

water of Jericho on the east, to [a]the wilderness that goeth up from Jericho 2 throughout mount Beth-el, and goeth out from Beth-el to [b]Luz, and passeth along unto the borders of [c]Archi to Ata-3 roth, and goeth down westward to the coast of Japhleti, unto the coast of [d]Bethhoron the nether, and to [e]Gezer: and the goings out thereof are at the sea.
4 [f]So the children of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim, took their inheritance.

5 And the border of the children of Ephraim according to their families was thus: even the border of their inheritance on the east side was [g]Ataroth-ad-6 dar, unto [h]Beth-horon the upper; and the border went out toward the sea to [i]Michmethah on the north side; and the border went about eastward unto Taanath-[k]shiloh, and passed by it on 7 the east to Janohah; and it went down from Janohah to Ataroth, and to [l]Naarath, and came to Jericho, and went 8 out at Jordan. The border went out from [m]Tappuah westward unto the [n]river Kanah; and the goings out thereof were at the sea. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Ephraim by

for the children of Ephraim were among the inheritance of the children of Manas-

There was also a lot for the tribe of XVII.
Manasseh; for he was the [a]firstborn of Joseph; to wit, for [b]Machir the firstborn of Manasseh, the father of Gilead: because he was a man of war, therefore he also a lot for [d]the rest of the children of Manasseh by their families; for the children of [e‖]Abiezer, and for the children of Helek, and for the children of Asriel, and for the children of Shechem, and for the children of [d]Hepher, and for the children of [d]Shemida: these were the male children of Manasseh the son of Joseph

son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, had no sons, but daughters: and these are the names of his daughters, Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.
4 And they came near before [g]Eleazar the priest, and before Joshua the son of Nun, and before the princes, saying, [h]The LORD commanded Moses to give us an inheritance among our brethren. Therefore according to the commandment of the LORD he gave them an inheritance among the brethren of their father.
5 And there fell [i]ten portions to Manasseh, [j]beside the land of Gilead and Bashan, which were on the other side Jordan;
6 because the daughters of Manasseh had an inheritance among his sons: and the rest of Manasseh's sons had the land of Gilead.

7 And the coast of Manasseh was from Asher to [k]Michmethah, that lieth before [l]Shechem; and the border went along on the right hand unto the inhabitants of En-[m]tappuah.
8 Now Manasseh had the land of Tappuah: but [m]Tappuah on the border of Manasseh belonged to the children of Ephraim;
9 and the coast descended unto the [n]river Kanah, southward of the river: [n]these cities of Ephraim are among the cities of Manasseh: the coast of Manasseh also was on the north side of the river, and the outgoings of it were at the sea:
10 southward it was Ephraim's, and northward it was Manasseh's, and the sea is his border; and they met together in Asher on the north, and in Issachar on the east.
11 [o]And Manasseh had in Issachar and in Asher [p]Beth-shean and her towns, and [q]Ibleam and her towns, and the inhabitants of [r]Dor and her towns, and the inhabitants of [s]Endor and her towns, and the inhabitants of [t]Taanach and her towns, and the inhabitants of [t]Megiddo and her towns, even three countries.
12 Yet [u]the children of Manasseh could not drive out the inhabitants of those cities; but the Canaanites would dwell in that land.
13 Yet it came to pass, when the children of Israel were waxen strong, that they put the Canaanites to [w]tribute; but did not utterly drive them out.

14 And [x]the children of Joseph spake unto [y]Joshua, saying, Why hast thou given me but [z]one lot and one portion to inherit, seeing I am [a]a great people, forasmuch as the LORD hath blessed me hitherto?
15 And Joshua answered them, If thou be a great people, then get thee up to [b]the wood country, and [c]cut down for thyself there in the land of the Perizzites and of the [l]giants, if [d]mount Ephraim be too narrow for thee.
16 And the children of Joseph said, The hill is not enough for us: and all the Canaanites that dwell in the land of the valley have [e]chariots of iron, both they who are of Beth-shean and her towns, and they who are [f]of the valley of Jezreel.
17 And Joshua spake unto the house of Joseph, even to Ephraim and to Manasseh, saying, Thou art a great people, and hast great power: thou shalt not have one lot 18 only: but the mountain shall be thine; for it is a wood, and thou shalt cut it down: and the outgoings of it shall be thine: for thou shalt drive out the Canaanites, though they have [g]iron chariots, and though they be strong.

And the whole congregation of the children of Israel assembled together [a]at Shiloh, and set up the tabernacle of the congregation there. And the land was 2 subdued before them. And there remained among the children of Israel seven tribes, which had not yet received
3 their inheritance. And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, [b]How long are you slack to go to possess the land, which the LORD God of your fathers hath given
4 you? Give out from among you three men for each tribe: and I will send them, and they shall rise, and go through the land, and describe it according to the inheritance of them; and they shall
5 come again to me. And they shall divide it into seven parts: [c]Judah shall abide in their coast on the south, and [d]the house of Joseph shall abide in their
6 coasts on the north. Ye shall therefore describe the land into seven parts, and bring the description hither to me, [e]that I may cast lots for you here before the
7 LORD our God. [f]But the Levites have no part among you; for the priesthood of the LORD is their inheritance: [g]and Gad, and Reuben, and half the tribe of Manasseh, have received their inheritance beyond Jordan on the east, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave
8 them. And the men arose, and went away: and Joshua charged them that went to describe the land, saying, Go and walk through the land, and describe it, and come again to me, that I may here cast lots for you before the LORD
9 in Shiloh. And the men went and passed through the land, and described it by cities into seven parts in a book, and came again to Joshua to the host at Shiloh. And Joshua cast lots for them in 10 Shiloh before the LORD: and there Joshua divided the land unto the children of Israel according to [h]their divisions.

[h] ch 11 23. & 12. 7.

And the lot of the tribe of the chil- 11 dren of Benjamin came up according to their families: and the coast of their lot came forth between the children of Judah and the children of Joseph. [i]And 12 their border on the north side was from Jordan; and the border went up to the side of Jericho on the north side, and went up through the mountains westward; and the goings out thereof were [j]at the wilderness of [j]Beth-aven. And 13 the border went over from thence toward Luz, to the side of Luz, [k]which is Beth-el, southward; and the border descended to [l]Ataroth-adar, near the hill that lieth on the south side [m]of the nether Beth-horon. And the border was 14 drawn thence, and compassed the corner of the sea southward, from the hill that lieth before [m]Beth-horon southward; and the goings out thereof were at [n]Kirjath-baal, which is Kirjath-jearim, a city of the children of Judah: this was the west quarter. And the south quarter was 15 from the end of Kirjath-jearim, and the border went out on the west, and went out to [o]the well of waters of Nephtoah: and the border came down to the end 16 of the mountain that lieth before the valley of the son of Hinnom, and which is in [p]the valley of the giants on the north, and descended to the [q]valley of Hinnom, to the side of Jebusi on the south, and descended to [r]En-rogel, and 17 was drawn from the north, and went forth to [r]En-shemesh, and went forth toward [s]Geliloth, which is over against the going up of Adummim, and descended to [t]the stone of Bohan the son of Reuben, and passed along toward the side 18 over against [l]Arabah northward, and went down unto Arabah: and the border 19 passed along to the side of [u]Beth-hoglah northward: and the outgoings of the border were at the north [t]bay of the salt sea at the south end of Jordan: this was the south coast. And Jordan was the 20 border of it on the east side. This was the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, by the coasts thereof round about, according to their families.

Now the cities of the tribe of the chil- 21 dren of Benjamin according to their families were [w]Jericho, and [u]Beth-hoglah, 22 and the valley of Keziz, and [x]Beth-arabah, and [y]Zemaraim, and [z]Beth-el, and 23 Avim, and Parah, and [a]Ophrah, and 24 Chephar-haammonai, and Ophni, and [b]Gaba; twelve cities with their villages. 25 [c]Gibeon, and [d]Ramah, and [e]Beeroth, 26 and [f]Mizpeh, and [e]Chephirah, and Mo- 27 zah, and Rekem, and Irpeel, and Tarala, and [g]Zelah, Eleph, and [h]Jebusi, 28 which is Jerusalem, [i]Gibeath, and [k]Kirjath; fourteen cities with their villages. This is the inheritance of the children of Benjamin according to their families.

And the second lot came forth to Simeon, even for the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families: [a]and their inheritance was within the inheritance of the children of Judah.

2 And [b]they had in their inheritance [c]Beer-sheba, [d]or Sheba, and Moladah, 3 and [e]Hazar-shual, and Balah, and [e]Azem, 4 and [e]Eltolad, and Bethul, and [f]Hormah, 5 and [g]Ziklag, and Beth-marcaboth, and 6 Hazar-susah, and Beth-[h]lebaoth, and Sharuhen; thirteen cities and their vil- 7 lages: [h]Ain, [h]Remmon, and [i]Ether, and [i]Ashan; four cities and their villages: 8 and all the villages that were round about these cities to [j]Baalath-beer, [k]Ramath of the south. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of 9 Simeon according to their families. Out of the portion of the children of Judah was the inheritance of the children of Simeon: for the part of the children of Judah was too much for them: [l]therefore the children of Simeon had their inheritance within the inheritance of them.

[u]Beth-lehem: [v]twelve cities with their villages. This is the inheritance of the 16 children of Zebulun according to their families, these cities with their villages.

And the fourth lot came out to Issa- 17
char, for the children of Issachar according to their families. And their 18 border was toward [w]Jezreel, and [x]Chesulloth, and [y]Shunem, and Hapharaim, 19
and Shion, and Anaharath, and Rab- 20
bith, and [z]Kishion, and Abez, and 21 Remeth, and [z]En-gannim, and En-haddah, and Beth-pazzez; and the coast 22
reacheth to [a]Tabor, and Shahazimah, and [b]Beth-shemesh; and the outgoings
of their border were at Jordan: sixteen cities with their villages. This is the 23 inheritance of the tribe of the children of Issachar according to their families,
the cities and their villages.

And the fifth lot came out for the 24
tribe of the children of Asher according to their families. And their bor- 25
der was [c]Helkath, and Hali, and Beten,
and [d]Achshaph, and Alammelech, and 26
Amad, and [e]Misheal; and reacheth to [f]Carmel westward, and to Shihor-lib-nath; and turneth toward the sunrising 27
to Beth-dagon, and reacheth to Zebulun, and to [g]the valley of Jiphthah-el toward
the north side of Beth-emek, and Neiel, and goeth out to [h]Cabul on the left hand, and Hebron, and [i]Rehob, and 28
Hammon, and Kanah, even unto [k]great Zidon; and then the coast turneth to 29
Ramah, and to the strong city [l]Tyre;
and the coast turneth to Hosah; and
the outgoings thereof are at the sea
from the coast to [l]Achzib: Ummah also, 30 and [m]Aphek, and [i]Rehob: [n]twenty and two cities with their villages. This is 31
the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Asher according to their families, these cities with their villages.

The sixth lot came out to the chil- 32
dren of Naphtali, even for the children of Naphtali according to their families.
And their coast was from Heleph, from 33
[o]Allon to Zaanannim, and Adami, Nekeb, and Jabneel, unto Lakum; and the outgoings thereof were at Jordan:
and then the coast turneth [p]westward 34
to [q]Aznoth-tabor, and goeth out from thence to Hukkok, and reacheth to Zebulun on the south side, and reacheth to Asher on the west side, and to Judah upon Jordan toward the sunrising. And 35
the fenced cities are Ziddim, Zer, and [r]Hammath, Rakkath, and [s]Chinnereth, 36
and Adamah, and Ramah, and [t]Hazor, 37
and [u]Kedesh, and Edrei, and En-hazor, 38
and Iron, and [v]Migdal-el, Horem, and [w]Beth-anath, and [w]Beth-shemesh; [x]nine- 39 teen cities with their villages. This is
the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Naphtali according to their families, the cities and their villages.

And the seventh lot came out for the 40
tribe of the children of Dan according to their families. And the coast of their 41 inheritance was [y]Zorah, and [y]Eshtaol, and Ir-shemesh, and [z]Shaalabbin, and 42
[z a]Aijalon, and Jethlah, and Elon, and 43
[b]Thimnathah, and [c]Ekron, and [d]Elte- 44
keh, and [d]Gibbethon, and [e]Baalath, and 45
Jehud, and Bene-berak, and [f]Gath-rim- 46
mon, and Me-jarkon, and Rakkon, with the border [l]before [l]Japho. And [g]the 47 coast of the children of Dan went out too little for them: therefore the children of Dan went up to fight against Leshem,
and took it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and possessed it, and dwelt therein, and called [h]Leshem, Dan, after the name of Dan their father. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families, these cities with their villages.

When they had made an end of 49
dividing the land for inheritance by their coasts, the children of Israel gave an inheritance to Joshua the son of Nun
among them: according to the word of 50
the LORD they gave him the city which he asked, even [i]Timnath-serah in mount Ephraim: and he built the city, and [i]dwelt therein. [k]These are the inherit- 51
ances, which Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel, divided for an inheritance by lot [l]in Shiloh before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. So they made an end of dividing the country.

The LORD also spake unto Joshua, XX.
saying, Speak to the children of Israel, 2 saying, [a]Appoint out for you cities of refuge, whereof I spake unto you by the 3 hand of Moses: that the slayer that blood. And when he that doth flee 4 unto one of those cities [d]shall stand at the entering of the gate of the city, and shall declare his cause in the ears of the elders of that city, they shall take him into the city unto them, and give him a place, that he may dwell among them.

And if the avenger of blood pursue after 5 him, then they shall not [e]deliver the slayer up into his hand; because he smote his neighbour [f]unwittingly, and hated him not beforetime. And he 6 shall dwell in that city, [g]until he stand
before the congregation for judgment,
and until the death of [h]the high priest that shall be in those days: then shall the slayer return, and come unto his own city, and unto his own house,
unto the city from whence he fled.
And they [†]appointed [i]Kedesh in Gali- 7
lee in mount Naphtali, and [j]Shechem
in [k]mount Ephraim, and [l]Kirjath-arba, which is Hebron, in the mountain of Judah. And on the other side Jordan 8 by Jericho eastward, they assigned [m]Bezer in the wilderness upon [n]the plain out of the tribe of Reuben, and [o]Ra-moth in Gilead out of the tribe of Gad,
and [p]Golan in Bashan out of the tribe of Manasseh. These were the cities 9 appointed for all the children of Israel,
and for [q]the stranger that sojourneth
among them, that whosoever [r]killeth any person at unawares might flee thither, and not die by the hand of the avenger of blood, [s]until he stood before the congregation.

XXI. Then came near the heads of the fathers of the Levites unto [a]Eleazar the priest, and unto Joshua the son of Nun, and unto the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel; and 2
they spake unto them at [b]Shiloh in the land of Canaan, saying, [c]The LORD commanded by the hand of Moses to give us cities to dwell in, with the suburbs thereof for our cattle. And the children 3 of Israel gave unto the Levites out of their inheritance, at the commandment
of the LORD, these cities and their suburbs. And the lot came out for the fa- 4 milies of the Kohathites: and [d]the children of Aaron the priest, which were of the Levites, [e]had by lot out of the tribe of Judah, and out of the tribe of Simeon,
and out of the tribe of Benjamin, thirteen cities. And [f]the rest of the chil- 5
dren of Kohath had by lot out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim, and out of the tribe of Dan, and out of the half 6 tribe of Manasseh, ten cities. And [g]the children of Gershon had by lot out of the families of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the half tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, thirteen 7 cities. [h]The children of Merari by their families had out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of 8 the tribe of Zebulun, twelve cities. [i]And the children of Israel gave by lot unto the Levites these cities with their suburbs, as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses.

9 And they gave out of the tribe of the children of Judah, and out of the tribe of the children of Simeon, these cities
10 which are here [†]mentioned by name, [k]which the children of Aaron, being of the families of the Kohathites, who were of the children of Levi, had: for theirs
11 was the first lot. [l]And they gave them
[‖]the city of Arbah the father of [m]Anak, which city is Hebron, [n]in the hill country
of Judah, with the suburbs thereof round 12 about it. But [o]the fields of the city, and the villages thereof, gave they to Caleb the son of Jephunneh for his posses-13 sion. Thus they gave to the children of Aaron the priest [p]Hebron with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer;
14 and [q]Libnah with her suburbs, and [r]Jattir with her suburbs, and [s]Eshtemoa with 15 her suburbs, and [‖]Holon with her sub-16 urbs, and [t]Debir with her suburbs, and [‖]Ain with her suburbs, and [u]Juttah with her suburbs, and [x]Beth-shemesh with her suburbs; nine cities out of those [y]two 17 tribes. And out of the tribe of Benjamin, [z]Gibeon with her suburbs, [‖]Geba 18 with her suburbs, [a]Anathoth with her suburbs, and [‖]Almon with her suburbs;
19 four cities. All the cities of the children of Aaron, the priests, were thirteen cities with their suburbs.

20 [b]And the families of the children of Kohath, the Levites which remained of the children of Kohath, even they had 21 the cities of their lot out of the tribe of Ephraim. For they gave them [c]Shechem with her suburbs in mount Eph-raim, to be a city of refuge for the slayer;
22 and [d]Gezer with her suburbs, and Kib-zaim with her suburbs, and [e]Beth-horon 23 with her suburbs; four cities. And out of the tribe of Dan, [f]Eltekeh with her

mon with her suburbs; four cities. And 25 out of the half tribe of Manasseh, [i]Tanach with her suburbs, and [j]Gath-rimmon with her suburbs; two cities. All 26
the cities were ten with their suburbs for the families of the children of Kohath that remained.

[k]And unto the children of Gershon, 27
of the families of the Levites, out of the other half tribe of Manasseh they gave [l]Golan in Bashan with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and [m]Beeshterah with her suburbs; two cities.
And out of the tribe of Issachar, [n]Kishon with her suburbs, [o]Dabareh with 28
her suburbs, [p]Jarmuth with her suburbs, 29
[q]En-gannim with her suburbs; four cities.
And out of the tribe of Asher, [r]Mishal 30 with her suburbs, Abdon with her suburbs, [s]Helkath with her suburbs, and [t]Rehob with her suburbs; four cities. And 31 32 out of the tribe of Naphtali, [u]Kedesh in Galilee with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and [w]Hammoth-dor with her suburbs, and [x]Kartan with her suburbs; three cities. All the cities of the 33
Gershonites according to their families were thirteen cities with their suburbs.

[y]And unto the families of the chil- 34
dren of Merari, the rest of the Levites, out of the tribe of Zebulun, [z]Jokneam with her suburbs, and Kartah with her suburbs, Dimnah with her suburbs, [a]Na- 35
halal with her suburbs; four cities. And 36 out of the tribe of Reuben, [b]Bezer with her suburbs, and [c]Jahazah with her suburbs, [d]Kedemoth with her suburbs, and 37 [d]Mephaath with her suburbs; four cities.
And out of the tribe of Gad, [e]Ramoth 38
in Gilead with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and [f]Mahanaim with her suburbs, [g]Heshbon with her 39 suburbs, [h]Jazer with her suburbs; four cities in all. So all the cities for the 40 children of Merari by their families, which were remaining of the families of the Levites, were by their lot twelve cities. [i]All the cities of the Levites 41 within the possession of the children of Israel were forty and eight cities with their suburbs. These cities were every 42 one with their suburbs round about them: thus were all these cities.

And the LORD gave unto Israel [k]all 43
the land which he sware to give unto their fathers; and they possessed it, and dwelt therein. And the LORD [l]gave 44 them rest round about, according to all that he sware unto their fathers: and [m]there stood not a man of all their enemies before them; [n]the LORD delivered
45 all their enemies into their hand. [o]There failed not ought of any good thing which the LORD had spoken unto the house of Israel; all came to pass.

Then Joshua called the Reubenites, XXII.
and the Gadites, and the half tribe of 2 Manasseh, and said unto them, Ye have kept [a]all that Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, and have obeyed my voice in all that I commanded
3 you: ye have not left your brethren these many days unto this day, but have kept the charge of the commandment of
4 the LORD your God. And now [b]the LORD your God hath given rest unto your brethren, as he promised them: therefore now return ye, and get ye unto your tents, and unto the land of your possession, [c]which Moses the servant of the LORD gave you on the other
5 side Jordan. But [d]take diligent heed to do the commandment and the law, which Moses the servant of the LORD charged you, [e]to love the LORD your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and to [f]cleave unto him, and to serve him with all your 6 heart and with all your soul. So Joshua [g]blessed them, and sent them away: and 7 they went unto their tents. Now to the one half of the tribe of Manasseh Moses had given possession in Bashan: [h]but unto the other half thereof gave Joshua among their brethren on this side Jordan westward. And when Joshua sent them away also unto their tents, then he bless-
8 ed them, and he spake unto them, saying, Return with much [i]riches unto your tents, and with very much cattle, with silver, and with gold, and with brass, and with iron, and with very much raiment: [j]divide the spoil of your enemies
9 with your brethren. And the children of Reuben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh returned, and departed from the children of Israel out of [k]Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan, to go unto [l]the country of Gilead, to the land of their possession, whereof they were possessed, according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Mo-
10 ses. And when they came unto the borders of Jordan, that are in the land of Canaan, the children of Reuben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh built there an altar by Jordan, a great altar to see to.

And the thing pleased the 33 children of Israel; and the children of Israel [g]blessed God, and did not intend to go up against them in battle, to destroy the land wherein the children of Reuben and Gad dwelt. XXIII. And it came to pass a long time after that the LORD [a]had given rest unto Israel from all their enemies round about, that Joshua [b]waxed old and [†]stricken in age. And Joshua [c]called for all Israel, 2 and for their elders, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their [d]officers, and said unto them, I am old and stricken in age: and ye have seen all 3 that the LORD your God hath done unto all these nations because of you; for the [e]LORD your God is he that hath fought for you. Behold, [f]I have divided unto 4 you by lot these nations that remain, to be an inheritance for your tribes, from Jordan, with all the nations that I have cut off, even unto [g]the great sea [†]westward. And the LORD your God, [h]he 5 shall expel them from before you, and drive them from out of your sight; and ye shall possess their land, [i]as the LORD your God hath promised unto you. [j]Be 6 ye therefore very courageous to keep and to do all that is written in the book of the law of Moses, [k]that ye turn not aside therefrom to the right hand or to the left; that ye [l]come not among these 7 nations, these that remain amongst you; neither [m]make mention of the name of their gods, nor [n]cause to swear by them, neither serve them, nor bow yourselves unto them. ‖But [o]cleave unto the LORD 8 your God, as ye have done unto this day. ‖[p]For the LORD hath driven out 9 from before you great nations and strong: but as for you, [q]no man hath been able to stand before you unto this day. [r]One 10 man of you shall chase a thousand: for the LORD your God, he it is that fighteth for you, [s]as he hath promised you. [t]Take good heed therefore unto your- 11 [†]selves, that ye love the LORD your God. Else if ye do in any wise [s]go back, and 12 cleave unto the remnant of these nations, even these that remain among you, and shall [u]make marriages with them, and go in unto them, and they to you: know for a certainty that [w]the LORD 13 your God will no more drive out any of these nations from before you; [x]but they shall be snares and traps unto you, and scourges in your sides, and thorns in your eyes, until ye perish from off this good land which the LORD your God 14 hath given you. And behold, this day [y]I am going the way of all the earth: and ye know in all your hearts and in all your souls, that [z]not one thing hath failed of all the good things which the LORD your God spake concerning you; all are come to pass unto you, and not 15 one thing hath failed thereof. Therefore it shall come to pass, that as all good things are come upon you, which the LORD your God promised you; [a]so shall the LORD bring upon you all evil things, until he have destroyed you from off this good land which the LORD your God 16 hath given you. When ye have [b]transgressed the covenant of the LORD your God, which he commanded you, and have gone and served other gods, and bowed yourselves to them; then shall the anger of the LORD be kindled against you, and ye shall perish quickly from off the good land which he hath given unto you.

XXIV. And Joshua gathered all the tribes of Israel to [a]Shechem, and [b]called for the elders of Israel, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their [c]officers; and they [d]presented them- 2 selves before God. And Joshua said unto all the people, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, [e]Your fathers dwelt on the other side of the flood in old time, even Terah, the father of Abraham, and the father of Nachor: and 3 they served other gods. And [f]I took your father Abraham from the other side of the flood, and led him throughout all the land of Canaan, and multiplied his seed, and [g]gave him Isaac. 4 And I gave unto Isaac [h]Jacob and Esau: and I gave unto [i]Esau mount Seir, to possess it; [k]but Jacob and his 5 children went down into Egypt. [l]I sent Moses also and Aaron, and [m]I plagued Egypt, according to that which I did amongst them: and afterward I brought 6 you out. And I [n]brought your fathers out of Egypt: and [o]you came unto the sea; [p]and the Egyptians pursued after your fathers with chariots and horsemen unto the Red sea. And when 7 they [q]cried unto the LORD, [r]he put darkness between you and the Egyptians, [s]and brought the sea upon them, and covered them; and [t]your eyes have seen what I have done in Egypt: and ye dwelt in the wilderness [u]a long season. And I brought you into the land 8 of the Amorites, which dwelt on the other side Jordan; [x]and they fought with you: and I gave them into your hand, that ye might possess their land; and I destroyed them from before you. Then [y]Balak the son of Zippor, king 9 of Moab, arose and warred against Israel, and [z]sent and called Balaam the son of Beor to curse you: [a]but I would 10 not hearken unto Balaam; [b]therefore he blessed you still: so I delivered you out of his hand. And [c]ye went over Jor- 11 dan, and came unto Jericho: and [d]the men [e]of Jericho fought against you, the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Girgashites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites; and I delivered them into your hand. And I sent [f]the hornet before 12 you, which drave them out from before you, even the two kings of the Amorites; but [g]not with thy sword, nor with thy bow. And I have given you a 13 land for which ye did not labour, and [h]cities which ye built not, and ye dwell in them; of the vineyards and oliveyards which ye planted not do ye eat. [i]Now therefore fear the LORD, and serve 14 him in [j]sincerity and in truth: and [k]put away the gods which your fathers served on the other side of the flood, and [l]in Egypt; and serve ye the LORD. And if 15 it seem evil unto you to serve the LORD, [m]choose you this day whom you will serve; whether [n]the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the flood, or [o]the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: [p]but as for me and my house, we will serve the LORD.

And the people answered and said, 16 God forbid that we should forsake the LORD, to serve other gods; for the LORD 17 our God, he it is that brought us up and our fathers out of the land of Egypt, from the house of [q]bondage, and which did those great signs in our sight, and preserved us in all the way wherein we went, and among all the people through whom we passed: and 18 the LORD drave out from before us all the people, even the Amorites which dwelt in the land: therefore will we also serve the LORD; for he is our God. And Joshua said unto the people, [r]Ye 19 cannot serve the LORD: for he is a [s]holy God; he is [t]a jealous God; [u]he will not forgive your transgressions nor 20 your sins. [w]If ye forsake the LORD, and serve strange gods, [x]then he will turn and do you hurt, and consume you, after that he hath done you good. 21 And the people said unto Joshua, Nay; 22 but we will serve the LORD. And Joshua said unto the people, Ye are witnesses against yourselves that [y]ye have chosen you the LORD, to serve him. And they said, We are witnesses. 23 Now therefore [z]put away, [a]said he, the strange gods which are among you, and incline your heart unto the LORD God 24 of Israel. And the people said unto Joshua, The LORD our God will we 25 serve, and his voice will we obey. So Joshua [b]made a covenant with the people that day, and set them [c]a statute and an ordinance in Shechem.

26 And Joshua [d]wrote these words in the book of the law of God, and took [e]a great stone, and set it up there [f]under an oak, that was by the sanctuary 27 of the LORD. And Joshua said unto all the people, Behold, this stone shall be [g]a witness unto us; for [h]it hath heard all the words of the LORD which he spake unto us: it shall be therefore a witness unto you, lest ye [i]deny your God. 28 [j]So Joshua let the people depart, 29 every man unto his inheritance. And it came to pass after these things, that Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of the LORD, died, being an hundred 30 and ten years old. And they buried him in the border of his inheritance in [k]Timnath-serah, which is in mount Ephraim, on the north side of the hill 31 of [l]Gaash. And Israel served the LORD all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders that [f]overlived Joshua, and [m]which had known all the works of the LORD, that he had done for Israel.

32 And [n]the bones of Joseph, which the children of Israel brought up out of Egypt, buried they in Shechem, in a parcel of ground [o]which Jacob bought of the sons of Hamor the father of Shechem for an hundred [‖]pieces of silver: and it became the inheritance of 33 the children of Joseph. And Eleazar the son of Aaron died; and they buried him in a hill that pertained to [p]Phinehas his son, which was given him in [q]mount Ephraim.

THE BOOK OF JUDGES.

I. About B. C. 1425.

NOW after the death of Joshua it came to pass, that the children of Israel [a]asked the LORD, saying, [b]Who shall go up for us against the Canaanites first, to fight against them? And the LORD said, Judah shall go up: behold, I have delivered the land into his hand. And Judah said unto Simeon his brother, Come up with me into my lot, that we may fight against the Canaanites; and [c]I likewise will go with thee into thy lot. So Simeon went with him. And Judah went up; and the LORD delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand: and they slew of them in [d]Bezek ten thousand men. And they found Adoni-bezek in Bezek: and they fought against him, and they slew the Canaanites and the Perizzites. But Adoni-bezek fled; and they pursued after him, and caught him, and cut off his thumbs and his great toes. And Adoni-bezek said, Threescore and ten kings, having [f]their thumbs and their great toes cut off, [g]gathered their meat under my table: [e]as I have done, so God hath requited me. And they brought him to Jerusalem, and there he died. Now [f]the children of Judah had fought against Jerusalem, and had taken it, and smitten it with the edge of the sword, and set the city on fire.

And afterward the children of Judah went down to fight against the Canaanites, that dwelt in the mountain, and in the south, and in the [g]valley. And Judah went against the Canaanites that dwelt in [g]Hebron: (now the name of Hebron before was Kirjath-arba:) and they slew [h]Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai. And from thence he went against the inhabitants of [i]Debir: and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-sepher. [k]And Caleb said, He that smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achsah my daughter to wife. And Othniel the son of Kenaz, [l]Caleb's younger brother, took it: and he gave him Achsah his daughter to wife. And it came to pass, when she came to him, that she moved him to ask of her father a field: and she lighted from off her ass; and Caleb said unto her, What wilt thou? And she said unto him, Give me a blessing: for thou hast given me a south land; give me also springs of water. And Caleb gave her the upper springs and the nether springs.

And the children of the [m]Kenite, Moses' father in law, went up out [n]of the city of palm trees with the children of Judah into the wilderness of Judah, which lieth in the south of [o]Arad; [p]and they went and dwelt among the people. [q]And Judah went with Simeon his brother, and they slew the Canaanites that inhabited [r]Zephath, and utterly destroyed it: and the name of the city was called [s]Hormah. Also Judah took [t]Gaza with the coast thereof, and [u]Askelon with the coast thereof, and [w]Ekron with the coast thereof. And [x]the LORD was with Judah; and [l]he drave out the inhabitants of the mountain; but could not drive out the inhabitants of the valley, because they had [y]chariots of iron. [z]And they gave Hebron unto Caleb, as Moses said: and he expelled thence the three sons of Anak. [a]And the children of Benjamin did not drive out the Jebusites that inhabited Jerusalem; but [b]the Jebusites dwell with the children of Benjamin in Jerusalem unto this day.

And the house of Joseph, they also went up against Beth-el: and the LORD was with them. And the house of Joseph [c]sent to descry Beth-el. (Now the name of the city before was [d]Luz.) And the spies saw a man come forth out of the city, and they said unto him, Shew us, we pray thee, the entrance into the city, and [e]we will shew thee mercy. And when he shewed them 25 the entrance into the city, they smote the city with the edge of the sword; but they let go the man and all his family. And the man went into [f]the 26 land of the Hittites, and built a city, and called the name thereof Luz: which is the name thereof unto this day.

[g]Neither did Manasseh drive out the 27 inhabitants of Beth-shean and her towns, nor Taanach and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Ibleam and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Megiddo and her towns: but the Canaanites would dwell in that land. And it came to pass, 28 when Israel was strong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute, and did not utterly drive them out.

[h]Neither did Ephraim drive out the 29 Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer; [i]but the Canaanites dwelt in Gezer among them. Neither did Zebulun drive out 30 the inhabitants of Kitron, nor the [j]inhabitants of Nahalol; but the Canaanites dwelt among them, and became tributaries. Neither did Asher drive out 31 the inhabitants of Accho, nor the inhabitants of [k]Zidon, nor of Ahlab, nor of [k]Achzib, nor of Helbah, nor of [k]Aphik, nor of [k]Rehob: but the Asher- 32 ites [l]dwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land: for they did not drive them out. Neither did Naphtali 33 drive out the inhabitants of [m]Beth-shemesh, nor the inhabitants of [m]Beth-anath; but he [l]dwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land: nevertheless the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh and of Beth-anath [n]became tributaries unto them. And [o]the Amorites forced 34 the children of Dan into the mountain: for they would not suffer them to come down to the valley: but the Amorites 35 would dwell in mount [p]Heres in [q]Aijalon, and in [q]Shaalbim: yet the hand of the house of Joseph [t]prevailed, so that they became tributaries. And the coast 36 of the Amorites was from [u]the going up to Akrabbim, from the rock, and upward.

II. And an [l]angel of the LORD came up from Gilgal [a]to Bochim, and said, I made you to go up out of Egypt, and have brought you unto the land which I sware unto your fathers; and I said, I will never [b]break my covenant with 2 you. And [c]ye shall make no league with the inhabitants of this land; [d]you shall throw down their altars: [e]but ye have not obeyed my voice: why have 3 ye done this? Wherefore I also said, I will not drive them out from before you; but they shall be [f]as thorns in your sides, and [g]their gods shall be a 4 [h]snare unto you. And it came to pass, when the angel of the LORD spake these words unto all the children of Israel, that the people lift up their voice, and 5 wept. And they called the name of that place [l]Bochim: and they sacrificed there unto the LORD.

6 And when [i]Joshua had let the people go, the children of Israel went every man unto his inheritance to possess 7 the land. And the people served the LORD all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders that [t]outlived Joshua, who had seen all the great works of the LORD, that he did for Is- 8 rael. And Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of the LORD, died, being an 9 hundred and ten years old. And they buried him in the border of his inheritance in [l]Timnath-heres, [j]in the mount of Ephraim, on the north side of the hill Gaash.

10 And also all that generation were gathered unto their fathers: and there arose another generation after them, which [k]knew not the LORD, nor yet the works 11 which he had done for Israel. And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of 12 the LORD, and served Baalim: and they [l]forsook the LORD God of their fathers, which brought them out of the land of Egypt, and followed [m]other gods, of the gods of the people that were round about them, and [n]bowed themselves unto them, 13 and [o]provoked the LORD to anger. And they forsook the LORD, and [p]served 14 Baal and Ashtaroth. And [q]the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and he [r]delivered them into the hands of spoilers that spoiled them, and [s]he sold them into the hands of their enemies round about, so that they [t]could not any longer 15 stand before their enemies. Whithersoever they went out, the hand of the LORD was against them for evil, as the LORD had said, and [u]as the LORD had sworn unto them: and they were greatly 16 distressed. Nevertheless [x]the LORD raised up judges, which [t]delivered them out of the hand of those that spoiled them. And yet they would not hearken 17 unto their judges, but they [y]went a whoring after other gods, and bowed themselves unto them: [z]they turned quickly out of the way which their fathers walked in, obeying the commandments of the LORD; but they did not so.

And when the LORD raised them up 18 judges, then [a]the LORD was with the judge, and delivered them out of the hand of their enemies all the days of the judge: for [b]it repented the LORD because of their [c]groanings by reason of them that oppressed them and vexed them. And it came to pass, [d]when the 19 judge was dead, that they returned, and [‖]corrupted themselves more than their fathers, in following other gods to serve them, and to bow down unto them;
[†]they ceased not from their own doings,
nor from their stubborn way. And [e]the 20 anger of the LORD was hot against Israel; and he said, Because that this people hath [f]transgressed my covenant which I commanded their fathers, and have not hearkened unto my voice; [g]I also 21
will not henceforth drive out any from before them of the nations which Joshua left when he died: that [h]through them 22
I may [i]prove Israel, whether they will keep the way of the LORD to walk therein, as their fathers did keep it, or not. Therefore the LORD [‖]left those na- 23
tions, without driving them out hastily;
neither delivered he them into the hand of Joshua. Now these are [a]the nations which the LORD left, to prove Israel by them, even as many of Israel as had not known all the wars of Canaan; only 2 that the generations of the children of Israel might know, to teach them war,
at the least such as before knew nothing thereof: namely, [b]five lords of the Phi- 3
listines, and all the Canaanites, and the Sidonians, and the Hivites that dwelt in mount [c]Lebanon, from mount Baal-hermon unto the entering in of Hamath.
And they were [a]to prove Israel by them, 4
to know whether they would hearken unto the commandments of the LORD, which he commanded their fathers by
the hand of Moses.

[d]And the children of Israel dwelt 5
among the Canaanites, Hittites, and Amorites, and Perizzites, and Hivites, and Jebusites: and [e]they took their 6 daughters to be their wives, and gave their daughters to their sons, and served their gods. [f]And the children of Israel 7

did evil in the sight of the LORD, and forgat the LORD their God, [g]and served 8 Baalim and [h]the groves. Therefore [i]the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and he [i]sold them into the hand of [k]Chushan-rishathaim king of [†]Mesopotamia: and the children of Israel served 9 Chushan-rishathaim eight years. And when the children of Israel [l]cried unto the LORD, the LORD [m]raised up a [†]deliverer to the children of Israel, who delivered them, even [n]Othniel the son of 10 Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother. And [o]the spirit of the LORD [†]came upon him, and he judged Israel, and went out to war: and the LORD delivered Chushanrishathaim king of [†]Mesopotamia into his hand; and his hand prevailed against 11 Chushan-rishathaim. And [p]the land had rest forty years. And Othniel the son of Kenaz died.

12 [q]And the children of Israel did evil again in the sight of the LORD: and the LORD strengthened Eglon [r]the king of Moab against Israel, because they had done evil in the sight of the LORD.
13 And he gathered unto him the children of [s]Ammon and [t]Amalek, and went and smote Israel, and possessed [u]the city of 14 palm trees. So the children of Israel
[v]served Eglon the king of Moab eighteen
15 years. But when the children of Israel
[w]cried unto the LORD, the LORD raised them up a deliverer, Ehud the son of Gera, [‖]a Benjamite, a man [†]lefthanded:
and by him the children of Israel sent [x]a present unto Eglon the king of Moab.
16 But Ehud made him a dagger which had two edges, of a cubit length; and he did gird it under his raiment upon 17 his right thigh. And he brought the present unto Eglon king of Moab: and 18 Eglon was a very fat man. And when he had made an end to offer the present,
he sent away the people [y]that bare the 19 present. But he himself turned again
[z]from the [‖]quarries that were by Gilgal, and said, I have a secret errand unto thee, O king: who said, Keep silence.
And all that stood by him went out 20 from him. And Ehud came unto him;
and he was sitting in [†]a summer parlour,
which he had for himself alone. And Ehud said, I have a message from God unto thee. And he arose out of his seat.
21 And Ehud put forth his left hand, and took the dagger from his right thigh,

and thrust it into his belly: and the haft also went in after the blade; and the fat closed upon the blade, so that he could not draw the dagger out of his belly; and ‖the dirt came out. Then Ehud went forth through the porch, and [a]shut the doors of the parlour upon him, and [b]locked them. When he was gone out, his servants came; and when they saw that behold, the doors of the parlour were locked, they said, Surely he ‖covereth his feet in his summer chamber. And they tarried till they were ashamed: and behold, he opened not the doors of the parlour; therefore they took a key, and opened them: and behold, their lord was fallen down dead on the earth. And Ehud escaped while they [c]tarried, and passed beyond the [d]quarries, and escaped unto Seirath. And it came to pass, when he was come, that [e]he blew a trumpet in the [f]mountain of Ephraim, and the children of Israel went down with him from the mount, and he before them. And he said unto them, Follow after me: for [g]the LORD hath delivered your enemies the Moabites into your hand. And they went down after him, and took [h]the fords of Jordan toward Moab, and suffered not a man to pass over. And they slew of Moab at that time about ten thousand men, all [i]lusty, and all men of valour; and there escaped not a man. So Moab was subdued that day under the hand of Israel. And [i]the land had rest fourscore years.

And after him was ‖Shamgar the son of Anath, which slew of the Philistines six hundred men with an ox goad: [k] and he also delivered ‖Israel.

IV.

And [a]the children of Israel again did evil in the sight of the LORD, when Ehud was dead. And the LORD [b]sold them into the hand of [c]Jabin king of Canaan, that reigned in [c]Hazor; the captain of whose host was ‖Sisera, which dwelt in [d]Harosheth of the Gentiles. And the children of Israel [e]cried unto the LORD: for he had nine hundred [f]chariots of iron; and twenty years [g]he mightily oppressed the children of Israel. And Deborah, a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth, she judged Israel at that time. And she dwelt under the palm tree of Deborah between [h]Ramah and Beth-el in [i]mount Ephraim: and the children of Israel came up to her for judgment. And she sent and called Barak the son of Abinoam out of [k]Kedesh-naphtali, and said unto him, Hath not the LORD God of Israel commanded, saying, Go and draw toward mount [l]Tabor, and take with thee ten thousand men of the children of Naphtali and of the children of Zebulun? And I will draw unto thee to the [m]river Kishon Sisera, the captain of Jabin's army, with his chariots and his multitude; and [n]I will deliver him into thine hand. And Barak said unto her, [o]If thou wilt go with me, then I will go: but if thou wilt not go with me, then I will not go. And she said, I will surely go with thee: notwithstanding the journey that thou takest shall not be for thine honour; for the LORD shall [p]sell Sisera into the hand of a woman. And Deborah arose, and went with Barak to Kedesh. And Barak called [q]Zebulun and Naphtali to Kedesh; and he went up with ten thousand men [r]at his feet: and Deborah went up with him. Now Heber [s]the Kenite, which was of the children of [t]Hobab the father in law of Moses, had severed himself from the Kenites, and pitched his tent unto [u]the plain of Zaanaim, which is by Kedesh. And they shewed Sisera that Barak the son of Abinoam was gone up to mount [l]Tabor. And Sisera [t]gathered together all his [f]chariots, even nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the people that were with him, from Harosheth of the Gentiles unto the river of Kishon. And Deborah said unto Barak, Up; for this is the day in which [n]the LORD hath delivered Sisera into thine hand: [w]is not the LORD gone out before thee? So Barak went down from mount [l]Tabor, and ten thousand men after him. And the LORD [x]discomfited Sisera, and all his chariots, and all his host, with the edge of the sword before Barak; so that Sisera lighted down off his chariot, and fled away on his feet. But Barak pursued after the chariots, and after the host, unto Harosheth of the Gentiles: and all the host of Sisera fell upon the edge of the sword; and there was not [t]a man left. Howbeit Sisera fled away on his feet to the tent of Jael the wife of Heber the Kenite: for there was peace between Jabin the king of Hazor and the house of Heber the Kenite. And Jael went out to meet Sisera, and said unto him, Turn in, my lord, turn in to me; fear not. And when he had turned in unto her into the tent, she covered him with a ‖mantle. And he said unto

Then the angel of the 21 LORD put forth the end of the staff that was in his hand, and touched the flesh and the unleavened cakes; and [d]there rose up fire out of the rock, and consumed the flesh and the unleavened cakes. Then the angel of the LORD departed out of his sight. And when Gi- 22 deon [e]perceived that he was an angel of the LORD, Gideon said, Alas, O Lord GOD! [f]for because I have seen an angel of the LORD face to face. And the 23 LORD said unto him, [g]Peace be unto thee; fear not: thou shalt not die. Then 24 Gideon built an altar there unto the LORD, and called it ‖Jehovah-shalom: unto this day it is yet in [h]Ophrah of the Abi-ezrites.

And they said one to another, Who hath done this thing? And when they inquired and asked, they said, Gideon the son of Joash hath done 30 this thing. Then the men of the city said unto Joash, Bring out thy son, that he may die: because he hath cast down the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the grove that was by it. 31 And Joash said unto all that stood against him, Will ye plead for Baal? will ye save him? he that will plead for him, let him be put to death whilst it is yet morning: if he be a god, let him plead for himself, because one hath cast down 32 his altar. VII. Then [a]Jerubbaal, who is Gideon, and all the people that were with him, rose up early, and pitched beside [b]the well of Harod: so that the host of the Midianites were on the north side of them, by the hill of [c]Moreh, [b]in the valley. And the LORD said unto Gideon, The 2 people that are with thee are too many for me to give the Midianites into their hands, lest Israel [d]vaunt themselves against me, saying, Mine own hand hath saved me. Now therefore go to, 3 proclaim in the ears of the people, saying, [e]Whosoever is fearful and [b]afraid, let him return and depart early from mount Gilead. And there returned of the people twenty and two thousand; and there remained ten thousand. And 4 the LORD said unto Gideon, The people are yet too many; bring them down unto the water, and I [f]will try them for thee there: and it shall be, that of whom I say unto thee, This shall go with thee, the same shall go with thee; and of whomsoever I say unto thee, This shall not go with thee, the same shall not go. So he brought down the people unto 5 the water: and the LORD said unto Gideon, Every one that lappeth of the water with his tongue, as a dog lappeth, him shalt thou set by himself; likewise every one that boweth down upon his knees to drink. And the number of 6 them that lapped, putting their hand to their mouth, were three hundred men: but all the rest of the people bowed down upon their knees to drink water. And the LORD said unto Gideon, [g]By 7 the three hundred men that lapped will I save you, and deliver the Midianites into thine hand: and let all the other people go every man unto his place. So the people took victuals in their 8 hand, and their trumpets: and he sent all the rest of Israel every man unto his tent, and retained those three hundred men: and the host of Midian was beneath him [h]in the valley.

And it came to pass the same [i]night, 9 that the LORD said unto him, Arise, get thee down unto the host; for [j]I have delivered it into thine hand. But 10
if thou fear to go down, go thou with Phurah thy servant down to the host: and thou shalt [k]hear what they say; 11 and afterward shall thine hands be strengthened to go down unto the host. Then went he down with Phurah his servant unto the outside of the [l]armed 12 men that were in the host. And the Midianites and the Amalekites and [l]all the children of the east lay along [h]in the valley [l]like grasshoppers for multitude; and their camels were without number, [m]as the sand by the sea side
13 for multitude. And when Gideon was come, behold, there was a man that told a dream unto his fellow, and said, Behold, I dreamed a dream, and lo, a cake of barley bread tumbled into the host of Midian, and came unto a tent, and smote it that it fell, and overturned
14 it, that the tent lay along. And his fellow answered and said, This is nothing else save the sword of Gideon the son of Joash, a man of Israel: for into his hand hath God delivered Midian,
15 and all the host. And it was so, when Gideon heard the telling of the dream, and [†]the interpretation thereof, that he worshipped, and returned into the host of Israel, and said, Arise; for the LORD hath delivered into your hand the host 16 of Midian. And he divided the three hundred men into three companies, and he put [†]a trumpet in every man's hand, with empty pitchers, and [‖]lamps within 17 the pitchers. And he said unto them, Look on me, and do likewise: and behold, when I come to the outside of the camp, it shall be that, as I do, so shall 18 ye do. When I blow with a trumpet, I and all that are with me, then blow ye the trumpets also on every side of all the camp, and say, [n]The sword of the 19 LORD, and of Gideon. So Gideon, and [o]the hundred men that were with him, came unto the outside of the camp in the beginning of the middle watch; and they had but newly set the watch: and they blew the trumpets, and brake the 20 pitchers that were in their hands. And the three companies blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers, and held the lamps in their left hands, and the trumpets in their right hands to blow withal: and they cried, The sword of the LORD,
21 and of Gideon. And they [p]stood every man [q]in his place round about the camp: and [r]all the host ran, and cried, 22 and fled. And the three hundred [s]blew the trumpets, and [t]the LORD set [u]every man's sword against his fellow, even throughout all the host: and the host fled to Beth-shittah ‖in [w]Zererath, and to the [†]border of [x]Abel-meholah, unto Tabbath. And the men of Israel [y]gathered themselves together [z]out of Naphtali, and out of Asher, and out of all Manasseh, and pursued after the Midianites.

And Gideon sent messengers throughout all [a]mount Ephraim, saying, Come down against the Midianites, and take before them the waters unto Beth-barah and Jordan. Then all the men of Ephraim [y]gathered themselves together, and [b]took the waters unto [c]Beth-barah and Jordan. And they took [d]two princes of the Midianites, Oreb and Zeeb; and they slew Oreb upon [e]the rock Oreb, and Zeeb they slew at the winepress of Zeeb, and pursued Midian, and brought the heads of Oreb and Zeeb to Gideon on the other side Jordan. And [a]the men of Ephraim said unto him, [†]Why hast thou served us thus, that thou calledst us not, when thou wentest to fight with the Midianites? And they did chide with him [†]sharply. And he said unto them, What have I done now in comparison of you? Is not [b]the gleaning of the grapes of Ephraim better than the vintage of Abi-ezer? [c]God hath delivered into your hands the princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb: and what was I able to do in comparison of you? Then their [†][d]anger was abated toward him, when he had said that.

And Gideon came to Jordan, and passed over, he, and [e]the three hundred men that were with him, faint, yet pursuing them. And he said unto the men of [f]Succoth, Give, I pray you, loaves of bread unto the people [g]that follow me; for they be faint, and I am pursuing after Zebah and Zalmunna, kings of Midian. And the princes of Succoth said, [h]Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna now in thine hand, that we should give bread unto thine army? And Gideon said, Therefore when the LORD hath delivered Zebah and Zalmunna into mine hand, [i]then I will [†]tear your flesh with the thorns of the wilderness and with briers. And he went up thence to [j]Penuel, and spake unto them likewise: and the men of Penuel answered him as the men of Succoth had answered him. And he spake also unto the men of Penuel, saying, [k]When I come again in peace, [l]I will break down this tower.

Zebah and Zalmunna were in Karkor, and their hosts with them, about fifteen thousand men, all that were left of [m]all the hosts of [n]the children of the east: for there fell ‖an hundred and twenty thousand men that drew sword. And Gideon went up by the way of them that dwelt in tents on the east of [o]Nobah and Jogbehah, and smote the host: for the host was [p]secure. And when Zebah and Zalmunna fled, he pursued after them, and [q]took the two kings of Midian, Zebah and Zalmunna, and [†]discomfited all the host.

And Gideon the son of Joash returned from battle before the sun was up, and caught a young man of the men of Succoth, and inquired of him: and he [†]described unto him the princes of Succoth, and the elders thereof, even threescore and seventeen men. And he came unto the men of Succoth, and said, Behold Zebah and Zalmunna, with whom ye did upbraid me, saying, [r]Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna now in thine hand, that we should give bread unto thy men that are weary? [r]And he took the elders of the city, and thorns of the wilderness and briers, and with them he [†]taught the men of Succoth. [s]And he beat down the tower of Penuel, and slew the men of the city. Then said he unto Zebah and Zalmunna, What manner of men were they whom ye slew at [t]Tabor? And they answered, As thou art, so were they; each one [†]resembled the children of a king. And he said, They were my brethren, even the sons of my mother: [u]as the LORD liveth, if ye had saved them alive, I would not slay you. And he said unto Jether his firstborn, Up, and slay them. But the youth drew not his sword: for he feared, because he was yet a youth. Then Zebah and Zalmunna said, Rise thou, and fall upon us: for as the man is, so is his strength. And Gideon arose, and [v]slew Zebah and Zalmunna, and took away the ‖ornaments that were on their camels' necks.

Then the men of Israel said unto Gideon, Rule thou over us, both thou, and thy son, and thy son's son also: for thou hast delivered us from the hand of Midian. And Gideon said unto them, I will not rule over you, neither shall my son rule over you: [w]the LORD shall rule over you. And Gideon said unto them,

I would desire a request of you, that you would give me every man the [x]earrings of his prey. (For they had golden earrings, [y]because they were Ishmaelites.) And they answered, We will willingly give them. And they spread a garment, and did cast therein every man the earrings of his prey. And the weight of the golden earrings that he requested was a thousand and seven hundred shekels of gold; beside [z]ornaments, and [‖]collars, and [a]purple raiment that was on the kings of Midian, and beside the [b]chains that were about their camels' necks. And Gideon made an [c]ephod thereof, and put it in his city, even [d]in Ophrah: and all Israel [e]went thither a whoring after it: which thing became [f]a snare unto Gideon, and to his house. Thus was Midian subdued before the children of Israel, so that they lifted up their heads no more. [g]And the country was in quietness forty years in the days of Gideon.

And Jerubbaal the son of Joash went and dwelt in his own house. And Gideon had [h]threescore and ten sons [†]of his body begotten: for he had many wives. And his concubine that was in [i]Shechem, she also bare him a son, whose name he [†]called Abimelech. And Gideon the son of Joash died [j]in a good old age, and was buried in the sepulchre of Joash his father, [k]in Ophrah of the Abi-ezrites. And it came to pass, [l]as soon as Gideon was dead, that the children of Israel turned again, and [m]went a whoring after Baalim, and made [n]Baal-berith their god. And the children of Israel [o]remembered not the LORD their God, who had delivered them out of the hands of all their enemies on every side: [p]neither shewed they kindness to the house of Jerubbaal, namely, Gideon, according to all the goodness which he had shewed unto Israel.

And Abimelech the son of Jerubbaal went to Shechem unto [a]his mother's brethren, and communed with them, and with all the family of the house of his mother's father, saying, Speak, I pray you, in the ears of all [b]the men of Shechem, [†]Whether is better for you, either that all the sons of Jerubbaal, which are [c]threescore and ten persons, reign over you, or that one reign over you? remember also that I am [d]your bone and your flesh. And his mother's brethren spake of him in the ears of all [b]the men of Shechem all these words: and their hearts inclined [†]to follow Abimelech; for they said, He is our [e]brother. And they gave him threescore and ten pieces of silver out of the house of [f]Baal-berith, wherewith Abimelech hired [g]vain and [h]light persons, which followed him. And he went unto his father's house [i]at Ophrah, and [j]slew his brethren the sons of Jerubbaal, being threescore and ten persons, upon one stone: notwithstanding yet Jotham the youngest son of Jerubbaal was left; for he hid himself. And all [b]the men of Shechem gathered together, and all [k]the house of Millo, and went, and made Abimelech king, [‖]by the plain of [l]the pillar that was in Shechem.

And when they told it to Jotham, he went and stood in the top of [m]mount Gerizim, and lift up his voice, and cried, and said unto them, Hearken unto me, you [b]men of Shechem, that God may hearken unto you. [n]The trees went forth on a time to anoint a king over them; and they said unto the olive tree, [o]Reign thou over us. But the olive tree said unto them, Should I leave my fatness, [p]wherewith by me they honour God and man, and [‖]go to be promoted over the trees? And the trees said to the fig tree, Come thou, and reign over us. But the fig tree said unto them, Should I forsake my sweetness, and my good fruit, and go to be promoted over the trees? Then said the trees unto the vine, Come thou, and reign over us. And the vine said unto them, Should I leave my wine, [q]which cheereth God and man, and go to be promoted over the trees? Then said all the trees unto the [‖]bramble, Come thou, and reign over us. And the bramble said unto the trees, If in truth ye anoint me king over you, then come and put your trust in my [r]shadow: and if not, [s]let fire come out of the bramble, and devour [t]the cedars of Lebanon. Now therefore, if ye have done [u]truly and sincerely, in that ye have made Abimelech king, and if ye have dealt well with Jerubbaal and his house, and have done unto him according to [w]the deserving of his hands; (for my father fought for you, and [†]adventured his life far, and delivered you out of the hand of Midian: and ye are risen up against my father's house this day, and [x]have slain his sons, threescore and ten persons, upon one stone, and have made Abimelech, [y]the son of his maidservant, king over the men of Shechem, [z]because he is your brother;) if ye then have dealt [u]truly and sincerely with Jerubbaal and with his house this day, then [a]rejoice ye in Abimelech, and let him also rejoice in you: but if not, [b]let fire come out from Abimelech, and devour [c]the men of Shechem, and the house of Millo; and let fire come out from the men of Shechem, and from the house of Millo, and devour Abimelech. And Jotham ran away, and fled, and went to [d]Beer, and dwelt there, for fear of Abimelech his brother.

When Abimelech had reigned three years over Israel, then [e]God sent an evil spirit between Abimelech and the men of Shechem; and the men of Shechem [f]dealt treacherously with Abimelech: [g]that the cruelty done to the threescore and ten sons of Jerubbaal might come, and their blood be laid upon Abimelech their brother, which slew them; and upon the men of Shechem, which [†]aided him in the killing of his brethren. And the men of Shechem set liers in wait for him in the top of the mountains, and they robbed all that came along that way by them: and it was told Abimelech. And Gaal the son of Ebed came with his brethren, and went over to Shechem: and the men of Shechem put their confidence in him. And they went out into the fields, and gathered their vineyards, and trode the grapes, and made [‖]merry, and went into [h]the house of their god, and did eat and drink, and cursed Abimelech. And Gaal the son of Ebed said, [i]Who is Abimelech, and who is Shechem, that we should serve him? is not he the son of Jerubbaal? and Zebul his officer? serve the men of [j]Hamor the father of Shechem: for why should we serve him? And [k]would to God this people were under my hand; then would I remove Abimelech. And he said to Abimelech, Increase thine army, and come out. And when Zebul the ruler of the city heard the words of Gaal the son of Ebed, his anger was [‖]kindled. And he sent messengers unto Abimelech [†]privily, saying, Behold, Gaal the son of Ebed and his brethren be come to Shechem; and behold, they fortify the city against thee. Now therefore up by night, thou and the people that is with thee, and lie in wait in the field: and it shall be, that in the morning, as soon as the sun is up, thou shalt rise early, and set upon the city: and behold, when he and the people that is with him come out against thee, then mayest thou do to them [†]as thou shalt find occasion. And Abimelech rose up, and all the people that were with him, by night, and they laid wait against Shechem in four companies. And Gaal the son of Ebed went out, and stood in the entering of the gate of the city: and Abimelech rose up, and the people that were with him, from lying in wait. And when Gaal saw the people, he said to Zebul, Behold, there come people down from [l]the top of the mountains. And Zebul said unto him, Thou seest the shadow of the mountains as if they were men. And Gaal spake again and said, See there come people down by the [†]middle of the land, and another company come along by [m]the plain of [‖]Meonenim. Then said Zebul unto him, Where is now thy mouth, wherewith thou saidst, [n]Who is Abimelech, that we should serve him? is not this the people that thou hast despised? go out, I pray now, and fight with them. And Gaal went out before the men of Shechem, and fought with Abimelech. And Abimelech chased him, and he fled before him, and many were overthrown and wounded, even unto the entering of the gate. And Abimelech dwelt at Arumah: and Zebul thrust out Gaal and his brethren, that they should not dwell in Shechem. And it came to pass on the morrow, that the people went out into the field; and they told Abimelech. And he took the people, and divided them into three companies, and laid wait in the field, and looked, and behold, the people were come forth out of the city; and he rose up against them, and smote them. And Abimelech, and the company that was with him, [o]rushed forward, and stood in the entering of the gate of the city: and the two other companies [o]ran upon all the people that were in the fields, and slew them. And Abimelech fought against the city all that day; and he took the city, and slew the people that was therein, and [p]beat down the city, and sowed it with [q]salt. thah. And Gilead's wife bare him sons; and his wife's sons grew up, and they thrust out Jephthah, and said unto him, Thou shalt not inherit in our father's house; for thou art the son of a strange woman. Then Jephthah fled [f] from his brethren, and dwelt in the land of [b] Tob: and there were gathered [c] vain men to Jephthah, and went out with him. And it came to pass [f] in process of time, that the children of Ammon made war against Israel. And it was so, that when the children of Ammon made war against Israel, [d] the elders of Gilead went to fetch Jephthah out of the land of [b] Tob: and they said unto Jephthah, Come, and be our captain, that we may fight with the children of Ammon. And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead, [e] Did not ye hate me, and expel me out of my father's house? and why are ye come unto me now when ye are in distress? And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, Therefore we turn again to thee now, that thou mayest go with us, and fight against the children of Ammon, and be [d] our head over all the inhabitants of Gilead. And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead, If ye bring me home again to fight against the children of Ammon, and the LORD deliver them before me, shall I be your head? And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, The LORD [f] be witness between us, [f] if we do not so according to thy words. Then Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead, and the people made him [g] head and captain over them: and Jephthah uttered all his words [h] before the LORD in [i] Mizpeh.

And Jephthah sent messengers unto the king of the children of Ammon, saying, What hast thou to do with me, that thou art come against me to fight in my land? And the king of the children of Ammon answered unto the messengers of Jephthah, [k] Because Israel took away my land, when they came up out of Egypt, from [l] Arnon even unto [m] Jabbok, and unto Jordan: now therefore restore those lands again peaceably. And Jephthah sent messengers again unto the king of the children of Ammon: and said unto him, Thus saith Jephthah, [n] Israel took not away the land of Moab, nor the land of the children of Ammon: but when Israel came up from Egypt, and walked through the wilderness [o] unto the Red sea, and came to Kadesh; then [q] Israel sent messengers unto the king of Edom, saying, Let me, I pray thee, pass through thy land: [r] but the king of Edom would not hearken thereto. And in like manner they sent unto the king of Moab: but he would not consent: and Israel [s] abode in Kadesh. Then they went along through the wilderness, and [t] compassed the land of Edom, and the land of Moab, and [u] came by the east side of the land of Moab, [x] and pitched on the other side of Arnon, but came not within the border of Moab: for Arnon was the border of Moab. And [y] Israel sent messengers unto Sihon king of the Amorites, the king of Heshbon; and Israel said unto him, [z] Let us pass, we pray thee, through thy land into my place. [a] But Sihon trusted not Israel to pass through his coast: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and pitched in [b] Jahaz, and fought against Israel. And the LORD God of Israel delivered Sihon and all his people into the hand of Israel, and they [c] smote them: so Israel possessed all the land of the Amorites, the inhabitants of that country. And they possessed all the coasts of the Amorites, [d] from Arnon even unto Jabbok, and from the wilderness even unto Jordan. So now the LORD God of Israel hath dispossessed the Amorites from before his people Israel, and shouldest thou possess it? Wilt not thou possess that which [e] Chemosh thy god giveth thee to possess? So whomsoever [f] the LORD our God shall drive out from before us, them will we possess. And now art thou any thing better than [g] Balak the son of Zippor, king of Moab? did he ever strive against Israel, or did he ever fight against them, while Israel dwelt in [h] Heshbon and her towns, and in [i] Aroer and her towns, and in all the cities that be along by the coasts of Arnon, [j] three hundred years? why therefore did ye not recover them within that time? Wherefore I have not sinned against thee, but thou doest me wrong to war against me: the LORD [k] the Judge be judge this day between the children of Israel and the children of Ammon. Howbeit the king of the children of Ammon hearkened not unto the words of Jephthah which he sent him.

Gilead and Manasseh, and passed over Mizpeh of Gilead, and from Mizpeh of Gilead he passed over unto the children of Ammon. And Jephthah [m]vowed a vow unto the LORD, and said, If thou shalt without fail deliver the children of Ammon into mine hands, then it shall be, that [†]whatsoever cometh forth of the doors of my house to meet me, when I return in peace from the children of Ammon, [n]shall surely be the LORD'S, [‖o]and I will offer it up for a burnt offering. So Jephthah passed over unto the children of Ammon to fight against them; and the LORD delivered them into his hands. And he smote them from [i]Aroer, even till thou come to [p]Minnith, even twenty cities, and unto [‖]the plain of the vineyards, with a very great slaughter. Thus the children of Ammon were subdued before the children of Israel.

And Jephthah came to [q]Mizpeh unto his house, and behold, his daughter came out [r]to meet him with [s]timbrels and with dances: and she was his only child; [‖]beside her he had neither son nor daughter. And it came to pass, when he saw her, that he [t]rent his clothes, and said, Alas, my daughter, thou hast brought me very low, and thou art one of them that trouble me: for I have opened my mouth unto the LORD, and [u]I cannot go back. And she said unto him, My father, if thou hast opened thy mouth unto the LORD, do to me according to that which hath proceeded out of thy mouth; forasmuch as the LORD hath taken vengeance for thee of thine enemies, even of the children of Ammon. And she said unto her father, Let this thing be done for me: [x]let me alone two months, that I may [†]go up and down upon the mountains, and bewail my virginity, I and my fellows. And he said, Go. And he sent her away for two months: and she went with her companions, and bewailed her virginity upon the mountains. And it came to pass at the end of two months, that she returned unto her father, who [y]did with her according to his vow which he had vowed: and she knew no man. And it was a [‖]custom in Israel, that the daughters of Israel went [†]yearly [‖]to lament the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite four days in a year.

XII.

And [a]the men of Ephraim [†]gathered themselves together, and went northward, and said unto Jephthah, Wherefore passedst thou over to fight against the children of Ammon, and didst not call us to go with thee? we will burn [z]thine house upon thee with fire. And Jephthah said unto them, I and my people were at great strife with the children of Ammon; and when I called you, ye delivered me not out of their hands. And when I saw that ye delivered me not, I [b]put my life in my hands, and passed over against the children of Ammon, and the LORD delivered them into my hand: wherefore then are ye come up unto me this day, to fight against me? Then Jephthah gathered together all the men of Gilead, and fought with Ephraim: and the men of Gilead smote Ephraim, because they said, Ye Gileadites [c]are fugitives of Ephraim among the Ephraimites, and among the Manassites. And the Gileadites took the [d]passages of Jordan before the Ephraimites: and it was so, that when those Ephraimites which were escaped said, Let me go over; that the men of Gilead said unto him, Art thou an Ephraimite? If he said, Nay; then said they unto him, Say now [‖]Shibboleth: and he said Sibboleth: for he could not frame to pronounce it right. Then they took him, and slew him at the passages of Jordan: and there fell at that time of the Ephraimites forty and two thousand. And Jephthah judged Israel six years. Then died Jephthah the Gileadite, and was buried in one of the cities of Gilead.

And after him [‖]Ibzan of [e]Beth-lehem judged Israel. And he had thirty sons, and thirty daughters, whom he sent abroad, and took in thirty daughters from abroad for his sons. And he judged Israel seven years. Then died Ibzan, and was buried at [e]Beth-lehem.

And after him [‖]Elon, a Zebulonite, judged Israel; and he judged Israel ten years. And Elon the Zebulonite died, and was buried in Aijalon in the country of Zebulun.

And after him [‖]Abdon the son of Hillel, a [f]Pirathonite, judged Israel. And he had forty sons and thirty [†]nephews, that [g]rode on threescore and ten [h]ass colts: and he judged Israel eight years. And there was a certain man of [c]Zorah, of the family of the Danites, whose name was Manoah; and his wife was [d]barren, and bare not. And the [e]angel of the LORD appeared unto the woman, and said unto her, Behold now, thou art barren, and bearest not: but thou shalt conceive, and bear a son. Now therefore beware, I pray thee, and [f]drink not wine nor strong drink, and eat not any unclean thing: for lo, thou shalt conceive, and bear a son; and no [g]rasor shall come on his head: for the child shall be [h]a Nazarite unto God from the womb: and he shall [i]begin to deliver Israel out of the hand of the Philistines. Then the woman came and told her husband, saying, [j]A man of God came unto me, and his [k]countenance was like the countenance of an angel of God, very terrible: but I [l]asked him not [l]whence he was, neither told he me [m]his name: but he said unto me, [n]Behold, thou shalt conceive, and bear a son; and now drink no wine nor strong drink, neither eat any unclean thing: for the child shall be a Nazarite to God from the womb to the day of his death.

Then Manoah intreated the LORD, and said, O my Lord, let the man of God which thou didst send come again unto us, and teach us what we shall do unto the child that shall be born. And God hearkened to the voice of Manoah; and the angel of God came again unto the woman as she sat in the field: but Manoah her husband was not with her. And the woman made haste, and ran, and shewed her husband, and said unto him, Behold, the man hath appeared unto me, that came unto me the other day. And Manoah arose, and went after his wife, and came to the man, and said unto him, Art thou the man that spakest unto the woman? And he said, I am. And Manoah said, Now let thy words come to pass. [†]How shall we order the child, and [‖]how shall we do unto him? And the angel of the LORD said unto Manoah, Of all that I said unto the woman let her beware. She may not eat of any thing that cometh of the vine, [o]neither let her drink wine or strong drink, nor eat any unclean thing: all that I commanded her let her observe. And Manoah said unto the angel of the LORD, I pray thee, [p]let us detain thee, until we shall have made ready a kid [†]for thee. And the angel of the LORD said unto Manoah, Though thou detain me, I will not eat of thy bread: and if thou wilt offer a burnt offering, thou must offer it unto the LORD. For Manoah knew not that he was an angel of the LORD. And Manoah said unto the angel of the LORD, [q]What is thy name, that when thy sayings come to pass we may do thee honour? And the angel of the LORD said unto him, [r]Why askest thou thus after my name, seeing it is [‖]secret? So Manoah [s]took a kid with [t]a meat offering, and offered it upon a rock unto the LORD: and the angel did wondrously; and Manoah and his wife looked on. For it came to pass, [u]when the flame went up toward heaven from off the altar, that the angel of the LORD ascended in the flame of the altar. And Manoah and his wife looked on it, and [w]fell on their faces to the ground. But the angel of the LORD did no more appear to Manoah and to his wife. [x]Then Manoah knew that he was an angel of the LORD. And Manoah said unto his wife, [y]We shall surely die, because we have seen God. But his wife said unto him, If the LORD were pleased to kill us, he would not have received [z]a burnt offering and a meat offering at our hands, neither would he have shewed us all these things, nor would as at this time have told us such things as these.

And the woman bare a son, and called his name [a]Samson: and [b]the child grew, and the LORD blessed him. [c]And the spirit of the LORD began to [d]move him at times in [†]the camp of Dan, [e]between Zorah and Eshtaol.

XIV. About B. C. 1141.

And Samson went down [a]to Timnath, and saw a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines. And he came up, and told his father and his mother, and said, I have seen a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines: now therefore [b]get her for me to wife. Then his father and his mother said unto him, Is there never a woman among the daughters of [c]thy brethren, or among all my people, that thou goest to take a wife of the [d]uncircumcised Philistines? And Samson said unto his father, Get her for me;

for [t]she pleaseth me well. But his father and his mother knew not that it was [e]of the LORD, that he sought an occasion against the Philistines: for at that time [f]the Philistines had dominion over Israel. Then went Samson down, and his father and his mother, to Timnath, and came to the vineyards of Timnath: and behold, [g]a young lion roared [t]against him. And [h]the spirit of the LORD came mightily upon him, and he rent him as he would have rent a kid, and he had nothing in his hand: but he told not his father or his mother what he had done. And he went down and talked with the woman; and she pleased Samson well.

And after a time he returned to take her, and he turned aside to see the carcase of the lion: and behold, there was a swarm of bees and honey in the carcase of the lion. And he took thereof in his hands, and went on eating, and came to his father and mother, and he gave them, and they did eat: but he told not them that he had taken the honey out of the carcase of the lion. So his father went down unto the woman: and Samson made there a feast; for so used the young men to do. And it came to pass, when they saw him, that they brought thirty companions to be with him. And Samson said unto them, I will now [i]put forth a riddle unto you: if you can certainly declare it me within [k]the seven days of the feast, and find it out, then I will give you thirty [‖]sheets and thirty [l]change of garments: but if ye cannot declare it me, then shall ye give me thirty [‖]sheets and thirty [l]change of garments. And they said unto him, Put forth thy riddle, that we may hear it. And he said unto them,

Out of the eater came forth meat,
And out of the strong came forth sweetness.

And they could not in three days expound the riddle. And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they said unto Samson's wife, [m]Entice thy husband, that he may declare unto us the riddle, [n]lest we burn thee and thy father's house with fire: have ye called us [†]to take that we have? is it not so? And Samson's wife wept before him, and said, [o]Thou dost but hate me, and lovest me not: thou hast put forth a riddle unto the children of my people, and hast not told it me. And he said unto her, Behold, I have not told it my father nor my mother, and shall I tell it thee? And she wept before him [‖]the seven days, while their feast lasted: and it came to pass on the seventh day, that he told her, because [p]she lay sore upon him: and she told the riddle to the children of her people. And the men of the city said unto him on the seventh day before the sun went down,

What is sweeter than honey?
And what is stronger than a lion?

And he said unto them,

If ye had not plowed with my heifer,
Ye had not found out my riddle.

And [q]the spirit of the LORD came upon him, and he went down to [r]Ashkelon, and slew thirty men of them, and took their [‖]spoil, and gave [l]change of garments unto them which expounded the riddle. And his anger was kindled, and he went up to his father's house. But Samson's wife [s]was given to his companion, whom he had [t]used as his friend.

But it came to pass within a while after, in the time of wheat harvest, that Samson visited his wife with [a]a kid; and he said, I will go in to my wife into the chamber. But her father would not suffer him to go in. And her father said, I verily thought that thou hadst utterly hated her; therefore I gave her to thy companion: is not her younger sister fairer than she? [†]take her, I pray thee, instead of her. And Samson said concerning them, [‖]Now shall I be more blameless than the Philistines, though I do them a displeasure. And Samson went and caught three hundred foxes, and took [‖]firebrands, and turned tail to tail, and put a firebrand in the midst between two tails. And when he had set the brands on fire, he let them go into the standing corn of the Philistines, and burnt up both [b]the shocks, and also [b]the standing corn, with the vineyards and olives. Then the Philistines said, Who hath done this? And they answered, Samson, the son in law of the Timnite, because he had taken his wife, and given her to his companion. And the Philistines came up, and [c]burnt her and her father with fire. And Samson said unto them, Though ye have done this, yet will I be avenged of you, and after that I will cease. And he smote them hip and thigh with a great slaughter: and he went down and dwelt in [d]the top of the rock [e]Etam.

Then the Philistines went up, and pitched in Judah, and [f]spread themselves in [g]Lehi. And the men of Judah said, Why are ye come up against us? And they answered, To bind Samson are we come up, to do to him as he hath done to us. Then three thousand men of Judah [t]went to [d]the top of the rock Etam, and said to Samson, Knowest thou not that the Philistines are [h]rulers over us? what is this that thou hast done unto us? And he said unto them, As they did unto me, so have I done unto them. And they said unto him, We are come down to bind thee, that we may deliver thee into the hand of the Philistines. And Samson said unto them, Swear unto me, that ye will not fall upon me yourselves. And they spake unto him, saying, No; but we will bind thee fast, and deliver thee into their hand: but surely we will not kill thee. And they bound him with two [i]new cords, and brought him up from the rock. And when he came unto Lehi, the Philistines shouted against him: and [j]the spirit of the LORD came mightily upon him, and [i]the cords that were upon his arms became as flax that was burnt with fire, and his bands [t]loosed from off his hands. And he found a [t]new jawbone of an ass, and put forth his hand, and took it, and [k]slew a thousand men therewith. And Samson said,

With the jawbone of an ass, [t]heaps upon heaps,
With the jaw of an ass have I slain a thousand men.

And it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking, that he cast away the jawbone out of his hand, and called that place [l]Ramath-lehi.

And he was sore athirst, and called on the LORD, and said, Thou hast given this great deliverance into the hand of thy servant: and now shall I die for thirst, and fall into the hand of the uncircumcised? But God clave [l]a hollow place that was in [l]the jaw, and there came water thereout; and when he had drunk, [m]his spirit came again, and he revived: wherefore he called the name thereof [l]En-hakkore, which is in Lehi unto this day. [l]And he judged Israel [n]in the days of the Philistines twenty years.

Then went Samson to [a]Gaza, and saw there [t]a harlot, and went in unto her. And it was told the Gazites, saying, Samson is come hither. And they [b]compassed him in, and laid wait for him all night in the gate of the city, and were [t]quiet all the night, saying, In the morning, when it is day, we shall kill him. And Samson lay till midnight, and arose at midnight, and took the doors of the gate of the city, and the two posts, and went away with them, [t]bar and all, and put them upon his shoulders, and carried them up to the top of a hill that is before Hebron.

And it came to pass afterward, that he loved a woman [l]in the valley of [c]Sorek, whose name was Delilah. And [d]the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and said unto her, [e]Entice him, and see wherein his great strength lieth, and by what means we may prevail against him, that we may bind him to [l]afflict him: and we will give thee every one of us eleven hundred pieces of silver. And Delilah said to Samson, Tell me, I pray thee, wherein thy great strength lieth, and wherewith thou mightest be bound to afflict thee. And Samson said unto her, If they bind me with seven [l]green withs that were never dried, then shall I be weak, and be as [t]another man. Then the lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven [l]green withs which had not been dried, and she bound him with them. Now there were men lying in wait, abiding with her in the chamber. And she said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he brake the withs, as a thread of tow is broken when it [t]toucheth the fire. So his strength was not known. And Delilah said unto Samson, Behold, thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: now tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mightest be bound. And he said unto her, If they bind me fast with [f]new ropes [t]that never were occupied, [g]then shall I be weak, and be as another man. Delilah therefore took [f]new ropes, and bound him therewith, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And there were liers in wait abiding in the chamber. And he brake them from off his arms like a thread. And Delilah said unto Samson, Hitherto thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: tell me wherewith thou mightest be bound. And he said unto her, If thou weavest the seven locks of my head with the web. And [h]she fastened it with the pin, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awaked out of his sleep, and went away with the pin of the beam, and with the web.

15 And she said unto him, [i]How canst thou say, I love thee, when thine heart is not with me? thou hast mocked me these three times, and hast not told me wherein thy great strength lieth.
16 And it came to pass, when she [k]pressed him daily with her words, and urged him, so that his soul was [†]vexed unto death;
17 that he told her all his heart, and said unto her, [l]There hath not come a rasor upon mine head; for I have been a Nazarite unto God from my mother's womb: if I be shaven, then my strength will go from me, and I shall become weak, and be like any other man.
18 And when Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart, she sent and called for the lords of the Philistines, saying, Come up this once, for he hath shewed me all his heart. Then the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and brought [m]money in their hand.
19 And she made him sleep upon her knees; and she called for a man, and she caused him to shave off the seven locks of his head; and she began to [n]afflict him, and his strength went from him.
20 And she said, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awoke out of his sleep, and said, I will go out as at other times before, and [o]shake myself. And he wist not that 21 [p]the LORD was departed from him. But the Philistines took him, and [†]put out his eyes, and brought him down to Gaza, and [q]bound him with fetters of brass; and [r]he did grind in the prison house.
22 Howbeit the hair of his head began to grow again [‖]after he was shaven.

23 Then the lords of the Philistines gathered them together for to offer a great sacrifice unto [s]Dagon their god, and to rejoice: for they said, Our god hath delivered Samson our enemy into our hand.
24 And when the people saw him, they [t]praised their god: for they said, Our god hath delivered into our hands our enemy, and the destroyer of our country, [†]which slew many of us.
25 And it came to pass, when their hearts were [u]merry, that they said, Call for Samson, that he may make us sport. And they called for Samson out of the prison house; and he made [†]them sport: and they set him between the pillars.
26 And Samson said unto the lad that held him by the hand, Suffer me that I may feel the pillars whereupon the house standeth, that I may lean upon them.
27 Now the house was full of men and women; and all the lords of the Philistines were there; and there were upon the roof about three thousand men and women, that beheld while Samson made sport.
28 And Samson called unto the LORD, and said, O Lord GOD, [w]remember me, I pray thee, and strengthen me, I pray thee, only this once, O God, that I may be at once avenged of the Philistines for 29 my two eyes. And Samson [x]took hold of the two middle pillars upon which the house stood, and [‖]on which it was borne up, of the one with his right hand, and 30 of the other with his left. And Samson said, Let [†]me die with the Philistines. And he bowed himself with all his might; and the house fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein. So the dead which he slew at his death were moe than they which he slew in 31 his life. Then his brethren and all the house of his father came down, and took him, and brought him up, and buried him [y]between Zorah and Eshtaol in the buryingplace of Manoah his father. And [z]he judged Israel twenty years.

[1] Beth-lehem-judah of the family of Judah, who was a Levite, and he sojourned there. And the man departed out of 8 the city from Beth-lehem-judah to sojourn where he could find a place: and he came to [a] mount Ephraim to the house of Micah, [†] as he journeyed. And Mi- 9 cah said unto him, Whence comest thou? And he said unto him, I am a Levite of Beth-lehem-judah, and I go to sojourn where I may find a place. And Micah 10 said unto him, Dwell with me, [m] and be unto me a [n] father and a priest, and I will give thee ten shekels of silver by [o] the year, and [‖] a suit of apparel, and thy victuals. So the Levite went in. And the Levite [p] was content to dwell 11 with the man; and the young man was unto him as one of his sons. And Micah 12 [q] consecrated the Levite; and the young man [r] became his priest, and was in the house of Micah. Then said Micah, Now 13 know I that the LORD will do me good, seeing I have a Levite to my priest.

XVIII. In [a] those days there was no king in Israel: and in those days [b] the tribe of the Danites sought them an inheritance to dwell in; for unto that day all their inheritance had not fallen unto them among the tribes of Israel. And the 2 children of Dan sent of their family five men from their coasts, [†] men of valour, from [c] Zorah and from Eshtaol, [d] to spy out the land, and to search it; and they said unto them, Go, search the land: who when they came [e] to mount Ephraim, to the house of Micah, they lodged there. When they were by the house of 3 Micah, they knew the voice of the young man the Levite: and they turned in thither, and said unto him, Who brought thee hither? and what makest thou in this place? and what hast thou here? And 4 he said unto them, Thus and thus dealeth Micah with me, and hath [f] hired me, and I am his priest. And they said 5 unto him, [g] Ask counsel, we pray thee, [h] of God, that we may know whether our way which we go shall be prosperous. And the priest said unto them, [i] Go in 6 peace: before the LORD is your way wherein ye go. Then the five men de- 7 parted, and came to [‖] Laish, and saw the people that were therein, how they dwelt careless, after the manner of the Zidonians, [k] quiet and secure; and there was no [†] magistrate in the land, that might put them to shame in any thing; and they were far from the Zidonians, and 8 had no business with any man. And they came unto their brethren to [l] Zorah and Eshtaol: and their brethren said 9 unto them, What say ye? And they said, [m] Arise, that we may go up against them: for we have seen the land, and behold, it is very good: and are ye [n] still? be not slothful to go, and to enter to 10 possess the land. When ye go, ye shall come unto a people [o] secure, and to a large land: for God hath given it into your hands; [p] a place where there is no want of any thing that is in the earth.

11 And there went from thence of the family of the Danites, out of [l] Zorah and out of Eshtaol, six hundred men 12 [†] appointed with weapons of war. And they went up, and pitched in [q] Kirjath-jearim, in Judah: wherefore they called that place [r] Mahaneh-dan unto this day: behold, it is [s] behind Kirjath-jearim. 13 And they passed thence unto [t] mount Ephraim, and came unto the house of 14 Micah. Then [u] answered the five men that went to spy out the country of Laish, and said unto their brethren, Do ye know that [x] there is in these houses an ephod, and teraphim, and a graven image, and a molten image? now there- 15 fore consider what ye have to do. And they turned thitherward, and came to the house of the young man the Levite, even unto the house of Micah, and [†] saluted him. 16 And the [y] six hundred men appointed with their weapons of war, which were of the children of Dan, stood 17 by the entering of the gate. And [z] the five men that went to spy out the land went up, and came in thither, and took [a] the graven image, and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image: and the priest stood in the entering of the gate with the six hundred men that were appointed with weapons of war. 18 And these went into Micah's house, and fetched the carved image, the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image. Then said the priest unto them, What 19 do ye? And they said unto him, Hold thy peace, [b] lay thine hand upon thy mouth, and go with us, [c] and be to us a father and a priest: is it better for thee to be a priest unto the house of one man, or that thou be a priest unto a 20 tribe and a family in Israel? And the priest's [d] heart was glad, and he took the ephod, and the teraphim, and the graven image, and went in the midst of the peo- 21 ple. So they turned and departed, and

22 And when they were a good way from the house of Micah, the men that were in the houses near to Micah's house were gathered together, and overtook the children of Dan. 23 And they cried unto the children of Dan. And they turned their faces, and said unto Micah, What aileth thee, [†] that thou comest with such a company? 24 And he said, [f] Ye have taken away my gods which I made, and the priest, and ye are gone away: and what have I more? and what is this that ye say unto me, What aileth thee? 25 And the children of Dan said unto him, Let not thy voice be heard among us, lest [†] angry fellows run upon thee, and thou lose thy life, with the lives of thy household. 26 And the children of Dan went their way: and when Micah saw that they were too strong for him, he turned and went back unto his house. 27 And they took the things which Micah had made, and the priest which he had, and came unto Laish, unto a people that were [g] at quiet and secure: [h] and they smote them with the edge of the sword, and burnt the city with fire. 28 And there was no deliverer, because it was [i] far from Zidon, and they had no business with any man; and it was in the valley that lieth by [k] Beth-rehob. And they built a city, and dwelt therein, and 29 they called the name of the city [l] Dan, after the name of Dan their father, [m] who was born unto Israel: howbeit the name of the city was [n] Laish at the first. 30 And the children of Dan set up the graven image: and Jonathan, the son of [o] Gershom, the son of Manasseh, he and his sons were priests to the tribe of Dan until the day [p] of the captivity of the land. 31 And they set them up Micah's graven image, which he made, all the time that [q] the house of God was in Shiloh.

1 And it came to pass in those days, [a] when there was no king in Israel, that there was a certain Levite sojourning on the side of [b] mount Ephraim, who took to him [†] a concubine out of [c] Beth-lehem-judah. 2 And his concubine played the whore against him, and went away from him unto her father's house to Beth-lehem judah, and was there [‖] four whole months. 3 And her husband arose, and went after her, to speak [†] friendly unto her, and to bring her again, having his servant with him, and a couple of asses: and she brought him into her father's house: and when the father of the damsel saw him, he rejoiced to meet him. 4 And his father in law, the damsel's father, retained him; and he abode with him three days: so they did eat and 5 drink, and lodged there. And it came to pass on the fourth day, when they arose early in the morning, that he rose up to depart: and the damsel's father said unto his son in law, [†] Comfort thine heart with a morsel of bread, and after- 6 ward go your way. And they sat down, and did eat and drink both of them together: for the damsel's father had said unto the man, Be content, I pray thee, and tarry all night, and let thine [d] heart 7 be merry. And when the man rose up to depart, his father in law [e] urged him: 8 therefore he lodged there again. And he arose early in the morning on the fifth day to depart: and the damsel's father said, Comfort thine heart, I pray thee. And they [f] tarried [†] until afternoon, 9 and they did eat both of them. And when the man rose up to depart, he, and his concubine, and his servant, his father in law, the damsel's father, said unto him, Behold now, the day [†] draweth towards evening, I pray you tarry all night: behold, [†] the day groweth to an end, lodge here, that thine heart may be merry; and to morrow get you early on your way, that thou mayest go [†] home. 10 But the man would not tarry that night, but he rose up and departed, and came [†] over against [g] Jebus, which is Jerusalem; and there were with him two asses saddled, his concubine also was with 11 him. And when they were by Jebus, the day was far spent; and the servant said unto his master, Come, I pray thee, and let us turn in into this city of the 12 Jebusites, and lodge in it. And his master said unto him, We will not turn aside hither into the city of a stranger, that is not of the children of Israel; we 13 will pass over to [h] Gibeah. And he said unto his servant, Come, and let us draw near to one of these places to lodge all 14 night, in Gibeah, or in [i] Ramah. And they passed on and went their way; and the sun went down upon them when they were by Gibeah, which belongeth to 15 Benjamin. And they turned aside thither, to go in and to lodge in Gibeah: and when he went in, he sat him down in a street of the city: for there was no man that took [h]them into his house to lodging.

16 And behold, there came an old man from his work out of the field at even, which was also of [i]mount Ephraim; and he sojourned in Gibeah: but the men of the place were [j]Benjamites. 17 And when he had lift up his eyes, he saw a wayfaring man in the street of the city: and the old man said, Whither goest thou? and whence comest thou? 18 And he said unto him, We are passing from Beth-lehem-judah toward the side of mount Ephraim; from thence am I: and I went to Beth-lehem-judah, but I am now going to [k]the house of the LORD; and there is no man that [l]receiveth me to house. 19 Yet [m]there is both straw and provender for our asses; and there is bread and wine also for me, and for thy handmaid, and for the young man which is with thy servants: there is [n]no want of any thing. 20 And the old man said, [n]Peace be with thee; howsoever let all thy wants lie upon me; only [o]lodge not in the street. 21 So he brought him into his house, and gave provender unto the asses: and [p]they washed their feet, and did eat and drink. 22 Now as they were making their hearts merry, behold, the men of the city, certain [q]sons of Belial, beset the house round about, and beat at the door, and spake to the master of the house, the old man, saying, [r]Bring forth the man that came into thine house, that we may know him. 23 And the man, the master of the house, went out unto them, and said unto them, [s]Nay, my brethren, nay, I pray you, do not so wickedly; seeing that this man is come into mine house, [t]do not this folly. 24 [u]Behold, here is my daughter a maiden, and his concubine; them I will bring out now, and [w]humble ye them, and do with them [x]what seemeth good unto you: but unto this man do not [t]so vile a thing. 25 But the men would not hearken to him: so the man took his concubine, and brought her forth unto them; and they knew her, and [y]abused her all the night until the morning: and when the day began to spring, they let her go. 26 Then came the woman [z]in the dawning of the day, and fell down at the door of the man's house where her lord was, till it was light. 27 And her lord rose up in the morning, and opened the doors of the house, and went out to go his way: and behold, the woman his concubine was fallen down at the door of the house, and her hands were upon 28 the [a]threshold. And he said unto her, Up, and let us be going. But [b]none answered. Then the man took her up upon an ass, and the man rose up, and gat him unto his place.

29 And when he was come into his house, he took a knife, and laid hold on his concubine, and [c]divided her, together with her bones, into twelve pieces, and sent her into all the coasts of Israel. 30 And it was so, that all that saw it said, There was no such deed done nor seen from the day that the children of Israel came up out of the land of Egypt unto this day: consider of it, [d]take advice, and speak your minds.

XX. Then [a]all the children of Israel went out, and the congregation was gathered together as one man, from [b]Dan even to Beer-sheba, with the land of Gilead, unto 2 the LORD in [c]Mizpeh. And the [d]chief of all the people, even of all the tribes of Israel, presented themselves in the assembly of the people of God, four hundred thousand footmen [e]that drew sword. 3 (Now the children of Benjamin heard that the children of Israel were gone up to Mizpeh.) Then said the children of Israel, Tell us, how was this wickedness? 4 And [f]the Levite, the husband of the woman that was slain, answered and said, [f]I came into Gibeah that belongeth to Benjamin, I and my concubine, to lodge. 5 [g]And [h]the men of Gibeah rose against me, and beset the house round about upon me by night, and thought to have slain me: and my concubine have 6 they [t]forced, that she is dead. And [i]I took my concubine, and cut her in pieces, and sent her throughout all the country of the inheritance of Israel: for they have committed lewdness and [j]folly 7 in Israel. Behold, ye are all children of Israel; [k]give here your advice and counsel. 8 And all the people arose as one man, saying, We will not any of us go to his tent, neither will we any of us turn 9 into his house. But now this shall be the thing which we will do to Gibeah; 10 we will go up by [l]lot against it; and we will take ten men of an hundred throughout all the tribes of Israel, and an hundred of a thousand, and a thousand out of ten thousand, to fetch victual for the people, that they may do, when they come to Gibeah of Benjamin, according

And the children of Israel arose, and 18 [s]went up to the house of God, and [t]asked counsel of God, and said, Which of us shall go up first to the battle against the children of Benjamin? And the LORD said, [u]Judah shall go up first. And the 19 children of Israel rose up in the morning, and encamped against Gibeah. And 20 the men of Israel went out to battle against Benjamin; and the men of Israel put themselves in array to fight against them at Gibeah. And the children of 21 Benjamin came forth out of Gibeah, and destroyed down to the ground of the Israelites that day twenty and two thousand men. And the people the men of 22 Israel encouraged themselves, and set their battle again in array in the place where they put themselves in array the first day. (And the children of Israel 23 [v]went up and wept before the LORD until even, and asked counsel of the LORD, saying, Shall I go up again to battle against the children of Benjamin my brother? And the LORD said, Go up against him.) And the children of Is- 24 rael came near against the children of Benjamin the second day. And Benja- 25 min went forth against them out of Gibeah the second day, and destroyed down to the ground of the children of Israel again eighteen thousand men; all 26 these [e]drew the sword. Then all the children of Israel, and all the people, [w]went up, and came unto the house of God, and wept, and sat there before the LORD, and fasted that day until even, and offered burnt offerings and peace 27 offerings before the LORD. And the children of Israel inquired of the LORD, (for [x]the ark of the covenant of God 28 was there in those days, and [y]Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron, [z]stood before it in those days,) saying, Shall I yet again go out to battle against the children of Benjamin my brother, or shall I cease? And the LORD said, Go up; for to morrow I will deliver them 29 into thine hand. And Israel [a]set liers 30 in wait round about Gibeah. And the children of Israel went up against the children of Benjamin on the third day, and put themselves in array against Gi- 31 beah, as at other times. And the children of Benjamin went out against the people, and were drawn away from the city; and they began [t]to smite of the people, and kill, as at other times, in the highways, of which one goeth up to [‖]the house of God, and the other to Gibeah in the field, about thirty men of 32 Israel. And the children of Benjamin said, They are smitten down before us, [b]as at the first. But the children of Israel said, Let us flee, and draw them 33 from the city unto the highways. And all the men of Israel rose up out of their place, and put themselves in array at Baal-tamar: and the liers in wait of Israel came forth out of their places, even out of the meadows of Gibeah. 34 And there came against Gibeah ten thousand chosen men out of all Israel, and the battle was sore: [c]but they knew 35 not that evil was near them. And the LORD smote Benjamin before Israel: and the children of Israel destroyed of the Benjamites that day twenty and five thousand and an hundred men: all these drew the sword.

with the edge of the sword. Now there 38 was an appointed [l]sign between the men of Israel [t]and the liers in wait,
that they should make a great [t]flame
with smoke rise up out of the city.
[f]And when the men of Israel retired in 39
the battle, Benjamin began [t]to smite and kill of the men of Israel about thirty persons: for they said, Surely they are smitten down before us, as in the first battle. But when the [g]flame 40 began to arise up out of the city with a pillar of smoke, the Benjamites [h]looked behind them, and behold, [t]the flame of the city ascended up to heaven. And 41
when the men of Israel turned again, the men of Benjamin were amazed: for they saw that evil [t]was come upon them.
Therefore they turned their backs before 42
the men of Israel unto [i]the way of the wilderness; but the battle overtook them;
and them which came out of the cities
they destroyed in the midst of them.
Thus they [k]inclosed the Benjamites 43
round about, and chased them, and trode them down [l]with ease [t]over against Gibeah toward the sunrising. And there 44
fell of Benjamin eighteen thousand men;
all these were men of valour. And they 45 turned and fled toward [i]the wilderness unto the rock of [l]Rimmon: and they [m]gleaned of them in the highways five thousand men; and pursued hard after them unto Gidom, and slew two thousand men of them. So that all which 46 fell that day of Benjamin were [n]twenty and five thousand men that drew the sword; all these were men of valour.
[o]But six hundred men turned and fled 47
to [i]the wilderness unto the rock Rim-mon, and abode in the rock Rimmon four months. And the men of Israel 48 turned again upon the children of Benjamin, and smote them with the edge of the sword, as well the men of every city,
as the beast, and all that [t]came to hand:
also they set on fire all the cities that [t]they came to.

XXI. Now the men of Israel had sworn in [a]Mizpeh, saying, There shall not any of us give his daughter unto Benjamin to wife. And the people came [b]to the 2 house of God, and abode there till even before God, and lift up their voices, and wept sore; and said, O LORD God 3
of Israel, why is this come to pass in Israel, that there should be to day one tribe lacking in Israel? And it came to 4 pass on the morrow, that the people rose early, and [c]built there an altar, and offered burnt offerings and peace offer-5 ings. And the children of Israel said, Who is there among all the tribes of Israel that came not up with the congregation unto the LORD? For they had made a great oath concerning him [d]that came not up to the LORD to Mizpeh, saying, He shall surely be put to death.
6 And the children of Israel repented them
for Benjamin their brother, and said,
There is one tribe cut off from Israel 7 this day. How shall we do for wives for them that remain, seeing we have sworn by the LORD that we will not give them of our daughters to wives? And they 8 said, What one is there of the tribes of Israel that came not up to Mizpeh to the LORD? And behold, there came none to the camp from [e]Jabesh-gilead 9 to the assembly. For the people were numbered, and behold, there were none of the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead there.
10 And the congregation sent thither twelve thousand men of the valiantest, and commanded them, saying, [f]Go and smite
the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead with the edge of the sword, with the women and 11 the children. And this is the thing that ye shall do, [g]Ye shall utterly destroy every male, and every woman that [t]hath 12 lien by man. And they found among the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead four hundred [t]young virgins, that had known no man by lying with any male: and they brought them unto the camp to [h]Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan.
13 And the whole congregation sent some
[t]to speak to the children of Benjamin
[i]that were in the rock Rimmon, and to 14 [l]call peaceably unto them. And Benjamin came again at that time; and they gave them wives which they had saved alive of the women of Jabeshgilead: and yet so they [j]sufficed them 15 not. And the people [k]repented them for Benjamin, because that the LORD had made a breach in the tribes of Israel.

16 Then the elders of the congregation said, [l]How shall we do for wives for them that remain, seeing the women are 17 destroyed out of Benjamin? And they said, There must be an inheritance for them that be escaped of Benjamin, that a tribe be not destroyed out of Israel.
18 Howbeit we may not give them wives of our daughters: [m]for the children of Israel have sworn, saying, Cursed be he

And the children of Benjamin did so, and took them wives, according to their number, of them that danced, whom they caught: and they went and returned unto their inheritance, and [r]repaired the cities, and dwelt in them. THE BOOK OF RUTH.

I. About B.C. 1322, or later. Comp. ch. 1. 1, 2.

NOW it came to pass in the days when [a]the judges [†]ruled, that there was [b]a famine in the land. And a certain man of [c]Beth-lehem-judah went to sojourn in the country of Moab, he, and his wife, and his two sons. And the name of the man was Elimelech, and the name of his wife Naomi, and the name of his two sons Mahlon and Chilion, [d]Ephrathites of Beth-lehem-judah. And they came [e]into the country of Moab, and [†]continued there. And Elimelech Naomi's husband died; and she was left, and her two sons. And they took them wives of the women of Moab; the name of the one was Orpah, and the name of the other Ruth: and they dwelled there about ten years. And Mahlon and Chilion died also both of them; and the woman was left of her two sons and her husband.

Then she arose with her daughters in law, that she might return from the country of Moab: for she had heard in the country of Moab how that the LORD had [f]visited his people in [g]giving them bread. Wherefore she went forth out of the place where she was, and her two daughters in law with her; and they went on the way to return unto the land of Judah. And Naomi said unto her two daughters in law, Go, return each to her mother's house: the LORD [h]deal kindly with you, as ye have dealt with [i]the dead, and with me. The LORD grant you that you may find [k]rest, each of you in the house of her husband. Then she kissed them; and they lift up their voice, and wept. And they said unto her, Surely we will return with thee unto thy people. And Naomi said, Turn again, my daughters: why will you go with me? are there yet any moe sons in my womb, [l]that they may be your husbands? Turn again, my daughters, go your way; for I am too old to have a husband. If I should say, I have hope, [l]if I should have a husband also to night, and should also bear sons; would ye [†]tarry for them till they were grown? would ye stay for them from having husbands? nay, my daughters; for [†]it grieveth me much for your sakes that [m]the hand of the LORD is gone out against me. And they lift up their voice, and wept again: and Orpah kissed her mother in law; but Ruth clave unto her. And she said, Behold, thy sister in law is gone back unto her people, and unto her gods: [n]return thou after thy sister in law. And Ruth said, [l]Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge: [o]thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God: where thou diest, will I die, and there will I be buried: [p]the LORD do so to me, and more also, if ought but death part thee and me. [q]When she saw that she [†]was stedfastly minded to go with her, then she left speaking unto her.

So they two went until they came to Beth-lehem. And it came to pass, when they were come to Beth-lehem, that [r]all the city was moved about them, and they said, Is this Naomi? And she said unto them, Call me not [l]Naomi, call me [l]Mara: for [s]the Almighty hath dealt very bitterly with me. I went out full, [t]and the LORD hath brought me home again empty: why then call ye me Naomi, seeing the LORD hath testified against me, and the Almighty hath afflicted me? So Naomi returned, and Ruth the Moabitess, her daughter in law, with

II.

And Naomi had a [a] kinsman of her husband's, a mighty man of wealth, of the family of Elimelech; and his name was [b‖] Boaz. And Ruth the Moabitess said unto Naomi, Let me now go to the field, and [c] glean ears of corn after him in whose sight I shall find grace. And she said unto her, Go, my daughter. And she went, and came, and gleaned in the field after the reapers: and her [†] hap was to light on a part of the field belonging unto Boaz, who was of the kindred of Elimelech. And behold, Boaz came from Beth-lehem, and said unto the reapers, [d] The LORD be with you. And they answered him, The LORD bless thee. Then said Boaz unto his servant that was set over the reapers, Whose damsel is this? And the servant that was set over the reapers answered and said, It is the Moabitish damsel [e] that came back with Naomi out of the country of Moab: and she said, I pray you, let me glean and gather after the reapers amongst the sheaves: so she came, and hath continued even from the morning until now, that she tarried a little in the house.

Then said Boaz unto Ruth, Hearest thou not, my daughter? Go not to glean in another field, neither go from hence, but abide here fast by my maidens: let thine eyes be on the field that they do reap, and go thou after them: have I not charged the young men that they shall not touch thee? and when thou art athirst, go unto the vessels, and drink of that which the young men have drawn. Then she [f] fell on her face, and bowed herself to the ground, and said unto him, Why have I found grace in thine eyes, that thou shouldest take knowledge of me, seeing I am a stranger? And Boaz answered and said unto her, It hath fully been shewed me, [g] all that thou hast done unto thy mother in law since the death of thine husband: and how thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and the land of thy nativity, and art come unto a people which thou knewest not heretofore. [h] The LORD recompense thy work, and a full reward be given thee of the LORD God of Israel, [i] under whose wings thou art come to trust. Then she said, ‖ [k] Let me find favour in thy sight, my lord; for that thou hast comforted me, and for that thou hast spoken [†] friendly unto thine handmaid, [l] though I be not like unto one of thy handmaidens. And Boaz said unto her, At mealtime come thou hither, and eat of the bread, and dip thy morsel in [m] the vinegar. And she sat beside the reapers: and he reached her parched corn, and she did eat, and [n] was sufficed, and left. And when she was risen up to glean, Boaz commanded his young men, saying, Let her glean even among the sheaves, and [†] reproach her not: and let fall also some of the handfuls of purpose for her, and leave them, that she may glean them, and rebuke her not. So she gleaned in the field until even, and beat out that she had gleaned: and it was about an [o] ephah of barley. And she took it up, and went into the city: and her mother in law saw what she had gleaned: and she brought forth, and gave to her [p] that she had reserved after she was sufficed. And her mother in law said unto her, Where hast thou gleaned to day? and where wroughtest thou? blessed be he that did [q] take knowledge of thee. And she shewed her mother in law with whom she had wrought, and said, The man's name with whom I wrought to day is Boaz. And Naomi said unto her daughter in law, [r] Blessed be he of the LORD, who hath not left off his kindness [s] to the living and to the dead. And Naomi said unto her, The man is near of kin unto us, ‖ [t] one of our next kinsmen. And Ruth the Moabitess said, He said unto me also, Thou shalt keep fast by [t] my young men, until they have ended all my harvest. And Naomi said unto Ruth her daughter in law, It is good, my daughter, that thou go out with [t] his maidens, that they ‖ meet thee not in any other field. So she kept fast by the maidens of Boaz to glean unto the end of barley harvest and of wheat harvest; and dwelt with her mother in law.

About B. C 1171.

NOW there was a certain man of Ramathaim-zophim, of [a] mount Ephraim, and his name was [b] Elkanah, the son of Jeroham, the son of Elihu, the son of Tohu, the son of Zuph, [c] an Ephrathite: and he had two wives; the name of the one was Hannah, and the name of the other Peninnah: and Peninnah had children, but [d] Hannah had no children. And this man went up out of his city [e †] yearly [f] to worship and to sacrifice unto the LORD of hosts in [g] Shiloh. And the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, the priests of the LORD, were there. And when the [†] time was that Elkanah offered, [h] he gave to Peninnah his wife, and to all her sons and her daughters, portions: but unto Hannah he gave [‖] a worthy portion; for he loved Hannah: but the LORD had shut up her womb. And her adversary also [†] provoked her sore, [i] for to make her fret, because the LORD had shut up her womb. And as he did so year by year, [†] when she went up to the house of the LORD, so she provoked her; therefore she wept, and did not eat. Then said Elkanah her husband to her, Hannah, why weepest thou? and why eatest thou not? and why is thy heart grieved? am not I [j] better to thee than ten sons?

So Hannah rose up after they had eaten in [g] Shiloh, and after they had drunk. Now Eli the priest sat upon a seat by a post of [k] the temple of the LORD. And she was [l †] in bitterness of soul, and prayed unto the LORD, and wept sore. And she [m] vowed a vow, and said, O LORD of hosts, if thou wilt indeed [n] look on the affliction of thine handmaid, and [o] remember me, and not forget thine handmaid, but wilt give unto thine handmaid [†] a man child, then I will give him unto the LORD all the days of his life, and [p] there shall no razor come upon his head. And it came to pass, as she [†] continued praying before the LORD, that Eli marked her mouth. Now Hannah, she spake in her heart; only her lips moved, but her voice was not heard: therefore Eli thought she had been drunken. And Eli said unto her, How long wilt thou be drunken? put away thy wine from thee. And Hannah answered and said, No, my lord, I am a woman [†] of a sorrowful spirit: I have drunk neither wine nor strong drink, but have [q] poured out my soul before the LORD. Count not thine handmaid for a daughter of [r] Belial: for out of the abundance of my [‖] complaint and grief have I spoken hitherto. Then Eli answered and said, [s] Go in peace: and [t] the God of Israel grant thee thy petition that thou hast asked of him. And she said, [u] Let thine handmaid find grace in thy sight. So the woman [x] went her way, and did eat, and her countenance was no more sad. And they rose up in the morning early, and worshipped before the LORD, and returned, and came to their house to [y] Ramah: and Elkanah knew Hannah his wife; and [z] the LORD remembered her. Wherefore it came to pass, [†] when the time was come about after Hannah had conceived, that she bare a son, and called his name [‖] Samuel, [a] saying, Because I have asked him of the LORD.

And the man Elkanah, and all his house, [b] went up to offer unto the LORD the yearly sacrifice, and his vow. But Hannah went not up; for she said unto her husband, I will not go up until the child be weaned, and then I will bring him, that he may appear before the LORD, and there abide [c]for ever. And [d]Elkanah her husband said unto her, Do what seemeth thee good; tarry until thou have weaned him; [e]only the LORD establish his word. So the woman abode, and gave her son suck until she weaned him. And when she had weaned him, she [f]took him up with her, with three bullocks, and one ephah of flour, and a bottle of wine, and brought him unto the house of the LORD in [g]Shiloh: and the child was young. And they slew a bullock, and brought the child to Eli. And she said, O my lord, [h]as thy soul liveth, my lord, I am the woman that stood by thee here, praying unto the LORD. For this child I prayed; and the LORD [i]hath given me my petition which I asked of him: [k]therefore also I have [l]lent him to the LORD; as long as he liveth [l]he shall be lent to the LORD. And he [l]worshipped the LORD there.

And Hannah prayed, and said,
[a]My heart rejoiceth in the LORD,
[b]Mine horn is exalted in the LORD:
My mouth is enlarged over mine enemies;
Because I [c]rejoice in thy salvation.
[d]There is none holy as the LORD:
For there is [e]none beside thee:
Neither is there any [f]rock like our God.
Talk no more so exceeding proudly;
[g]Let not [t]arrogancy come out of your mouth:
For the LORD is a God of knowledge,
And by him actions are weighed.
[h]The bows of the mighty men are broken,
And they that stumbled are girt with strength.
[i]They that were full have hired out themselves for bread;
And they that were hungry ceased:
So that [k]the barren hath born seven;
And [l]she that hath many children is waxed feeble.
[m]The LORD killeth, and maketh alive:
He bringeth down to the grave, and bringeth up.
The LORD [n]maketh poor, and maketh rich:
[o]He bringeth low, and lifteth up.
[p]He raiseth up the poor out of the dust,
And lifteth up the beggar from the dunghill,
[q]To set them among princes,
And to make them inherit the throne of glory:
For [r]the pillars of the earth are the LORD'S,
And he hath set the world upon them.
[s]He will keep the feet of his saints,
And the wicked shall be silent in darkness;
For by strength shall no man prevail.
The adversaries of the LORD shall be [t]broken to pieces;
[u]Out of heaven shall he thunder upon them:
[w]The LORD shall judge the ends of the earth;
And he shall give strength unto his king,
And [x]exalt the horn of his anointed.
And Elkanah went to [y]Ramah to his house. [z]And the child did minister unto the LORD before Eli the priest.
Now the sons of Eli were [a]sons of Belial; [b]they knew not the LORD. And the priests' custom with the people was, that when any man offered sacrifice, the priest's servant came, while the flesh was in seething, with a fleshhook of three teeth in his hand; and he strooke it into the pan, or kettle, or caldron, or pot; [c]all that the fleshhook brought up the priest took for himself. So they did in Shiloh unto all the Israelites that came thither. Also before they [d]burnt the fat, the priest's servant came, and said to the man that sacrificed, Give flesh to roast for the priest; for he will not have sodden flesh of thee, but raw. And if any man said unto him, Let them not fail to burn the fat [t]presently, and then take as much as thy soul desireth; then he would answer him, Nay; but thou shalt give it me now: and if not, I will take it by force. Wherefore the sin of the young men was very great [e]before the LORD: for men [f]abhorred the offering of the LORD.
But [g]Samuel ministered before the LORD, being a child, [h]girded with a linen ephod. Moreover his mother made him a little coat, and brought it to him [i]from year to year, when she came up with her husband to offer the yearly sacrifice. And Eli [k]blessed Elkanah and his wife, and said, The LORD give thee seed of this woman for the [l]loan which is lent to the LORD. And they went unto their own home. And the LORD [l]visited Hannah, so that she conceived, and bare three sons and two daughters. And the child Samuel [m]grew before the LORD. Now Eli was very 22 old, and heard all that his sons [n]did unto all Israel; and how they lay with the women that [t]assembled at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. And he said unto them, Why do ye such 23 things? for [u]I hear of your evil dealings by all this people. Nay, my sons; for 24 it is no good report that I hear: ye make the LORD's people [w]to transgress. If one man sin against another, [o]the 25 judge shall judge him: but if a man sin against the LORD, who shall intreat for him? Notwithstanding they hearkened not unto the voice of their father, [p]because the LORD would slay them. And the child Samuel [q]grew on, and 26 was [r]in favour both with the LORD, and also with men.

[s]And there came a man of God unto 27 Eli, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, [t]Did I plainly appear unto the house of thy father, when they were in Egypt in Pharaoh's house? And did I 28 [u]choose him out of all the tribes of Israel to be my priest, to offer upon mine altar, to burn incense, to [w]wear an ephod before me? and [x]did I give unto the house of thy father all the offerings made by fire of the children of Israel? Wherefore [y]kick ye at my sacrifice and 29 at mine offering, which I have commanded in my [z]habitation; and honourest thy sons above me, to make yourselves fat with the chiefest of all the offerings of Israel my people? Where- 30 fore the LORD God of Israel saith, [a]I said indeed that thy house, and the house of thy father, should walk before me for ever: but now the LORD saith, [b]Be it far from me; for them that honour me [c]I will honour, and [d]they that despise me shall be lightly esteemed. Be- 31 hold, [e]the days come, that I will cut off thine arm, and the arm of thy father's house, that there shall not be an old man in thine house. And thou shalt 32 see ‖an enemy in my habitation, in all the wealth which God shall give Israel: and there shall not be [f]an old man in thine house for ever. And the man of 33 thine, whom I shall not cut off from mine altar, shall be to consume thine eyes, and to grieve thine heart: and all the increase of thine house shall die [†]in the flower of their age. And this shall 34 be [g]a sign unto thee, that shall come upon thy two sons, on Hophni and Phinehas; [h]in one day they shall die 35 both of them. And [i]I will raise me up a faithful priest, that shall do according to that which is in my heart and in my mind: and [k]I will build him a sure house; and he shall walk before [†]mine 36 anointed for ever. And it shall come to pass, that every one that is left in thine house shall come and crouch to him for a piece of silver and [m]a morsel of bread, and shall say, [†]Put me, I pray thee, into ‖one of the priests' offices, that I may eat a piece of bread.

And [a]the child Samuel ministered unto the LORD before Eli. And [b]the word of the LORD was precious in those 2 days; there was no open vision. And it came to pass at that time, when Eli was laid down in his place, [c]and his eyes began to wax dim, that he could 3 not see; and ere [d]the lamp of God went out [e]in the temple of the LORD, where the ark of God was, and Samuel was 4 laid down to sleep; that the LORD called Samuel: and he answered, Here am I. 5 And he ran unto Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou calledst me. And he said, I called not; lie down again. And he 6 went and lay down. And the LORD called yet again, Samuel. And Samuel arose and went to Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me. And he answered, I called not, my son; lie down 7 again. ‖Now Samuel did not yet know the LORD, neither was the word of the 8 LORD yet revealed unto him. And the LORD called Samuel again the third time. And he arose and went to Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me. And Eli perceived that the LORD 9 had called the child. Therefore Eli said unto Samuel, Go, lie down: and it shall be, if he call thee, that thou shalt say, Speak, LORD; for thy servant heareth. So Samuel went and lay down 10 in his place. And the LORD came, and stood, and called as at other times, Samuel, Samuel. Then Samuel answer- 11 ed, Speak; for thy servant heareth. And the LORD said to Samuel, Behold, I will do a thing in Israel, [f]at which both the ears of every one that heareth it shall 12 tingle. In that day I will perform against Eli [g]all things which I have spoken concerning his house: [†]when I 13 begin, I will also make an end. ‖[g]For I have told him that I will [h]judge his

And he arose and went to Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me. And Eli perceived that the LORD had called the child. Therefore Eli said unto Samuel, Go, lie down: and it shall be, if he call thee, that thou shalt say, Speak, LORD; for thy servant heareth. So Samuel went and lay down in his place. And the LORD came, and stood, and called as at other times, Samuel, Samuel. Then Samuel answered, Speak; for thy servant heareth. And before the word of the LORD was revealed unto him.*

house for ever for the iniquity which he knoweth; because [i]his sons made themselves ‖vile, and he [†k]restrained them not. And therefore I have sworn unto 14 the house of Eli, that [l]the iniquity of Eli's house shall not be purged with sacrifice nor offering for ever. And 15 Samuel lay until the morning, and opened the doors of the house of the LORD. And Samuel feared to shew Eli the vision. Then Eli called Samuel, and 16 said, Samuel, my son. And he answered, Here am I. And he said, What is 17 the thing that the LORD hath said unto thee? I pray thee hide it not from me: God do so to thee, and [†]more also, if thou hide any ‖thing from me of all the things that he said unto thee. And 18 Samuel told him [†]every whit, and hid nothing from him. And he said, [m]It is the LORD: let him do what seemeth him good.

And Samuel [n]grew, and [o]the LORD 19 was with him, and [p]did let none of his words fall to the ground. And all Is- 20 rael [q]from Dan even to Beer-sheba knew that Samuel was ‖established to be a prophet of the LORD. And the 21 LORD appeared again in [r]Shiloh: for the LORD revealed himself to Samuel in Shiloh [s]by the word of the LORD. And the word of Samuel ‖came to all Israel.

Now Israel went out against the Philistines to battle, and pitched beside [a]Eben-ezer: and the Philistines pitched in [b]Aphek. And the Philistines put 2 themselves in array against Israel: and when [†]they joined battle, Israel was smitten before the Philistines: and they slew of [†]the army in the field about four thousand men. And when the people 3 were come into the camp, the elders of Israel said, Wherefore hath the LORD smitten us to day before the Philistines? [c]Let us [†d]fetch the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of [d]Shiloh unto us, that when it cometh among us, it may save us out of the hand of our enemies. So the people sent to [d]Shiloh, that they 4 might bring from thence the ark of the covenant of the LORD of hosts, [e]which dwelleth between the cherubims: and the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were there with the ark of the covenant of God. And when the ark of the 5 covenant of the LORD came into the camp, all Israel [f]shouted with a great shout, so that the earth [g]rang again.

6 And when the Philistines heard the noise of the shout, they said, What meaneth the noise of this great shout in the camp of the Hebrews? And they understood that the ark of the LORD 7 was come into the camp. And the Philistines were afraid, for they said, God is come into the camp. And they said, Woe unto us: for there hath not 8 been such a thing [†]heretofore. Woe unto us: who shall deliver us out of the hand of these mighty Gods? these are the Gods that smote the Egyptians with all the plagues in the wilderness. 9 [h]Be strong, and [†]quit yourselves like men, O ye Philistines, that ye be not servants unto the Hebrews, [i]as they have been to you: [†]quit yourselves like 10 men, and fight. And the Philistines fought, and [j]Israel was smitten, and [k]they fled every man into his tent: and there was a very great slaughter; for there fell of Israel thirty thousand foot- 11 men. And [l]the ark of God was taken; and [m]the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, [†]were slain.

12 And there ran a man of Benjamin out of the army, and came to [d]Shiloh the same day [n]with his clothes rent, 13 and [o]with earth upon his head. And when he came, lo, Eli sat [p]upon a seat by the wayside watching: for his heart trembled for the ark of God. And when the man came into the city, and 14 told it, all the city cried out. And when Eli heard the noise of the crying, he said, What meaneth the noise of this tumult? And the man came in hastily, 15 and told Eli. Now Eli was ninety and eight years old; and [q]his eyes [†]were 16 dim, that he could not see. And the man said unto Eli, I am he that came out of the army, and I fled to day out of the army. And he said, What [†]is 17 there done, my son? And the messenger answered and said, Israel is fled before the Philistines, and there hath been also a great slaughter among the people, and thy two sons also, Hophni and Phinehas, are dead, and the ark of 18 God is taken. And it came to pass, when he made mention of the ark of God, that he fell from off the seat backward by the side of the gate, and his neck brake, and he died: for he was an old man, and heavy. ‖And he had judged Israel forty years.

And the Philistines took the ark of God, and brought it from [a]Eben-ezer unto [b]Ashdod. When the Philistines 2 took the ark of God, they brought it into the house of [c]Dagon, and set it by Dagon. And when they of Ashdod 3 arose early on the morrow, behold, Dagon was [d]fallen upon his face to the earth before the ark of the LORD. And they took Dagon, and set him in his place again. And when they arose 4 early on the morrow morning, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the ground before the ark of the LORD; and [e]the head of Dagon and both the palms of his hands were cut off upon the threshold; only [l]the stump of Dagon was left to him. Therefore neither the 5 priests of Dagon, nor any that come into Dagon's house, tread on the [f]threshold of Dagon in Ashdod unto this day. But [g]the hand of the LORD was heavy 6 upon them of Ashdod, and he [h]destroyed them, and smote them with [i]emerods, even Ashdod and the coasts thereof. And when the men of Ashdod saw that 7 it was so, they said, The ark of the God of Israel shall not abide with us: for his hand is sore upon us, and upon Dagon our god. They sent therefore 8 and gathered all the [j]lords of the Philistines unto them, and said, What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel? And they answered, Let the ark of the God of Israel be carried about unto [k]Gath. And they carried the ark of the God of Israel about thither. And 9 it was so, that after they had carried it about, [l]the hand of the LORD was against the city [m]with a very great destruction: and he smote the men of the city, both small and great, and they had emerods in their secret parts. Therefore they 10 sent the ark of God to [n]Ekron. And it came to pass, as the ark of God came to [n]Ekron, that the Ekronites cried out, saying, They have brought about the ark of the God of Israel to [t]us, to slay 11 us and our people. So they sent and gathered together all the [j]lords of the Philistines, and said, Send away the ark of the God of Israel, and let it go again to his own place, that it slay [t]us not, and our people: for there was a deadly destruction throughout all the city; [o]the 12 hand of God was very heavy there. And the men that died not were smitten with the emerods: and the cry of the city went up to heaven.

And the ark of the LORD was in the country of the Philistines seven months. 2 And the Philistines called for the priests and the [a]diviners, saying, What shall we do to the ark of the LORD? tell us where- 3 with we shall send it to his place. And they said, If ye send away the ark of the God of Israel, send it not [b]empty; but in any wise return him [c]a trespass offering: then ye shall be healed, and it shall [d]be known to you why his hand is not 4 removed from you. Then said they, What shall be the trespass offering which we shall return to him? They answered, Five golden emerods, and five golden [e]mice, [f]according to the number of the lords of the Philistines: for one plague was on [t]you all, and on your lords. 5 Wherefore ye shall make images of your emerods, and images of your mice that [g]mar the land; and ye shall [h]give glory unto the God of Israel: peradventure he will [i]lighten his hand from off you, and from off [j]your gods, and from off your 6 land. Wherefore then do ye harden your hearts, [k]as the Egyptians and Pharaoh hardened their hearts? when he had wrought [l]wonderfully among them, [l]did they not let [t]the people go, and they de- 7 parted? Now therefore make [m]a new cart, and take two milch kine, [n]on which there hath come no yoke, and tie the kine to the cart, and bring their calves 8 home from them: and take the ark of the LORD, and lay it upon the cart; and put [o]the jewels of gold, which ye return him for a trespass offering, in a coffer by the side thereof; and send it away, 9 that it may go. 10 And the men did so; and took two milch kine, and tied them to the cart, and shut up their calves at home: and 11 they laid the ark of the LORD upon the cart, and the coffer with the mice of gold and the images of their emerods. 12 And the kine took the straight way to the way of [p]Beth-shemesh, and went along the [r]highway, lowing as they went, and turned not aside to the right hand or to the left; and the lords of the Philistines went after them unto the border of Beth-shemesh. 13 And they of Beth-shemesh were reaping their wheat harvest in the valley: and they lifted up their eyes, and saw the ark, and rejoiced to see it. 14 And the cart came into the field of Joshua, a Beth-shemite, and stood there, where there was a great stone: and they clave the wood of the cart, and offered the kine a burnt offering unto the LORD. 15 And the [s]Levites took down the ark of the LORD, and the coffer that was with it, wherein the jewels of gold were, and put them on the great stone: and the men of Beth-shemesh offered burnt offerings and sacrificed sacrifices the same day unto the LORD. 16 And when [t]the five lords of the Philistines had seen it, they returned to [u]Ekron the same day. 17 And these are the golden emerods which the Philistines returned for a trespass offering unto the LORD; for [v]Ashdod one, for [w]Gaza one, for [x]Askelon one, for [y]Gath one, for [u]Ekron one; and the golden mice, according to 18 the number of all the cities of the Philistines belonging to the five lords, both of fenced cities, and of [z]country villages, even unto the ‖great stone of [a]Abel, whereon they set down the ark of the LORD: which stone remaineth unto this day in the field of Joshua, the Beth-shemite.

19 And [b]he smote the men of Beth-shemesh, because they had looked into the ark of the LORD, even he smote of the people fifty thousand and threescore and ten men: and the people [a]lamented, because the LORD had smitten many of the people with a great slaughter. 20 And the men of Beth-shemesh said, [c]Who is able to stand before this [d]holy LORD God? and to whom shall he go up from us? 21 And they sent messengers to the inhabitants of [e]Kirjath-jearim, saying, The Philistines have brought again the ark of the LORD; come ye down, and fetch it up to you.

VII. 1 And the men of [a]Kirjath-jearim came, and fetched up the ark of the LORD, and brought it into the house of [b]Abinadab in the hill, and sanctified Eleazar his son to keep the ark of the LORD.

2 And it came to pass, while the ark abode in Kirjath-jearim, that the time was long: for it was twenty years: and all the house of Israel lamented after 3 the LORD. And Samuel spake unto all the house of Israel, saying, If ye do [c]return unto the LORD with all your hearts, then [d]put away the strange gods and [e]Ashtaroth from among you, and [f]prepare your hearts unto the LORD, and [g]serve him only: and he will deliver you 4 out of the hand of the Philistines. Then the children of Israel did put away [e]Baalim and Ashtaroth, and served the 5 LORD only. And Samuel said, Gather all Israel to [h]Mizpeh, and [i]I will pray 6 for you unto the LORD. And they gathered together to Mizpeh, [k]and drew water, and poured it out before the LORD, and [l]fasted on that day, and said there, [m]We have sinned against the LORD. And Samuel judged the chil- 7 dren of Israel in Mizpeh. And when the Philistines heard that the children of Israel were gathered together to Mizpeh, the lords of the Philistines went up against Israel. And when the children of Israel heard it, they were afraid of the 8 Philistines. And the children of Israel said to Samuel, [n]Cease not to cry unto the LORD our God for us, that he will save us out of the hand of the Philis- 9 tines. And Samuel took a sucking lamb, and offered it for a burnt offering wholly unto the LORD: and [o]Samuel cried unto the LORD for Israel; and the LORD 10 ‖heard him. And as Samuel was offering up the burnt offering, the Philistines drew near to battle against Israel: but the LORD [p]thundered with a great thunder on that day upon the Philistines, and [q]discomfited them; and they were 11 smitten before Israel. And the men of Israel went out of Mizpeh, and pursued the Philistines, and smote them, until 12 they came under Beth-car. Then Samuel took [r]a stone, and set it between Mizpeh and Shen, and called the name of it ‖Eben-ezer, saying, [s]Hitherto hath the 13 LORD helped us. of the LORD was against the Philistines all the days of Samuel. And the cities 14 which the Philistines had taken from Israel were restored to Israel, from [x]Ekron even unto [y]Gath; and the coasts thereof did Israel deliver out of the hands of the Philistines. And there was peace between Israel and the [z]Amorites. And 15 Samuel [a]judged Israel all the days of his life. And he went from year to year [†]in 16 circuit to [b]Beth-el, and [c]Gilgal, and [d]Mizpeh, and judged Israel in all those places. And his return was to [e]Ramah; 17 for there was his house; and there he judged Israel; and there he [f]built an altar unto the LORD.

VIII. And it came to pass, when Samuel was old, that he [a]made his [b]sons judges over Israel. Now the name of his first- 2 born was [‖]Joel; and the name of his second, Abiah: they were judges in [c]Beer-sheba. And his sons walked not in his 3 ways, but turned aside [d]after lucre, and [e]took bribes, and perverted judgment. Then all the elders of Israel gathered 4 themselves together, and came to Samuel unto [f]Ramah, and said unto him, Be- 5 hold, thou art old, and thy sons walk not in thy ways: now [g]make us a king to judge us like all the nations. But the 6 thing [†]displeased Samuel, when they said, Give us a king to judge us. And Samuel prayed unto the LORD. And the LORD 7 said unto Samuel, Hearken unto the voice of the people in all that they say unto thee: for [h]they have not rejected thee, but [i]they have rejected me, that I should not reign over them. According 8 to all the works which they have done since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt even unto this day, wherewith they have forsaken me, and served other gods, so do they also unto thee. Now therefore [‖]hearken unto their voice: 9 [‖]howbeit yet protest solemnly unto them, and [j]shew them the manner of the king that shall reign over them.

And Samuel told all the words of the 10 LORD unto the people that asked of him a king. And he said, [k]This will be the 11 manner of the king that shall reign over you: [l]He will take your sons, and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen; and some shall run before his chariots. And he will ap- 12 point him captains over thousands, and captains over fifties; and will set them to [m]ear his ground, and to reap his harvest, and to make his instruments of war, and 13 instruments of his chariots. And he will take your daughters to be [n]confectionaries, and to be cooks, and to be bak- 14 ers. And [o]he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them, and give them to his 15 servants. And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyards, and give to his [†]officers, and to his servants. 16 And he will take your menservants, and your maidservants, and your goodliest young men, and your asses, and put 17 them to his work. He will take the tenth of your sheep: and ye shall be his 18 servants. And ye shall cry out in that day because of your king which ye shall have chosen you; and the LORD [p]will not hear you in that day.

19 Nevertheless the people refused to obey the voice of Samuel; and they said, Nay, but we will have a king over us; 20 that we also may be [q]like all the nations; and that our king may judge us, and go out before us, and fight our battles. 21 And Samuel heard all the words of the people, and he rehearsed them in 22 the ears of the LORD. And the LORD said to Samuel, [r]Hearken unto their voice, and make them a king. And Samuel said unto the men of Israel, Go ye every man unto his city.

IX. Now there was a man of Benjamin, whose name was [a]Kish, the son of Abiel, the son of Zeror, the son of Bechorath, the son of Aphiah, [‖]a Benja- 2 mite, a mighty man of [‖]power. And he had a son, whose name was Saul, [b]a choice young man, and a goodly: and there was not among the children of Israel a goodlier person than he: [c]from his shoulders and upward he was higher 3 than any of the people. And the asses of Kish Saul's father were lost. And Kish said to Saul his son, Take now one of the servants with thee, and arise, 4 go seek the asses. And he passed through [d]mount Ephraim, and passed through the land of [e]Shalisha, but they found them not: then they passed through the land of [f]Shalim, and there they were not: and he passed through the land of the Benjamites, but they found them not. 5 And when they were come to the land of [g]Zuph, Saul said to his servant that was with him, Come, and let us return; lest my father leave caring for the asses, 6 and [h]take thought for us. And he said unto him, Behold now, there is in this city [i]a man of God, and he is an honourable man; [j]all that he saith cometh surely to pass: now let us go thither; peradventure he can shew us our way that we should go. Then said Saul to 7 his servant, But behold, if we go, [k]what shall we bring the man? for the bread [†]is spent in our vessels, and there is not a present to bring to [i]the man of God: what [†]have we? And the servant an- 8 swered Saul again, and said, Behold, [†]I have here at hand the fourth part of a shekel of silver: that will I give to the man of God, to tell us our way. (Be- 9 foretime in Israel, when a man [l]went to inquire of God, thus he spake, Come, and let us go to the seer: for he that is now called a Prophet was beforetime called [m]a Seer.) Then said Saul to his 10 servant, [†]Well said; come, let us go. So they went unto the city where the man of God was. And as they went up [†]the 11 hill to the city, they found [n]young maidens going out to draw water, and said unto them, Is the seer here? And they 12 answered them, and said, He is; behold, he is before you: make haste now, for he came to day to the city; for there is a [‖]sacrifice of the people to day in [o]the high place: as soon as ye be come into 13

the city, ye shall straightway find him, before he go up to [o]the high place to eat: for the people will not eat until he come, because he doth bless the sacrifice; and afterwards they eat that be bidden. Now therefore get you up; for about [†]this time ye shall find him. And 14
they went up into the city: and when they were come into the city, behold, Samuel came out against them, for to go up to the high place.

[p]Now the LORD had [†]told Samuel in 15
his ear a day before Saul came, saying, To morrow about this time I will send 16 thee a man out of the land of Benjamin, and [q]thou shalt anoint him to be captain over my people Israel, that he may save my people out of the hand of the Philistines: for I have [r]looked upon my people, because their cry is come unto me. And when Samuel saw Saul, the 17
LORD [s]said unto him, [t]Behold the man whom I spake to thee of: this same shall [†]reign over my people. Then Saul drew 18 near to Samuel in the gate, and said, Tell me, I pray thee, where the seer's house is. And Samuel answered Saul, 19 and said, I am the seer: go up before me unto the high place; for ye shall eat with me to day, and to morrow I will let thee go, and will tell thee all that is in thine heart. And as for [u]thine asses 20 that were lost [†]three days ago, set not thy mind on them; for they are found. And on whom is all the desire of Israel? Is it not on thee, and on all thy father's house? And Saul answered and said, 21 Am not I a Benjamite, of the [w]smallest of the tribes of Israel? and [x]my family the least of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin? wherefore then speakest thou [†]so to me? And Samuel took Saul 22 and his servant, and brought them into the [y]parlour, and made them sit in the chiefest place among them that were bidden, which were about thirty persons.
And Samuel said unto the cook, Bring 23
the portion which I gave thee, of which I said unto thee, Set it by thee. And 24
the cook took up [z]the shoulder, and that which was upon it, and set it before Saul. And Samuel said, Behold that which is [‖]left; set it before thee, and eat: for unto this time hath it been kept for thee since I said, I have invited the people. So Saul did eat with Samuel that day.

And when they were come down from 25
the high place into the city, Samuel communed with Saul upon [a]the top of the house. And they arose early: and it 26 came to pass about the spring of the day, that Samuel called Saul to the top of the house, saying, Up, that I may send thee away. And Saul arose, and they went out both of them, he and Samuel, abroad. And as they were going 27 down to the end of the city, Samuel said to Saul, Bid the servant pass on before us, (and he passed on,) but stand thou still [†]a while, that I may shew thee the word of God. Then [a]Samuel took a vial of oil, and poured it upon his head, [b]and kissed him, and said, Is it not because the LORD hath anointed thee to be captain over [c]his inheritance?

When thou art departed from me to 2
day, then thou shalt find two men by [d]Rachel's sepulchre in the border of Benjamin at Zelzah; and they will say unto thee, The asses which thou wentest to seek are found: and lo, thy father hath left [†]the care of the asses, and [e]sorroweth for you, saying, What shall I do for my son? Then shalt thou go on for- 3 ward from thence, and thou shalt come to the [f]plain of Tabor, and there shall meet thee three men going up to God to [g]Beth-el, one carrying three kids, and another carrying three loaves of bread, and another carrying a bottle of wine: and they will [t]salute thee, and give thee 4

shalt come to [h]the hill of God, where is the [i]garrison of the Philistines: and it shall come to pass, when thou art come thither to the city, that thou shalt meet a company of prophets coming down [k]from the high place with a psaltery, and a [l]tabret, and a pipe, and a [l]harp, before them; and they shall prophesy: and [m]the spirit of the LORD will come 6
upon thee, and [n]thou shalt prophesy with them, and shalt be turned into another man. [t]And let it be, when these 7 [o]signs are come unto thee, [t]that thou do as occasion serve thee; for [p]God is with thee. And thou shalt go down before 8 me [q]to Gilgal; and behold, I will come down unto thee, to offer burnt offerings, and to sacrifice sacrifices of peace offerings: [r]seven days shalt thou tarry, till I come to thee, and shew thee what thou shalt do.

And it was so, that when he had 9 turned his [t]back to go from Samuel, God [t]gave him another heart: and all those signs came to pass that day. And 10 [s]when they came thither to the hill, behold, [t]a company of prophets met him; and [u]the spirit of God came upon him, and he prophesied among them. And 11
it came to pass, when all that knew him beforetime saw that behold, he prophesied among the prophets, then the people said [t]one to another, What is this that is come unto the son of Kish? [v]Is Saul also among the prophets? And 12 one [t]of the same place answered and said, But [w]who is their father? Therefore it became a proverb, [v]Is Saul also among the prophets? And when he 13 had made an end of prophesying, he came to the high place. And [x]Saul's 14 uncle said unto him and to [t]his servant, Whither went ye? And he said, To seek the asses: and when we saw that they were no where, we came to Samuel. And Saul's uncle said, Tell me, I pray 15 thee, what Samuel said unto you. And 16
Saul said unto his uncle, He told us plainly that [y]the asses were found. But of the matter of the kingdom, whereof Samuel spake, he told him not.

And Samuel called the people together [z]unto the LORD to [a]Mizpeh; and 17
said unto the children of Israel, [b]Thus 18
saith the LORD God of Israel, I brought up Israel out of Egypt, and delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all kingdoms, 19 and of them that oppressed you: [c]and ye have this day rejected your God, who himself saved you out of all your adversities and your tribulations; and ye have said unto him, Nay, but set a king over us. Now therefore [d]present yourselves before the LORD by your tribes, and by 20 your thousands. And when Samuel had [e]caused all the tribes of Israel to come near, the tribe of Benjamin was taken.
21 When he had caused the tribe of Benjamin to come near by their families, the family of Matri was taken, and Saul the son of Kish was taken: and when they sought him, he could not be found.
22 Therefore they [f]inquired of the LORD further, if the man should yet come thither. And the LORD answered, Behold, he 23 hath hid himself among the stuff. And they ran and fetched him thence: and when he stood among the people, [g]he was higher than any of the people from 24 his shoulders and upward. And Samuel said to all the people, See ye him [h]whom the LORD hath chosen, that there is none like him among all the people? And all the people shouted, and said, [t]God save
25 the king. Then Samuel told the people [i]the manner of the kingdom, and wrote it in a book, and laid it up before the LORD. And Samuel sent all the people
26 away, every man to his house. And Saul also went home to [k]Gibeah; and there went with him a band of men, 27 whose hearts God had touched. [l]But the [m]children of Belial said, How shall this man save us? And they despised him, and brought him no [n]presents. But [l]he held his peace.

XI.

Then Nahash the [a]Ammonite came up, and encamped against [b]Jabesh-gilead: and all the men of Jabesh said unto Nahash, [c]Make a covenant with 2 us, and we will serve thee. And Nahash the Ammonite answered them, On this condition will I make [d]a covenant with you, that I may [e]thrust out all your right eyes, and lay it for [f]a reproach
3 upon all Israel. And the elders of Jabesh said unto him, [t]Give us seven days' respite, that we may send messengers unto all the coasts of Israel: and then, if there be no man to save us, 4 we will come out to thee. Then came the messengers to [g]Gibeah of Saul, and told the tidings in the ears of the people: and [h]all the people lift up their voices, and wept. And behold, Saul 5 came after the herd out of the field; and Saul said, What aileth the people that they weep? And they told him the tidings of the men of Jabesh. And [i]the 6 spirit of God came upon Saul when he heard those tidings, and his anger was kindled greatly. And he took a yoke 7 of oxen, and [j]hewed them in pieces, and sent them throughout all the coasts of Israel by the hands of messengers, saying, [k]Whosoever cometh not forth after Saul and after Samuel, so shall it be done unto his oxen. And the fear of the LORD fell on the people, and they came out [t]with one consent. And 8 when he numbered them in [l]Bezek, [m]the children of Israel were three hundred thousand, and the men of Judah thirty thousand. And they said unto the mes- 9 sengers that came, Thus shall ye say unto the men of Jabesh-gilead, To morrow, by that time the sun be hot, ye shall have [ll]help. And the messengers came and shewed it to the men of Jabesh; and they were glad. Therefore 10 the men of Jabesh said, To morrow [n]we will come out unto you, and ye shall do with us all that seemeth good unto you. And it was so on the morrow, that 11 [o]Saul put the people [p]in three companies; and they came into the midst of the host in [q]the morning watch, and slew the Ammonites until the heat of the day: and it came to pass, that they which remained were scattered, so that two of them were not left together.

And the people said unto Samuel, 12 [r]Who is he that said, Shall Saul reign over us? [s]bring the men, that we may put them to death. And Saul said, 13 [t]There shall not a man be put to death this day: for to day [u]the LORD hath wrought salvation in Israel. Then said 14 Samuel to the people, Come, and let us go to [w]Gilgal, and renew the kingdom there. And all the people went to 15 Gilgal; and there they made Saul king [x]before the LORD in Gilgal; and [y]there they sacrificed sacrifices of peace offerings before the LORD; and there Saul and all the men of Israel rejoiced greatly.

XII.

And Samuel said unto all Israel, Behold, I have hearkened unto [a]your voice in all that ye said unto me, and [b]have made a king over you. And now be- 2 hold, the king [c]walketh before you: [d]and I am old and grayheaded; and behold, my sons are with you: and I have walked before you from my child- 3 hood unto this day. Behold, here I am: [e]witness against me before the LORD, and before [f]his anointed: [g]whose ox have I taken? or whose ass have I taken? or whom have I [h]defrauded? whom have I [h]oppressed? or of whose hand have I received any [t]bribe [ll]to [i]blind mine eyes therewith? and I will 4 restore it you. And they said, Thou hast not [h]defrauded us, nor [h]oppressed us, neither hast thou taken ought of any 5 man's hand. And he said unto them, The LORD is witness against you, and [f]his anointed is witness this day, that ye have not found ought [j]in my hand. 6 And they answered, He is witness. And Samuel said unto the people, [k]It is the LORD that [ll]advanced Moses and Aaron, and that brought your fathers up 7 out of the land of Egypt. Now therefore stand still, that I may [l]reason with you before the LORD of all the [t]righteous acts of the LORD, which he did 8 [t]to you and [t]to your fathers. [m]When Jacob was come into Egypt, and your fathers [n]cried unto the LORD, then the LORD [o]sent Moses and Aaron, which brought forth your fathers out of Egypt, and made them dwell in this place. 9 And when they [p]forgat the LORD their God, [q]he sold them into the hand of Sisera, captain of the host of Hazor, and into the hand of [r]the Philistines, and into the hand of the king [s]of Moab, 10 and they fought against them. And they [t]cried unto the LORD, and said, We have sinned, because we have forsaken the LORD, [u]and have served Baalim and Ashtaroth: but now [w]deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, and we 11 will serve thee. And the LORD sent [x]Jerubbaal, and [y]Bedan, and [z]Jephthah, and [a]Samuel, and delivered you out of the hand of your enemies on 12 every side, and ye dwelled safe. And when ye saw that [b]Nahash the king of the children of Ammon came against you, [c]ye said unto me, Nay; but a king shall reign over us: when [d]the LORD 13 your God was your king. Now therefore [e]behold the king [f]whom ye have chosen, and whom ye have desired: and behold, [g]the LORD hath set a king over 14 you. rebel against the †commandment of the LORD, then shall both ye and also the king that reigneth over you †continue following the LORD your God: but if ye 15 will [i]not obey the voice of the LORD, but rebel against the commandment of the LORD, then shall [j]the hand of the LORD be against you, [k]as it was against your fathers. Now therefore [l]stand and 16 see this great thing, which the LORD will do before your eyes. Is it not 17 [m]wheat harvest to day? [n]I will call unto the LORD, and he shall send thunder and rain; that ye may perceive and see that [o]your wickedness is great, which ye have done in the sight of the LORD, in asking you a king.

So Samuel called unto the LORD; and 18 the LORD sent thunder and rain that day: and [p]all the people greatly feared the LORD and Samuel. And all the 19 people said unto Samuel, [q]Pray for thy servants unto the LORD thy God, that we die not: for we have added unto all our sins this evil, to ask us a king. And 20 Samuel said unto the people, Fear not: ye have done all this wickedness: yet turn not aside from following the LORD, but serve the LORD with all your heart; and [r]turn ye not aside: for then should 21 ye go after vain things, which cannot [s]profit nor deliver; for they are vain. For [t]the LORD will not forsake his peo- 22 ple for [u]his great name's sake: because [x]it hath pleased the LORD to make you his people. Moreover as for me, God 23 forbid that I should sin against the LORD [y]in ceasing [z]to pray for you: but I will teach you the [a]good and the right way: [b]only fear the LORD, and 24 serve him in truth with all your heart: for [c]consider ‖how [d]great things he hath done for you. But if ye shall still do 25 wickedly, [d]ye shall be consumed, [e]both ye and your king.

XIII.

Saul †reigned one year; and when he had reigned two years over Israel, Saul 2 chose him three thousand men of Israel; whereof two thousand were with Saul in [a]Michmash and in mount Beth-el, and a thousand were with Jonathan in [b]Gibeah of Benjamin: and the rest of the people he sent every man to his tent. And Jonathan smote the [c]garrison of 3 the Philistines that was in ‖Geba, and the Philistines heard of it. And Saul [d]blew the trumpet throughout all the land, saying, Let the Hebrews hear. And all Israel heard say that Saul had 4 smitten a [c]garrison of the Philistines, and that Israel also †was had in abomination with the Philistines. And the people [e]were called together after Saul 5 to Gilgal. And the Philistines gathered themselves together to fight with Israel, thirty thousand chariots, and six thousand horsemen, and people [f]as the sand which is on the sea shore in multitude: and they came up, and pitched in Mich- 6 mash, eastward from [g]Beth-aven. When the men of Israel saw that they were in a strait, (for the people [h]were distressed,) then the people did hide themselves in [i]caves, and in thickets, and in rocks, 7 and in [j]high places, and in pits. And some of the Hebrews went over Jordan to the land of Gad and Gilead. As for Saul, he was yet in Gilgal, and all the people †followed him trembling.

8 And [k]he tarried seven days, according to the set time that Samuel had appointed: but Samuel came not to Gilgal; and the people were scattered from him. 9 And Saul said, Bring hither a burnt offering to me, and peace offerings. 10 And he offered the burnt offering. And it came to pass, that as soon as he had made an end of offering the burnt offering, behold, Samuel came; and Saul went out to meet him, that he might 11 †salute him. And Samuel said, What hast thou done? And Saul said, Because I saw that the people were scattered from me, and that thou camest not within the days appointed, and that the Philistines gathered themselves together 12 at Michmash; therefore said I, The Philistines will come down now upon me to Gilgal, and I have not †made supplication unto the LORD: I [l]forced myself therefore, and offered a burnt offer- 13 ing. And Samuel said to Saul, [m]Thou hast done foolishly: [n]thou hast not kept the commandment of the LORD thy God, which he commanded thee: for now would the LORD have established thy 14 kingdom upon Israel for ever. [o]But now thy kingdom shall not continue: [p]the LORD hath sought him a man after his own heart, and the LORD hath commanded him to be captain over his people, because thou hast not kept that which the LORD commanded thee.

15 And Samuel arose, and gat him up from Gilgal unto [q]Gibeah of Benjamin. And Saul numbered the people that were †present with him, [r]about six hundred men. And Saul, and [s]Jonathan 16 his son, and the people that were [†]present with them, abode in [†]Gibeah of Benjamin: but the Philistines encamped in Michmash. And [t]the spoilers came 17 out of the camp of the Philistines in three companies: one company turned unto the way that leadeth to [u]Ophrah, unto the land of [v]Shual: and another 18 company turned the way to [w]Beth-horon: and another company turned to the way of the border that looketh to the valley of [x]Zeboim toward the wilderness. Now 19

[y]there was no smith found throughout all the land of Israel: for the Philistines said, Lest the Hebrews make them swords or spears: but all the Israelites went 20 down to the Philistines, to sharpen every man his share, and his [z]coulter, and his axe, and his mattock. Yet they had [†]a 21 file for the mattocks, and for the coulters, and for the forks, and for the axes, and [†]to sharpen the [a]goads. So it came to 22 pass in the day of battle, that [b]there was neither sword nor spear found in the hand of any of the people that were with Saul and Jonathan: but with Saul and with Jonathan his son was there found. And the [‖]garrison of the Philis- 23
tines went out to [c]the passage of Michmash.

XIV. Now [‖]it came to pass upon a day, that Jonathan the son of Saul said unto the young man that bare his armour, Come, and let us go over to the Philistines' garrison, that is on the other side. But he told not his father. And 2
Saul tarried in the uttermost part of [a]Gibeah under a [b]pomegranate tree which is in [c]Migron: and the people that were with him were [d]about six hundred men; and [‖]Ahiah, the son of 3 Ahitub, [e]I-chabod's brother, the son of Phinehas, the son of Eli, the LORD's priest in [f]Shiloh, [g]wearing an ephod. And the people knew not that Jonathan was gone. And between [h]the passages, 4 by which Jonathan sought to go over unto the Philistines' garrison, there was a sharp rock on the one side, and a sharp rock on the other side: and the name of the one was Bozez, and the name of the other Seneh. The [†]fore- 5 front of the one was [i]situate northward over against Michmash, and the other southward over against [j]Gibeah. And 6
Jonathan said to the young man that bare his armour, Come, and let us go over unto the garrison of these [k]uncircumcised: it may be that the LORD will work for us: for there is no restraint to the LORD [l]to save by many or by few. 7
And his armourbearer said unto him, Do all that is in thine heart: turn thee; behold, I am with thee according to thy heart. Then said Jonathan, Behold, we 8 will pass over unto these men, and we will discover ourselves unto them. If 9 they say thus unto us, [†]Tarry until we come to you; then we will stand still in our place, and will not go up unto them.
But if they say thus, Come up unto us; 10
then we will go up: for [m]the LORD hath delivered them into our hand: and [n]this 11 shall be a sign unto us. And both of them discovered themselves unto the garrison of the Philistines: and the Philistines said, Behold, the Hebrews [o]come forth out of the holes where they had 12 hid themselves. And the men of the garrison answered Jonathan and his armourbearer, and said, Come up to us, and we will shew you a thing. And Jonathan said unto his armourbearer, Come up after me: for the LORD hath delivered them into the hand of Israel.
And Jonathan climbed up upon his 13 hands and upon his feet, and his armourbearer after him: and they fell before Jonathan; and his armourbearer slew after him. And that first slaughter, 14 which Jonathan and his armourbearer made, was about twenty men, within as it were [‖]a half acre of land, which a yoke of oxen might plow. And there 15 was trembling in the host, in the field, and among all the people: the garrison, and [p]the spoilers, they also trembled, and the earth quaked: so it was [†]a very great trembling.
And the watchmen of Saul in [q]Gibeah 16 of Benjamin looked; and behold, the multitude [r]melted away, and they went on [s]beating down one another. Then 17 said Saul unto the people that were with him, Number now, and see who is gone from us. And when they had numbered, behold Jonathan and his armour- 18 bearer were not there. And Saul said unto Ahiah, Bring hither the ark of God. For the ark of God was at that time with the children of Israel. And it 19 came to pass, while [t]Saul talked unto the priest, that the [‖]noise that was in the host of the Philistines went on and increased: and Saul said unto the priest, Withdraw thine hand. And Saul and 20
all the people that were with him [†]as-unto Saul, Do what seemeth good unto 41 thee. Therefore Saul said unto the LORD God of Israel, [1]Give a perfect [1] Or, Shew the innocent. [r] See Judg. 20. 9. [r]lot. And [s]Saul and Jonathan were 42 taken: but the people [†]escaped. And [s] Comp. Josh. 7. 16, &c. ch. 10. 20, 21. [†] Heb. went forth. Saul said, Cast lots between me and Jonathan my son. And Jonathan was 43 taken. Then Saul said to Jonathan, [t] Comp. Josh. 7. 19. [u] ver. 27. [t]Tell me what thou hast done. And Jonathan told him, and said, [u]I did but taste a little honey with the end of the rod that was in mine hand, and lo, I 44 must die. And Saul answered, [w]God [w] See Ruth 1. 17. [x] ver. 39. do so and more also: [x]for thou shalt 45 surely die, Jonathan. And the people said unto Saul, Shall Jonathan die, who hath wrought this great salvation in Israel? God forbid: [q]as the LORD liveth, [y] 2 Sam. 14. 11. 1 Kin. 1. 52. So Matt. 10. 30. Luke 12. 7. & 21. 18. Acts 27. 34. [y]there shall not one hair of his head fall to the ground; for he hath wrought with God this day. So the people rescued Jonathan, that he died not.

46 Then Saul went up from following the Philistines: and the Philistines went to their own place.
47 So Saul took the kingdom over Israel,

and fought against all his enemies on every side, against Moab, and against the children of [z]Ammon, and against Edom, and against the kings of [a]Zobah, and against the Philistines: and whithersoever he turned himself, he vexed them.

48 And he [‖]gathered a host, and smote [b]the Amalekites, and delivered Israel out of the hands of them that spoiled them.

49 Now [c]the sons of Saul were Jonathan, and Ishui, and Melchishua: and the names of his two daughters were these; the name of the firstborn [d]Merab, and the name of the younger [e]Michal: 50 and the name of Saul's wife was Ahinoam, the daughter of Ahimaaz: and the name of the captain of his host was [†f]Abner, the son of Ner, [g]Saul's uncle. 51 And [h]Kish was the father of Saul; and Ner the father of Abner was the son of [h]Abiel. 52 And there was sore war against the Philistines all the days of Saul: and when Saul saw any strong man, or any valiant man, [i]he took him unto him.
